CHICAGO PEOPLE WERE SHOCKED

Miss Maud Allan Drives Women From Theatre

A Chicago audience showed its disgust with bare flesh in the role of "exponent of poetry and art" recently. The "Vision of Salome," as danced by Miss Maud Allan at the Auditorium theatre won few, if any, converts to the theory that nudity or semi-nudity is essential to the interpretation of dramatic themes.

In the scene in which the representation of the gory head of John the Baptist was made the object of the dancer's adoration, many women rose and left the theatres.

Regardless of the dancer's grace, skill and dramatic talent, the matter of draperies, or the lack of them, was judged by the standard of conventional ideas. Miss Allan, in her abbreviated costumes, may have been admired for her art. Her lack of draperies produced such expressions of "high art" as prurient curiosity, averted faces and shamefaced smiles. In the Salome dance the woman's torso was bare, with the exception of a breast shield of beads, which rather accentuated than concealed the absence of garb. Suspended from the hips was a diaphanous black cloth, which, in the whirl of the bare-footed dancer, was quite forgotten.

The hideousness of the performance reached a climax with the dancer's passionate adoration of the inanimate head, and many in the audience turned their faces from sheer inability to endure the grimsomeness and unnaturalness of the scene.

TAKE ME UP, UP, UP WITH YOU, DEARIE, AWAY UP

To Brock Street Rink on Wednesday Night—Championship Struggle Between Strathconas and West Ends—No Advance in Prices for Admission.

'Look out for the something doing sign on Wednesday night, when the West Ends and Strathconas play off for the championship of the City Hockey League. There will be more than fur flying, as from a standpoint of interest this game will put all other previous ones in the shade. Even the small kid on the back yard rink had got the fever and knows just about how the honors will go. No one will dispute that the two teams are the best all-round sevens that have yet entered the City League, and should the weather man feel so disposed to us this influence towards having a good sheet of ice, the contest will certainly be one worth going a long way to see. The supporters of each team are confident of a win, but one club has got to lose, and the question arises, "Which one?" Not until the gong rings for the finish of the game on Wednesday night will the answer be forthcoming. Lawson Whitehead will referee and there will be no advance in the price of admission.

CURLERS PLAYED FOR ONE HUNDRED LOAVES OF BREAD

Below will be found a report of a curling game, played thirteen years ago and which will be of interest to readers of the Review, but more especially to the knights of the plane. A subscriber handed it in and it is as follows:—

Mr. Ed. Brown and his rink were deputed by Mr. LeBrun yesterday afternoon to distribute one hundred loaves of bread amongst the poor of the town, the president of the Thistles defeating his old opponent in a contest for one hundred loaves of bread by the following score:—

A. J. Gough	J. D. Baptie
H. Phelan	H. Snowden
R. S. Davidson	D. Bellegham
H. LeBrun,	Ed. Brown.

SOMETHING ABOUT TROPHIES

COMPETED FOR BY LOCAL CURLERS

Although most of Peterborough's sporting organizations have met with inglorious defeat at the hands of smaller towns, the Curling Club has kept up its end thus far. It is true that the Strathcona rinks were defeated and the Neill-Sheppard Trophy, the most beautiful prize the local curlers compete for, will stay in Orillia for another year, but the District Cup rinks have won everything they tried for, and have got two cups, one for the District No. 2, and the President's Cup, which represents the championship of all the districts.

To-day four rinks will go to Bobcaygeon to compete for the Fitzgerald-Bottum trophy, and during the week the competition for the Peterborough-Lindsay cup will be competed. These two trophies should also decorate the local Curling Club's rooms. If the club is successful in this they will have captured four out of the six trophies put up for annual competition, a record the curlers and the citizens might well be proud of.

NEILL-SHEPPARD TROPHY

The Neill-Sheppard trophy is one of the most beautiful that has been put up for competition among any of the curling clubs in the province. It was presented some six years ago by Mr. Robt. Neill, of Peterborough, and Mr. Sheppard, of Orillia, to be competed for annually by those two towns. Each town to send four rinks to the other town on the same day, and the grand total to decide the winner. Last year Orillia won the prize and they captured it again this year, the games being played a few weeks ago, when Orillia was up in both places. The local club felt the loss of that trophy probably more than any other.

DISTRICT CUP.

The District Cup is a large, handsome trophy donated by the Ontario Curling Association, one for each of the six Ontario districts. Peterborough is in District No. 2, one of the largest, and it is divided into two sections. Section A played here when Peterborough defeated Lindsay in the finals. Section B played in Kingston, when Brockville won from Kingston in the finals. Then Peterborough and Brockville met in Belleville and the former won and brought the cup home with them. It spent the past year in Lindsay.

PRESIDENT'S CUP.

The President's Cup is a fine piece of silverware, and one greatly valued by curlers for the reason that it becomes the permanent property of the winners. Every year a new cup is put up. It is competed for by the winners of the various districts, and the games are always played off in Toronto. This year Peterborough was first drawn against Orillia, and they had a battle royal, winning only in the last end by two shots. Then they were pitted against the Granites of Toronto, whose reputation makes the average curler shudder. Skips Foote and Fitzgerald, with their staunch warriors, were up and at 'em from the beginning, and won an easy victory. This cup will be presented at the annual meeting.

LINDSAY-PETERBOROUGH CUP.

The Lindsay-Peterborough Cup is an historical trophy which has been fought for by the curlers of these two towns for the past twenty years, and which is good for the next twenty years. Few there are who remember the first games played in the old Charlotte street rink, yet the same enthusiastic desire to win it remains. The cup was donated by the two clubs, and it has afforded a great deal of sport, and has done much to develop good curlers. Last year Lindsay won it. Part of the games have been played already for this year, and the others will be finished this week. Peterborough is now five shots up, and stand a good chance to win.

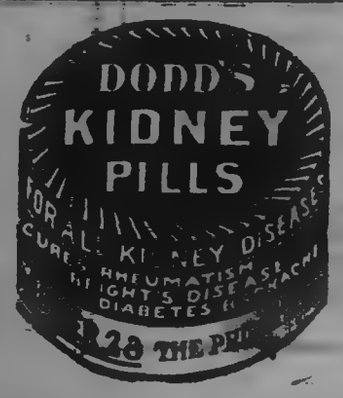
FITZGERALD-BOTTUM TROPHY.

The Fitzgerald-Bottum trophy was presented for annual competition between the clubs of Bobcaygeon and Peterborough by Mr. J. E. A. Fitzgerald, of Peterborough, and Mr. Bottum, of Bobcaygeon. It was first competed for last year, and was won by Peterborough. The second battle is being fought to-day. Four local rinks are in Bobcaygeon and two Cavgeon rinks will play here. This trophy is a very handsome one, and has already developed a friendly spirit between the members of the clubs of these two places.

Gotch's Opinion

Frank Gotch, the wrestling champion, gives the following opinion on Jeffries' chances against Johnston:—

There has been so much talk about Johnson's great boxing ability and endurance that I think the public has been misled to a certain extent. Johnson is a clever fellow, but not a fighter of the Jeffries type. The latter is a human 'Dreadnought,' so to speak, who revels in fighting when the battle waxes warm and never seems to be hurt. Yes, Johnson can box, but all the boxing kin the world will not beat Jeff. There is not a fighter in the game to-day who can stop Jeffries in forty-five rounds, because he still has endurance and has yet to find a man who can punish him enough to send him to the floor. The very best that Johnson can get out of the big championship fight July 4th is a draw. I don't expect to see the fight go the limit, and if it does I am looking for a decision for Jeffries. Johnson is going to be the one to wear out when the rounds run into the double figures. His flat-footed style of boxing and his system of backing up to defend himself will prove his undoing. He cannot back away from Jeffries round after round and remain strong.



OTTAWA IN OVERTIME

Each Team Had Five Goals a Full time And Champions Scored Three in Extra Ten Minutes

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 12.—After the most exciting hockey match ever played in Eastern Canada, one of the hardest fought on record, the Ottawa hockey team to-night triumphed over the Renfrew seven at the Ottawa rinks. The final score was 8 to 5, and the Ottawas were not returned winners until they had played ten minutes overtime. The score was tied at full time, each club having five goals to its credit. One minute after play resumed play in extra time Hal Miller, the Edmonton boy, who had been playing great hockey at right wing for Renfrew, was sent off for tripping Roberts. Ottawa immediately rushed down the uncovered wing, and Walsh scored, after Ridpath's pass, making it 6 to 5.

There was no further scoring in that period, and with the Ottawas one goal ahead, the teams changed ends and started out on the last five. Again Renfrew was penalized, Jack Fraser, the former Brandon player, going to the fence for slashing at Walsh. Once again Ottawa, with the odd man advantage, rushed, Ridpath, who had played magnificent hockey all evening, driving another past Lindsay and practically cinching the game for Ottawa. Both these goals were scored when the home team had one man to the good, and three minutes before the close Frank Patrick was sent off for chopping Stuart, Renfrew again being one man short. Once more Ottawa took advantage, Roberts going in alone and scoring. That made it 8 to 5. The whistle blew without further scoring, and the crowd rushed down the ice wild with delight.

The Ottawa victory gives them a commanding lead over all the other teams in the National. Play was lightning fast throughout, despite the fact that the ice became slower on account of softening up.

Ottawa made the score 2 to 0 in the first three minutes of play. Shore and Ridpath scoring. Lester Patrick notched the first for Renfrew, and then Frank Patrick went from goal to goal and scored, it being 3 to 2 for Ottawa at half-time.

On the resumption of play Whitcroft tied the score after a beautiful rush by Taylor, Millar putting Renfrew ahead one minute later. Ridpath tied it for Ottawa in three minutes, and Stuart put Ottawa ahead in five, a rolling shot fooling both Lindsay and Frank Patrick. Lester Patrick again tied the score, and then came a fiasco over the time. Messrs. Martel and Rosenthal, of Renfrew and Ottawa, respectively, were unable to agree, the result being that Bowie and Campbell the referees, took charge of the watches themselves, dismissing both timers.

Ottawa's grand victory was an expensive one, for Captain Bruce Stuart went down in a heap after handling Taylor in the first five minutes of overtime, being carried off with a broken collar-bone. He will be out of the game for the season. This leaves the Ottawas in a bad plight, as Kerr is also on the hospital list, and they will have to fall back on another junior.

Seven thousand people witnessed tonight's big struggle, every seat in the rink being occupied. Fred Taylor made his first appearance in opposing colors, and was given a fearful reception by the rabid Ottawa supporters, lemons being hurled at the great cover-point by the dozen. He was lost as spectacular as usual because of the close checking, but played consistent, effective hockey throughout, being responsible for two of Renfrew's goals. Frank Patrick and Jack Fraser were the Renfrew stars. Lester Patrick and Millar also being prominent. There appeared to be little to choose between the teams, and Renfrew may be right in the running from this on. Lessour, Shore and Ridpath were the most effective of the Ottawas, Ridpath scoring three of Ottawa's eight goals.

Play was rough, both teams suffering heavily in penalties.

HOW LINDSAY VIEWS DEFEAT

Gentlemen, we lost, and lost to a better team—that's all there is to it. The game at Trenton last night resulted in a win for the eastern seven by the score of 6 to 2, Lindsay thus losing the round by two goals. There is something creepy, something which is almost ghostlike in the defeat. Lindsay held the coveted championship cup last year, but it now departs—to whom has not been decided yet, but Lindsay would just as soon see Trenton win the championship as any other team in the business. Lindsay found out, both at home and abroad, that the Trenton players play a clean game, and are good sportsmen. Hats off to Trenton.

The Lindsay 1909 champions descended on Trenton last night like the old-time Assyrian, and when it was all over it was found that the enemy had won the game and the round. Sad, sad, was the blow.

The news was flashed over the wires to Lindsay, and was announced in the Academy of Music to the waiting seven hundred people. A death-like stillness prevailed when the announcer told the story of the fray; how Lindsay had lost by two goals on the round. A murmur of disappointment gently swelled and ended in a long and pronounced sigh. Lindsay lost.

The Lindsay boys returned this morning and report one of the hardest games that they have ever played. They admit that they were outclassed as a team, although individually they were just as strong as Trenton. The boys report that the game was replete with sensational rushes on the part of both teams, although Trenton had the combination down "pat" and played like demons all night. In the first half the Lindsay septette held the Trenton seven down to the score of 3 to 1, but in the second period of the play the Scugogville players lashed the team play and were not nearly so aggressive as they were in the first half. On the other hand, the Trenton seven—every player by the way being in the pink of condition—played stellar hockey, and at all times pounced on the puck with a vengeance. But even at that it was a great game, and the Lindsay players held the easterners down to a close margin. It began to look as if Lindsay might squeeze out ahead with one goal lead, or perhaps tie the round, but in the last fifteen minutes of the play the Trenton forward line cut loose and fairly dazzled the Lindsay line with their magnificent rushes. The black and white sweatered forward line came down the ice lightning fast. They played a beautiful three and four-man combination and it was impossible to stop them. Just for the magnificent work of Gamble in goal the score would have been much larger. Gamble had a night on and kept out shot after shot in superb fashion. He was the candy kid.

Trenton had the combination. They have been playing hockey in their round for weeks past and even after they returned from Lindsay they held two or three stiff work-outs, and as a result they were in the best of condition. They finished strong in both halves, but especially so in the last half, and when the Lindsay players were beginning to show signs of lagging and growing weary, the Trenton forwards bucked up and played all the harder. In the last half they scored three goals in three minutes, as a result of dazzling and brilliant combination rushes.

The Trenton men were deadly in front of the nets, the Lindsay players were not so much so; it was as though one side had been armed with finely-sighted modern arms, while the other was reduced to the use of ancient flint-locks. Trenton well deserved to win, although Lindsay did play a gilt-edged game.

HOCKEY

The one thousand or more fans who attended the obsequies of the Royal Bank hockey seven on Saturday afternoon were more than tickled with the manner in which they were put away by their caged brethren of the Montreal Bank. The score at half time was 5—2, and at the end of the service the figures stood 10—6. Of the ten Hugh Burritt corralled six, and he, with Fifty Fortye, did most of the nailing on the tough box. Brumwell in goal for the Royals was immense, he stopping everything that hit him. For the winners, Perks put up a smashing exhibition, and Armstrong was conspicuous only on account of his stunning outfit, the pants being borrowed ones. The demonstration to show the great benefits to the legs to be derived from a course in physical culture was not put on by W. Burritt, someone having stolen his short trousers. It is rumored that the Royal Bank suffered great financial losses as a result of the affair.

The teams were:

Montreal Bank—Goal, Boswell; point, Armstrong; cover, W. Burritt; forwards, Mitchell, Fortye, Perks and H. Burritt.

George Clarke, of the Bank of Commerce, handled the bell and was fortunate in getting away with what he did.

Timers—Welkey and Sheffield.

Penalty—Ross.

The Midgets have come into the limelight again and Saturday afternoon at Brock street rink, they defeated the Lakefield High School team in ten minutes overtime by 7—6. The game was interesting and exciting; the score at full time being 6—6. The line-up of the winners was: Goal, G. Matthews; point, E. White; cover, R. Laing; rover, H. Morrow; centre, G. Halpin; right, H. Parker; left, F. Barrie.

On Tuesday night, between 7 and 8, the Midgets will play the return game with St. John's of Lakefield, who took the first game after a hard battle by a 6—5 score. The local youngsters will have a strong team for Tuesday night and are confident of a win. The line-up of the Midgets will be: Goal, Latimer; point, E. White; cover, C. Callaghan; rover, H. Morrow; centre, G. Halpin; right, H. Parker; left, R. Laing. M. W. O'Brien will referee.

The Quakers defeated the Auburns in an exhibition game at the Brock street rink, Saturday night, by 5—1. Kendrey of the Auburns was accidentally injured about the face.

Canoe Builders and C. G. E. play a Mercantile League game to-night. Bill Ross will referee.

CURLING

The rinks to leave for Bobcaygeon this afternoon to compete for the Fitzgerald-Bottum trophy are as follows:—

L. Hall, D. Hall, H. Foote, R. M. Waddell, skip.

R. Hairstone, W. Thompson, D. Davidson, W. G. Morrow, skip.

R. J. Soden, W. Stocker, W. Mellroy, T. F. Matthews, skip.

LADY WRESTLERS

(Walt. Mason.)

A tall and stately western dame has taken up the wrestling game. For years she's practised on the mat; she's laid some other ladies flat; she gave them such a dizzy fling, they said, she was a horrid thing; if they give parties any more, they won't invite her to their door. The stalwart dame is not dismayed; she knows that in the western trade, a girl must pass up purple teas, and whist and bridge and things like these. She's taken wrestling to her heart; henceforth she only lives for Art; for her no cheap athletic botch; she's trying to interpret Gotch, to bring his Meaning to the front, as others do the Ibsen stunt. And when she's thrown some lady dube, she'll work up Gotch and Hotter clubs, and make a nice informal talk on toe-holds and the Nelson lock. She's made a good and worthy start; and if she's loyal to her Art, all girls will fire shell spools and threads, and learn to spin upon their heads.

BASEBALL

Charlie Street, the catcher, is the only real holdout on the Washington team.

Bug Holliday, the famous outfielder of the Cincinnatis, in the 80's and early 90's, is ill in Cincinnati.

Charley Nichols, the old Boston pitcher, is manager of the Nichols bowling team of Kansas City. He is third vice-president of the Middle West Bowling Association.

Arthur McCabe, the leading hitter of the Connecticut League, will be given a thorough trial by Clark Griffith, of the Reds, this spring. McCabe clouted for .336 last year.

Vaughan, the big left-hander who will work for the New York Americans this year, struck out 175 batters in 27 games while with Macon in the South Atlantic League last season.

Ed Reulbach says he never punkeyed with the spitball when he made his record of 14 consecutive victories. Jack Chesbro made the same record by the free use of the spitter.

Mordecai Brown says place hitting is only luck. "Don't let anybody tell you," he says, "that he can hit the ball where he tries to, for he can't, unless he is a phenom I've never heard of."

Bobby Byrne, the third baseman of the world's champion Pirates, has signed for the coming season. Byrne is already in training. His ankle, which was broken in the recent series with Detroit, has entirely mended.

President Johnson, of the American League, never signs an umpire to a formal contract. Says he: "I don't like contracts for umpires. As long as they do their duty they have their jobs for life. If they don't we can let them go at any time."

Jiggs Donahue, whose release to the Minneapolis American Association team was recently announced, declares that he will not play in a minor league. Jiggs has purchased Adrian C. Anson's interest in his baseball park and semi-professional team.

Eddie Plank and Ira Thomas have signed with Connie Mack. Philadelphia considers this pair the star battery of the Quakers. First Baseman Walsh, who is being groomed to step into Harry Davis' shoes, eventually, has also turned in his signed contract.

WALKING

George Brown, the boy walker, of Auburn, N.Y., has written Mr. Chris. Graham, asking him to put on a match between himself and Harrison. The financial prospects for such a venture are not alluring enough to warrant an advertising account.

PETERBOROUGH, January 29th, 1910

W. H. HILL, ESQ.,

Manager Sun Life Assurance Co., of Canada,

Peterborough, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—About five years ago my late husband took out $1,000.00 insurance in The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, on which he only paid the first three premiums. Shortly after his death, which occurred on the 6th inst., although I was under the impression that his policy had lapsed, I called at your office to inquire if anything could be done whereby we might get something out of it. You can imagine my surprise and genuine gratitude to learn that, owing to your non-forfeiture privilege, the policy was still in force at his death and that I was entitled to the full thousand dollars, less only the two unpaid premiums and interest.

This seems to me such extraordinary and generous treatment that I wish to add my expression of most sincere thanks and appreciation to the many others your company must receive.

I also wish to acknowledge and thank you for your courtesy and promptness in procuring for me a cheque to-day covering the policy, and to state that if my endorsation of the already mentioned feature of your policies is of value you are quite at liberty to use it.

Gratefully yours,

THE HUSBAND HAD EIGHT CHILDREN

And Family Was Too Much For New Wife's Views.

Walla Walla, Wash., Feb. 12.—The story all came out in court. To fall in love with a "real nice" man, then to say "yes," and a short time afterward to be married and go to the new home, to discover eight little children—her new husband's—all shouting "Mamma," proved too much for Mrs. Halver Vettleson, according to the complaint in a divorce suit filed by the husband himself in a local court. In fact, it proved so much that Mrs. Vettleson hardly tarried long enough to say good-bye, further avers the complaint, though not in this language.

The divorce was granted by default, Mrs. Vettleson having left no address to she could be served. Judge Brents gave the eight children to Halver, who had not even asked for them.

Mr. Vettleson stated that he had failed to notify his helpmeet that she was marrying a Roosevelt family at the time he asked her to marry him.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR INDIGESTION

If you have indigestion, your food fermenting in the stomach and bowels. It does more; it decays, and the nutritious matter which should go to make new blood decays with it, and this leads to an impoverished condition of the blood, to nervousness, biliousness, constipation, sick headache, bad breath, which disgusts your friends, and other disagreeable and unpleasant conditions.

And all this trouble is caused by the food that doesn't digest, but fermenting, and oftimes rots in the stomach.

And fermentation is caused by the stomach not being strong enough and energetic enough to thoroughly mix the food with the digestive juices.

M-I-O-N-A is responsible for tens of thousands of cures. In fact, it is such a positive cure for indigestion and kill stomach troubles that it is guaranteed by Wm. Madill to cure or money back. The price of a large box of Mi-o-na Tablets is 50 cents, and they are sure to promptly relieve the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia. Try them.

LOOKING BACKWARD

Eugene Field.

There are no days like the good old days—
The days when we were youthful,
When humankind were pure of mind
And speech and deeds were truthful;
Before a love for sordid gold
Became man's ruling passion,
And before each dame and maid became
Slaves to the tyrant Fashion!

There are no girls like the good old girls—
Against the world I'd stake 'em!
As buxon and smart and clean of heart
As the Lord knew how to make 'em!
They were rich in spirit and common sense,
A party ait supporting,
They could bake and brew, and had taught school, too.
And they made liveliest courtin'.

There are no boys like the good old boys—
When we were boys together!
When the grass was sweet to the brown, bare feet
That dimpled the laughing heather;
When the peewee sung to the summer dawn
Of the bee in the billowy clover,
Or down by the mill the whippowill
Echoed his night song over.

There is no love like the good old love—
The love that mother gave us!
We are old, old men, yet we pine again
For that precious grace—God save us.
So we dream and dream of the good old times,
And our hearts grow tenderer, fonder,
As these dear old dreams bring soothing gleams,
Of Heaven away off yonder!

FARM DRAINAGE IS PROFITABLE

Assistance Can be Secured From Ontario Agricultural College

Thorough drainage of lands needing it will increase the yearly returns from the land by about $20 per acre as shown by reports of men who have drained. This is the salient fact brought out in Bulletin No. 174, just issued by the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, entitled, "Farm Underdrainage: Does it Pay?"

During the past five years the amount of drainage being done has doubled, and thorough drainage, that is with lines of tile every four rods more or less, is rapidly increasing. Many areas are so flat or so irregular that it is impossible without a surveyor's level to tell just what is the best way of draining them. For the encouragement of farmers having such areas the Ontario Agricultural College is renewing its offer of assistance in drainage surveying. During the summer the College has a special drainage estaff engaged in this work. Anyone having drainage problems to solve may have the assistance of one of these drainage advisers by applying for the same. At the conclusion of each survey a public meetings held in the field to discuss and demonstrate the best methods of finding the fall, determining the grade, digging the ditch true to grade, etc. The only outlay to the farmer is the travelling expenses of one man consisting of meals if any, cartage of instruments, if any, and railway fare at a cent [illegible] each way. As several surveys are usually made on the same trip, the actual cash outlay for each man is small, frequently being under $1 and seldom over $2, though in case of an individual survey in a remote part it might reach $5 or more. The farmer is also expected to meet the College representative at the station and return him to it, as well as accommodate him while on the survey.

Those wishing to make application for a drainage survey should write to Prof. W. H. Day, Department of Physics, O.A.C., Guelph, whereupon a regular application form will be sent.

DON'T THROW AWAY CORSETS OR BABIES

Stays and Puny Infants Both Worth While, Say Wiseacres of Havard College

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 12.—Prof. and Mrs. R. W. Lovett has qualified for the chair of corsetry at Harvard, where he was already engaged in the medical department. Another learned professor of the seat of diversified wisdom, Dr. Maynard Ladd, delivered a dissertion on babies, suckling bottles and scientific feeding of infants, and handed out a few thoughts for Dr. William T. Porter, also a Harvard wise man, on the latter's theory that time and money spent on puny infants had better be devoted to saving the strong ones.

The women will call Dr. Lovett a dear, for he said that corsets of the right kind are helpful under present civilization, declaring that certain physicians could employ their time to better advantage by telling women which kind of corsets to wear instead of condemning all corsets. The professor of corsetry boomed no particular brand of stays, so those who want his secret must write him. He did mention "old-fashioned" "as against the new-fangled, so-called "hygenic waists" and "health corsets." He said that a good corset will prevent or cure three fundamental deformities—bowed back, flat chest and bilging abdomen—and correct weakness and poor carriage due to the distorting pressure of clothes.

WRECKED HOME BECAUSE HIS WIFE WENT VISITING

New York, Feb. 12.—Frederick Burmeister's wife Anna lately acquired a habit of leaving the neat little Burmeister home, at No. 62 Atlantic St., Jersey City, each morning after her husband had gone to work and spending a greater part of the day at some neighbour's home. This didn't please the head of the house, who as stoutly opposed to women doing anything but attending to her household duties.

Several times he spoke to Mrs. Burmeister against spending her time visiting, and to-day he decided to express his disapproval more strongly. Going to the carpenter shop nearby, where he is employed, he asked for the day off. Then he planted himself so he could see when his wife left. Punctually at 9 o'clock she sailed grandly down the street. Once out of sight, Burmeister descended on his domicile.

When he got through there wasn't a whole piece of furniture left. Chairs, tables, beds, bureaus, pictures and ornaments, which cost him years of saving, were strewn about as if a cyclone had hit the building. Viewing the wreckage of his home and the havoc he had wrought with glee, Burmeister to fully impress his wife with the terrible punishment he had meted out to her, took a piece of paper and scribbled:

"Why don't you stay at home!"
"FRED."

THEN WENT BACK TO WORK.

Pinning the paper to the broken leg of a table, he stalked forth satisfied that his wife would never again spend her time with friends, and returned to work.

Mrs. Burmeister returned two hours later and found her home in ruins. Frederick's work had been complete. One look convinced her that either a tornado had hit Jersey City while she was away, or burglars had gone through the place with sledges and axes. She did the womanly thing—screamed loudly and fell over in a faint.

Her cries brought aid and subsequently the police reserves from the Communipaw avenue station. Mrs. Burmeister revived, to cry that her jewels had been stolen, and begged the police to run for her husband as quickly as possible. Two detectives found Burmeister busily sawing wood, as became an active carpenter. He only grunted when told of the disaster—but it was noticed that his shoulders were unduly erect and he carried his hat on the side of his head as he walked back to his home. He lighted a cigar on the way, and was puffing vigorously as he entered the house.

KISSED AND MADE UP

During his absence Sergt. Langan had discovered the paper. The whole situation was plain to Langan in a moment. It wasn't so clear to Mrs. Burmeister until her husband strutted into the parlor.

"Yes, now you stay by the house, mah!" he saluted the woman. "You see, now, what happened. Next time I guess, maybe you stay in."

"My jewels, Freddie, oh, where are they!" screamed the wife, folding her gallant husband close to her.

"So, jewels, heh, Annie! Now maybe I lost them. I was sorry to break up things, but you must have in mind you must not go out. Therefore I break it up. And there you are."

Husband and wife embrace again and Mrs. Burmeister promised never to go out any more, and the husband, content that he had taught his wife a lesson, but at great cost, sent word he would lay off, and is busy glueing up and nailing together what furniture he can.

COMPARISON OF RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES OF CANADIAN AND FOREIGN BANKS

What Foreign Banks Are Required to Pay in Taxes at Home for the Privileges They Enjoy—What Canadian Banks Pay—An Enquiry Into Banking.

The following interesting article emanates from the pen of Mr. Peter Ryan of Toronto and should be read by every man and woman interested in banking.

The Imperial Bank of Germany. This Bank is a people's bank in addition to being a bank for other banks.

It discounts as low as $2.50 notes or drafts and receives deposits as low as 20 cents. The rate of discount is uniform to all its customers and is published.

It is a heavy contributor to the Imperial revenues from its profits, which are as follows: The shareholders receive the first 3 1-2 per cent. of the bank's profits on the paid up capital. From all profits above 3 1-2 per cent. 20 per cent. is allowed to be set aside as a reserve, which must never exceed 25 per cent. of the actual paid up capital. The residue is divided by giving the shareholders one-fourth and the State three-fourths, but no matter how great the earnings of the Bank may be, the shareholders must never receive more than 6 per cent. per annum.

No Bonus or Bonus stock allowed or allotted to shareholders nor allowances of any kind permitted, and all salaries and perquities must be approved by the Imperial Government.

In 1908 the Government received from this bank alone as a share of profits $6,500,000. In Canada the banks keep all earnings, while charging the public at least 25 per cent. higher discount rate than obtains in the Imperial Bank of Germany. This bank pays heavy taxes on its currency, which is protected by a reserve of one-third in specie or Government bills, and two-thirds in bills of exchange.

The Bank of France gives the Government a loan of one hundred and eighty million francs without interest; does all Government business gratis, and all earnings above five per cent. revert to the State to the extent of three-quarters of such earnings. Also a tax of one-eighth of the discount rate which must not be less than $2,000,000, and tax on circulation of notes.

The Bank of Portugal pays 5 per cent. of its net profits to the Crown, also heavy tax on its note issue, and other imposts, and all the bank profits above seven per cent. per annum are divided equally between the State and the bank shareholders, and half of all premiums on sales of bank stock shares return to the Government.

In Mexico 2 per cent. tax is imposed on the circulating banks on their gross capital.

In Italy, the Banks of Italy, Naples and Sicily, pay annual taxes on note circulation of over two million dollars. In Canada this concession is given for nothing.

Austria Hungary places a heavy tax on the bank circulation, and the Government claims all the earnings over seven per cent.

In Belgium the banks do all the government business free and pay taxes on their note issues. All charges for discount over five per cent. go to the State, and the State claims all bank estimates over six per cent.

The Republic of Bolivia taxes the banks nine per cent. of the entire earnings of the banks from every source without deduction for losses or cost of operation.

The Banks of Roumania return to the State all discount charges over seven per cent. and twenty per cent. of the net profits after paying the shareholders six per cent. on the paid-up cash capital.

The Bank of Spain, in return for its bank charter, grants the government a permanent loan of fifty million dollars, on which no interest is charged. It pays ground tax, stamp duties and one-sixth the entire profits of the bank is returned to the State.

The Swiss bank laws:—

1. By the law of 1906, the Bank of Switzerland has the sole right to issue notes on which there is a direct tax of 30 centimes per capita for 15 years, and for the next 15 years 80 centimes per capita, which would represent, if applied to Canada, a tax of over one million dollars per annum.

2. The governments, both Federal and Canton, are represented on the Board of Directors by the president, vice-president and a majority of the members.

3. The bank publishes the rates of loans and discounts regularly and serves all the public alike.

4. Profits to shareholders must not exceed four per cent. per annum. Balance to the State as follows: 2-3 Federal, 1-3 to Cantons.

5. Reserve of rest account must not exceed 30 per cent. of the paid-up cash.

6. Bank cannot lend on its shares, nor can any one but a citizen own stock in the bank.

The bank does all government banking free of charge.

How does the above compare with the Canadian Banking Act with unlimited profits? No return to the people, and eccentric rates of discount.

AMERICAN BANKING LAW.

United States banks pay direct tax one-half of one per cent. per annum on amount of daily note circulation. Also pay 2 2-10 per cent. indirect on all the National Bank notes as set forth.

1. American banks cannot issue bills without depositing with the Treasury of the United States as security for their redemption Panama Canal bonds, gold or gold bonds of the United States bearing only two per cent. interest, which bonds are always at a premium.

2. The United States only allows bills to be issued to 90 per cent. of the amount of such deposited security, keeping 10 per cent. lest even its own bonds fall below par.

3. The Savings Banks and National Banks pay to time depositors four per cent. interest on the money which is used to purchase these bonds, thus being indirectly taxed an additional 2 2-10 per cent., which, including the direct tax, amounts to 2 7-10 per cent. on every National Bank note in circulation.

4. The Canadian Banks issue about ninety million dollars in notes, on which they pay nothing to the State.

5. What special favor or service do they render to the rural districts or small communities to entitle them to issue these notes free, while the American banks, which only issue one-fifth of the United States currency, pay over $15,000,000 per annum to the State on the currency issued.

DOESN'T BELIEVE IN LINGERIE

University Teacher Says Her Sex Should Eschew Fancy Underclothes.

A La Crosse, Wis., despatch says:—Miss A. L. Marlett, of the home economics department of the University of Wisconsin, wrote "No" on ruffled lingerie before a large class of girls at the La Crosse County College of Agriculture, because, she who said, none saw it, and it merely was the means of enslaving the women who had it to wash. Besides it is unsanitary, she said, and a set of two garments, under and outer, is preferable in the woman's wardrobe. The time is coming, according to Miss Marlett, when women will wear loose clothes and "gym." suits about their work.

Most women are "copy cats," according to Miss Marlett. They see another of the fair sex with her hair "done" attractively and they rush home and try to duplicate it, regardless of its adaptability to their style. Women should dress with regard to accentuating their beauty, she declared, which can be done by considering the lips, eyes and hair. Illustrating, she said a blue-eyed girl might give the appearance to her eyes of the blue that the poets rave about by dressing in a pale shade of blue, while rosy cheeks and lips may be accentuated by similar methods of taste.

False hair is the greatest spreader of disease with which women have to contend, she says, and related personal knowledge of two cases of leprosy contracted by Vassar girls from "switches" cut from the heads of lepers by unscrupulous foreign hair merchants.

For that matter women would be better off, she said, without false hair, or even hats. For when the times comes, as she says it will, for people to go bare-headed, there will be no more need for hair tonics, and headaches will have disappeared.

The average woman has a putty shape—at least, said Miss Marlett it is possible to change it to conform with any fashion.

She took a rap at the husbands when she declared women should train them to do most of the housework. This can be done by any clever woman, she said, and she can therefore escape the drudgery of household labor. The men, she said, are in the habit of sneering at housework, but the time will come, if her prediction be true, when the husband will be the household drudge.

BANKRUPT BARON GETS SIX MONTHS

Owed Hotelmen Over $1,500 for Board, But Said He Had Lots of Money Coming In.

London, Feb. 11.—Sir Edward Robert Murray, Bart., D.S.O., surrendered to his bail at Surrey Quarter Sessions, at Kingston-on-Thames, on an indictment charging him with obtaining credit to the amount of £165 6s. 3d. from Messrs. Spiers and Pond, Limited, at the Southampton Hotel, Surbiton, without informing them that he was an undischarged bankrupt.

Mr. Barrington Ward, prosecuting, said there was no suggestion of fraud. The Bankruptcy Act, under which the case was brought, was intended for the protection of trade. The accused was of ancient lineage. He went to South Africa with the Yeomanry, rose to the rank of lieutenant-colonel, and was three times mentioned in despatches. Since his return he had been endeavoring to earn his living as a stock-broker.

In January, 1909, counsel further said, Lady Murray, with her child and nurse, went to reside at the Southampton Hotel, where she had previously stayed, the accused following in February. They remained until August, incurring a bill of £310 2s. 8d. The accused was adjudicated a bankrupt on May 6, 1909, and after that date he incurred the bill mentioned in the indictment.

A witness from the London Bankruptcy Court proved that the defendant's liabilities under his failure were returned at £6,828 0s. 3d., and his assets (cash at bankers) were £14 16s. 2d. There was no mention of Messrs. Spiers and Pond as creditors in his statement of affairs. He was still an undischarged bankrupt.

Mr. Amos Piper, manager of the hotel, said that when the defendant was asked for payment for the bill he said he had hundreds of pounds owing to him by a Mr. Lefroy, and would settle as soon as he received it. No part of the £310 had been paid.

The defendant, giving evidence, said that when he went to the hotel on the last occasion it was in the bona fide belief that he would receive the money owing to him and be able to discharge his indebtedness.

The jury found the defendant guilty. The accused was sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the second division, which, the chairman explained, meant immunity from hard labor.

DINNERS AT TWO CENTS PER HEAD

Organized Cooking Campaign in London-Several Ladies Take Active Interest in Scheme

London, Feb. 11.—The success of an organized effort to teach the young wives of St. Pancras how to place well-cooked, nourishing meals before their husbands was illustrated at Tolmer's Institute, London, when Mrs. H. H. Irving presented a number of prizes to the most promising cooks of the School for Mothers. Over 150 mothers and about fifty rejoicing fathers attended the prize-giving tea party of the cookery class.

In addition to the classes at the school there has been started the novel experiment of the visiting cookery instructions, who compiles recipes according to the current prices of the day in the street market where the mothers do their shopping. The work has been undertaken by one of the assistants at the school, Miss Petty, who calls on the mothers and shows them how to make the best of what they have got. Her services are becoming of great request.

"The problem is to find out each day how a dinner which can be cooked over an oil stove or fire can be bought for two cents per head," explained the visiting instructress on Saturday. "Most of the women live in one room, and out of the few cents available for the dinner either coal or oil to cook it has to be bought. The other day I was able to show a woman how to get a meal of soup, stewed meat, vegetables, suet dumplings, and potatoes for 16c. The family consisted of father, mother and two children, and the food was sufficient for two days, the cost thus being 2c per head per day." The purchases made were as follows:

11 lb. scraps	5c
Pot herbs, onions, carrots, etc.	2c
Flour and suet for suet dumpling	5c
Packet of desiccated soup	2c
	16c

Pots and pans, oil stoves and steamers were the practical prizes, and presenting them, Mrs. Irving, who wore a large housewifely white linen apron over her pretty dress, impressed upon the mothers the importance of pleasing their husbands by giving them well-cooked food. When she was a little girl of six she remembered hearing her father say, "How is it I can't get a chop cooked decently except at the club?" She determined that when she grew up her husband should never be able to complain that she could not cook. "And," added Mrs. Irving, "although I have been married fifteen years, he never has."

Ned Keating had his leg broken in a lumber camp, and was carried fifty miles to Peterborough before he could be attended.

THE SECRET OF OUR SUCCESS

In suiting the demands of exacting wearers of Glasses is that we not only use the best qualities of Lenses and Frames, but our examinations of the eyes are so thorough as to investigate the irregularities and peculiarities of each case and give the greatest possible help by persons specially made to fully correct and relieve all these irregularities. There is usually more help possible than would be supposed, and those who put up merely with what they can manage to see with, endanger the eyes and miss much comfort and pleasure. We please particular people.

NOVA SCOTIA IS TAKING MEASURES

The province of Nova Scotia during the past summer inaugurated a survey of its forest lands, thus setting an example to the other provinces of the Dominion in this regard. The southwestern part of the province, from Hants county westward, was covered this past summer, and it is expected the survey will be complete next summer.

Conditions allowed of only a rough survey, or "reconnaissance." The survey was carried out under the direction of Dr. B. E. Fernow, dean of the faculty of forestry of the University of Toronto. Several trained foresters, along with the Chief Fire Warden of the province, were employed on the survey, and under the plan of operations adopted each of these was assigned a certain district and allowed considerable liberty in his choice of the method of covering this to the best advantage. Existing records and other information secured from well-informed persons was utilized as far as possible and advisable, with a view of saving time and expense; the field work consisted largely in checking the informational study of forest types, etc.

The information obtained was plotted in the field directly on maps of large scale (2 inches to the mile) provided for the purpose. Among the points of greatest importance thus noted were the extent of the burned areas, the degree of cutting on cut-over areas, the composition of the forest, the conditions of the reproduction and the character of farming lands, meadows, etc., within the farming country.

The cost of the survey is a point of considerable note, as it averaged less than twenty cents per square mile. The total area of the country covered was about 8,500 square miles.

The future of the forest is the point of greatest interest to the forester, and in this regard Dr. Fernow has some interesting observations to make. He says:—"Although the data on the rate of growth are not yet collected, it is safe to say that, if the fires are kept out (and apparently with the present organization still further perfected this can be done reasonably well) there is no difficulty in re-stocking by natural means most of the cut-over areas if not too severely culled. In the pure hemlock-spruce stands all that is necessary is to remove the old hemlock thoroughly and cleanly to have the growth of spruce already established on the ground take its place."

He takes occasion, however, to correct erroneous impressions as to the growth of spruce. "While the white spruce, growing in comparatively open situations, may, he says, make a sawlog in sixty years, the forest spruce, which generally red spruces grows more slowly and will probably not average a sawlog in less than a hundred years.

It is found that, to a large extent, the different species of trees are localized. The white spruce is found, for the most part, in Shelburne and part of Queen's, the hemlock most prominently in Annapolis and the spruce in Digby counties.

Nova Scotia is to be heartily congratulated on taking this forward step. One of the greatest needs in regard to the planning of a business-like system of administering and caring for the forests of Canada is the acquiring of definite information as to just where these areas are located, their extent, the quantity of timber and species of trees to be found on them, their accessibility and other points. Heretofore these points have had to be largely guessed at, no certain knowledge being in existence. While the present survey may leave much to be desired, it at any rate substitutes definite (if only approximate) knowledge for guesses. Nova Scotia is to be congratulated on having led the way among the provinces of the Dominion in thus substituting certainty for vagueness in regard to its forest areas and resources.

SIR JAMES WHITNEY

Canadian Courier.

It is an open question if any man in Canada has made greater progress during his half decade in the estimation of his fellowmen than Sir James Whitney. Before he became Premier many of his own followers doubted his ability to play the role of Big Chief. The Liberals were quite sure that he would never rank with Mowat, Hardy and Ross. Nevertheless, to-day Sir James is as supreme in Ontario as Sir Wilfrid is in the Dominion. His policy of "cheap power for the people," if not wholly successful, has touched the imagination of the people. He has been a modern and improved Robin Hood, taking from the rich and giving to the poor. He played much the same role in the school book question, and has given Ontario a set of school books unequalled in the world for meritorious cheapness. In the management of the Crown domain, he has shown an acute appreciation of business methods somewhat unusual in Ontario political leaders.

In dealing with the relations of the Province to the Dominion and in considering the principles which underlie provincial legislation, Sir James has shown a considerable breadth of view. His neighbor, Sir Lomer Gouin, Premier of Quebec, is a Liberal, but this does not prevent Sir James and Sir Lomer from working together—along certain lines. There must always be a certain amount of conflict between the Provinces and the Federal Government as to their respective powers under the Constitution of 1867. New conditions are continually arising. All such conflicts have been settled in a friendly manner, but not without each side stoutly insisting upon its rights. Sir James has secured Sir Lomer's aid in certain matters. It is also said that Sir James will imitate some of Quebec's legislation concerning corporation and stock exchange taxation.

TORONTO SCENE OF SENSATIONAL CRIME

Negro Named Withers Kills His Wife and Mother-in-Law Then Bars the Doors and Holds Fifty Policemen and Detectives at Bay for Three Hours Before He Commits Suicide.

The Dead.

Mrs. Victoria Davis, aged 55 years.

Mrs. Matilda Withers, her daughter, aged 35 years.

William Withers, aged 40 years.

Wounded:

Toronto, Feb. 15. Barricaded in a three-storey brick house at 27 Elliott street, with two dead victims, blood-spattered and desperate, William Withers, an undersized negro, fought off a detachment of police with a fusilade of bullets for three long hours yesterday afternoon. Crouching behind the protecting window-sills, gliding from room to room to cover every point of approach, the murderer held officialdom at bay. There was then a pause, a last sharp report from within, and silence.

The tragic drama was perpetrated in the crowded districts of Toronto. Hundreds of awe-stricken and excited spectators watched its progress,—a scene of the early lawless wilds transplanted into the heart of modern life-loving civilization. Stern squads of police, armed with revolvers and shotguns, speeding forth their leaden messengers, surrounded the house. The rattle of their musketry, the broken windows, the pierced woodwork, the battered door — all bespoke the grim resistence of the law. It would not be denied.

WILLIAM WITHERS.

Jealous rage, which amounted almost to insanity, is believed to have been the motive which led Withers (colored) to shoot to death his wife Matilda, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Victoria Davis, both also colored, who were members of one of the most widely-known families in the east end of Toronto. When there were none but women in the house the jealous husband went there at about two o'clock in the afternoon, rang the bell, but was denied admission, his wife having refused to have anything to do with him. Becoming enraged, he forced open the front door and shot his wife who was just inside, the bullet entering her eye. She is thought to have died immediately. Proceeding upstairs he met his mother-in-law in the upper hall, and shot her near the heart. Death followed in her case in the course of a couple of hours.

Mrs. Wynn, 376 Margueretta street, another daughter of Mrs. Davis, and Mrs. Sheppard with her baby were also in the house at the time, but were ordered out of the house by the murderer. Not delaying, they went, taking refuge in the house of A. E. Tomlin, butcher, at the corner of Broadview avenue. The commission of something desperate by Withers was not altogether unexpected by other members of the family, for he is said to have on several occasions threatened to come and "raise fireworks." He is believed to have been jealous of a man named Joshua Miller, who has been living in the house, for about a year. Miller was out at the time of the crimes.

Elliott street is a short thoroughfare running from Munro street to Bolton avenue, crossing Broadview avenue about half-way between Queen and Gerrard streets. The portion of the street in which the tragedy occurred is rather narrow. The house is on the south side, and opposite is a lot on which lumber is stored. Despite its proximity to the house scores of people gathered in this lot, while others occupied points just as near. Early in the siege, and before a heavy fire was directed on the windows by the police to prevent a possibility of such action, Withers could easily have killed or seriously wounded numbers of these people. The wonder is that none of them were hurt.

Accidentally Shot.

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 15.—Strolling in Stanley Park, in the vicinity of Third Beach, Robt. Haines, 950 Seymour street, was accidentally shot by two men in a skiff in English Bay. Part of the shot penetrated the cheek bone below the left eye, and part lodged in various parts of his body. He is unable to identify his assailants.

Provincial Treasurer Better.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Hon. Col. Matheson hopes to be able to leave the Western Hospital by the end of the week. For a couple of days he has been up and walking round the room. His broken arm is still bound to an iron support.

BRITISH CABINET

Several Changes Announced by Liberals—Promotion for Churchill.

London, Feb. 15.—The following appointments were announced last night:

Postmaster-General—Herbert Louis Samuel.

J. A. Pease, who was the chief Liberal whip, was defeated at the general elections, but it is expected that a safe seat will be found for him in Lancashire. Herbert Louis Samuel is Under Secretary for State for the Home Office.

The most important change is that of Mr. Churchill, from the Board of Trade to the important post of Home Secretary. It marks another stage in the career of this young politician, whose rise has been one of the most remarkable in recent British history.

Mr. Buxton, who succeeds him as President of the Board of Trade, has been very successful as Postmaster-General, and is associated with several important improvements and extensions in that Department. The changes do not indicate any alteration in the composition of the Cabinet, or in the policy of the Government. As they stand, they rather strengthen the moderate section of the Cabinet.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

Alexandra public school, which cost $35,000, was formally opened at St. Catharines yesterday.

The hearing of Bob Cook, the desperado, on the charge of wounding Constable Halbert at Orangeville, was begun yesterday and adjourned till next Monday.

Hon. Walter Scott, Premier of Saskatchewan, who has been in Ottawa for the past few days, denies the report that it is his intention to resign as Premier and accept a portfolio in the Federal Cabinet.

At Edmonton, Alta., a mulatto named McCormick shot down his wife and sent a bullet into his own brain. With a wound in the base of her brain, the woman lies in the hospital in a dangerous condition.

Kingston property owners will be asked to vote on giving exemptions of taxes to a company leasing the drydock. The Government paid no taxes, whereas the company will pay school taxes on an assessment of $50,000.

An explosion of dynamite Sunday night in St. Louis, Mo., wrecked a three-storey building, blew out all the windows of the Delmar Hotel, adjoining the building and caused a panic among the hundred guests at the hotel.

Wolves have become so numerous in the peninsula of Carling Townships, near Parry Sound, as to be a menace to the settlers, and during the fall and early winter large numbers of sheep have been killed. A great wolf hunt is planned.

A bold daylight burglary and brutal attack on a woman took place in Brooklyn yesterday. As a result Mrs. Isabella Crosthwaite, a widow of 50 years, is dying. Two well-dressed men gained admittance to Mrs. Crosthwaite's house by asking to see a furnished room.

APPOINTMENT IS IN SIGHT

Measure in Legislature Hints at a Judicial Change.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—"Who is the Appeal Court judge who is slated for a move to Ottawa and the Supreme Court bench?" is the question suggested by a bill introduced by Hon. J. J. Foy in the Legislature yesterday afternoon entitled "An Act to Amend the Judicature Act."

Mr. Foy's bill makes provision that when a judge of the Court of Appeal is appointed to the Supreme Court he shall be given eight weeks to decide on cases which have been heard before his appointment. In view of the fact that a similar bill of Mr. Foy's last session regarding the advancement of judges of the high court antedated only a few days the appointment of Mr. Justice Anglin to the Supreme Court, the inference suggested above is not unreasonable.

A bill by C. N. Anderson (South Essex) to amend the division courts acts, increases the maximum of division court accounts from $100 to $200 and of notes from $200 to $400.

Hon. J. J. Foy introduced a bill to allow religious institutions to convey to missions the property on which they stand, in the case of their becoming independent congregations.

W. H. Hearst (Sault Ste. Marie) brought in three new bills. "An act respecting the City of Fort William," "An act to amend the Municipal Act," and "An act to amend the Public Health Act."

The debate on the budget will be resumed this afternoon by C. R. McKeown (Dufferin), and Sir James Whitney swears by all the gods there will be an evening session, as too much time has been lost already.

SHAMFIGHTING IN THE SNOW

Kingston, Feb. 15.—An innovation in Canadian military tactics will be tried this week, when the two local batteries of the R. C. A. will take to the snow-clad hills of northern Frontenac County, and do several days' route march, in order to give the soldiers practical experience in winter campaigning. Lieut.-Col. Burstall will command, with Majors Leslie and Panet as commander of A and B Batteries, respectively. The force, 150 men, with 150 horses and six quick-firing guns mounted on sleighs, take to the road to-day, and will remain out until Friday. They will advance about 12 miles the first day, and for the remainder will advance in various formations on a supposed enemy in the direction of Ottawa. Officers and men will spend the nights under canvas. The army service corps will prepare the food, while the intelligence corps will keep in touch with Ottawa for instructions.

CONVENTION OF DOMINION ALLIANCE

Toronto, Feb. 15.—About 500 delegates arrived in the city yesterday from all parts of the province to the annual provincial convention of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance.

This evening an executive session will be held. On Wednesday morning a local option conference takes place, and on Wednesday afternoon the convention will be officially opened.

NOT FAVORABLE TO RECIPROCITY

Kingston, Ja., Feb. 15.—(C. A. P. Cable)—Regarding reciprocal trade relations with Canada, The Barbados Agricultural Reporter says that improved steamship communication is the only thing affording any good ground for hope. The Demerara Chronicle says the same.

Trinidad cocoa planters are opposed to the idea, as the Dominion can consume only a small fraction of the cocoa produced in the West Indies. Other interests in Trinidad are equally hostile to the idea of reciprocity.

THE U. S. MINIMUM TARIFF DOES NOT MENTION CANADA

Great Britain and Germany Are Mentioned, But Not Their Colonies—Hon. Mr Fielding Thinks Canada Will be Dealt With Separately.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—When the Commons met yesterday, a number of interesting questions cropped up.

Hon. G. E. Foster enquired of Mr. Fielding when the promised amendments to the banking act would be introduced.

Mr. Fielding replied that the amendments were engaging the attention of the officials of the Department, but he hoped to make a statement in the course of a few days. In view of the large amount of business before the House, no harm would result from a little delay.

Mr. Foster enquired as to the inclusion or otherwise of Canada in the operation of the United States minimum tariff. He noted that Great Britain and Germany were included, but not the colonies.

Mr. Fielding expressed the opinion that Canada was not included in the proclamation which had been issued in respect to Great Britain, but would be dealt with separately.

Mr. Foster wanted to know if any negotiations were going on.

Mr. Fielding said that nothing more was known than what appeared in the press. There had not been any negotiations.

Houghton Lennox (South Simcoe) asked when the committee which had been named to deal with the Lumsden charges would commence to sit.

Sir Wilfrid said that there was no reason why it should not proceed with the enquiry on Tuesday or Wednesday.

R. L. Borden remarked that it was curious the committee had not been called together before.

Mr. Foster said that it appeared from a statement made by Sir Frederick Borden in his speech in the House that the Government had actually purchased the cruiser Niobe at a cost of over one million dollars without consulting Parliament, which had been in session for three months. He did not think the Government should spend the money of the people without consulting the House.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said in reply that when the correspondence was laid on the table, which might be to-morrow, it would be seen that the purchase was made subject to the approval of Parliament.

R. L. Borden asked if the Government had anything new to announce in respect to the International Waterways treaty.

Sir Wilfrid replied in the negative.

Hon. Mr. Graham informed Mr. Lennox that at the time of the collapse of the Quebec bridge, there were no funds in the hands of the Quebec Bridge Co.

Col. Hughes was informed by the Minister of Militia that it was not proposed to sell the Government military barracks at St. Johns, Quebec.

Col. Worthington was told that the Government was considering the question of erection of barracks and other buildings for military purposes at or near St. Lambert. That the Government was not considering the question of removing the Royal Canadian Dragoons from St. Johns to some other point, and that the question of transferring the barracks at St. Johns to Merivale College was not under consideration.

Those who imagined that the Georgian Bay Canal would be a Government undertaking of the immediate future were disillusioned last evening. Hon. W. S. Fielding announced at the conclusion of a debate on a motion by Gerald V. White of North Renfrew, for papers in connection with the scheme that it was "not good finance, not good politics and not wise at present." No harm would come if they had to go a little slowly.

He granted that the project of a deep waterway, all British, all Canadian, was an attractive and a fascinating proposition and important as a matter of military and naval defence. He gave it his cordial support as a question of the future.

Mr. White said Canada was not keeping up with Europe in the matter of water transportation, and cited Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, Sir William Van Horne and J. J. Hill as authorities of the statement that the development of navigation would not militate against the railways. The report of the engineers had stated that the canal could be built for $100,000,000 in ten years and could be operated for $900,000 annually.

T. A. Low (South Renfrew) thought the day was coming, and coming shortly, when Canada would cease to export wheat, but the canal would transport the wheat to manufacturing centres which would grow all along the route.

Dr. Reid (Grenville) urged the Government to proceed as fast as possible with the Welland Canal first, and when it was finished then the work of the Georgian Bay Canal could be entered upon.

F. D. Monk declared that until the Georgian Bay Canal is constructed Canada would stand infinitely inferior to the United States in transportation facilities. The Government had made no move towards carrying out this canal scheme, though the survey had been finished for some years.

Hon. Wm. Pugsley said personally he was inclined to the view that there was a good deal to be said in favor of the idea of company construction. He informed the House that the Government had not received any proposal from a company which was ready to build the canal without Government assistance. As a matter of fact, assistance to a large extent was asked so that whether the Government built the canal or assisted a private company, the outlay would be heavy.

NEW PLACER GOLD FIELD

Washington, Feb. 15 Recent investigations into the Innoko district, the Central Kuskokwill Valley and the new Hadittarod district in Alaska, now partially finished by the United States Geological Survey, disclose new placer gold districts which promise very heavy returns. The little territory, bought from Russia for $7,000,000 in 1867, has to the present time paid $160,000,000 in gold alone since 1880, when parlor mining there began. The discovery by agents of the survey of placers on the small streams in areas which are drained into the lower Yukon or the lower Kuskokwill prove that the formations of the upper Yukon belts extend much farther southwest than had generally been supposed, and that they bear gold at many scattered localities throughout their extent.

Sufficient prospecting has been done there to indicate the presence of a pay streak from fifty to seventy feet wide with gold uniformly distributed.

VETERINARY SURGEON CONTRACTS RABIES

Berlin, Ont., Feb. 15.—D. Keoun, a veterinary surgeon of St. Jacobs, contracted rabies in an unusual manner, receiving it by being bitten by a horse which he had been called to treat on the farm of Christian Schiefley, near St. Jacobs, two weeks ago. Dr. Keoun was attended by Dr. Minchin of Berlin, who pronounced it a case of rabies, and Dr. Keoun left at once for the New York Pasteur Institute.

A few days after Keoun was bitten the horse died of dumb rabies. The horse had been bitten by a dog on the road some days previous to the time Keoun went to the Schiefley farm.

NO SUBSIDY FOR WHITE STAR LINE

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—The White Star Dominion Line will not get a slice of the Dominion mail subsidy on the Atlantic, as the Government has decided the present contract with the Allan Line, which runs till 1912, will be sufficient for the present.

DUNNVILLE GETS NEW INDUSTRIES

Dunnville, Feb. 15.—Two bonus bylaws were carried here. The bylaw to authorize a loan of $30,000 to the Canadian American Gas & Gasoline Engine Co., was carried by 460 to 21, and the bylaw to provide $10,000 to purchase a site and building for the Wilhelm Telephone Manufacturing Co. was successful by 434 to 34.

The latter company promises to employ 25 men in the manufacture of telephones and telephone appliances, and has agreed to commence at once to place its machinery in the building secured for it.

The Canadian American Gas & Gasoline Engine Co. agrees to erect a foundry and a machine shop and to fit them up with machinery at a cost of $45,000, employing 50 men the first year.

THEY MAY CHARTER THE "NEPTUNE"

St. John's, Nfld., Feb. 15 The vessel which the American Antarctic expedition desires to purchase for its proposed quest of the South Pole, is the Newfoundland sealing steamer Neptune. The Neptune is a wooden vessel and is one of the most powerful ships of the sealing fleet. The vessel is the same on which the Canadian Government expedition was conveyed to Hudson Bay a few years ago.

The Neptune was built at Dundee in 1872. She is 190.5 feet long, 45.2 feet beam and registers 2,154 tons net.

DEPUTATION ASKS FOR PASTEUR INSTITUTE

Toronto, Feb. 15—A deputation from the Academy of Medicine, consisting of Dr. McPhedran, Dr. R. J. Hamilton, Prof. McKenzie, Dr. Rudolf, Dr. Goodchild and Dr. Reeves, waited on the Premier of Ontario yesterday to urge the need of a "Pasteur Institute" for Ontario. The suggestion was made that the work could be undertaken by the Provincial Board of Health.

In addition to the Prime Minister, Hon. J. J. Foy, Hon. W. J. Hanna, Hon. Frank Cochrane and Hon. Dr. Reaume were present at the interview.

PRIEST'S WEALTH CAUSES SCANDAL

Boston, Mass., Feb 15.—Declaring that the possession by priests of any large sum of money gained from any source but inheritanace, is a grave scandal, Archbishop W. H. O'Connell of the Boston archdiocese, Sunday begged the indulgence and prayers of the congregation of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, for some grave faults which recently happened on the part of one or two of the clergy of this diocese.

The archbishop said no priest in the Boston archdiocese would amass money merely from the income of his parish, and deplored the fact that scandal had been caused by the wills of priests who had left large fortunes.

Toronto, Feb 15. Winnipeg will have a British Welcome League soon, if the arguments of Albert Chamberlain, president of the Toronto League have any weight with the civic fathers of the prairie city. A settlement has been arrived at with three big firms and negotiations with a third are under way. The terms are not announced.

TWO WOMEN ARE ASPHYXIATED

Montreal, Feb 15.—Two women were found asphyxiated in an Amherst street house yesterday morning. The brother of one of the victims had moved the gas meter and it had been suspended temporarily by the lead pipe, the intention being to support with a shelf later. During the night the connection gave way, allowing the gas to escape. The victims were Yvonne Chausse, aged 20, of Sorel, a waitress in a restaurant, and Josephine Bemalmanans, aged 39, of Belgium, a domestic.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—Speaker Marcil has received formal notification from Justices Pelletier and Lemieux that the petition against the return of Col. O. E. Talbot for Bellechasse was called at Montmagny on the 5th inst., and was dismissed on behalf of the petitioner. Col. Talbot is consequently confirmed in his seat.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

They Keep The Brakes Set

And So Can Never Do Their Best

Many men, and more women, go through life like a train with the engine tugging, but the brakes hard on. They never get anywhere near top speed, because they are never really well.

Probably they do not own even to themselves that they are sick, but they scarcely known what it is to really "feel good". Always there is Headache, or that "dragged out feeling" which makes good work, either mental or physical, utterly impossible.

The most common trouble with all these people is that they have Constipation. Their systems are poisoned with the waste matter, which stays in the blood, instead of being promptly removed by the bowels. Harsh purgatives are worse than no treatment at all, because they weaken and irritate the bowels, instead of curing the trouble.

"Fruit-a-tives" combines the well-known laxative principles of apples, oranges, figs and prunes. So perfect is the combination, that "Fruit-a-tives" acts like the fresh fruit, by stimulating the sluggish liver to supply the proper amount of bile to move the bowels regularly.

The most stubborn cases of Constipation promptly yield to the curative and corrective effects of "Fruit-a-tives".

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT

It is laid down as one of the principles of municipal government that the business of a municipality should be conducted on the same basis as that of a private company. It is frequently said—and the assertion is a commonsense one—that a man who has made a success of his own business is well qualified for a position on the governing board of a municipality. Under the present system of electing the men who look after the city's business in Peterborough there are changes in the Council practically every year. On an average there is a complete change in the municipal Council of Peterborough every six years. Of the members of the Council of five years ago there is only one left on the aldermanic board at the present time. In view of this fact the question arises, how would an ordinary commercial enterprise getalong if there were changes in the management every year and a complete change every five or six years? One would be inclined to think that it would go to the wall before many years, even though the management was composed of good business men. The constant changing referred to would naturally result in its downfall. Does the same not apply to the government of a city? Looking at the question in this light one is apt to wonder that under the present system municipalities get along as well as they do.

A USELESS PLAN

A new and interesting element has entered into the discussion of the navy question in the Province of Quebec. The proprietor of La Patrie, Mr. L. J. Tarte, son of the late Hon. J. Israel Tarte, has begun a campaign in favor of action by Canada that will be of assistance to the Imperial navy. He sees clearly enough that a Canadian contribution would have no effect upon Canadian autonomy, and believes that the vast majority of Canadians, who have had the protection of the British navy so long without having to pay anything for it, are in favor of at once assuming part of the burden.

It may be that Britain can protect herself and us without our aid, but should we say that she must do so and that we will continue to receive the benefit of that protection without contributing anything towards it? If a contribution from Canada were to be contribution for the benefit of Britain only we should still feel bound, in gratitude and in loyalty to make it, but such a contribution would be directly for our own benefit as well. The British navy is our protection. If it were for any reason no longer adequate for the protection of the British Isles or any other part of the Empire we would be defenceless, and self-preservation unites with loyalty and gratitude to urge upon us our duty to take some adequate action that will be in keeping with the necessity of the times and our own self-respect. The Government's plan of completing several smaller vessels in four or five years has almost all the faults that could be attached to it. It will be expensive: the vessels will not be ready for years; and when the money is expended upon them and they are built they will not be sufficient in numbers, armament or power to defend our own coasts or to render assistance to the British navy. The most that could be expected of them would be to keep out of the way and preserve themselves from destruction. This is not in accordance with any plan suggested by the British admiralty. It is not what is needed nor what Canadians want. This country is more than willing, as the other parts of the Empire have shown themselves to be, to take upon itself the cost of providing assistance so long as that assistance will be of service to the Empire and thus to ourselves, but a large expenditure which will not be of use, to anyone will not be approved by the people.

THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY

The Government has evidently committed itself to an extra expenditure of between twenty-five and fifty millions of dollars on a railway to connect the roads in the western provinces with Hudson Bay. There are two other routes suggested, one to Churchill and one to Nelson, starting from Le Pas, in the unallotted territory north of Manitoba, a point where the Canadian Northern proposes to cross the North Saskatchewan, and that is because of geographical conditions, apparently the most advantageous for the purpose. The amount is not large, considering what the country undertook to provide in connection with the National Transcontinental. The ground of criticism is that, judging from all that has been said about the project by those whose duty has been to study it, it is likely to be less profitable even than the greater project. On the map the scheme looks most enticing. A port at Churchill or Nelson, or even farther south, would put Winnipeg as near the sea as is Windsor, and would not only serve the greater part of the Canadian West, but would draw traffic from all of the Northwestern States lying beyond Minnesota. A port that cannot do business, or which must be closed to business for two-thirds or three-quarters of a year, is, however, not likely to be much benefit to anybody. Several expeditions to study the conditions of the Hudson Bay route have been sent out by the Canadian Government. The reports have been all of one tenor. In 1884 and in 1885 Commander Gordon spent a year with the steamship Neptune exploring the Bay and the strait that leads into it from the Atlantic. His judgment was that the straits were passable only during the months of July, August, September and October. He thought that in July there would be delays, but that with specially built or strengthened vessels there would be no danger. In 1897 Commander Wakeham in the steamship Diana made further observations and concluded that for commercial purposes by suitable vessels the strait would be open from July 1 to July 10. Commander Wakeham fixed Oct. 20 as the extreme limit for safe navigation in the fall. Mr. A. P. Low, of the Geological Survey, made another cruise in the Neptune in 1904-5. His was, in its way, the most interesting of the reports on the region. His conclusion was that the safe navigation for ordinary iron steamships through Hudson Strait and across Hudson Bay may be taken to extend from July 20th to November 1. He thought also that the period might be increased without much risk by a week at the beginning and by perhaps two weeks at the close. This was on the whole the most favorable of the reports by men specially designated for the work of exploration by the Canadian Government. Captain Bernier, who was latest in the North, does not think it would be safe for a ship to be caught in the northern part of the strait later than October 15th, which would mean that nothing shipped by rail for a bay port after October 1st would be able to count on reaching the other side of the Atlantic in the season of its growth. This view is taken by Mr. M. J. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, who, under date of October 30th last, reported that he found considerable difficulty in deciding upon what basis to provide accommodation for a railway that "in the nature of things, cannot be operated to its capacity for more than two months in a year—to a lessened extent for a possible three months and for the remainder of the year still less." It is notable, also, that the Canadian Pacific Railway people, who have had occasion to study the needs of the west, whose means of acquiring information are as good as exist and whose power of raising capital for extension works is unexcelled, have never given signs of a desire to take this route into serious consideration. They probably agree with Mr. Butler that a road which can only be operated to its full capacity for two months in a year offers problems not promising of profitable solution. The experience of Canada shows, however, that there may be considerable political profit in [illegible] price. The Hudson Bay railway scheme, according to those who have given most study to the conditions that effect it, is an uncommercial enterprise. It is taken up by the Government in the hope that it may yield some political profit.—Montreal Witness.

THE FAIRBANKS INCIDENT

"What the Pope means by the requirement that whoever shall see him must not act in any manner other than that of a Catholic minister in Rome, it is hard to fathom. Or, supposing the word 'minister' to be a misprint, which it would appear to be, we are equally at loss. Why should he receive Protestants at all if he does not like them? Popes receive all sorts of sinners, we well know, and he has high example for that. What better would it make heretics to require them to wear a Catholic mark while in Rome? It would only make hypocrites of them. At all events, we see small ground for the eulogiums passed upon Mr. Fairbanks for simply preserving his manhood, and that at small sacrifice. Those who have been cabling to Europe to think unduly of an audience with the Pope, which is a compliment paid to the Pope rather than to his visitor. Possibly, in view of the fact that Mr. Fairbanks is, or has been, a United States politician, there is some distinguishing virtue in his being also a man and a Protestant. Archbishop Ireland, who used to be sensible, does not mend the matter by denouncing the Methodist Church in Rome. That is an entirely separate question. The Pope's explanation would apply equally against any Protestant Church. As for the accusations that the Methodists take advantage of the poor, on that a great deal could be said. Why are Roman Catholic countries usually poor? What is the only institution that flourishes, and who is it that gets in from the widow's portion? The evidence offered by the founder of the Church of the truth of his mission, was that to the poor the good news was preached. There is no doubt that away back in the seventies the United States Methodists made great, and perhaps unwise, boast of having set up a Sunday school under the very shadow of the Vatican. The force of the boast, of course, lay in the fact that previous to the occupation of Rome by the King of Italy, in 1870, a man dared no so much as carry a Bible into that city, and foreign Protestants had to worship without the gate. Built herein was the special offending of the Methodists. It was no doubt a very grievous thing to Pius Ninth, and it would seem to have rankled since."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Beware of the bamboozle.

La Presse demands that an appeal be made to the people re navy.

La Patrie recognizes apparently the necessity of consenting to the majority on the navy question.

The Belleville City Council proposes to increase the market fees in that city. It is urged that the price of the produce on the market has advanced and that the fees should be increased.

A member of the Toronto Board of Education in opposing increases to female teachers said, "Let these women get married and get someone to support them." Was not this ungallant in more ways than one? The insinuation that they cannot get married may not be correct, and when married do not women do their share of the work?

Senator Brackett has introduced a bill into the New York Legislature to provide for a vote by the women as to whether they want votes. This does not please the Suffragists. One of the leaders, Mrs. Catt, seems inclined to spit at the proposal, and declares that Senator Brackett wants to put the question on the shelf.

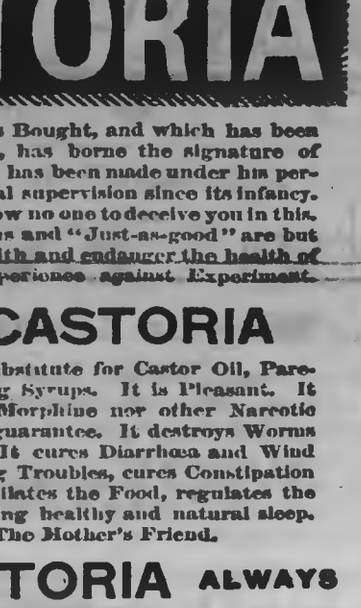
The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON



Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

He was standing as straight as a corporal and his eyes were glistening with the fire of battle when Selim came up and forgot to salute, so great was his wonder at the transformation. "Get word to the men that I want every mother's son of 'em to attend a meeting in the market place tonight at 9 Very important, tell 'em. Tell Von Blitz that he's got to be there. I'm going to show him and my picturesque friend, Rasula, that I am here to stay. And, Selim, tell that messenger to wait. There's an answer."

Long before 9 o'clock the men of Japat began to gather in the market and trading place Hollingsworth Chase, attended by Selim, came down from his mountain retreat. He heard the sibilant hiss of the scorned Persians as he passed among them on the outskirts of the crowd. He observed the threatening attitude of the men who waited and watched. He saw the white, ugly face of Von Blitz quivering with triumph. He felt the breath of disaster upon his cheek. And yet he walked among them without fear, his head erect, his eyes defiant.

The market place was a large open tract in the extreme west end of the town, some distance removed from the business street and the pier. Through a break in the foothills the chateau was plainly discernible, the sea being obscured from view by the dense forest that crowned the cliffs.

Chase made his way boldly to the nearest platform, exchanging bows with the surprised Von Blitz and the saturnine Rasula, who stood quite near. The men of Japat slowly drew close in as he mounted the platform. From where he stood looking out over those bronze faces he could pick out the scowling husbands who hated him because their wives hated them. Afar off stood the group of women who had inspired this hatred and distrust. Behind them, despised and uncountenanced by the oriental elect, were crowded the native women, who down in their hearts loathed the usurpers. It was Chase's hope that the husbands of these simple women would ultimately stand at his side in the fight for supremacy, and they were vastly in the majority. If he could convince these men that his dealings with them were honest, Von Blitz could go hang.

He faced the crowd, knowing that all there were against him. "Von Blitz!" he called suddenly. The German started and stepped back involuntarily, as if he had been reprimanded.

"I've called this meeting in order to give you a chance to say to my face some of the things you are saying behind my back. Thank God, all of you men understand English. I want you to hear what Von Blitz has to say in public, and then I want you to hear what I may to him. Von Blitz and Rasula and others, I hear, have undertaken to discredit my motives as the agent of your London advisers. Let me say right here that the man who says that I have played you false in the slightest degree is a liar—a —— liar, if you prefer it that way. You have been told that I am selling you out to the lawyers for the opposition. That is lie No. 1. You have been led to believe that I make false reports to your London solicitors. Lie No. 2. You have been poisoned with the story that I covet certain women in this town, too numerous to mention, I believe. That is lie No. 3. They are all beautiful, my friends, but I wouldn't have one of 'em as a gift.

"For the past few nights my home has been watched. I want to announce to you that if I see anybody hanging around the bungalow after today I'm going to put a bullet through him, just as I would through a dog. Now, to come down to Von Blitz. You can't drive me out of this island, old man. You have lied about me ever since I beat you up that night. You are sacrificing the best interests of these people in order to gratify a personal spite, in order to wreak a personal vengeance. You"—

Von Blitz, foaming with rage, broke in: "I suppose you vill call out der warships! We are not fools! You can foot some of"—

"Now, see here, Von Blitz, I'll show whether I can call out a warship whenever I need one. I have never intended to ask naval help except in case of an attack by our enemies up at the chateau. You can't believe that I seek to turn those big guns against my own clients—the clients I came out here to serve with my life's blood if necessary. But, hear me, you Dutch lobster, I can have a British man-of-war here in ten hours to take you off this island and hang you from a yardarm on the charge of conspiracy against the crown."

Von Blitz and Rasula laughed scornfully and turned to the crowd. The latter began to harangue his fellows.

"This man is a—n—" he began.

"A bluff!" prompted Von Blitz, glaring at his tall accuser.

"A bluff," went on Rasula. "He can do none of these things. Nor can the Americans at the chateau. I know that they are liars. They"—

"I'll make you pay for that, Rasula. Your time is short. Men of Japat, I don't want to serve you unless you trust me"—

A dozen voices cried: "We don't trust you, dog of a Christian, son of a snake!" Von Blitz glowed with satisfaction.

"One moment, please. Rasula knows that I came out here to represent Sir John Brodney. He knows how I am regarded in London. He is jealous because I have not listened to his chatter. I am not responsible for the probable delay in settling the estate. If you are not very careful you will ruin every hope for success that you may have had in the beginning. The crown will take it out of your hands. You've got to show yourselves worthy of handling the affairs of this company. You can't do it if you listen to such carrion as Von Blitz and Rasula. Oh, I'm not afraid of you! I know that you have written to Sir John, Rasula, asking that I be recalled. He won't recall me, rest assured, unless he throws up the case. I have his own letters to prove that he is satisfied with my work out here. I am satisfied that there are enough fair minded men in this crowd to protect me. They will stand by me in the end. I call upon"—

But a howl of dissent from the throng brought him up sharply. His face went white, and for a moment he feared the malevolence that stared at him from all sides. He looked frequently in the direction of the distant chateau. Knives slipped from many sashes. Von Blitz was screaming with insane laughter, pointing his finger at the discredited American. While they shouted and cursed, his gaze never left the cleft in the hills. He did not attempt to cry them down. The effort would have been in vain. Suddenly a wild, happy light came into his anxious, searching eyes. He gave a mighty shout and raised his hands, commanding silence.

There was something in the face and voice of the American that quelled the riotous disorder.

"You fools!" he shouted. "Take warning! I have told you that I would not turn the guns of England and America against you unless you turned against me. I am your friend, but by the great Mohammed you'll pay for my life with every one of your own if you resort to violence. Listen! Today I learned that my life was threatened. I sent a message in the air to the nearest battleship. There is not an hour in the day or night that I or the people in the chateau cannot call upon our governments for help. My call today has been answered, as I knew it would be. There is always a warship near at hand, my friends. It is for you to say whether a storm of shot and shell"—

Von Blitz leaped upon a platform and shouted madly: "Fools! Don't believe him! He cannot bring der ships here! He lies, he lies! He"—

At that moment a shrill clamor of voices arose in the distance, the cries of women and children. Chase's heart gave a great bound of joy. He knew what it meant.

Chase pointed his finger at Von Blitz and shouted:

"I can't, eh? There's a British warship standing off the harbor now, and her guns are trained"—

But he did not complete the astounding, stupefying sentence. The women were screaming:

"The warship, the warship! Fly, fly!"

In a second the entire assemblage was racing furiously, doubtingly, yet fearfully, toward the pier. Von Blitz and Rasula shouted in vain. They were left with Chase, who smiled triumphantly upon their ghastly faces.

"Gentlemen, they are not deceived. There is a warship out there. You came near to showing your hand tonight. Now come along with me, and I'll show my hand to you. Rasula, you'd better draw in your claws. You're entitled to some consideration. But Von Blitz! Jacob, you are standing on very thin ice. I can have you shot tomorrow morning."

Von Blitz sputtered and snarled. "It is all a lie! It is a trick!" He would have drawn his revolver had not Rasula grasped his arm. The native lawyer dragged him off toward the pier, half doubting his own senses.

Just outside the harbor, plainly distinguishable in the moonlight, lay a great cruiser, her searchlights whipping the sky and sea with long white lashes.

The gaping, awestruck crowd in the street parted to let Chase pass through on his way to the bungalow. His manner was that of a mediæval conqueror. He looked neither to right nor to left.

"It's more like a Christian Endeavor meeting than it was ten minute ago," he was saying to himself, all the time wondering when some reckless marksman would hurl a knife at his back. He gravely winked his eye in the direction of the chateau. "Good old Britt!" he muttered in his exultation.

Miss Eleanor Alexander, His Fiancee, Reveals Romance of Former President's Son

New York, Feb. 14.—Miss Eleanor Alexander, whose engagement to twenty-two-year-old Theodore Roosevelt, jr., was announced last night in her home, No. 42 West Forty-seventh street, was quoted in an interview to-day as having told how she first met the former President's son and how she came to care for him.

Her aunt, Mrs. Elisha Fulton, helped the pretty young woman through the ordeal of the first interview that she had ever given to the press. But young Roosevelt's fiancee needed little coaching, for she proved a very self-possessed if a very charming girl.

"Why do you love Mr. Roosevelt," asked the interviewer by way of a beginning.

THINKS TEDDY, JR. IS BRILLIANT

The girl halted a moment, her cheeks reddening. Then she said:

"Well—well—I guess, maybe—I think—it's because he's so brilliant! He has such a great future, I'm sure!"

"How long have you known Mr. Roosevelt?"

"Only two years," was the answer. "I met him first at a house party at the home of Mrs. Arthur Dodge in Simsbury, Conn. Then I didn't see him again for quite some time—until we renewed our acquaintance at the inauguration ball of Mr. Taft in Washington."

"But you have seen him often since?"

Mrs. Fulton decided to answer this herself.

"Almost every week," she said. "At least ever since he has been working in Hartford, for he had nearly always come down over Sunday, so that he could see Eleanor."

BOTH LOVE MUSIC.

"Is there anything special which you think may have drawn you and Mr. Roosevelt together, Miss Alexander?"

"Music. You know, he is very fond of it—and so am I. We talked of it a great deal at first, and I played for him"——

"Eleanor, you know," again volunteered the aunt, "is one of the first violins in the Symphony Club, of which David Mannes is the director and Miss Callender the president.

"Where did you study music? And where were you educated?"

"I received my early education in Paris, then came to this country and finished it at Miss Spence's school, where I was for six years"——

"And finished with honors," added Mrs. Fulton.

WANTS ROOSEVELT TO LIKE HER.

"You know your future father-in-law, well, of course!"

"Not very well," said Miss Alexander. "But I want to know him better—and I want him to like me. Ethel has been one of my most intimate friends for a long time, and I am very very fond of her mother, whom I came to know quite well when I was their guest at Oyster Bay in November after their return from Europe. I hope to be among those present when Col. Roosevelt returns home next summer. I intend going 'way down the bay to meet him."

Mrs. Fulton supplied some of the first details that have been thought out for the wedding.

"Miss Ethel Roosevelt will be one of the bridesmaids," said the aunt, "and the maid of honor will be Miss Elizabeth Bertron, Eleanor's most intimate friend, who is engaged to Mr. Fahnestock."

SURPRISE TO FRIENDS.

Even some of the close friends of the couple were surprised at the announcement of the engagement, which was made last night by Mrs. Henry Addison Alexander, the mother of the young woman.

Young Mr. Roosevelt, who was at Mrs. Alexander's house in the evening, said the announcement was made at the time owing to the desire of his family to have it known before his mother sails for Europe in a few days. It will be an elaborate wedding, and will be deferred until the arrival of Col. Roosevelt from Africa next June.

Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter, Miss Ethel, with a few intimate friends of both families, dined at Mrs. Alexander's home last night, and this was made the occasion for announcing the betrothal. Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel returned to Oyster Bay after dinner, but young Mr. Roosevelt and his fiancee and some of the guests attended a theatre.

Col. Roosevelt, according to young Theodore did not know of the engagement or that there was to be one, but a cable sent to him by his son last night is expected to bring the paternal blessing.

THE NEW DODGE

La Patrie is working hard to save Sir Wilfrid. There has evidently been a secret calling together of the French at Ottawa and the French in Quebec. The old game of bamboozle is about to be played once more. La Patrie was one of the influential journals which in season and out of season has fought imperialism and the idea of a united empire without cessation. The storm which has however been raised west of Quebec has shown to the French the necessity of falling back upon their first line fo defence again, viz., diplomacy. It is pretending to demonstrate to its readers that imperialism is not so awful a thing as supposed, but it shows more clearly than ever before why it fought the empire, when it makes of such sentiments of these: "Is the imperialistic doctrine in itself so damnable?" "Is the phantom so terrifying?" What more need be said as to French loyalty to the empire.

After Sir Wilfrid's famous bamboozle on the western schools question, comes his bluff with regard to the navy. The end in the second case will be just as the end in the first case. Sir Wilfrid and his compatriots will once more gain a signal victory, politically and otherwise.

CONDITION IMPROVING

Patients Brought From Hastings, Thursday Night are Doing Nicely

The condition of Mrs. Sidney Sharpe and her three daughters, who were brought up from Hastings, on Thursday night, suffering with typhoid fever, last night showed a tendency towards improvement. One of the daughters also had a touch of pneumonia, on entering Nicholls Hospital. The Review called upon Dr. Leach this morning and he gave the above information.

VALENTINE NIGHT, AT MARK ST.

The Ladies' Aid of the Mark street Methodist church held a very successful Valentine social last night. There was a large attendance and the evening proved a most entertaining one, thanks in a large extent to splendid talent which contributed to the programme, instrumental selections being provided by Miss Sisson, Miss Stark, and vocal selections by Mr. Barclay. Splendid selections were given on the phonograph supplied by Mr. J. H. Callendar.

The juveniles had a happy time in comparing their valentines. Refreshments were served during the evening.

MAGNIFICANT RECEPTION

Of "Man From Home" in Canada is Reason for This Extraordinary Play's Return—Seat Sale Commencs at Grand To-morrow

The extraordinary reception accorded "The Man From Home" at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, last September, is the reason of its returning eastward from its California tour through Canadian territory. Less than half a dozen cities will be played between the Pacific Coast and Ottawa, of which Winnipeg is one, and Peterborough another.

"The Man From Home" is under the direction of Liebler & Co., who have so brilliantly conducted tours of Miss Eleanor Robson, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Miss Ellis Jeffries, Albert Chevalier, Miss Viola Allen, Wm. Faversham, Dustin Farnum and other distinguished stars, the telling of which would require Sunday newspaper space.

"The Man From Home" is the particular joy and pride of the firm. Its three years' run in New York and Chicago has no parallel in stage history. The United States has gone wild over this play by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, authors as well as dramatists, and the Toronto papers summarized it as follows:—

The Globe—House had standing room only. A clever, bright and altogether entertaining comedy. Company an admirable one. Piece beautifully mounted. Its many merits should insure crowded houses for the week.

The Mail and Empire—Seldom, indeed, has a play got such a half-Nelson on the attention of an entire audience and kept it all evening. Imagine a house so crowded and carried away that half a hundred people stood up during the two and one-half hours' length of the play. In the title-roll Henry Hall was really splendid. By all means if you enjoy bright lines, taut situations and romance, order your seats early (at the Royal Alexandra Theatre. If not, you lose out.

The World—From the Royal Alexandra last night were turned away over a thousand people who wanted to see Liebler & Co's production of "The Man From Home." The play possesses strong situations, epigramatic dialogue, and sustains continuous interest and hilarity. The staging was all that could be desired.

The News—"The Man From Home" is an entertaining and novel treatment of a very fascinating subject. Company scored brilliantly.

The Daily Star—Gales of laughter swept over the house. Piece handsomely staged and scenery beautiful. Henry Hall in the title-role and his associates, one and all, command especial notice. Hundreds were turned away.

And this is the play, the production and the same cast in its entirety which is announced to appear here.

VALENTINE SOCIAL AT ST. ANDREW'S WAS ENJOYABLE EVENT

The Valentine Social at St. Andrew's last night was a most successful affair. A large number took advantage of the occasion to spend a very delightful evening.

The Young Ladies' Mission Band, under whose auspices the event took place, had put forth every effort to make everybody happy. The school hall was very prettily decorated with strings of hearts and arrows, while the tea room was most attractively arranged. The young ladies in charge were dressed in white with decorations of hearts and sashes of red. Some twenty little tots from the kindergarten were dressed in a very cute manner and furnished with bows and arrows presented quite an array of cupids.

The greater part of the evening was occupied in working out devices arranged by the committee, which led to a social intercourse and acquaintance that required no other program. Mrs. P. A. Kerr and Miss E. Tully gave a number of instrumental duetts. Miss Bessie Reid contributed a vocal selection, and Miss Laura Logan a violin number, which were highly appreciated. Mr. D. Galletly, of Banff Springs delighted the company with his Scotch selections, "The Highland Chief" and "The Laird o' Cockpen."

Refreshments were served in the Guild room, while a candy booth, very tastefully decorated, and managed by charming vendors, supplied the tastes of those present.

The members of the Mission Band were highly pleased with the success of the enterprise and seemed to appreciate the way in which their many friends had turned out.

KNOX CHURCH YOUNG PEOPLE

Two Interesting Papers Read at Regular Meeting—Will go to Lakefield Next Monday Evening

At the regular meeting of Knox church Young People's Guild, last evening, Miss Warren presided and Miss Williamson read a paper on the conference recently held in Lindsay. Our responsibility in regard to missions was touched on by the speaker. Fifty years ago Japan had her doors closed against the missionary, but now they are all wide open. China with its wealth and thrifty people also affords an opportunity for extensive work.

Mr. Andrew Robertson also gave a paper on Oxford College in Formosa. It has fifty students and is furnished with a library, museum, etc. It was built in 1880 by the workers in Ontario, who raised the sum of $6,215.00, and the college is the admiration of the Chinese. The studies and subjects taken up are small in cost when compared with the training here. Miss Warren referred to the work of the students in obtaining scriptural knowledge.

Next Monday the members of the Guild meet at the church at 6.30, to leave in 'buses for a drive to Lakefield. A programme will be provided and refreshments served by the young people of the church in Lakefield. Tickets for gentleman are 50 cents and for ladies 25 cents.

WHAT SURVEY OF THE SCUGOG HAS REVEALED

Many boating enthusiasts who imagined they were owners of exceedingly fast launches will receive a jolt when they know some of the real distances on the Scugog river.

People used to say that it was twelve miles to Sturgeon Point from Lindsay, but that was before motor boats became so numerous. However, after these little crafts began running up and down the owners began to see that there was something wrong—the boats certainly were not flying machines, so the distance must be something less than the time honored dozen miles.

According to the government survey which is being made upon the ice, keeping as nearly as possible to the centre of the channel, the distance from the Wellington-st. bridge at Lindsay to the last light house, at the cut, that is the lighthouse which stands at the entrance to the lake, is 361 chains, or 6.83 miles.

The distance across the lake from the lake lighthouse to the foot of the big pine tree standing on the upper dock at Sturgeon Point is 2.17. Thus the whole distance from the Wellington-st. bridge to the upper dock at Sturgeon Point is exactly nine miles.

The Lindsay fleet, steamboats and all, will have to get a move on if they want to be considered at all speedy, although in most trials of speed they have held their own with the majority of crafts on the Kawartha Lakes.

At one time it likely was twelve miles to the Point, but that was before the long cut and the new cut at the lake were dredged out. In the old days a boat had to follow the windings of the river away off west at the spot where the long cut now commences. It circled north of Goose Lake, came within a short distance of Drummond's bay, wound off to the west again, and finally came out near the lighthouses at the lake. Later a cut was put into the bay which allowed boats to take the straight channel near the shore from Brien's to the lake.

Still later the long cut was built. Originally, it is said, it was built one of two scow breadths in width, but the current passing through has gradually carried the silt out into the bay so that the cut is now as wide as any other part of the river. —Lindsay Post.

About twenty others also contributed valentines, which were practical, humorous and otherwise. Mr. Green's took the highest number of votes and it read as follows; —but that's a question.

Leave The Sand On The Streets

Last night and this morning the City Engineer's department had men at work putting sand on the walks on the business streets of the city, which are very slippery. In many cases, however, employees of stores came out with their brooms and swept the sand off. This happened at many places and as a result the good work being done by the sand sprinklers was counteracted. The city is putting the sand on the streets to make them safe for pedestrians and merchants and others should see that it is left where it is sprinkled.

Through the British Isles

The above was the subject of a most interesting paper, written by Miss Ethel Hayes, and read at the meeting of the Ladies' Literary of St. Peter's T.A.S., on Friday night, 1st, February 11. Miss Hayes is to be congratulated on her choice of such an interesting subject, no less than on the able manner in which she dealt with it. The essay in part was as follows:

The feelings of man to-day are exultant at the thought of what is commonly called "a trip to the Old Country." The feeling of pleasure or amusement should not, however, reign supreme when starting on such a journey. We should have before us the more lasting effects to be derived from an educational standpoint, and then our trip will become an asset almost infinitely valuable.

The 4.30 a.m. gong sounded its awakening notes as indifferently as if it were noon, but having retired at a late hour the time seemed decidedly different to us. We had concluded arrangements the night before so, after hurriedly partaking of a slight lunch, our appetites having been satisfied with the excitement, we reached the depot just in time to have our baggage checked. The train rattled along at a tremendous speed, but even this failed to satisfy a crowd so eager to embark on the palatial steamer "Lusitania," of the Cunard Line, bound for Liverpool.

The ocean trip was uneventful. Before reaching Gravesend the activity of the shipping impressed us with a conviction that we were approaching the greatest commercial market of the world. Steamers, pouring out clouds of smoke, are crossing in what seems a maze; sailing vessels are passing upward, and other vessels with sails furled are being towed down the river. On our left is the Medway, and to the right the Thames harbor. Entering this great marine gateway, London shows up at a glance that it is the great heart of human activity. After giving up our keys to the customs house officer, who is satisfied with a pretence of search, we left the steamer and studied, as we drove along, the scenes of low London life, not the illustrations of Cruikshank, but the actual characters portrayed by Boz. We went on through the city, turned up Bishop's Gate street, St. Paul's Cathedral, through crowded Cheapside and Charing Cross, until we stopped at Fenton's Hotel. Who would have expected to see all London before reaching his lodgings!

The first place we visited was the noted Westminster Abbey. It was sweetly solemn to feel its venerable quietude, its long-enduring peace, and yet to observe how kindly and cheerfully it receives the sunshine of today. Our visit to St. Paul's Cathedral was a rare treat. What a noble monument to the lofty minds of our Catholic ancestors; what they thought of and accomplished in their endeavor to build a dwelling worthy of the Lord of Hosts.

One bright afternoon we drove to one of England's love lest ruined castles, Kenilworth. The radiance of the sunlight lit the ruined towers and walls till they glowed like chalets of Jasper. The castle is built of red sandstone, and in its prime enclosed a space of seven acres, while nearly half a million was spent in decoration. Even now, though utterly dismantled, it is still beautiful, while the historic memories attaching to it make it appeal more powerfully to the mind than any other ruined castle in England.

Our next visits were paid to those far-famed seats of learning, namely, Oxford and Cambridge, where the leading politicians, nay, the very makers of Empire, and dozens of literary stars received their education.

Our stay in England was rather short, so anxious were we to get a glimpse of the bens and lochs of Scotland. In Scotland heroism and romance go hand in hand. Its heroism is like a medieval castle built haughtily defiant of the wintry storms. Its romance is the ivy which covers the historic ruin with a mantle of protection, caresses it with countless clinging fingers and tenderly conceals the ravages of time and man.

We entered Scotland by the delightful Clyde River route. The shipyards of the Clyde! What a view they present. The river for miles is lined with half-built steamers. Who would suppose, in looking at their uncouth forms, that they could ever be developed into the marvellous specimens of strength and beauty which are subsequently seen riding the waves and bearing thousands from one land to another.

The little town of Ayr abounds in quaint reminders of the poet who has given it such fame. The old bridge of Ayr is little changed since the time of Burns, and casts its shadows on the stream below, just as it did when the inspired ploughman used to lean upon its time-worn parapet. Now, however, a new bridge has been erected a little further down the stream. From the haunts of Burns, a journey of a few hours brought us to the very heart of Scotland, the country of the Trossachs. The special charm of this enchanted land is not alone its mountainous scenery. Its greatest fascination lies in the fact that Walter Scott has made it immortal by his writings. Leaving here, we passed on to Edinburgh, the Athens of the North. The monument which this city has erected to Scott is probably the greatest and noblest tribute to purely literary genius that the world possesses. A few hours' journey brought us to Melrose Abbey. There are few traces of its elegance of architecture left. The windows are bare and desolate, and few parts of the ornamentation exist. The beautifully carved roof has also disappeared as well as the many statues that once adorned the walls. In one part of the Abbey lie buried the remains of Robert Bruce, one of Scotland's greatest and grandest heroes.

A drive of three miles distance through a pretty undulating country brought us to Abbotsford, the home of Scott. It is delightfully situated just above the Tweed. In the long library of Abbotsford the bust of Sir Walter looked upon us from the dark background of his favorite books.

Our destination now was dear old Ireland. When we looked around that exquisitely beautiful and naturally fertile land, capable under cultivation of supporting twenty millions of people and thought of the industries which might be profitably managed and the many other sources of prosperity and happiness, we wondered what was the cause of the poverty, starvation, cruelty and massacre which have for centuries stained the annals of this lovely section of the earth's surface. Ireland is beautiful in her sadness.

Dublin is often spoken of by Englishmen as being ugly and dirty, but we did not find it more lacking in beauty and cleanliness than the world-metropolis three hundred and thirty-five miles away. In the matter of street railway service Dublin is greatly in advance of London; an admirable system of large, comfortable electric cars connect all parts of the city with the suburbs. Dublin also boasts of a number of handsome edifices, chief among these being the Bank of Ireland, in front of which stands a statue of Henry Grattan.

The monument of Daniel O'Connell in Sackville street, is a fine thing. In the most prominent street in Dublin, among the people whom he loved and sought to elevate stands the white marble figure of Father Matthew, the Apostle of Temperance. St. Patrick's cathedral is not only attractive in point of architecture but as the burial place of many persons intimately associated with the development of Ireland.

Old Trinity College, Dublin, is famous for the illustrious men who have been educated there and for the literary treasures it possesses. It is an imposing structure three hundred feet long and ornamented with Corinthian columns. The form of Goldsmith stands at the gate. The pose is natural and well expresses the character usually ascribed to Goldsmith.

On one of the mounds that crown the Hill of Tara stands a statue of St. Patrick, which, although of little value as a work of art recalls the memorable episode of St. Patrick expounding the Christian faith before the Irish sovereigns, their attendants and the Druid priests.

One of our excursions brought us to the country Wicklow. A view from any of its elevations reveals luxuriant vegetation of great variety. We noticed that many localities had Satanic titles, such as the Devil's Glen, the Devil's Bridge and so on, and we remarked to an Irish peasant that Satan seemed to have a number of possessions there to which he replied, "Yes, sir, but he's an absentee landlord and lives in England."

Sweet, almost beyond words were the hours we spent in floating on the Killarney Lakes. There is hardly in the whole unrivalled natural panorama a spot more beautiful than the "Meeting of the Waters." Old Weir Bridge is an antique structure of two arches through which rushes the river or channel that connects the Upper with the Middle and Lower Lakes of Killarney. This region has the lights and shadows of a world more than earthly. There is a loveliness about the Upper Lakes that no pen can describe, and our trip to Killarney formed a fitting and delightful close to our visit to beautiful Erin.

On our return journey our minds were, of course constantly going back to the scenes and spots we had visited, and looking into ourselves for the results of our trip we found that not only had we profited from a merely sight-seeing point of view, but that our minds had been broadened and our likings and tastes elevated. We had seen how our neighbors across the mighty Atlantic live, and had seen the various stages of culture from the lowest to the highest. In comparing our own people with those of the lands we had visited we were convinced that we had the material here to achieve that prosperity and culture with which we had been impressed in so many of the places we had visited.

BLAZE ON THE SECOND FLOOR

Of Foster's Temperance House—Two Bed Room Suites Destroyed

The fire department was given a run at ten o'clock this morning to Foster's Temperance House, opposite the C. P. R. station, to handle what had all the signs of being a bad fire. A blaze had started in the second floor presumably from matches. Three chemicals and a considerable amount of water were used, hose having been laid on the arrival of the brigade. Two bedroom suites were destroyed and the woodwork badly burnt in many places. A trunk belonging to a boarder was also partly destroyed. The damage is estimated at about $100.

THE COLOR OF YOUR HAIR

It Tells Your Character and Reveals All Your Secrets According to This Theory

Are you a blonde? Then you are mentally active, hopeful, optimistic and changeable. Are you a brunette? Then you are adhesive, serious and steadfast. If you are a brunette you are less apt to want a divorce. So says the Boston American.

If you are a brunette you are more apt to be a conspirator, a murderer or an incendiary; while if you are a blonde you belong to the gambling and inflicting type.

Just because you are a blonde does not mean that you are a simon-pure angel, and just because you are a brunette does not signify that you are surely a double-eyed villain, but just what go to make and just what your ideas do constitute an open book to Dr. Katherine M. Blackford, character specialist of the Sheldon School.

Doctor Blackford insists that the blonde are so quick in mind and action that it very often happens that they come along and walk off with some idea that the hard-working brunette has spent a lifetime of study on.

"It has long been observed," said Dr. Blackford, to the Sunday American, "that there are well defined differences of character between that of the blonde and those of the brunette type, but just what those differences are, and are more especially the cause of them, has been a matter of great speculation by all human nature students.

"In a recent lecture before a body of scientific men in New York, Major Chas. F. Woodruff, surgeon of the United States Army, said that the blonde is a degenerate and rapidly becoming extinct, and another writer whose name I do not just now recall, declares that the blonde is a special creature, but little over than the angels, and that all dark races are so colored by their sins. These, of course, are mere wild speculations due to the lack of understanding of the laws underlying temperament.

"Brunettes have a tendency to take life seriously. They are students, investigators, plodders, and it is to this type we owe almost all technical learning, patent research, and scientific discoveries.

"In their methods of work these two types also show great contrasts. The blonde will go rapidly from one line of work to another. He is of the creative type, and it not infrequently happens that he will have half a dozen business interests, and a portion of his time is given to each and every day, yet it does not disturb him in the least.

"The brunette prefers to specialize and concentrate his energies, and often becomes confused when obligated to consider a variety of associated interests.

"Blondes and brunettes manifest their differences of character in every department of life. Not long ago in looking over some prison statistics, I found that the majority of thieves, conspirators, murderers and incendiaries were brunettes, while gamblers and swindlers more often belonged to the blonde type. It is a matter of common observation that the larger percentage of those who belong to the progressive and broad religious organizations have bole eyes and fair skins, while the stricter religious sects have a predominance of the dark skin and eyes.

"The blonde is naturally active, hopeful and changeable. He does not like restraint of any kind, and especially does not shrink from physical and mental drudgery, so we more often find him in positions which don't require great application and strenuous effort.

"The brunette, on the other hand, is more adhesive, serious and steadfast in his disposition and can easily undergo severe strain and hardships. So it very often happens that we will spend a lifetime working out a mechanical invention, and about the time it is completed, along comes the keen and adaptable blonde, gobbles it up and gets the credit for it.

"People of the blonde type like the light, the movel, sociability and public work, and I do not believe I would be far wrong if I say that 90 per cent. of the people on the public platform and the stage are blondes. Most of the great musicians and actors are blondes.

"A blonde is much more changeable than the brunette, and perhaps this accounts largely for the number of divorces and re-marriages among the stage folk, inasmuch as the percentage of blondes is very high in this profession.

"The reason for the difference is easily understood. All great truths are simple, and one need only understand the law of vibration, which is operative throughout all nature and its application to human life in order to appreciate these differences.

"Business men I find, are very greatly assisted in the selection of their employees through a knowledge of the scientific principles underlying these two temperamental types, because the blonde is better adapted to some lines of work, while the brunette will succeed much better in other lines of activity.

"Generally speaking, the blonde is a distributor, and a business getter, while the brunette makes a better producer and business builder."

MEADOWS WON IN FAST TIME

Guelph Runner Was Never Headed in 15 Mile Marathon Race

New York, Feb. 14.—Fred. Meadows, the crack Canadian runner, won the 15-mile Marathon race in Madison Square Garden to-night, after a sterling exhibition of speed and stamina. He started off in front, and was never headed. Gaining a lap on Gustav Ljungstrom, of Sweden, the maintained this advantage to the end of the gruelling race. He excelled his own record for more than half the distance, but towards the end he slowed a trifle, and finished in 1.21.24 1-5.

Hjunstrom, who was second, not far away, was timed in 1.22.54 1-5. Percy Sellen of Toronto, who was third, a lap behind, ran the distance in 1.23.41 3-5.

Meadows was pronounced one of the best runners at the distance ever seen here, and he won so easily that the big crowd was easily satisfied that he was the best man.

In the preliminary five-mile handicap run, the scratch man, Jimmy Lee, formerly a Boston amateur, finished half a lap behind the winner. Al. Baines, of New York, who had a handicap of twenty seconds; Pat White, of Dublin, with the same handicap, finished third, and Bob Rallen, of New York, with 25 seconds handicap, fourth. The winner's time was 26.35 1-2.

HOCKEY

Belleville Intelligencer: As was expected by those who had studied the form of the two teams, Trenton beat Lindsay on the former's ice. A good deal of money changed hands on the result of the round, many people thinking that Lindsay's two-goal lead would see them safely through. But it didn't. The game was fast and strenuous, but was not the prettiest match ever seen, the checking, in the early stages being too close for spectacular work. As was expected, Trenton won the match on their superior condition. The first half was fairly even, the half-time score being 2—1 in Trenton's favor. But when they went to their dressing rooms the Lindsay players were puffing, while the Trenton lads were as fresh as daisies. It was all off with Lindsay in the second half, and the Trenton bunch, tireless and working like beavers, had all the best of the play. They ran in four tallies while all Lindsay could get was one. Trentonians went wild over the success of their team.

The Strathconas held a practice last evening and not a few railbirds were on hand to size the players up.

The Midgets will meet St. John's team of Lakefield at Brock street rink between seven and eight to-night.

There promises to be a record crowd to witness the final struggle in the city league to-morrow night. On the street each team appears to have a goodly number of supporters.

Harold Deeton, the brilliant center man of the Edmonton hockey team, whose work in the recent Stanley cup series was of the No. 1 hard, may come East and finish out the season with Ottawa. Following the match Saturday there was an emergency meeting of the Ottawas at the Russell house, the question of immediately getting a man to fill Stuart's shoes being taken up. Deeton was suggested and the Ottawa club is understood to be in communication with him. He may leave Edmonton to-day and be here in time to line up against the Wanderers next Saturday. — Ottawa Citizen.

The Canoe Builders did not turn up for their game with the C. G. E. last night, and as the Electric team get the game by default, they are now on even terms with the Auburns for the championship of the Mercantile League. Arrangements have been completed whereby the final game will be pulled off to-morrow night immediately after the West End-Strathcona game. Both teams are strong in all departments of the game and a fast and interesting contest should result.

The management of the West End City League team have decided to take charge of the Midgets, and that team will, in the future, play under the name of the Junior West Ends.

Cobourg came out ahead in the 8—7 score at Trenton last night.

Brantford defeated Berlin in Brantford by 8—5.

NERVOUSNESS IN THE RING

By Jim Corbett.

I have frequently been asked what effect the nervous strain in training for a great battle contest and also while in the ring has upon the physical system.

Nearly everything, of course, depends upon the temperament of the fighter. Experience is a big factor in favor of the contestant, both in and out of the ring, while the natural zest one can put into his training, together with ambition, is a good point. The nervous system has much to do with the stomach, and to enter the ring fit in every particular point means that one is fit to fight for his life.

Some fighters will lose much more weight than others, and among the lighter classes, particularly with the bantams and feathers, while ringside training to get within the limit is more marked. In the latter classes only the fighters themselves, can appreciate the value of the strength gained through being permitted to get a good square meal in the difference of time between being obliged to weigh in at 6 o'clock or 9 o'clock on the evening of the fight. The point is illustrative, however, of the care all must give to training.

LOSES 8 POUNDS IN 61 ROUNDS

In the long and fast fight of sixty-one rounds with Peter Jackson in 1891 I lost more than 8 pounds. Perspiration took away a lot of this weight, but it was one of my first hard fights and I was naturally a bit nervous, for Jackson, then as now, I regarded as one of the best heavyweights the world has ever seen. This fight, by the way, furnishes a contrast to that with Jeffries in San Jacinto, in which for ten rounds my seconds never lifted a finger or a towel and I left the ring with my body nearly as dry as when I entered it.

Confidence in one's own ability and in one seconds has much to do with success. I do not mean over-confidence in one's self or absolute dependence upon one's seconds to win a battle. Many battles have been lost by poor handling or worse advice in the ring and others won by good care of one's seconds, notably the Harry-Leon contest at Lemont, Ill., in 1894, in which Harry Gilmore played a star part, as many of my readers will remember. The principal in the ring must be the boss fo the job, but he must feel absolutely certain that the seconds can be relied upon to do the right thing at the right moment.

NERVOUSNESS BIG HANDICAP.

When you see a fighter furtively glancing from the corner of the ring like a cat in distress, ever apprehensive that a horseshoe is being surreptitiously inserted in the glove of his opponent or that the fellow over in the other corner "has something on him," and otherwise acting like a rat cornered by a bull terrier, that fellow is generally a bad betting proposition. He will lose weight every moment before he starts milling, and the intense nervous strain upon him is so sure to tell against him in the contest that has more experienced opponent purposely delays the battle to increase the other's discomfort.

In the coming contest between Jeffries and Johnson the colored man will certainly have to be a cold proposition to go up against Jeffries with any feeling of confidence in himself that an undefeated champion should have, but his natural modesty and retiring disposition hold this confidence well in bounds. He never frets, and above all is cool, calm and collected at all times. Like a great big bear, he is always aggressive, and a natural confidence in his own well-developed bigness makes him feel certain of the result.

INDOOR BASEBALL

In the garrison indoor baseball league games to-night No. 3 Company will meet the bugle band, and No. 1 Co. will play the 24th Battery, C.F.A. First game will commence at 7.30 o'clock sharp.

Band to night at Street Railway Rink.

GOLDWIN SMITH AND IMMORTALITY

Hamilton Pastor Censures Ancient Writer and Philosopher

A Hamilton despatch says: Although Dr. Goldwin Smith is lying critically ill at Toronto, Rev. E. B. Lanceley deemed it an opportune time to deliver a sermon in which he mildly attacked him for not using his great literary gifts in furthering the cause of the Christian religion. Mr. Lanceley made his complaints in a sermon he preached in the First Methodist church Sunday morning on immortality.

Mr. Lanceley took as his text: "The power of an endless life" (Hebrews, 7:16). He began by saying that a brilliant octogenarian in Toronto, Dr. Goldwin Smith, was standing before the vista of futurity, looking out into the dark. He then gave a short biographical sketch of the doctor, alluding to the fact that he had been one of the king's tutors, had occupied important positions in Oxford and Cornell universities and had also been a contributor to magazines for many years. All the time that he had been a prominent figure in educational and literary life, Mr. Lanceley asserted, Dr. Goldwin Smith, so far as he could recall, had never written one word in defence or commendation of the Christian religion. He (the speaker) would not pass judgment on him. It was, however, sad to see an old man of gentle manners, brilliant parts and commanding intellect, trying to persuade people that there was no absolute truth about the life hereafter and that there was, probably, no God. This man now stood gazing wistfully into the darkness, an infant crying in the night, with no other language but a cry. Not very long ago Dr. Goldwin Smith had written these words in regard to immortality: "I do not presume to broach a theory. My aim is only to keep in the right path, frankly to resign whatever has been disproved, to be cautious in accepting extreme expulsions of the newborn materialism, riding on the wings of a grand discovery, and to avoid the misleading fancies which swarm in the eclipse of religion, such as spiritualism, clairvoyance and telepathic revelations. Especially do I wish to elicit proof of the assumptions fatal to spiritualism and its hope that the grandparent as it is the beginning of one being must be the limit of its development and its end." When these words were written Rev. Dr. Macdonald, of the Globe, had pointed out that it was the aim of most to keep in the right path. But with so many paths leading to they know not where, how were they to know which was the right path if they were not guided by Christianity, Dr. Macdonald had asked.

Continuing, Mr. Lanceley remarked that it was apparent Dr. Goldwin Smith was not convinced himself that death was the end of all things, and that life went out like a consumed candle. There was something beckoning behind the veil. The unquestionable doubt of the theories of the old scholar was pathetic.

Mr. Lanceley when dealt with the subjects of life, death and immortality from his own point of view. He said that while they knew life and death to be equally unfathomable, yet they felt by instinct that man was immortal. It was Socrates who had said they could bury him if they could catch him, meaning that life did not go down to the tomb. Were there not signs of the promised land hereafter everywhere, in the same way as Columbus discovered the branches of trees and new birds as he approached the new continent for the first time? They had the firm belief in immortality of those who had died and of those who lived, and he quoted the inscriptions placed on tombs and the reliance mankind placed in God in times of trouble as proofs of this statement. This belief was firmly held by all nations, and was to be found embodied by all religions. "Dust thou art, to dust returnest, was not written of the soul." Mr. Lanceley said. In conclusion he recited Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar,"

HERE'S A NEW LAW TO SLICE THE SIZE OF WOMEN'S HATS

Member of Maryland Legislature Wants to Limit Diameter to 10 Inches

Baltimore, Feb. 12.—Merry widow, mushroom, toadstool, peach-basket, chevalier, sugar-loaf and Napoleonic hats for women are to be banned by law in this State if Delegate Walter W. Witting, of Frostburg, can bring it about.

He has a bill for introduction in the Legislature which provides it shall be unlawful for a woman to wear a hat in the street or other public place which is more than ten inches in diameter. There is further provision that no woman shall wear a hat of any description in any theatre or concert hall in the State, when a performance is in progress.

For violation of either feature of the bill a penalty of three months' imprisonment or $100 fine is provided.

Maryland women are indignant at the Frostburg statesman. They are organizing to fight him and his bill, and also to encompass his defeat at the next election.

"Ten inch hats! The very idea! Why, we wouldn't know we had anything on our heads. We'd look like freaks. If the women in Frostburg want to wear sun-bonnets and pillbox hats, let them do so, but don't let them permit a man like Mr. Witting to go to the Legislature and attempt to force Frostburg styles upon the rest of the State."

Goderich passed by-laws fixing assessments for the western Canada flour mills and the Goderich Elevator and Transit Co.

Manager Sun Life Assurance Co., of Canada,

Peterborough, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—About five years ago my late husband took out $1,000.00 insurance in The Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, on which he only paid the first three premiums. Shortly after his death, which occurred on the 6th inst., although I was under the impression that his policy had lapsed, I called at your office to inquire if anything could be done whereby we might get something out of it. You can imagine my surprise and genuine gratitude to learn that, owing to your non-forfeiture privilege, the policy was still in force at his death and that I was entitled to the full thousand dollars, less only the two unpaid premiums and interest.

This seems to me such extraordinary and generous treatment that I wish to add my expression of most sincere thanks and appreciation to the many others your company must receive.

I also wish to acknowledge and thank you for your courtesy and promptness in procuring for me a cheque to-day covering the policy, and to state that if my endorsation of the already mentioned feature of your policies is of value you are quite at liberty to use it.

Gratefully yours,

MARGARET LONG,

WOMAN'S CLIMB AFTER THIEF

Crawls on Hands and Knees Over Slippery Surface to Warn Neighbors

New York, Feb. 14.—Mrs. Annie Ewart, of No. 340 St. A street, Brooklyn, was one of the chief witnesses against an accused burglar in Adam street police court this morning, and told the court how she had seen the man sawing his way into a neighbor's house and effected his capture by climbing over a row of slanting roofs on her hands and knees and ringing the alarm so that the robber was within a few feet of her, but did not know of her presence.

Henry Mehrstadt, a grocer, of No. 336 State street, who lives on the floor above his store with his wife and children, told the court how he had caught the burglar in his place, how the two had fought until the grocer's strength was exhausted, and how he had fallen with the man's fingers clutched about his throat.

"I was getting ready to retire," Mrs. Ewart said to a reporter just before she went into court, "when I looked out the rear window of my home, which is on the first floor up. There is a high fence separating my home from No. 334 and a high fence between No. 334 and No. 336.

"I saw the figure of a man standing close to the door which opens under the roof leading from Mr. Mehrstadt's grocery. I could hear the grind of his saw, and it was plain to me that he was trying to break in.

"My first impulse was to scream, but I held myself and climbed out the window of my home to a slanting roof.

"The roof was so steep that I was afraid of falling to the ground, but I managed to hold by crawling on on my hands and knees. I got to the rear window of Mr. Mehrstadt's house. The burglar was only a few feet from me then, but was busy and did not look up. Mr. Mehrstadt saw me, and was about to cry out in alarm, but I held my fingers to my lips. He understood, and slowly raised the window without making a noise. Then I climbed in and told him a burglar was breaking into his store below."

Mehrstadt sent his boy to Police Headquarters nearby.

The burglar and the grocer closed in at once. For a time the battle was furious. They fought all over the store, overturning barrels and upsetting cases. Each had the other by the throat and each pummelled away with his free hand.

Detectives Callahan, Reis and Weymark came running from Headquarters, followed by the boy. George. They tried to get to the front door, but, failing, ran around to Hoyt street, and, after climbing several high fences, got into the rear of the grocery.

The burglar had Mr. Mehrstad down and was holding him fast when one of the detectives brought a club down on his head and he turned to fight the fresher man. He was quickly subdued and put in shackles. At Headquarters the man said he was David Anderson, twenty-nine years old, of No. 29 Fulton street, Brooklyn.

IF PEERS WERE POOR MANY COULD EARN LIVING

In spite of the dismal prognostications in which certain wealthy peers have been indulging as to the probable effect of the budget on their incomes, it is unlikely that many of them would be unable to make both ends meet by their own exertions even if they were reduced by a hard-hearted Chancellor of the Exchequer to the painful necessity of earning their own living.

Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, for instance, could easily obtain employment as a chauffeur or garage attendant were he to be deprived of his estates in Hampshire, while Lord de la Warr is another peer who is equally at home whether steering a 60 horse-power motor car or a dainty racing yacht.

Quite a number of peers could earn a very good living amongst those that go down to the sea in ships. Lord Brassey is a case in point. Not only is he one of the foremost authorities in the Upper House on maritime matters, but he also holds a master's certificate from the Board of Trade, and has sailed many thousand miles in his famous yacht the Sunbeam. Another peer who is quite at home on the briny is Lord Dunraven, whose name was one in everybody's mouth as that of a challenger for the America's cup.

Many members of the Upper House, were they to be suddenly deprived of their inherited incomes, would doubtless turn their attention to literature and journalism, among those who have earned distinction in these fields being the Duke of Argyll, Lord Rosebery, and Lord FitzMaurice. In addition to these aristocratic lights of the literary firmament, there are, of course, in the House of Lords many men who owe their position to their brilliant work as professional journalists and newspaper proprietors. Most prominent among these, perhaps, are Lord Northcliffe, founder of the halfpenny press, which has done so much to revolutionize newspaper methods, and Lord Burnham, an ex-proprietor of The Daily Telegraph. In this connection it is interesting to note that the late Marquess of Salisbury in his younger days used to eke out his not over lavish allowance as a younger son by brilliant contributions to The Saturday Review.

Except as directors and "guinea pigs," few members of the Upper House would be able to make much of a living at commercial or financial pursuits, but there are some conspicuous exceptions, notably Lord Avebury and Lord Rothschild, while the Marquess of Londonderry, an ex-Postmaster-General, has had considerable practical experience as a colliery proprietor.

Sporting peers whose ancestral hen roosts had been robbed would doubtless seek posts in connection with their favorite sports and this market would probably be overcrowded, for there are a large number of occupants of the gilded chamber who would be eminently qualified to act as trainers, huntsmen, or gamekeepers.

Among prominent peers whose knowledge of racing matters might procure them profitable employment might be mentioned Lord Durham and the Duke of Portland, while several noble lords who at present act as masters of foxhounds would be able to earn their living in the humbler, but equally important post of huntsman.

Even if her had not his profession to fall back upon, the Lord Chancellor might still turn an honest penny as marker at a racquets or tennis court, he having been in his day one of the best amateur exponents of these games, while a post in the world of athletics could also be found for Lord Desborough, the founder of the Olympic Games.

Another occupation which peers shorn of their ancestral revenues might be glad to take up is that of a land agent. Earl Carrington, for instance, the present popular President of the Board of Agriculture, is probably excelled in practical knowledge by very few professional land agents, while another peer who is an adept in agricultural pursuits is the famous scientist, Lord Rosy.

From these examples it will be easily seen that peers, even if they do take life easy on occasions, are by no means the incompetent drones they are sometimes supposed to be. Indeed it may be said that there are few jobs which could not be performed by some handy man in the House of Lords. Even firemen are not unrepresented the well-known Sussex peer, Lord Egmont, having at one time served in the Metropolitan Fire Brigade, while Lord Lonedale is the energetic chief officer of the brigade in the province.

FELL 14 STOREYS LIVED TO TELL DOCTOR ABOUT IT

Otto Madison's Chief Anxiety Was That Wife Should Not Hear of Mishap

New York, Feb. 12.—Otto Madison, twenty-six years old, an elevator constructor of No. 177 A. Thirty-first street, Brooklyn, to-day fell from the fourteenth floor of a building in the course of construction on the corner of Thirty-first street and Fifth avenue.

He was sliding on the top of a partially constructed elevator from the basement and when he reached the fourteenth floor was struck by an iron beam which projected over the elevator shaft.

He landed in a pile of mortar and sand. He was able to talk and told Dr. Slatterly of the Bellevue Hospital, who had been called, how the accident took place. Dr. Slattery could find no broken bones, but said that there might be possible internal injuries, and took Madison to the hospital.

Madison's chief anxiety was that his wife, who is expected to give birth to a child to-night, should not learn of the accident and sent a message to her stating that he would have to work all night and to expect him home to-morrow.

TO THE WOMEN OF PETERBOROUGH

PANTRY TALKS

I am the Queen of the Flour Bin, the lady-in-chief of the Royal Pantry, the oracle of the Royal Household.

I want the attention of Big Folks and Little Folks, of Experienced housewives and Inexperienced—of Rich housewives and Poor—Young housewives and Old.

For I have stories to tell.

And these secrets have come by Experience—by actual knowledge of flour, actual study of different grades of flour.

So I will ask your close and careful attention to my little stories about flour and bread and cakes and pies and things.

And I will promise you Profit as well as Pleasure from them.

If I can tell you the secret of making better Bread and Cakes and Pies and Pastry, that will be profitable to you.

And if I can tell you why one flour is more economical as well as more wholesome than another, that, too, will be profitable.

For I mean to go into the flour question deeply, giving Whys and Wherefores, Facts and Figures.

I hope to instruct and edify at the same time.

So if you follow my little stories from time to time, as they appear, you will learn lots of things about flour that nobody has told you before. These Pantry Talks of mine will be chiefly about so named because it was the flour selected for use in the Royal Household of Great Britain. It is the one flour in Canada which stands out head and shoulders above all the rest. It is made in Canada by the largest millers in the British Empire—The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. Limited, Montreal, and, because of its high quality and absolute uniformity, has given the greatest satisfaction both for Bread and for Pastry.

OGILVIE'S ROYAL HOUSEHOLD

YOUNG HEADS ARE GREY; A MODERN PECULIARITY

New York Has Malady in Acute Form; Physicians Can't Explain; Grey Hair Not a Sign of Weakness.

According to the New York American, "grown grey in the service" doesn't mean as much now as it once did.

The American says: A commercial traveller who circles the United States every year told an associate that he met more grey-haired folks in business houses here than in any other of the large cities either East or West, and a physician who was trying to explain why it was that these days to find a man or woman of 35 who did not have grey hairs also said he had noticed that New Yorkers led all in this respect.

GREY AT TWENTY-FIVE.

Grey hair at twenty-five is getting to be quite common here, the physician said. He had many youthful patients with grey hair. He himself, in the prime of life, was greyer than his father, also a physician, at sixty.

The physician could supply no convincing reason why this should be so. No one, he thought, could give a convincing reason for it or explain why our forefathers, even the hardest working of them, managed to stave off grey hairs longer than we do. Worry, hard work, poor health, are among the causes commonly assigned for premature greyness, but twentieth century New Yorkers have not a monopoly of these things.

"My father," said the physician, "worked harder up to middle life and had far more anxiety and fewer comforts than I. Neither was his health any better than mine, if so good.

HARD TO UNDERSTAND.

"Some apparently easy-going men and women in comfortable circumstances from the start I have known to get grey along before they were 40. I have known others poor at the start, who for years worked hard, struggled hard to make a living, who were not grey at 40. There is no rule about it.

"Grey hair is no respecter of persons. If anything the rich get grey quicker than the poor do. I have noticed, however, that men who work most out of doors or whose occupation does not confine them to the home all day, do not get grey as soon as men who from the start work in an office or store. There are exceptions to this rule, but I am speaking generally.

DRY HEATED HAIR IS BAD.

"The explanation for this is that well heated buildings, such as New York prides itself on, dry the hair too much, exhaust too quickly the oil upon which the hair depends for nourishment. Our forefathers did not have such well heated buildings to work in, which may have saved their hair.

"But there is another reason for premature grey hair. I attended a social function one evening and saw a young woman of perhaps 19 or 20 with perfectly grey hair. I knew in that case it was the blood." And the doctor explained that if there were too much of certain properties in the blood or too little of other properties the result would be a lack of vigor extending even to the scalp.

"Unfortunately," he said, "with most people greyness is upon them before they find out that their blood is not all that it should be; that it would be the better for a little doctoring."

PECULIAR CASES.

The commercial traveller who made the observation about New Yorkers leading in premature greyness had just left a department store where even the least observant shopper can't help noticing the many grey-haired men both behind and in front of the counter in many of the departments.

NATURE TELLS YOU

As Many a Peterboro Reader Knows Too Well

When the kidneys are sick,
Nature tells you all about it.
The urine is nature's calendar.
Infrequent or too frequent action;
Any urinary trouble tells of kidney ills.

Booth's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.

Peterborough people testify to this.

Mrs. T. DeRusha, of Mary and Bethune street, Peterborough, Ont., says:—

"I believe Booth's Kidney Pills a remedy of exceptional merit in relieving backache caused from disordered kidneys. I frequently suffered with a dull, heavy pain in the small of my back. It would extend around my sides and into my shoulders. Headaches were frequent and often accompanied by spells of dizziness. Booth's Kidney Pills were recommended by a friend, and I procured a box at Wm. Madill's Pharmacy. I soon found them to relieve me. I have had no trouble since and can credit this only to Booth's Kidney Pills."

END OF ALASKAN BOUNDARY DISPUTE

Popular interest in the Alaskan Boundary Dispute died out soon after the decision of the International Dispute, when Lord Alverstone made his so-called concession to the Americans. But the most important work of all in connection with the boundary has been proceeding quietly ever since. The actual marking of the line has been going on. And how is the boundary being marked? This question is answered in entertaining fashion in a brusary Busy Man's by one of the members of the Canadian boundary survey party, J. D. Craig, D.L.S.

The line is "marked" in three ways—by monuments, by cutting out the "vista," and by ascertaining the exact position of each of its turning points or angles. The monuments are placed on the line at all prominent points, such as the banks of rivers, the crossing of trails, or on the summits of ridges or mountain spurs on line. These monuments are of aluminum bronze, and two sizes are used. For the more important points a large one, weighing about two hundred and seventy-five pounds, five feet high, square in section, hollow, and tapering towards the top, is set in concrete, the whole weighing from twenty-five hundred to thirty-five hundred pounds. For the minor or less accessible points a more portable monument, weighing about fifty-five pounds, is used. It is of the same material, a hollow cone three feet high, with four legs, which are either cemented into holes drilled in the solid rock, or set in a bed of concrete. A "twenty-foot skyline," or vista, is cut through all timber along the line. All trees or branches of trees, within ten feet of the line on either side are cut down, and as it is generally easier to cut down a whole tree than to climb it to cut off some overhanging branches, many trees are felled which are outside the ten-foot limit. This gash in the timber is very noticeable and remains prominently visible for many years. The latitude, longitude, and altitude of all turning points on the line and also of all monuments, are ascertained by connecting them by a system of triangulation, with points, the positions of which have already been determined. At the same time data are obtained from which are constructed accurate maps, showing the topography of the country for two miles on each side of the line.

CANADA NEEDS A VAST ARMY TO OPERATE ITS RAILWAYS

A Chicago despatch says: To keep recruited the ranks of the great army of railroad employees in the United States is quite a task. This is the largest standing army in the world, with one possible exception, that of the Russian Government. The railroad army of the United States numbers about 1,000,000 men; the standing army of the Czar is supposed to be 1,200,000.

With an army of 1,000,000 or more the annual loss through illness, accidents, change of occupation, retirement, etc., is large, and for years the task of keeping the ranks recruited has not been the easiest the railroads have had to perform. Some years there has been a superabundance of employes, but in other years there has been a lack. With the constant increase in the mileage, requiring more men to operate and care for it, the demand for employes has increased.

Now comes Canada with a tremendous spurge in railway building, to create another market for the labor of railroad men. The railroad development of Canada in the thirty-one years that have passed since the Confederation of the provinces under one government in 1867 has been unequalled except in the development of the railroad building in the United States. In 1867 in all of Canada there were just 2,278 miles of railway track.

During the year 1908 the new track constructed equalled about one-fourth the entire mileage of 1867; in 1908 the new milage totalled 514 miles. There have been constructed during 1909 or are under construction or contract nearly twice as many miles of trace as there were in Canada in 1868, or 4,327 miles.

When more than 4,000 miles of railway are added to a country's system in one year it means places for thousands of workers, and the competent railway men in Canada have not developed in numbers large enough to supply the want. The people themselves have not realized how rapidly the work has grown.

Canada's entire railway mileage is now about 23,000 miles, which is one mile to every 300 inhabitants, as compared with one mile for each 381 inhabitants in the United States, one mile to every 1,821 persons in Great Britain, and one mile to every 1,500 in France.

Canada has nearly twice as many miles of railway as has Australia, more than twice as many as Italy, as many as Great Britain, nearly twice as many as Mexico, almost as many as the Austrian Empire, three times as many as Spain, three-fourths as many as France, two-thirds as many as the German Empire, and more than one-half as many as Russia. Canada has about one-tenth the railway mileage that the United States has, but its mileage is greater than that of all South America.

Many miles of railway track, even though they represent an investment of nearly $60,000 per mile, would be of little consequence to the worker if they were not operated. In 1908 the total number of passengers carried was 34,008,892, which was double the number carried ten years ago. The freight traffic amounted to 63,081,167 tons, or three times the amount carried twelve years ago. The figures for 1909 are expected to be greatly increased.

ORIENTAL SANCTUMS MUST NOW GO OUT OF BUSINESS

According to a circular sent out by the Grand Sire of the I. O. O. F., the Sovereign Grand Lodge has decreed that henceforth that body will not tolerate the conferring of what is known as the "Oriental Degree of Humility and Perfection" by the various sanctums throughout the United States and Canada.

The Oriental degree was formed several years ago for the purpose of advancing the social side of the lodge life. The movement grew so rapidly that the various branches finally extended until they possessed all the powers of a Grand Lodge. Owing to the fact that certain of the branches carried the "social" end of the meetings to excess, the Sovereign Grand Lodge repeatedly declined to officially recognize the Orientals, and although several threats have been made to place a ban on the movement, this has not been done until the present.

WON HIS HEART BY SONG; SHE NOW ASKS FOR $100,000

A New York despatch says: Five years ago, when Miss Emma Hoffman was a mere slip of a girl, sixteen years old, she sang one summer night in the open air in Chicago. She was a poor girl then, with nothing but her big brown eyes, and the music in her voice to attract attention. They won for her the heart of a stranger whom she is suing to-day in this city for $100,000.

The defendant in the case is Samuel Kraut, a wealthy importer, with business connections in New York and Chicago. At the present time he is said to be at his native city, Berlin, Germany. He is charged by the young woman, who acknowledges that she owes to him her present education and culture, with having failed to keep his promise, given five years ago, to make her his bride when she returned from Europe with the vocal training that she hoped would one day make her a grand opera star.

"THIS IS MY WIFE."

Miss Hoffman came back to America about a month ago, after having studied and dreamed of the future for five years in foreign cities. She made her debut in Boston last month. While the plaudits of the audience were still ringing in her ears and flowers were being showered upon her, the girl singer declares that Kraut took away the joy of her triumph by saying to her, as he presented another woman, "This is my wife."

In the Supreme Court Justice Gerard granted the lawyer for the defendant, Harry L. Franklin, leave to transfer the case to the United States Circuit Court, as both parties to the action are non-residents of the State.

Kraut is about thirty-five years of age. He is rated as a millionaire and has high social connections in the German capital. He declares that it was purely benevolent motives that led him to take an interest in Miss Hoffman, whom he met in Chicago by chance. Her parents, who have since removed to this State, were too poor to advance the cash for her musical education.

SAYS HE SUPPLIED $14,000.

Kraut asserts that he proposed that she should study abroad and supplied her with over $14,000 during the years she has been in Germany, France and Italy pursuing her musical studies. No mention was ever made, he alleges, of marriage to her, and he professes to be surprised that she should now charge him with having failed to keep his promise to wed her, instead of Miss Selma Rothchild in Berlin last June.

The young singer claims to have in her possession a gross of love letters that will prove her charge that Kraut promised to make her his wife. These will be made public when the case is called for trial.

SWEARING IN BRITISH MEMBERS

Special to the Review.

London, Eng., Feb. 15.—The third Parliament of King Edward's reign assembled at Westminster this afternoon. An enormous crowd watched the arrival of the members. The swearing in process was a tedious one, 670 members having to be sworn. The seating capacity of the Chambers being only 500, extra chairs had to be placed to accommodate the overflow. Hon. James Lowther was elected Speaker for the third term. The formal opening of Parliament will take place Monday next, when King Edward will attend in person and open the session in full state.

AN ATTRACTIVE WINDOW DISPLAY

Of Art Embroidery Work in North Window of Harry Adam's Store—Free Class of Instruction for Two Weeks

One of the most attractive window displays that has been seen on George street for some time is the exhibit of embroidery in the north window of Harry Adams' store for women. The display consists of centre pieces, cushions, five o'clock covers and other samples of art embroidery work with silk, and evidence of skilful needlework is very conspicuous. American roses are shown in all their beauty on one large centre piece and on a smaller one is shown clusters of grapes. A noticeable feature in connection with the work is the attention paid to details, even the smallest being brought out prominently. A cushion which is attracting much attention, represents a canoe scene and its naturalness is striking. A special exhibit in which wild roses are worked and which would appeal to every feminine eye may be seen in the store.

A free class in embroidery was commenced yesterday with Miss Sissons, of Toronto, as demonstrator and instructor and will be continued for two weeks. This is an opportunity which does not come very often to the ladies of Peterborough and all are invited to attend the class. All the material necessary for the work is shown in the south window.

DETROIT HAS SCARE ABOUT FALSE HAIR

Detroit, Feb. 14.—The Journal says: What may prove to be a case of leprosy is puzzling Detroit physicians, and while they are conferring on the mysterious affection of the young woman victim they unite in a warning to women that grave danger lies in the use of "rats" switches and other popular devices for adorning the hair.

The young woman was employed in a local hair store and was engaged in the sale of false hair of all kinds.

Some time ago she noticed a peculiar skin trouble on her scalp and her hands. The blotches grew in number and size and at last, frightened, she consulted physicians.

Two doctors declared she had leprosy. Others doubted its being the white malady, but all agreed on its being of mysterious nature and undoubtedly caused by handling false hair.

These popular goods are practically all imported, coming from all parts of Europe and Asia Minor. Blonde goods from northern Europe and the Caucasus regions, brown hair from Germany and Austria, and black hair from Italy, Turkey, Armenia and other countries.

Proper disinfection is well nigh impossible and diseases of all kinds are liable to be carried in the hair, especially infectious diseases of the scalp.

For obvious reasons, the young woman's name is withheld, as well as the store at which she worked, the physicians in attendance and the hospital to which she was taken.

Every precaution has been taken to isolate her until her case can be properly diagnosed.

Dr. Andrew J. Biddle, eminent skin specialist, says:

"I doubt if it can be leprosy in this case, it is some other malignant skin trouble of a shorter period of incubation.

"It takes at least five years for leprosy to show after the infection has taken place. This young woman must have been infected only recently.

"I cannot speak too strongly on the dangers women run in using false hair. It is a very prevalent custom now, many, many women resorting to the use of additional hair in switches, rats and the like.

"The scalp troubles that result are without number. It is the source of more troubles, grave troubles, too, than any other present social abuse. Women in self-protection should discontinue such adornment. Otherwise terrible skin troubles are the sure result."

Mr. Blackstock's Visit

To the Editor of the Review:

Sir,—Mr. Blackstock, K.C., a distinguished Toronto lawyer and one of the best speakers in Ontario, will give his impressions on Thursday night of how elections are conducted in England. He has just returned after taking a practical part in one of the greatest and most sensational elections ever held in England.

It should be remembered by the citizens of Peterborough who belong to the Canadian Club, that this is a rare opportunity of hearing another distinguished speaker. We must give these gentlemen who come to give addresses in the city a hearty welcome. It is one of the best advertisements Peterborough can have if we show these distinguished visitors that we are up-to-date and ready to take advantage of the opportunities that clubs in the larger cities take advantage of so eagerly.

Yours,
CANADIAN CLUB MEMBER.

Uncle Sam Has Found More Than a Prize Package in Alaska and Her Gold

Washington, Feb. 24. — Alaska, which United States Secretary of the Interior Ballinger has frequently said is America's prize package, may be a greater prize than man has ever dreamed. Recent investigations in the Innoko district, the Central Kuskokwill valley and the new Haiditarod district, now partially finished by the United States Geographical Survey, disclose new placer gold districts which promise very heavy returns. The little territory bought from Russia for $7,000,000 in 1867 has to the present time paid $160,000,000 in gold alone since 1880, when placer mining there began.

CANADA AND GERMANY SIGN PROVISIONAL TRADE AGREEMENT

Differences Which Have Lasted for Past Twelve Years are Now at an End — Matter of a General Convention to Revise Commercial Relations Has Been Deferred Until a More Convention Time.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—A provisional trade agreement between Canada and Germany was signed yesterday by Dr. Karl Lang, imperial German consul for Canada, and Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance. This agreement evidently brings to an end the unfortunate differences between the two countries which arose in 1898 and have continued until the present time. The German Government concedes 10 articles, the produce of the manufacture of Canada, enumerated below, upon their importation into Germany, on and after March 1 next, the conventional or minimum tariff rates of duty. Hitherto Germany had penalized Canada by subjecting Canadian products to the higher duties of the German tariff instead of the conventional tariff duties which had applied prior to 1898.

The question of a general convention for the regulation of commercial relations between Germany and Canada has been deferred for consideration to a time that may be found mutually convenient. If, after a reasonable time a commercial convention, such as is contemplated, has not been entered into, then either of the principals may terminate the concessions on giving two months' notice.

The story of the differences between the two countries is brief. After the granting of a preferential tariff to Great Britain by Canada in 1897, the British Government denounced a number of favored nation treaties, including the treaty with Germany, which provided that no other or higher duties should be levied in the British colonies on the products of Germany than on the products of the United Kingdom. These treaties were terminated on Aug. 1, 1898. After that date German goods were entitled to admission into Canada under the general tariff.

Germany resented this state of affairs and imposed upon Canadian products the higher duties of the German tariff.

The Canadian Government remonstrated against what was deemed to be an injustice to Canada.

Germany, however, refused to accept and Canada retaliated by applying to the products of German the surtax authorized by the customs tariff of 1897. This surtax of one-third over and above the duties specified in the general tariff was brought into effect on Nov. 28, 1903. Recently the commercial relations of Canada with foreign countries assumed a new phase owing to the making of the Franco-Canadian commercial convention, which has now gone into operation. Germany naturally desired to be admitted to the benefits of this treaty on the same terms as France. The moment, however, appears to be an unfavorable one for entering upon negotiations for a comprehensive commercial treaty with Germany, but it has been deemed expedient to enter into this partial arrangement, which will bring about a better understanding between the two countries.

The agreement means that the surtax imposed by each country on the other's goods has been removed and that trade conditions existing before 1903 have been restored.

DEBATE ON NAVY BILL AT OTTAWA GROWING HEATED

E. M MacDonald of Pictou, N. S., Indulges in Interview Against Conservative Speakers — The Premier's Boston Speech Comes in for a Roast.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—The partisan nature of the naval debate continues. Initiated by the Prime Minister, who indulged in a violent attack upon the Opposition, this spirit has been the leading feature of a debate which at one time promised to a sume a brotherly love aspect.

E. M. Macdonald of Pictou, N.S., started out yesterday by condemning the Conservatives for partisan speeches.

Straightway he launched into the most bitter invective heard during the debate.

He devoted a considerable portion of a two and a half hours' address to R. L. Borden. He claimed that the leader of the Opposition was opposed to the whole scheme of a Canadian navy, including the proposal to build a naval college in his own constituency of Halifax.

Dr. Roche of Marquette resented this statement and pointed out that Mr. Macdonald had put words into Mr. Borden's mouth which he had never uttered.

Mr. Macdonald stated that the question of naval defence was never broached until the Liberal party came into power. The Canadian policy was laid down by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1902 and that policy was now being adhered to. Mr. Borden and Mr. Foster, on the other hand, wanted to pay tribute. He charged F. D. Monk with attempting to stir up race prejudice. Mr. Monk denied this in strong terms.

Dr. Roche described Mr. Macdonald as a good actor speaking to the gallery. He had been incubating for the last five days to reply to Mr. Foster, but two-thirds of his speech was made up of a distortion of facts. He had accused the Conservatives of making partisan speeches. Who had made the first partisan speech? Was it not the Prime Minister?

As to the unanimity in the Liberal party which Mr. Macdonald claimed to exist, he could only say that outside of the House the Liberals were far from unanimous. Inside the House there was cohesion, of course.

Commenting on Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Boston speech, Dr. Roche remarked that his utterances had never been repudiated by his party and never retracted by himself. As a Conservative he disagreed with Mr. Monk, but would members on the other side of the House be equally honest regarding the Prime Minister. Until Sir Wilfrid repudiated his anti-British sentiments expressed in Boston they had a right to refer to them. The people of this country would honor a man who admitted his error.

Dr. Roche gave some instances of Liberals who in their public utterances had declined to be committed to the policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier regarding the navy. Senator Domville, Hon. H. R. Emmerson, Mr. Warburton of Queen's, P.E.I., Mr. Roy of Dorchester, Mr. Turcotte of Nicolet and Mr. Congdon of the Yukon, and many more had expressed themselves in similar, but unpublished terms.

HON. MR. BECK GIVES CRITICS A SEVERE DRESSING DOWN

In Powerful Speech Thrilling With Indignation He Tells How the Liberal and Corporation Agents Have Been Doing Their Best to Baulk the Public Power Lines.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—The growing indignation of Hon. Adam Beck at the charges arising out of the budget debate in the Legislature burst forth in a torrent last night and in a thorough summing up of the Hydro-Electric power easement work he replied to his critics in the Opposition. The power Minister has been making notes of the Opposition criticisms for some days and the result came last night.

An air of intense expectation ran through the House when Mr. Beck rose to reply.

The Government and the members of the commission, he said, were grateful for the discussion of the methods of the commission in furthering the power policy of the Government. They were more than grateful for the information given the House by the member from South Wenworth. "We have heard nothing," he declared, "to militate against the Government's policy or the power scheme."

"Nothing had been heard," he continued, "of any farmer being singled out for preference on account of his political party. If in 30 years a Liberal Government were in power, perhaps the farmers would have a chance to deal with them and see what they would do."

"I make the statement," he declared, "that not a farmer has been paid under the value of his land. I admit that some have been paid more.

"We had been dealing with 2,000 owners and we have only had 60 disputes. I rather think, in justice, we should pay a high tribute to the farmers of Ontario. They are not the wolves we have been made to believe by the members of the Opposition.

"I want to know, if, with the conditions we have had to contend with, with the attacks of the paid agents of the corporations, with the paid articles in the press, such as The London Advertiser, urging and instigating the farmer not to settle with the commission, I should ask, should we hear any suggestions, such as have been made, of organization of the farmers?

Turning to the question of the lease of a flat, Mr. Beck declared it was not intended to baulk any man from his just rights. It was only against "the fake man" that the power would be used. There had never been one in the case of the T. & N. O. Why should it be suggested in the case of the Hydro?

"And what about Port Arthur?" he queried. "Probably never have we met with such a contest, fathered by Mr. James Conmee, 'the friend of the people'." Notwithstanding this, the people had refused by a vote of 2 to 1 to enter into a contract with him, and had approved of the Hydro contract and policy. "A Liberal mayor, I am proud to say," he added, "next day signed the contract with us.

"The Niagara transmission line, we were told would cost at least $7,000,000, probably $10,000,000. We have done everything in our power to protect the man on the land, to ensure continuous service, we have installed all the best electrical equipment, and all within our estimate of $3,500,000.

"We have an eye single to the interests of the small manufacturer, the small user, the small village, not the large corperations. May he live to see the day when the farmer will reap the benefit. Give the farmer the telephone, give him the electric light, and the farm will be, not only a place of comfort, but of profit as well. The modern farm will be a wonder. They are doing it in Germany.

"We have done our best; we will continue to do our best; we have no fear we shall fail. When we have criticisms such as have been advanced in this House in the last few days."

ARE ANXIOUS ABOUT FUNERAL

Withers Made a Will Just Before His Awful Crime.

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Chief Coroner Johnson will continue to-night the inquest on Mrs. Matilda Withers, opened at the morgue yesterday afternoon. The postmortem will not be performed in either this or the other two cases until to-morrow. An inquest is also to be held upon the body of the murderer and suicide, William Withers.

The finding of a hastily-written will, which was discovered among other papers in his pocket, goes to strengthen the belief that his death was a suicide, as originally believed, but of which Inspector of Detectives Duncan declared yesterday that he had some doubt.

The will, which seems to have been written almost immediately before he went to the Elliott street house, if not while he was inside awaiting the arrival of the police, reads:

"Mr. Chink Hare, I want you and Mr. Orpen to my funeral, and see I have a nice burial. Take all my money and put a stone on my grave, and sell my furniture. Give my goat to Mr. Wood, the liquor store man. Mr. Chink Hare, I want you and all the club to see to me. From your friend, Wash."

THERE MAY BE A SECOND VICTIM

Windsor, Feb. 16.—In St. Mary's Hospital, Detroit, Theresa Hintz, 21, is hovering between life and death. The authorities say that if Dr. Geo. A. Fritch, the Canadian charged with the murder of Maybelle Millman is liberated on the charge of causing the death of Miss Millman, he will be immediately rearrested on a charge of being responsible for Miss Hintz's condition.

The house physicians informed the prosecuting attorney yesterday that Miss Hintz is slightly improved, but they cannot hold any great hopes for her recovery.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Kilpatrick has taken a statement from the girl, and it is understood that she said that it was at the office of Dr. Fritch that she received treatment on the evening of Monday, Feb. 7. This would make it on the date that the work of drawing a jury in the Millman case was being brought to a close in the recorder's office. "I took the young woman's statement," admitted Assistant Prosecutor Kilpatrick, "but beyond that I can say nothing. The matter has been placed before the prosecutor."

REDISTRIBUTION OF PROVINCIAL POLICE

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Redistribution has been made of the members of the provincial police. The reason for this action is to place the men where they will be of real use for the purposes they are intended to serve.

Complaint is often made, the superintendent of the force points out, from persons in old Ontario, that their sections are neglected, thus overlooking the fact that the force is intended to police the unorganized territory, where there is no other protection against the lawbreaker, and to assist the authorities of the Dominion emigration department in dealing with the influx of undesirables at frontier points, such as Niagara, St. Clair and Detroit Rivers, and points such as Fort Francis on the Minnesota boundary.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

CORRUPTION WILL BE INVESTIGATED

Albany, N.Y., Feb. 16.—Investigation of legislative corruption in every form, and at any time, since the organization of the state government, is announced by the Republican leaders, to satisfy the public demand arising from the Conger-Allis bribery scandal. A resolution introduced in the Senate yesterday, provides for the appointment of a joint committee of three Senators and five assemblymen, to conduct such an enquiry. The measure is supposed to represent the views of Governor Hughes and his advisers.

HON. C. F. CORNWALL DEAD AT VICTORIA

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 16.—Hon. C. F. Cornwall, 74, formerly Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, died here yesterday of heart failure. He was a prominent figure in the early history of the province and resided at Asheroft for years, where he was judge of the county court. About two years ago he moved to Victoria. He leaves four sons and one daughter.

FOUR ALMONTE TEACHERS RESIGN

Almonte, Feb. 16.—As the result of the action of the Board of Education, in passing a resolution that a young girl be allowed to return to school without taking chastisement, Miss M. J. Thompson, principal of the Almonte High School, and three assistant teachers have tendered their resignations.

The child coughed violently in the schoolroom. The teachers said it was was done for disturbance, hence was a breach of discipline. Parents of the child said she had a cold.

CONSPIRACY IS CHARGED

Brantford, Feb. 16.—J. S. Clark, formerly president of the Grand Valley Railway, preferred a charge of conspiracy in the Police Court against A. J. Pattison, Toronto; Alex. Easson, John H. Couth and James Costin. Couch is in Saskatchewan, and wrote stating he would not come unless his expenses were advanced. Clark asked for a bench warrant, which Magistrate Livingstone refused, and adjournment was taken to allow Clark to appeal to the Attorney-General.

GOLD MEDAL FOR COMMANDER PEARY

Washington, Feb. 16.—A gold medal and the thanks of Congress for R. E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, is contemplated in a bill introduced yesterday by Representative Butler, chairman of the sub-committee which a few days ago reported adversely on the proposition to make the explorer a rear admiral in the U.S. navy.

Catholic Appointments.

Kingston, Feb. 16.—The archbishop has filled two parishes. Rev. Father Crawley Trevelyan succeeds the late Father Challou, killed in the Spanish River disaster, at Railton, and Father Chanlan is appointed to Bedford. He was late curate at Smith's Falls.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

The United States battleship Delaware, the first of the American type of Dreadnoughts to be completed, was forwarded yesterday.

Engineer Pirsig was killed and fifty people injured yesterday at Columbus, Ohio, in a head on collision between a passenger train, south bound, and a pay train, north bound.

Rev. Oliver Stocking, pastor of the Emanuel Methodist Episcopal Church of Roxboro, a suburb of Philadelphia, was found dead in the bathtub of his home with his throat cut. It is believed the clergyman committed suicide while temporarily insane.

Nearly a ton of canned eggs were seized for condemnation by federal inspectors in a storage plant in New York yesterday. The eggs arrived in New York from Chicago last September. The inspectors held the eggs unfit for human consumption.

Lady Sybil Grey, daughter of Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada, arrived in New York yesterday on the White Star liner Baltic, accompanied by Lady Aileen Roberts, daughter of Field Marshal Lord Roberts. She will be the guest of Lady Grey in Canada.

IMPERTINENT U.S. OFFICERS

Windsor, Feb. 16.—Complaints have been registered over the insulting and arrogant methods adopted by the U. S. immigration officers stationed at Windsor ferry dock. They are allowed to take up their position on the Canadian side, and keep tab on people crossing the river. They may ask questions, but are not allowed to take any action till the object of their enquiries reaches the American side. It is alleged that they have fallen into the habit of insulting Canadians who make the ferry trip.

The matter came up in council on Monday night, when Ald. Trumble waxed wrathy, and suggested throwing the offending officials in the river. Milder counsel, however, prevailed, and it was decided to place the question in the city solicitor's hands, and find out if U. S. immigration officers have a legal right to stop Canadians on their own soil and ply them with questions. Townsmen await developments with decided interest.

BUSINESS OF THE B.C. LEGISLATURE

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 16.—Premier McBride announces that the budget will be presented Thursday or Friday, the budget speech being delivered by Finance Minister Bowser. Immediately thereafter the bills embodying the arrangements made by the Government with respect to the construction through British Columbia, of the Canadian Northern and for the building also of the Kettle River Railway was also presented.

The railway legislation as the House was advised yesterday will be presented at the beginning of next week.

GEORGE E. FOSTER FOLLOWS UP SUIT

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—Hon. Geo. E. Foster has served his statement of claim on The Ottawa Free Press in connection with the libel suit instituted on account of the statement made by The Free Press as to evidence given before the Royal Insurance Commission. Mr. Foster asks for damages of $20,000.

OHIO VILLAGE GOES DRY FOR FIFTY YEARS

Hudson, Ohio, Feb. 16.—This village voted, 169 to 97, yesterday that it was worth while to remain "dry" for fifty years in order to obtain a waterworks plant, electric light and sewerage system and kindred improvements.

James W. Ellsworth, a native of Hudson, but at present a wealthy resident of New York, offered the village the improvements if it would vote "dry" and stay so for fifty years, paint its houses white with green blinds and put on red tile roofs, grow hedges to replace the popular picket fence, plant shade trees and clean up.

When the offer was first made, two years ago, the village promptly voted "dry" and painted itself white. Ellsworth built a boys' club and a new Congregational parsonage.

Discontent arose, however, among the "wets," and petitions for a return of the saloon were circulated, resulting in yesterday's election. Ellsworth served notice that he would continue his portion of the improvements if the town went "dry," but that, on the whole, he was rather disgusted.

JURY IS CHARGED WITH CONTEMPT

New York, Feb. 16.—A jury in Justice Marean's court in Brooklyn yesterday unexpectedly found themselves in the uncomfortable plight of defendants. Unable to agree, the jury Monday night handed an envelope to the court officer and were allowed to go home.

The envelope when opened in court yesterday read: "Jury unable to agree."

"You have deceived the court," said Justice Marean, "in making it appear that you had agreed when you had not. You were instructed to reach a verdict. Every one of you must bring counsel to this court on Feb. 28 to show cause why you should not be held in contempt of court."

TELEGRAPH LINE FOR CANADIAN NORTHERN

Montreal, Feb. 16.—It is announced here to-day that Mackenzie and Mann will soon begin the construction of a commercial telegraph line from ocean to ocean along the line of railway from Fort William to Edmonton and at other points in the different provinces as far as the roads are built.

J. N. Greenshields, K.C., will leave for London in a few days to do some legal work in connection with the Canadian Northern's telegraph flotation.

ALBERTA MAY HAVE CRISIS

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 16.—The Rutherford administration is evidently now face to face with a political upheaval, which may even mean its overthrow. Following the resignation of Hon. Mr. Cushing, which has been placed in the hands of the Lieutenant-Governor, his deputy is also out and and sensational developments may be expected within the next few hours.

LABOR CANDIDATE DIES IN LONDON

London, Feb. 16.—Peter F. Curran, unsuccessful Labor candidate for the Jarrow division of Durham at the last election, died yesterday. Curran was a member of the recent Parliament, having been elected as an Independent Labor candidate in 1907. He was born in Glasgow in 1860.

STRIKE THREATENS NEW YORK CITY

New York, Feb. 16.—A building trades strike, which will call out thousands of local workmen, is threatened. Forty thousand union men have voted to quit work, and thousands of others are voting on the question of striking in sympathy with the striking steamfitters.

Should the workmen in the building trades go out in sympathy with the steamfitters, the employers say they will declare an "open shop."

MEAT BOYCOTT UNSUCCESSFUL

New York, Feb. 16.—The incipient meat boycott in New York appears to have failed in its purpose. Investigation of local commodity markets shows that meat prices to-day are higher than ever. The price of pork is the highest known in forty years. The charges made by the packers that when they raise prices one cent, the retailers raise their prices from two to six cents was admitted by some retailers yesterday.

THREE PASSENGERS INJURED IN WRECK

CONSUMPTIVE HOME OPENED

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—The formal opening of the new consumptive home took place yesterday afternoon. Among those who spoke were His Excellency, Earl Grey, Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, Mayor Hopewell, Dr. Adams of McGill University, and president of the Canadian Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis. Dr. Cousens and Geo. H. Perley, M.P.

Brooklyn Bridge Blocked.

New York, Feb. 16.—Brooklyn's main entrance into Manhattan — the Brooklyn bridge—became choked by a wreck of an "L" train yesterday, which completely shut off the morning rush from Brooklyn, and caused thousands to be late for business.

Naval Militia Arrive.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 16.—On the Allan Line steamer Tunisian, which reached here yesterday from Liverpool via Halifax, are 148 officers and men of the British navy going to the Pacific station at Esquimault, B.C., to relieve the men on H. M. S. Algerine.

Foreigners Safe.

London, Feb. 16.—The British consul-general at Canton telegraphs to the Foreign Office, stating that foreigners resident there are quite safe. The rioting has been among the Chinese only.

RECOGNITION OF MRS. LINDELL

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—In the Senate yesterday, Senator Cloran called the attention of the Government to the bravery of Mrs. H. A. Lindell, Winnipeg, daughter of David Ward of Toronto, who, though severely injured herself in the Spanish River railway wreck, rendered the most useful service in caring for the many others who had been hurt. He declared that she had saved lives and was as worthy of recognition as was Conductor Reynolds. He suggested that the Government send forward the two names for His Majesty's consideration.

GUELPH MAY TRY FOR LOCAL OPTION

Guelph, Feb. 16.—A preliminary organization meeting, at which representatives from all the city churches, the W.C.T.U., and the Ministerial Association were present, was held to arrange for a definite plan of campaign in favor of either license reduction or local option in this city.

Monopoly of Potash.

Berlin, Feb. 16.—The potash bill, providing for a Government monopoly in the production and sale of potash, was referred to a special committee in the Reichstag yesterday.

COAL OPERATORS TO STAND TRIAL

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 16.—At noon yesterday, four months after the commencement of the preliminary examination, General Manager G. R. Cowans of the Cumberland Coal & Railway Co., and General Sales Agent Alex. Dick of the Dominion Coal Co., were put on trial in the Supreme Court by Stipendiary Magistrate Fielding. The charge to which they will have to answer is that they did conspire with James Ross and others to unduly prevent or lessen competition in the production and sale of coal in the Province of Nova Scotia, and to unreasonably enhance the price thereof in 1900, and continue in succeeding years to do the same.

NEW METHOD OF TREATING LOW GRADE ORE

Montreal, Feb. 16.—Members of the chemical staff of McGill and a New York chemist have been at work on the reduction of copper ore, and have succeeded in finding a new method of treating lower-grade ore. Up to the present no ore was profitable under four per cent. By the new process three per cent. ore will be profitable.

TAXES ON LAND

A large number of petitions have been presented in the Ontario Legislature asking it to amend the Assessment Act so that municipalities may tax buildings, business assessments and income at a lower rate than land. The committee of the Legislature which considered proposed amendments to the Assessment Act did not approve of this proposal, on the ground that the same principle of reassessment should apply generally throughout the Province. There is much in the objection which influenced the committee. The Legislature should keep in view the general welfare of the Province, and it is very doubtful if the confusion that would be caused by the Legislation asked for would be beneficial. Under such a law there might be as many different principles of levying taxes as there are municipalities. But even that would probably not be the worst feature of the proposed change. There would be no guarantee of a fixed basis of taxation in any municipality. Every year or two might see a change in the comparative rates to be levied on land and improvements, and one year improvements might be taxed comparatively lightly and another have to bear a much higher burden. The exigencies of the municipal treasury and the different views of successive members of a council would influence the method of levying the rate, and there would be no security that there would be any fixed principle as to the portion of the burden that land and improvements should bear. The uncertainty that would be felt would not be conducive to progress or beneficial to business. If land should be taxed at a higher rate than improvements the Legislature should say so, and should enact how much higher the rate should be, so that there would be uniformity throughout the Province and some stability to the principle adopted. There may seem to be a persuasive argument in the assurance that the legislation is only permissive, and does not compel any municipality to adopt that method of taxation unless it wishes, but that is where it is defective. If the Legislature is not convinced that the change would be beneficial it should let it alone.

PREPAREDNESS AND PEACE

It is not because they want war that the advocates of a British supremacy on the seas wish the navy maintained at a standard that will ensure that supremacy. That policy is the surest guarantee of peace. Weakness will invite attack, and the signs all tell us that the invitation would be quickly accepted. It is not a pleasant commentary on the civilization of the world to say that the only way to prevent being attacked is to be in a position to make an attack dangerous, but it is the truth, nevertheless. In proposing that Canada should at once and effectively aid Britain in maintaining her position as mistress of the seas, the Conservatives at Ottawa are advocating an action that will aid in preserving the peace of the world. Britain is not aggressive. Neither England nor any portion of the Empire desires war with any nation. Canada, like the Mother Country and the other colonies, wishes only to devote her energies to developing her resources and building up the country by peaceful methods, but it would be a most unwise course to shut our eyes to facts, and to fancy that security could exist with defencelessness. The competition in armaments carried on by the great nations is injurious to them and to the world, but Britain cannot force other nations to see that or act upon the knowledge if they do possess it, and so long as they build vessels that would be a menace to the safety or existence of the Empire, Britain must, for the sake of her own existence, not fall behind in naval preparations. It is not the British Isles alone that are interested in this; Canada needs British supremacy on the seas as much as they or any other parts of the Empire do, in order that there may be no war, or if war there should be, that there would be no fear of the outcome.

RESULTS OF CARELESSNESS

At the time the Quebec bridge fell with such disastrous results the whole country was startled, not only by the loss of life, but also by the fact that a work of such importance should be constructed in such a way that it fell even before it was completed. A commission was appointed to enquire into the cause of the disaster, and as it was generally understood that the work was being done by the Phoenix Iron Works of Philadelphia, it was thought that someone would be held responsible for the loss by the Government. But the fact is that the contract for the construction of the bridge was not made with that company, but with a subsidiary company which had only a small capital and from which no redress can be obtained. Between the Government and the Iron Works were the Quebec Bridge Company, with Liberal politicians at its head, and the American subsidiary company, and the payments made for the material that had been furnished and the work that had been done, and the expense of the commission, are a loss to the country. Even the material which was paid for, and which fell into the river, is an expense and not an asset, for to have it raised and removed the Government is giving the metal and $45,000 along with it.

Great carelessness is shown in every part of the transaction. With proper supervision the Government should have seen that the plans were such as to provide for a structure that would serve the purpose for which it was intended; and the carelessness in that respect is surpassed by the action of making a contract with a company that could not be held responsible for the failure of the work. The result is that the whole expense, the whole loss, has to be met by the people.

MR. JOHN CHARLTON

Mr. John Charlton, whose death took place last week, represented North Norfolk in the House of Commons from 1872 until 1904. Although he was not at any time a member of the Government, his name was one of the well-known ones among the leading Liberals, and he held a prominent place in Parliament. His advocacy of moral reform made his name better known perhaps than his speeches on political subjects. He secured legislation intended to protect girls, and that part of the criminal law of Canada is known by his name. He was also a leading advocate—the leading advocate in Parliament of laws for the preservation of the Sabbath rest for workingmen, and succeeded in having an act for that purpose passed in the House of Commons which was rejected by the Senate. It was after he had retired from Parliament that the present Dominion Lord's Day Act became law. It was expected that Mr. Charlton would have become a member of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government, but he was too independent to suit the men who rule at Ottawa. He believed in the Liberals making some effort to carry out promises they had made while in Opposition, and by letting this be known he was excluded from the Cabinet.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A Quebec gentleman says he has an invention that will dispel fogs. It should be used at once on the minds of the Liberal politicians at Ottawa.

A woman wrote from Toronto to a Scotch paper that Ontario's capital is a city with a very, very bad character, and a man wrote to an English paper that Toronto is so very, very good—so puritanical—that it is not fit to live in. Which one should be believed? Neither.

Toronto is threatened with an action for damages by a parent whose child was treated in the isolation hospital in that city, and claims that it contracted another contagious disease while in the hospital. Ottawa is also threatened with a similar action. If Peterborough's isolation hospital should happen to be built, care must be taken to provide against any danger of cross-infection.

OPINIONS OF THE CANADIAN PRESS

SHORTSIGHTED ALDERMEN.

Hamilton Spectator.—The aldermen will not let the city clerk take full control of the appointment of deputy [illegible] that the way is left open for continued complainings and suspicion of crooked work. At times the aldermen show marked shortsightedness.

THE PRACTICAL SEALERS.

London Free Press.—Wentworth Liberals are disturbed at the appointment of a brother of the Liberal member to a government berth. This is unreasonable. The Sealey brothers believe in practical politics, that's all.

ENTIRELY FALSE.

Winnipeg Telegram.—The statement made in defence of the Canadian naval policy, which is entirely false, is that Australia and New Zealand have been converted to the Canadian policy. In the first place the Canadian navy is to be under separate control in time of war. In the second place it is not to possess the necessary nucleus of a fleet unit. In the third place, it is to be composed of ships which cannot afford, but will themselves require, protection.

THE COST OF LIVING.

Toronto Star:—Professor Adam Shortt says that the high cost of living is due to increased wages. If so, it must be accepted cheerfully, because few will contend that workmen, upon the whole, are overpaid. But is not the wealth of this country sufficient to support its industrial workers in comfort without placing too heavy a burden on the rest of the community?

SYMPATHY IN BUSINESS.

Hamilton Spectator.—If business barons we shall soon be ethically forced to take measures to change it in such a way that it shall no longer have that effect. Our sympathy with misery is increasing to such a degree that soon we shall consider methods whereby it can be socially or industrially abolished. To this end, let every man of us, in spite of his business conditions, and influences, keep himself sensitive, that feeling for others, he may be able to play his full share in the ultimate creation of conditions wherein shall not be found the suffering that now calls for the sympathy of every man of heart and soul.

MEAT FAST BENEFICIAL.

Hamilton Herald.—Meatless menus are now becoming quite common in American hotels and restaurants, owing to the boycotting of meat. And the result will probably be that thousands of persons will be surprised to learn how lively they can get along, and how much better they feel without eating meat three times a day.

THE STRUGGLE OF THE CENTURY

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Please insert the following editorial from the Montreal Witness. If the Pope will not tolerate the Methodists, how can the Methodists be expected to tolerate the Pope?

Yours,
JUSTICE.

POPE AND POLITICIAN.

"We have to read to-day a pitiful abundance of what amounts to apology for Mr. Fairbanks for not snubbing the Methodists at Rome at the bidding of the Pope. We are told how much he admires the Roman Catholics—how of all things what he most wanted to do in Rome was to see the Pope—even more than to see the king—and so forth. It is obvious that when a man becomes part of a party machine, as Mr. Fairbanks has done, he can hardly call his soul his own. We are told, too, what we had already recalled to our readers, that the Pope has a special horror of the Methodists—not, be it observed, for the Methodists of other countries, any more than for the Turks, but for those Methodists in Rome, who are not merely strangers worshipping in Rome according to their own faith, but who have from the first devoted themselves to converting the Romans — "proselytising" the correspondent calls it. According to this, it is a crime for any Church having as it believes, the true faith, to seek to share it with others. We have seen great efforts made here in Montreal to convert Protestants to the Roman faith, and pompous ceremonial when any of them were received. We have not understood that these efforts were reprimanded by the Pope. They are certainly to be respected. No religion is alive at all that does not seek to propagate itself. We are told that the Methodists are the only body of Protestants who are making in Rome any effort to save the Romans. And this is put to their discredit. We should think if apologies or rebukes were needed it would be for the other bodies, not for those who are at their appointed task of seeking and saving the lost. We are afraid that, whatever other churches may or may not do, the Methodists will be at this wherever they go, for that is what they are organized for, and they count every one lost who has not received the love and grace and life of God into his soul. And who are those Romans whom it is such a crime to preach to; are they not sinners? Rome is not a very holy place, even after nine teen centuries under the very droppings of the sanctuary of sanctuaries. We have even known priests to be corrupted there. Even from a papal point of view the Romans are a peculiarly graceless lot. Ever since 1870—that is, ever since they dared, they have hooted the Pope. The Pope does not dare to go among them. There has been the greatest concern even about the burial of a dead pope lest the funeral should be assailed. These are the people that we are told are being "perverted." We should think the Pope should be very glad if anybody would make any sort of Christians of them. As for the Methodists, they, like other Protestants, believe they have the way of salvation through the conversion of the soul working a change in a man's whole being, and that all men, whether Jew or Gentiles, need this salvation. If in Rome there were to be found multitudes of people living without God, that was called enough for them. It certainly would have been a puzzle for a Methodist to refuse to consort with his own people because the Pope would not see him if he did."

CHAPTER XII.

THE LANTERN ABOVE.

CHASE sat for hours on his porch that night gazing down upon the chateau. Lights gleamed in a hundred of its windows. The bitterness of his own isolation, the ostracism that circumstance had forced upon him, would have been maddening on this night had not all rancor been tempered by the glorious achievement in the market place. He wondered if the princess knew what he had dared and what he had accomplished in the early hours of the night. He wondered if they had pointed out his solitary light to her—if now and then she bestowed a casual glance upon that twinkling star of his. The porch lantern hung almost directly above his head.

The chateau was indeed the home of revelry. The pent up, struggling spirits of those who had dwelt therein for months in solitude arose in the wild stampede for freedom. All petty differences between Lady Deppingham and Drusilla Browne, and they were quite common now, were forgotten in the whirlwind of relief that came with the strangers from the yacht. Mrs. Browne's good looking, eager husband revelled in the prospect of this delirious night, this almost Arabian night. He was swept off his feet by the radiant princess, the Scheherezade of his boyhood dreams. His blithe heart thumped as it had not done since he was a boy. The Duchess of N. and the handsome Marchioness of B. came into his tired, hungry life at a moment when it most needed the light. It was he who fairly dragged Lady Agnes aside and proposed the banquet, the dance, the concert—everything—and it was he who carried out the hundred spasmodic instructions that she gave.

Late in the night, long after the dinner and the dance, the tired but happy company flocked to the picturesque hanging garden for rest and the last refreshment.

The hanging garden was a wonderfully constructed open air plaisance suspended between the chateau itself and the great cliff in whose shadow it stood. The cliff towered at least 300 feet above the roof of the spreading chateau, a veritable stone wall that extended for a mile or more in either direction.

Near the chateau there was a real waterfall, reminding one in no small sense of the misty veils at Lauterbrunnen or Giesbach. The swift stream which obtained life from these falls, big and little, ran along the base of the cliff for some distance and was then diverted by means of a deep, artificial channel into an almost complete circuit of the chateau, forming the moat. It sped along at the foot of the upper terrace, a wide torrent that washed between solid walls of masonry, which rose to a height of not less than ten feet on either side. There were two drawbridges, seldom used, but always practicable. A small stationary bridge crossed the vicious stream immediately below the hanging garden and led to the ladders by which one ascended to the caverns that ran far back into the mountain.

Two big black irregular holes in the face of the cliff marked the entrance to these deep, rambling caves, wonderful caverns wrought by the convulsions of the dead volcano, cracks made by these splintering earthquakes when the island was new.

The garden hung high between the building and the cliff, swung by a score of great steel cables. These cables were riveted soundly in the solid rock of the cliff at one end and fastened as safely to the stone walls of the chateau at the other. It swung stanchly from its moorings with the constancy of a suspension bridge and trembled at the slightest touch.

It was at least a hundred feet square. The floor was covered with a foot or more of soil, in which the rich grass and plants of the tropics flourished. Cool fountains sprayed the air at either end of the green inclosure. The illusion was complete.

The walls surrounding the garden were three feet high and were intended to represent the typical English garden wall of brick. To gain access to the hanging garden one crossed a narrow bridge which led from the second balcony of the chateau. There was not an hour in the day when protection from the sun could not be found in this little paradise.

"There she is now, sleeping out there in the harbor, a great big thing with the kindest of hearts inside of those steel ribs—her majesty's ship the King's Own! Think of it! She convoys a private yacht, she stops off at this beastly island to catch her breath and to see that all are safe, then she charges off into the horizon like a bird that has no home. May I offer you a cigarette, princess? By the way, I wonder how Chase came off with his side show."

"Saunders tells me that he was near to being butchered, but luck was with him," said Deppingham. "His ship came home."

"It was a daring trick. I'm glad he pulled it off. He's a man, that fellow is," said Browne. "See, princess, away up there in the mountain is his house. There's a light. See it? He keeps rather late hours, you see."

"Tell me about him," said the princess suddenly. She arose and walked to the vine covered wall, followed by Bobby Browne.

"I don't know much to tell you," said he. "He's made an enemy or two, and they are trying to drive him out. We've asked him down here just because we can't bear to think of a fellow creature wasting his days in utter loneliness, but he has so far declined with thanks. The islanders are beginning to hate him. They distrust him. Britt says (of course you know why we are here. You"—

"Every one knows, Mr. Browne. You are the most interesting quarter in the world just now. Every one is wondering how it is going to end. What a pity you can't marry Lady Agnes!"

"Oh, I say!" protested Browne. She laughed merrily.

"But how dull it must be for Mr. Chase! Does he complain?"

"I can't say that he does. Britt—that's my lawyer—Britt says he's never heard a murmur from him. He takes his medicine with a smile. I like that sort of fellow, and I wish he'd be a little more friendly."

"He has learned to know and keep his place," said she coolly. Perhaps she was thinking of his last night in the palace garden. Away up there in the darkness gleamed his single, lonely, pathetic little light. "Isn't it rather odd, Mr. Browne, that his light should be burning at 2 o'clock in the morning? Is it his custom to sit up?"

"I've never noticed it before, now you speak of it. I hope nothing serious has happened to him. He may have been injured in— I say, if you don't mind, I'll ask some one to telephone up to his place."

"Yes, do telephone," she broke in. "I am sure Lady Deppingham will approve. No, thank you. I will stand here awhile. It is cool, and I love the stars." Five minutes later he returned to her, accompanied by Lady Agnes. She was still looking at the stars.

"Lady Deppingham called him up," said Bobby.

"And he answered in person," said her ladyship. "He seemed strangely agitated for a moment or two, Genevra, and then he laughed—you laughed in my face, although it was such a long way off. I asked him if he was ill or had been hurt. He said he never felt better in his life and hadn't a scratch. He laughed—I suppose to show me that he was all right. Then he asked me to thank you for bringing a warship. You saved his life. Really one would think you were quite a heroine or a godsend or something like that. I never heard anything sweeter than the way he said good night to me. There!"

The light in the bungalow bobbed mysteriously for an instant and then went out.

"Nearly two miles as the crow flies, only there are no crows here. Five miles by the road, I fancy. Isn't it, Bobby? I call him Bobby, you know, when we are all on good terms. I don't see why I shouldn't if you stop to think how near to being married to each other we are at this very instant."

"I wonder if help could reach him quickly in the event of an attack."

"It could if he'd have the kindness to notify us by phone," said Browne.

"But he wouldn't telephone to us," said Lady Deppingham ruefully. "He's not so communicative as that."

"Surely he would call upon you for help if he"—

"You don't know him, Genevra."

The princess smiled in a vague sort of way. "I've met him quite informally, if you remember."

"I should say it was informally. It's the most delicious story I've ever heard. You must tell it to Mr. Browne, dear. It's all about the enemy in Thorberg, Mr. Browne. There's your wife calling, Bobby. She wants you to tell that story again about the bishop who rang the doorbell."

The next morning the captain of the King's Own came ashore and was taken to the chateau for dejeuner. Late in the afternoon the marquis and his party, saying farewell to the princess and the revived legatees, put out to the yacht and steamed away in the wake of the great warship. The yacht was to return in a month to pick up the princess.

Genevra, her maids, her men and her boxes, her poodle and her dachshund were left behind for the month of March—not without misgiving, it must be said, for the marquis, her uncle, was not disposed to look upon the island situation as a spot of long continued peace.

"You won't be able to get help as cleverly and as timely as that American chap got it last night," protested the marquis. "Warships don't browse around like gulls, you know. Karl will never forgive me if I leave you here."

"Karl is of a very forgiving nature, uncle, dear," said Genevra sweetly. "He forgave you for defending Mr.

"I hope no harm comes to you here in this beastly place!"

Chase, because you are such a nice Englishman. I've induced him to forgive Mr. Chase because he's such a nice American—although Mr. Chase doesn't seem to know it—and I'm quite sure Karl would shake his hand if he should come upon him anywhere. Leave Karl to me, uncle."

And so they sailed away without her, just as she had intended from the beginning. Lord Deppingham stood beside her on the pier as the shore party waved its adieus to the yacht.

"By Jove, Genevra, I hope no harm comes to you here in this beastly place!" said he, a look of anxiety in his honest eyes. "There goes our salvation if any rumpus should come up. We can't sail 'em out of the sky as Chase did last night. Lucky beggar! That fellow Chase is right, by Jove!

THE UNRETURNED

(Aloysius Coll. in Appleton's).

O the ships go out to the farthest shore,
And the ships come home again;
The dew that dresses the morning rose
Returns in a drop of rain—
But the joy of a day that I smiled away,
I call to it in vain.

O the primrose hides, in a cup of rust,
Her gold on the winter lea;
And comes, her pilgrim staff abloom
With the flowers that used to be—
But the golden smile of a little while
Will never come back to me!

And the stars are full and bright
When the sun has turned his face away,
And the world has need of light—
When the glad world beamed I dreamed—I dreamed;
And now the night—the night.

O the birds forsake the coloring wood,
And the birds come home to sing;
The breath of the fallen rose returns
On the wind of the swallow's wing—
But the hands I know of the long ago
Lie mute in the soul of spring!

O rose that blooms in a garden wild,
O bird in a lonely tree,
I know the gifts of my heart lie deep
In your far-off mystery,
And bloom and sing in eternal spring—
Though they may never come back to me!

GOSSIP ABOUT THE FASHIONS

With the incoming of the worst winter days soft felt hats have become one of the fashions. They are decidedly comfortable in comparison with the stiff brimmed kind that do not add to one's ease in a gale.

Against high and cold winds one has to exhaustion when wearing a hat of hard felt, moire, or velvet. What ever is worked and grained is far from yielding. It maintains its own against a good deal of force, and no one's head aches with the result.

No matter how safely it is pinned to the hair it struggles to escape, and one's coiffure is not materially benefitted by such endeavor.

The locks are loosened, the hairpins are dislodged, the hat tilts in a manner not fashion, but disorderly, and the temper is not proof against the strain.

So the soft felt hat such as men wear comes as a relief and a refuge. True, the turban made of fur or other soft fabric serves this need, but the modern edition is not always becoming. There are many women, who do not find it the best choice. Not every one can wear a brimless hat; the contour of the head or the coiffure demands more width across the eyes and temples.

The hat built of a very soft and heavy felt is becoming because its brim can be shaped and curved into any angle needed by the face, and the nature of the material allows it to be fitted snugly over the head.

Many of the approved shapes have brims faced with long-haired beaver, which adds to the appearance of warmth and comfort.

Others have brims entirely of plaited velvet with crushed, soft crowns, the whole fitting well down into the curves of the head and remaining in place no matter how the wind blows.

There is quite a good deal to be said in the near future concerning this Louis Seize hat, for it is quite surely winning in high places. It is made in many textures for those who are going South, and is effective of mat original. It only has the appearance of the latter quality in contrast to the stiff wide-brimmed hats and ubiquitous turbans.

Its crown is high and soft, its brim moderate and fluted, both of opposing materials and harmonizing colors. About the base of the crown there is a wide, soft ribbon tied into a large care less bow.

This ribbon is often of Nattier blue velvet when the hat is of a color that allows it. Black raven blue, and navy blue are about the only colors that do look well with it.

These hats are usually black, though there is a marked increase in the use of all the dark intense tones of green. Not always dark, for there is a hat of apple green felt and Ottoman silk going to Florida as an offset to short coat suits of white homespun.

THINGS GIRLS TALK ABOUT

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

I think that many girls overestimate the value that men place upon beauty. When I say men I mean real men, men of sense and discrimination.

A silly, empty-headed man is content to gaze upon a pretty face no matter how vacant the brain behind the face may be.

But with a worth-while man it is different. He demands intelligence in a girl.

This is what one man said to me the other day: "Almost every day coming in on the train I meet a certain girl. She is pretty and I suppose a rich enough girl, but her talk is a perfect ripple of nonsense. From start to finish she never says one sensible or interesting thing. I'd almost rather walk than come in on the same train with her."

There are a good many men who have about the same experience, and if I were you, girls, I'd brace up and get something interesting to talk about it.

TALK OF REAL THINGS.

Talk about real things, not about beaux and your clothes and the parties you go to.

Read the editorials in the newspapers and keep up with the times.

Read interesting books and magazines. Keep your eyes on the world, not turned in upon your own little comings and goings.

There is not one of you but can improve herself if she goes earnestly about.

A man may be attracted for a time by a pretty face, but mere beauty of features and coloring won't hold him.

When a man comes to choosing a wife he wants a girl who will be a congenial companion, one who can take an intelligent interest in what is going on in the world.

Sometimes a girl will babble a lot of nonsense through sheer nervousness. She really is more sensible than she appears, but she can't express herself.

Don't try to talk about things you don't understand. That is just as foolish as any other nonsense. First try and cultivate a knowledge of the sane, everyday side of life.

BE A GOOD LISTENER.

Listen while others talk if you have nothing to say yourself.

When a man joins you on the train or boat give him a chance to use his paper. You don't have to entertain him. If you glance at your own paper you will find that he is very quickly absorbed in his.

Never discuss another girl with a man unless you have kind things to say about her.

Stand by your own sex and if you have nothing good to say, keep silent. Men despise the girl who runs down other girls.

I don't want you to be too serious in your conversation; gaiety is very delightful, but just try and find something but utter nonsense to talk about.

No man is a particle interested in hearing of the attention paid you by other men.

Don't talk to a casual acquaintance as though he were your life-long friend, telling him of every detail of your daily life.

CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP AND SYSTEMATIC GIVING

Two Addresses at Park Street Baptist Church in the Interests of the Laymen's Missionary Movement—Our Responsibility as Stewards of Jesus Christ

Christian Stewardship and Systematic Giving were the subjects of two practical and instructive addresses given at Park St. Baptist church last night, in the interests of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and the two speakers of the evening, Mr. Joseph Shenstone and Rev. W. T. Stackhouse, D.D., of Toronto, held the close attention of their large number of auditors all through the course of their remarks. The occasion took the form of a banquet, and at eight o'clock those assembled sat down to a choice repast, which had been prepared by the ladies. In quality, quantity and variety the spread was up to the high standard of excellence which always is the case with the Parkside ladies in charge.

After all had done full justice to the many good things, the pastor, Rev. W. C. Riddiford, spoke briefly on the importance of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and after a short session of prayer, introduced the speakers.

Mr. Joseph Shenstone was called upon first, and he expressed his pleasure at being present. "There has been a delightful fellowship, not only with men of my own denomination, but with others, since I have been engaged in this work," said the speaker, "and everywhere this fellowship had deepened and strengthened, mainly through the work of the Laymens Missionary Movement. Christian men of all denominations have been enthused and inspired in their work together, and all have been aroused by the needs of the movement, despite the apathy which was prevalent before. And to meet with success in this great movement, it is necessary that every man do as is opposite against him. When we come to the line of battle it must not be as one, but as a denomination. The time has long passed when it is necessary to make an excuse for the movement, as it has earned a place for itself in the world. What makes it so? What has come out in your life and mine within the last two years? I think it is this: There has come into the lives of Christians a better and purer and higher idea of "God has entrusted us with many things to be made use of, not altogether for our own good, but for the good of the world. He has made us all stewards and connected with this are occupancy, responsibility and accountability.

STEWARDSHIP

The time will come when we must make a complete surrender to Him of all those things He has given us. The speaker referred to the parable of the ten talents. We are in the same position as that servant was. All that we have should be held in sacred trust for God, but sometimes we forget our obligations to Him. If there was to be a hoarding up of wealth it should be for some great object for God's glory. As to giving, the speaker said that every man must find his own standard. Money can do many things, but if you give it the right kind of prayer and service, it is then mighty. We have the money and we can use it for some selfish object, or we can use it for the good of others. It is only reasonable that we should look at the matter in the light of doing good in the world. God gave us all these things. We could not have secured them without his aid. He gave us the power, but not to use it for our own selfish advancement. Steward-ship, to go a step deeper, means God's will. He has given us the world furnished with all the material, and if we are willing, as He wishes, then will grow up a true embodiment of His will—a redeemed world. But the most important stewardship of all is the gospel of His love, which He has given us to use for the benefit of those who are crying for it. Freely ye have received, freely give. Jesus Christ cannot save the world unless we help Him. It is not enough to give when we feel like it, but to give the very best we can.

SYSTEMATIC GIVING.

Rev. W. T. Stackhouse, D.D., secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in Canada, on rising, expressed his pleasure at being present, and congratulated the gathering on the large attendance, and the indies on the splendid repast. He gave some interesting figures to show what amount of work was expected to be done by Canada towards the evangelizing of the whole world in the present century. Dealing with the question as it concerned the Baptist church, he asked, was it within the range of possibility? He believed that the Baptists would be equal to the task. The sum of $360,000 a year was needed for foreign work, and $316,000 for home missions, making in all $676,000. This, if divided equally amongst the 135,000 Baptists in Canada, only meant ten cents per week per member, or $5 per member per annum.

We believe that every church should be a missionary church, and such a church will thrive and develop. The church that gave to missions would receive a corresponding benediction in her own local work. This had been proved. Rev. Mr. Stackhouse then went into giving a number of illustrations to show that such was the case. Where a church had become imbued with the missionary spirit, more work had been done, and better results obtained. He took of several cases where the individual life of the church had advanced to a higher standard. A system of giving had been begun in each case, and it had been found highly successful. The speaker compared the enormous amounts of money spent in the United States and Canada, for liquor, tobacco, etc., to the amounts given to missions, and concluded with an appeal for those present to give more largely, and according to their means in the future.

LAKEFIELD HAD NO LIGHT; ACCIDENT AT POWER HOUSE

Driving Pulley Broke and Holes Were Knocked in Power House Wall—Siemon Company By-law Passed by Village Council—Personal Items.

Special to the Review.

Lakefield, Feb. 16.—The village was temporarily left without any electric light owing to an accident at the power house Monday night. The dynamo driving belt burst and let the water wheels run away. The driving pulley broke, pieces flying all around and knocking several holes in the walls. The accident occurred at three o'clock on Tuesday morning and the machinery ran amuck, several volunteers being summoned to assist in getting it under control. The work of repairing the equipment was taken up promptly, and there was light again on Wednesday evening.

The Lakefield Village Council passed the final reading of the Siemon Co. bylaw authorizing the granting of a bonus to the company by way of a loan. All that remains now is for the company to carry out its contract to erect a building 60 feet by 300 feet and two stories high for the manufacture of hardwood flooring, furniture and other articles in this category. The company announces that it will begin operations with forty employees, and probably increase the number to four times that, as the industry grows. The company have a manufactory in Wharton and its headquarters are in Toronto.

The judgment reserved in the case of the Village of Lakefield vs. Brown has not yet been delivered. When the suit was tried in Peterborough before Mr. Justice Britton he gave a decision in favor of the village and Mr. Brown appealed the case to the Divisional Court at Toronto before Chief Justices Meredith, Teetzel and Clute.

A meeting of the Village Council was held on Monday evening. Reeve Tanner and Councillors Moore, Richardson, Robson and Watson were present.

It was decided to purchase the half acre offered by Thomas Gordon for fifty dollars, and the property will be used for a dumping ground. The public library presented estimates and asked for the sum of $144.67 for 1910. Mr. J. F. Lillicrap addressed the council in support of the application, which was granted. The annual grant of $50 to the Citizens' Band was passed. The auditors' report was adopted as presented. The Finance Committee recommended the payment of accounts aggregating $158.21, and the committee's report was adopted by the council.

Mrs. Barnes, of Winnipeg, and Miss Cox, of Moose Jaw, returned to their homes Tuesday after an extended visit to their parents and friends.

Mrs. Stewart is the guest of Mrs. Harry Sherin.

Mrs. Irwin is visiting at the home of Mrs. A. S. Butchart.

BOOKLETS FOR EXCURSIONISTS COMING TO PETERBOROUGH

Legal and Reception Committee Approves of the Scheme—Ten Thousand May be Secured—Will Have Information About the City—Other Matters.

At the meeting of the Legal Committee last night the chairman was authorized to arrange for the publication of 10,000 small booklets for distribution among excursionists coming to the city and to be used as a means of bringing excursionists to this city. The amount to be expended on this work is not to exceed $100.

Considerable other business was transacted at the meeting at which were present Ald. Duffus, chairman; Ald. Buller, Turner, Gillespie and the City Solicitor.

Mr. C. Griffin waited on the committee in reference to his request that the city refund him money paid in connection with a fine imposed on him by Police Magistrate Dumble. Mr. Griffin was charged with trespassing by a neighbor, a dispute arising over a line fence. The fine and cost amounted to a little over $18. Mr. Griffin thought the city should return the money as a surveyor's report showed that he was right as to the location of the line fence.

The opinion of the committee was that no end of trouble would result if the city started interfering with the business of the police magistrate and it was decided to take no action.

Mr. Griffin is taking the matter up with the Attorney General's Department.

On motion of Ald. Turner and Gillespie, it was decided to ask the Finance Committee for an appropriation of $500 for the committee for 1910. If the expenses of deputations to Toronto in connection with the legislation being asked for by the city come out of the Finance Committee's appropriation, a larger amount will be asked for.

The members of the committee were unanimous as to the advisability of securing a small booklet for contribution among excursionists visiting the city and to be used as a means of inducing excursions to come here. The chairman had one quotation of $100 for 10,000 booklets of the kind that it is proposed to get out.

Ald. Turner moved and Ald. Buller seconded, that the chairman be authorized to arrange for getting 10,000 booklets of the kind required.

The application of Mrs. Cadigan for damages on the ground that the water in a well was polluted by sewage, was referred back to the Board of Works.

The application of the grocers for an early closing by-law was referred to the City Solicitor.

Thomas Mitchell's claim for damages in connection with the smallpox and scarlet fever tents being placed on the farm he has rented, was referred to the City Trust Commission.

In connection with the request of the county that the city bear a share of the claim for damages for a man named Sherman, who had a horse drowned in crossing the Pigeon Creek bridge, it was decided to take no action. The city solicitor stated that the city was not liable and to pay anything would establish a bad precedent. The warden will be notified of the decision of the committee.

The chairman was instructed to investigate the claim of Christena L. Smith, whose name was left off the voters' list. He will take the matter up with the assessors.

With all the recent blowing can the city guarantee a dollar's worth of power to any concern?

A Soothing Syrup Touch

The dog was more tenacious to life than the chloro-amateur ahforoformer had any suspicion of. The man in question had been ordered to get rid of the animal which is a crabid little fox terrier (having associated with the family for some years), on account of the dog biting a child. He bought ten cents worth of chloroform and took it to his home on Rubidge street and administered the "deadly" drug to the dog after his conception of the approved fashion. He left the animal with the verdict "that he is as dead as a doornail," and retired to mourn the forced destruction of a family pet. During the night he was awakened by a succession of hungry howls and upon arising to investigate he found the dog very much alive and before the animal could be pacified he had to be served with a substantial meal. In unofficial dispatch from the south end to-day it was stated that the dog owner would buy fifteen cents worth of poison next pay day and make another attempt on the life of the pup. In the meantime all the dogs in the neighborhood have the laugh on the would-be poisoner.

THIRD RANK FOR SIXTEEN

Knights of Pythias Have a Big Night—Officers Installed—A Presentation

The visit of the Grand Lodge officers and the third rank work team from Toronto to Marathon Lodge, No. 39, K. of P., last night, marked one of the most important events in the history of the lodge. A class of sixteen candidates were given their third rank and knighted. The work of the team was excellent, and brought forth many expressions of admiration. The ceremonies were watched with interest by Grand Chancellor Geo. Geddes, of St. Thomas, and Grand Prelate J. G. Wilson, of Toronto, while Deputy Grand Chancellor G. E. Barnes, of Toronto, assisted the team.

The degree team was composed of members of Miecas and Riverdale Lodges, and they are two of the best in the province. The visit here meant a great deal to Marathon Lodge, which is yet only in its infancy, and which is by no means among the weaker lodges. When Grand Lodge meets here next July the local Pythians will present a record to be proud of.

OFFICERS INSTALLED.

Before the rank of knight was bestowed upon the candidates, the new officers of the lodge were installed by the Grand Lodge officers as follows:—

P.C.—Dr. Middleton.
C.C.—V. Hamilton.
V.C.—Bruce Patterson.
M. of W.—Dr. Middleton.
Prelate—Thos. Savigny.
K. of R. and S.—T. W. Wilson, P.C.
M. of F.—J. T. Squires.
M. of E.—C. M. Blewett, P.C.
M. of A.—F. A. Jacobi.
J.G.—M. D. Lake.
O.G.—J. D. Armstrong.
Representative to Grand Lodge—T. W. Wilson.

The following visitors were present: L. J. Pettit, M. G. Hay, Richbonn Lodge, No. 12, St. Thomas; Al. Ingles, C.C., Toronto Lodge, No. 30; Charles Perkins, Lindsay, and H. Wilson, Toronto.

PRESENTATION.

While the new-born knights were being registered, Grand Chancellor Geddes called P.C.C. Dr. Middleton to the chair, and on behalf of the officers and members of Marathon Lodge he addressed the retiring Chancellor Commander, and presented him with the P.C.C. jewel. Dr. Middleton made a fitting reply, in which he stated that while he was not in office now, he would continue to exert himself in the interests of the lodge.

BANQUET.

In the banquet hall adjoining the lodge room supper was served, and between sixty and seventy sat down to the tables and partook of a splendid repast, served by the Peterborough Lunch. Bro. Wilson was the chairman and toast master, and a very interesting toast list was run off. The speeches were bright, and for the most part instructive. Especially to were the remarks of the Grand Chancellor. As a result of the night, Pythianism in Peterborough will boom. The officers and members are enthusiastic, and they are striving to make a record, showing when the Grand Lodge meets next summer.

GRAND LODGE OFFICERS

The visitors present were:—
Grand Chancellor, Geo. Geddes, St. Thomas.
Deputy Grand Chancellor, G. E. Barnes, Toronto.
Grand Prelate, J. G. Wilson.
Degree Team, E. Armstrong, Chas. Hewlett, S. H. Strength'on, Geo. Parry, A. G. Donaldson, J. D. Wood, J. Landell, W. Craig, Chas. Powers, Carl Berkholder, Fred Grant, Chas. Luscombe.

STRATHS OR WEST ENDS? A GREAT GAME TO-NIGHT

Both Teams in Fine Shape for the Championship Struggle —Hard Ice at the Rink and Whitehead Will Referee—The Line-ups.

Can the West Ends repeat their performance of last Wednesday, to-night and beat out the Strathconas for the championship of the city league, or will the red and white team with a week's rest, and good, hard ice show their heels to their speedy rivals and annex the silverware for the third time, since entering the league? There will be lots of "I told you so" after the game, but a careful sizing up of the two teams as they will go on the ice, does not furnish a solution to the question of which will win. Of course both camps expect the honors to come their way. The West End supporters claim that the defence of their team is stronger in all departments than that of the Commissioners and that the foward line is fresher, speedier and better able to withstand the strain of a hard struggle. From the Strathcona diggings comes the dope that the team will win, because the players are individually and as a team, superior.

With Referee Whitehead handling the ball the contest to-night should be a clever exhibition of all-round hockey, and here's that the team playing rthe cleaner and better game wins.

The line-up of the teams will be as follows;—

West Ends.		Strathconas.

NEW SOUTH AFRICAN SPRINTING MARVEL BREAKS PRO. RECORD

Johannesburg, Feb. 15.—Donaldson, the South African sprinter, to-day broke the world's professional record for 100 yards, defeating Arthur Postle, the world's professional champion of Australia, and C. Holloway, the American, in 9 3-8 secs. Donaldson won by 2 1-2 yards. Less than a yard separated the second and third men. The previous record was held by Bathune and Johnson, who covered the distance in 9 4-5 secs.

Donaldson is credited with a century in 9 9-16 seconds, 200 yards in 19 7-8 seconds, 400 yards in 44 3-5 seconds, and 600 yards in 1 minute 12 1-5 seconds, while he has a 120-yard record of 11 5-16 seconds.

In this country runners and sprinters are caught in fifths of seconds, and these records in sixteenths are not familiar. Neither are they in England, where the suggestion has been put forth, in the absence of positive information, that Donaldson may have been timed by the electrical device.

While these records of Donaldson's are wonderful, if true, but one, the 9 9-16 for 100 yards, is better than the fastest time for this distance. The others are all below the standards.

The accepted figure for the 100 yards is 9 3-5 seconds, made by Dan J. Kelly, June 28, 1906, at Spokane, and by Jimmy Rector at Charlotteaville, Va., May 16, 1908. Arthur Duffy's time has been cast aside, and, although Reggie Walker, the South African, and Minoru Fuju, the Jap, were clocked in 9 2-5, the time was not accepted in this country. If Donaldson's record stands the acid test, he will be credited as 3-80 of a second faster than Kelly and Rector.

Donaldson's time for 200 yards is the fastest, save for two performances and both are old. Geo. Seward ran the distance in London, March 22, 1847, in 19 1-2, or 3-8 of a second faster than Donaldson. Seward was a professional. S. H. Pelling, an English amateur, negotiated the distance in 19 4-5, or 3-40 of a second faster than Donaldson, Sept. 28, 1889.

Donaldson's 400-yard time is not as fast as that of W. C. Downs, who ran in 443 flat, July 9, 1890, in Boston, or Lon Myers, who odid it in 43 5-8 on a circular track in New York, June 3, 1882. H. C. Tindall in London, June 29, 1889, ran the four centuries in 43 3-5. These men were amateurs.

Donaldson's time for 600 is not phenomenal, although the best in recent years. T. E. Burke ran it in 1.11 in New York, Sept. 19, 1896; Lon Myers did it in 1.11 3-5 in the same city July 1, 1882; W. C. Downs ran the distance in 1.11 4-5 in New York, May 17, 1890; and E. C. Bredin, an Englishman, on Sept. 244, 1892, equalled Downs' time. Another Englishman, E. H. Montague, ran the 600 in 1.11, the world's record, which he holds with Burke.

Donaldson's time for 120 yards is a world's record if accepted. Geo. Seward and B. J. Wefers come nearest to his mark, running 11 4-5 seconds, 39-80 of a second slower. Seward made his time in London, May 3, 1847, and Wefers equalled it Sept. 26, 1896.

It is probable Donaldson's reputed achievements will be submitted to a rigid investigation, and if he ran down hill, or was helped by a wind, beat the pistol, or if the time is not verified, his performances will not be accepted.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE HAD A BUSY SESSION

New York, Feb. 14.—The board of judges of the National Baseball league, in session at the Waldorf-Astoria this afternoon, awarded the New York Giants $250 damages, which Philadelphia must pay because the latter club forfeited a second game of a double-header to the locals at the polo grounds October 4 last. Captain Doolin, of the offending Quakers, was fined $100 in addition to the penalty of $50 inflicted by President Heydler at the time, for the part he took in the squabble.

The claim of William Murray against Philadelphia was expected to have developed a merry row, but did not come up for consideration. President Fogel, of the Phillies, was confined to his room and was unable to present his case to the judges. To-morrow the various club presidents of the league will go into session to discuss the schedule problem. This is one of the most vital questions of the meeting. From what could be learned to-day the magnates are about evenly divided in opinion on the question. Charles Ebbets, of Brooklyn, champions a schedule of 168 games. Barney Dreyfuss, of Pittsburg, is as strong for the ordinary 154 variety, which will again be seen in the American league. August Hermann, John Dovey and Stanley Robison are said to favor the short schedule, while John T. Brush, Charles W. Murphy and Fogel believe in a change. Barney Dreyfuss declares that a two-third majority vote will be necessary to effect the 168-game schedule. Ebbets claims just the opposite. It is for the league to decide whether or not the long schedule was formally adopted at the December meeting here. Both schedules have been adopted. It remains but to ratify one.

MURRAY MUST WAIT

It looks very much as though the Murray case will have to remain until the schedule matter is threshed out, if not longer. The board of directors seems trying to sidestep for breath. Both Murray and Fogel were requested to have their cases prepared for presentation to-day. Fogel suddenly developed a severe attack of gout. He could not even move down a few flights to the room in which the directors met. William Murray, however, was on hand. He intends to stick around until he gets satisfaction, and nothing but two years' salary and back pay, $16,500 in all, will satisfy the curiosity of the former leader of the Quakers.

President Horace Fogel, of the Phillies, was found in his room during the afternoon. He did not make any bones about the fact that he was not ready to go before the board. He said he had not had time to arrange the small matter of some very important evidence that will knock the ground from under Murray's feet. He did not say he did not have the goods, but he did imply that he was mighty glad he had avoided the issue for the time. Fogel still maintains that he is not responsible for the contracts drawn up by the former owners of the club and that the league is butting in where it has no business.

It may be that the directors thought soaking it to Horace's club for that forfeiture was enough for one afternoon. New York demanded satisfaction purely as a matter of future protection. Mr. Brush was free to confess that the forfeiture in no wise injured him financially. It was the last game of the season between the clubs and the spectators had already witnessed one game and four innings of the second. With this the directors took into consideration the fact that the new owners were in no way to blame for the sins of their predecessors and imposed the minimum penalty of $250. The maximum fine is $1,000, which the Giants claimed as a matter of formality.

KLING WILL PLAY

Charles Webb Murphy says that Johnny Kling will surely play in Chicago this season. The owner of the Cubs was parading his new combrero along Peacock alley, but halted long enough to talk of the Cubs' prospects.

"We will be right back at the top of the heap before the end of the year," said Murphy. "and Johnny Kling will put us there. We would have won last year with Kling. As to my trading this star catcher to New York or any other club, it is all tommyrot. He will be reinstatated. We have come to an understanding and he is anxious to play in Chicago again. I might as well lock up my park as to sell Kling. More than 100,000 fans have signed a petition to have him reinstated. He is the greatest catcher in the world. I am not handing New York nor any other rival, stars of this magnitude."

Frank J. Farrell, owner of the Yankees, left this afternoon for Chicago to attend the schedule meeting of the American league which begins at Congress hall in the Windy City to-morrow. It was learned that Mr. Farrell is interested in the new scheme for night hippodrome at baseball parks. To-day he rented the hilltop to a syndicate headed by Pat T. Powers, which will run shows in opposition to the concern which is securing the National league parks. The scheme, of course, is identical in both circuits. While in the west, Mr. Farrell will try to induce Detroit, Cleveland and Boston to come into line.

The umpires of the coming year will include only two men—Henry O'Day, Robert Emslie, James E. Johnstone, Charles Rigler, William J. Klem and Stephen J. Kane having been reappointed. The new men are William Brennan, from the Wisconsin and Illinois league and Gus Moran, who was last year an umpire in the Southern league and the season before in the Eastern league. The double umpire system will be employed throughout the season.

With the Fighters

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—James J. Jeffries closed his theatrical tour Sunday night at Virginia, Minn. He will attend the ski tournament to-day at Duluth, and leave at night for San Francisco, where he will go into training for his fight with Jack Johnson.

DRISCOLL BEAT HAYES.

London, Feb. 15.—Jem Driscoll last night defeated Seaman Hayes for the featherweight championship of England and a purse of $5,000 before the National Sporting Club. Driscoll soon had Hayes at his mercy and the referee stopped the contest in the sixth round. The twenty-round bout between Digger Stanley, the bantam champion of England, and young Pierce an American negro, ended in a draw.

"Sailor" Burke has given up the boxing game and is learning to be a barber in his father's shop, in Brooklyn.

Tommy Burns will clash with Bill Lang in Australia, March 28th. It will be Tommy's first battle since he was defeated by Jack Johnson.

The Nelson-Wolgast fight will be staged in Alameda, Cal., in a new arena which will be built by Promoter Sid Hester.

SHOTS ON GOAL

St. John's hockey team, of Lakefield, did not show up for their return game with the Junior West Ends last night, and the local youngsters, although greatly disappointed, spent the hour is practicing.

Auburns and C.G.E. play off their tie for the championship of the Mercantile League immediately after the City League final to-night. Both teams will have on their strongest line-up and a fast game may be expected. Bill Rose will referee.

Despite reports to the contrary, the usual prices of admission will prevail for the West End-Strathcona game to-night.

Someone has mentioned a series of games between Peterborough Intermediates and Lindsay Midgets. No thanks you.

Markham tied Kingston last night in Markham in the first of the junior semi-finals. The score was 5—5.

Fred Whitcroft did not play for Renfrew last night in the game with the Canadiens.

BASEBALL

Manager—Wm. White.
1st Base—Kelly.
2nd Base—Jack Brennan.
3rd Base—Mills.
Short stop—Riley or O'Brien.
Right field—Lucas.
Pitchers—Barnstead, Grady, McClair, and Sterling with several others among them Heinrich as possibilities. The catching department will not be neglected as Deacon White has lines out for two good men, in case Burridge goes to Vancouver.

Trenton May Default

Trenton, Feb. 15.—The Trenton Hockey Club are talking of defaulting the game scheduled to be played Wednesday night at Cobourg owing to the fact that three of their men are laid up, the result of alleged malicious fouls on the part of Cobourg men.

Crossen is said to have charged A. Armstrong from behind and landed him head-on against the boards, knocking him senseless and injuring his collar-bone. Powers had his knee gashed by Moffitt. McGaw is under the doctor's care, the result of a slash across the back. The Trenton team played better hockey and had the better of the game till Armstrong was knocked out after four minutes of the second half.

Longboat Fined

Deseronto, Feb. 15.—Tom Longboat, who has been visiting his wife's relatives on the Indian reserve here, got into trouble yesterday by indulging in "firewater" too freely. He was fined $5 and costs to-day.

Carters Won the Game

The Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Co seven supplemented by considerable outside talent, pounded the Pilkpounders last night at the Brock street rink to the tune of 8—3. The chemists put up a stubborn game but couldn't uncork sufficient speed to cope with the truckmen, who harnessed the contest in the early stages and won in a canter. At half time they led by 5—2. Morphet shone for the carters, who administered the whip freely at all stages.

WELCOME TO DR. GRENFELL

He and His Bride Given Great Reception by People of St. Anthony

When Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell brought his bride back to Newfoundland, he got a rousing welcome from the people of St. Anthony, which is thus described in the St. John's Evening Telegram,—

"On the evening of the 12th when the ever welcome Prospero's lights were seen rounding the point, every body was on the qui vive, for it was well known that the worthy doctor and his bride would be on board. As soon as the horn blew, rockets and lights of all colors were seen around the harbor, and a salvo of guns was fired. Then from the hospital came a cometick decked out in grand array, and after many good-byes and good wishes from those on board, the doctor and Mrs. Grenfell stepped down the ladder on to the ice. The latter was introduced all round to the doctors and members of the staff and to all who were there to welcome the doctor back again. Getting upon the cometick they were hauled ashore by a crowd of men and boys. The people of the west side had erected a triumphal arch with a large banner displayed, under which the procession passed to the residence of Dr. Stewart. Guns continued to be fired until midnight ushered in the quiet, restful ordinary life of this settlement as all settled to repose. On Tuesday, 18th, a large public meeting was convened in the Orange hall at the close of a Christmas tree given to the children by the staff of the M.D.F.S. At this meeting an address of welcome was read and a beautiful clock presented by the people of the harbor to the worthy doctor and his bride. Several speeches were made by our harbor men, who have seen the work of the mission steadily grow. These were interspersed by songs and violin music by members of the staff. Then the doctor replied in an address that will long be remembered. He accepted the present, not for its value, but for the gratitude which it expressed. In a voice full of emotion he spoke of the work so dear to his heart, and finished as usual with a heart-searching appeal to all present irrespective of creed to follow in the footsteps of the Divine Master, and to do His work, showing that in this alone lay the secret of true success in life and for the future.

Now the good doctor and his wife are busy fitting up their residence and already entering into the usual work of the mission. One operation for appendicitis already has been performed since his return.

Insurance Companies Lose About $125,000.00 by the Wreck at Spanish River

Double Liability for About Twenty-five Persons

A loss of somewhere in the neighbourhood of $125,000 is what the Accident Insurance Companies estimate the wreck at Spanish River bridge means to them.

They figure that about 25 of those who met death carried Accident Insurance, and the average insurance, according to the tables, is $5,000. In case of death in a railway disaster there is a double liability, making the figure $6,000, or $5,000 to be more conservative.

Their loss may total more than that, for the commercial travellers, a number of whom were killed, usually carry very heavy insurance. In addition, some of the companies make the policies payable on the death of the wife while travelling, though the policy is taken out in the husband's name. In such cases they pay the husband the same amount as they would have paid the wife were the husband killed.

We issue the BEST Accident and Sickness policy offered to the public.

Hyomei is a healing, antiseptic balsam, taken from the mighty eucalytus trees in the health-giving forests of Australia, where diseases of the respiratory tract are unknown.

All the sufferer has to do is to inhale the antiseptic air of Hyomei over the inflamed parts where the germs are entrenched, three or four times a day.

Why England Loves a Lord

MONTREAL STAR.

The result of the British election, just closed, whatever else it may mean, certainly does not show any lessening of the English people's respect for the House of Lords, or desire to "reform" them with the heads man's age. Those who see the caricatures and those who are perhaps unconsciously influenced by a portion of the American press, may wonder how the straight appeal of a great and popular party, with a cry, "Down with the Lords," did not sweep the country. The fact is that members of the British and continental aristocracy who lay their titles at the feet of American heiresses, or buy wives from the ranks of chorus girls, are not representative of the British Lords.

The fact of being a British Peer does not always mean being a young profligate, or an old rogue. We have Canadian members of the House of Lords and we have had British members of the House of Lords visit Canada. We know what manner of men they are. If we remember that these are the really representative men of the British Peerage we will cease to wonder that their opinions carry weight and their persons command respect in the British Isles. A seat in the Peerage is not that mere prize for the accident of being born first which it is so often represented to be. There is probably no other body of men in England who have as wide a personal influence, and there are very few of them whether Liberal or Tory, who could not easily secure a seat in the House of Commons, did not their position legally preclude them from running. They are constantly being recruited from the Commons, business life, the Bar, the navy, and the army. A very large proportion of them, on both sides of politics, are trained and experienced statesmen. Few legislative bodies in the world can show so large a percentage of great men of affairs, heads of vast enterprises, founders of honorably-earned fortunes.

In many instances their estates are the public parks and pleasure grounds of large communities, maintained entirely at the expense of the owners. For instance it came out in the course of a controversy during the election campaign that Cardiff Castle owned by Lord Bute, has connected with it a splendid park of twenty-one acres, devoted entirely to popular amusements, such as cricket, etc., In addition to this he maintains the Sophia Garden and Recreation Ground of forty-four acres, solely for the public use, and as the owner of the Bute Docks and Glamorganshire Canals pays £50,000 (or over $240,000) to the Cardiff rates. It is not to be wondered at that men of that stamp should wield an influence in their respective communities.

But it is not only the possession of property generously used that endears the lords to the people. The Briton dearly loves a sportsman, and the lords are especial patrons of clean sport, the younger members taking part in cricket and other games with young commoners. In time of war no class gives so large a proportion of its numbers to active service. No less than sixty-eight living peers took part in the Boer War (or one in nine) while three of them lost their lives there. Lord Winchester, the premier marquis of England, Lord Airlie and Lord Kensington were the peerage's offering to the graves on the veldt. Where some were too old to serve, their sons unhesitatingly went in their stead. Lord Lansdowne sent his two sons. Lord Roberts lost his only son. Three sons of the Duke of Athol went. Lord Carlisle sent two sons, and another had before fallen at Omdurman. The late Lord Dufferin lost his eldest son. And so the list might be extended to a column, of the heirs, and heirs apparent and presumptive of the British peerage who nobly bore their part in the South Africa alone, to say nothing of the many other minor wars which the farflung Empire has to wage.

Then let us look over the "old and decrepit" and see what they did when they were young and how some of their decrepitude came. Lord Tredegar rode to Balaclava, while his brother, heir presumptive to the Barony, was also in the Crimea. Lord Muncaster, Lord Lucan, Lord Galloway, the Duke of Grafton, Lord Sinclair, and Lord Amherst are Crimean veterans. Lord Amherst was severely wounded. Lord Gifford was in the Ashanti Expedition and the Zulu War. He, like Lord Roberts and Lord Dunmore, wears the Victoria cross. Lord Bangor served in the Kaffir War away back in 1851-2. Lord Elbank, who lost his son in the Boer War, was in the China Expedition of 1860. Lord Helhaven was in the Zulu War. Lord Bateman and the Duke of Bedford hold the Egyptian medals of 1882.

Without going further in a list which could be greatly extended, one may see why the Englishman honors a lord, and we may honor him for doing so. It also shows why some electors perhaps reluctantly voted against their party, rather than endorse a campaign which seemed to have as its aim the abolition of the Upper House. It is too soon now to judge, but it may turn out that the very prominence of the attack upon the lords was a handicap instead of a help to the Liberal party in the most tremendous fight they have had for generations.

Three Die In Flames.

New York, Feb. 16.—Three children lost their lives in a fire which destroyed a tenement house on Clay street, Brooklyn, yesterday. Two of the children, Michael Shim, two-year-old, and his brother, Frank Shim, four-year-old, were enveloped in flames while taking an afternoon nap. The third child to lose its life was Katherine Craig, a five-year-old girl.

Zam-Buk

THE GREAT HERBAL SKIN-CURE

You need a balm for that skin disease, that ulcer, that eczemous patch, that cold sore? Or perhaps you are one of the many thousands who suffer silently, yet acutely, from that terrible ailment, piles? If so, the balm you need is Zam-Buk. In proof of this, review the following eloquent facts:

WHAT MOTHERS SAY ABOUT IT:

Mrs. A. Hanley, Greenfield, Ont., says:—"My little boy had a sore on one of his ears and it spread to his face. I tried many things but nothing did any good until I tried Zam-Buk. This cured him and didn't leave a spot."

Mrs. Benjamin Hubley, of Goshen, N.B., says:—"I think very highly of Zam-Buk. My daughter Priscilla was terribly affected with Eczema in her head. We could not get it cured and she seemed to be all on fire with itching and burning. Her head was raw with sores. We heard of Zam-Buk and a course of this balm cured her completely."

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for eczema, ulcers, cold sores, chapped hands, frost bites, bruises, cuts, burns, and all skin injuries and diseases. It also cures piles: Sold by druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

Medical men admit Zam-Buk's great superiority.

Children, who have once had Zam-Buk applied to their sores, ask for it again. They know it eases their pain!

In every country of the world, to which it has been introduced, Zam-Buk has become the most widely used home remedy. Intelligent and unlearned persons agree on its merits. Prof. Lasceiles Scott, the great analyst, says of Zam-Buk, "I certify its entire purity and value for skin injuries and diseases."

The other week, an African chief said to a missionary, "Mi yebe cigbe aliga nana," meaning "I like best that green medicine."

Four years ago Zam-Buk was unknown in Canada. To-day druggists regard it as the leading staple in ointments!

Such is the verdict of the people and surely all this spells superiority! Zam-Buk is used—not because we say it is good, but because it has made good its own case in the homes of the people. It is "something different." Try it!

MOTHER OF EIGHT CHILDREN RAN AWAY WITH A YOUTH

New York, Feb. 15.—The arrest of Mrs. Anna Soltz, forty-five years old, and Abe Glassman, nineteen, in Brooklyn early to-day brought to light a strange story of an infatuation that led a staid, middle-aged woman to desert her husband and children and elope with a boy.

Both Mrs. Soltz and Glassman are charged with grand larceny and will be taken back to their former home, Memphis, Tenn., to face the woman's angry husband, who is determined to prosecute. On the same train that takes them south will go Mrs. Soltz's fifteen year old daughter, having in charge the woman's youngest child, Sammy, three years old, the only one of her eight children she brought with her.

David Soltz lived in Greenville, Miss., up to a year or two ago. He was a shoe merchant, and in a tailor's shop next door young Glassman worked as an apprentice. He is originally from Baton Rouge, La., and soon after he went to Greenville he became friendly with the Soltzes.

When David Soltz, prospering in his business, decided to move to the larger city of Memphis Abe Glassman followed, and not even then did the husband become suspicious. His wife apparently was a model of domestic propriety, giving her time unsparingly to the conduct of the household and the care of her eight children.

Four weeks ago she disappeared and with her young Glassman. Soltz missed $3,300 in cash, which he had given her to take care of, and a diamond ring he valued at $60. The husband employed detectives and the couple were traced to Brooklyn. They travelled by easy stages, stopping in various cities and enjoying life.

Soltz said that his wife would probably communicate with a friend in Brooklyn, A. Abel, of No. 17 Varet street, but up to yesterday Detectives Seleske and McCauley of the Brooklyn Bureau, were unable to learn anything from Abel. Mrs. Soltz's daughter came to New York several weeks ago and went to board with Abel's family.

Abel received a registered letter from Soltz yesterday and last night the detectives kept a watch on his house. Soon after midnight they saw young Glassman enter the house and they immediately arrested him.

The boy was frightened out of his wits and confessed. He said he had been persuaded to elope by the woman and that she had given him $500 and the diamond ring. He had spent most of the $500, but the ring was taken from him.

He said he and Mrs. Soltz and little Sammy had arrived in Brooklyn four days ago, and were staying at No. 45 Pitt street. The detectives went to that address, taking Glassman with them, and arrested Mrs. Soltz. She was hysterical and begged them not to take her back to Memphis, as she was afraid to face her husband. She said she would give up the money, and handed the detectives over $2,000.

Little Sammy, crying at the top of his lungs, was taken from his mother and turned over to the Children's Society, which will give him into his elder sister's charge as soon as authority is received from David Soltz.

Mrs. Soltz is a stout, dark complexioned woman, not especially prepossessing, and Glassman is a well appearing young fellow who doesn't look his nineteen years.

ABOUT CRIME IN AMERICA; ARE WE RULED BY CRIMINALS?

That 200 persons a week are being murdered in this country and crime is costing us $3,500,000 a day, while the police stand practically helpless, is the striking declaration of Mr. Hugh C. Weir, in the World to-day, (Chicago). He figures that 250,000 persons whom the law never touches "are engaged in the systematic pursuit of crime as a business." Meanwhile the police devote a large part of their time to gathering in the "drunks." Out of 786,000 arrests in this country last year, over 350,000 were for drunkenness. It is one of the arguments of the temperance reformer that if drunkenness were abolished, the police could give more attention to protecting life and property, and Mr. Weir seems inferentially at least, to touch the same conclusion. At any rate, crime is rampant and unpunished. Mr. Weir begins with some disquieting remarks on murder:

"Ten thousand persons are murdered in this country every year—shot, strangled, poisoned, stabbed, or beaten with a club or a sand-bag. Of the murderers, two in every hundred are punished. The remaining 98 escape—absolutely free! In many of our States, the proportion of convictions is only half as great. In Georgia, for instance, only one murderer in every hundred is punished. In a recent census of American crime, digesting the nation as a whole, the statement was made that in only 1.3 per cent. of our homicides do we secure a conviction.

"Chicago averages 118 murders in a year. In the same space of time, Paris records only 15 murders and attempted murders. London, four times the size of Chicago, has only 20 murders. In the course of twelve months, Georgia—a typical example of the average American State—records 45 homicides—more than the whole of the British Empire! More people are murdered in this country in a year than are killed on the railroads. In three years, the victims of our murder cause total more than the losses of the British Army in the Boer war.

"And now we discover that when our poets and our orators and our artists have finished telling of our greatness and our glory, we have fostered wickedness and lawlessness as has no other nation in the world; that, behind our boasted institutions of government, the thug and the thief and the assassin are operating with a vigor and a freedom duplicated nowhere else in civilization. And our crime and wickedness are steadily increasing.

"There are four and a half times as many murders for every million of our population to-day as there were twenty years ago!

"The significant fact about it all is that the rest of the world does not share these statistics. Our increased wickedness is confined to our own borders. In the march of civilization, as applied to the protection of public life and public property, we have fallen woefully behind. We may lead the globe in many things. We assuredly lead in crime. In 95 per cent. of the homicides of Germany, the guilty person is brought to justice. In Spain, the number of convictions is 85 per cent. of the total number of crimes. In France, it is 61 per cent.; in Italy, 77 per cent.; in England, 50 per cent. Do these facts—when offset against our two convictions in every one hundred murders—explain why our lawlessness is increasing; why we have more homicides every year than Italy, Austria, France, Belgium, England, Ireland, Scotland, Spain, Hungary, Holland and Germany combined!

"A number of years ago, the jewelers of America were forced to form a national detective organization to guard their property. The bankers of America have done likewise. So have the hotelkeepers. So have the railroads. They could not depend on the public police. It was cheaper to maintain a police system of their own. Will the people of America also be forced to employ private watchmen?"

The annual cost of crime, as figured in property stolen or destroyed, and in the money spent on police, courts, jails, etc., reaches the impressive total of $1,373,000,000, yet the police seem helpless. And as if this stinging indictment of inefficiency were not enough, Mr. Weir goes on to say that what the police fail in efficiency they try to make up in brutality. By the barbarous "third degree," which the writer compares with the Spanish Inquisition in ferocity, any citizen, guilty of innocent, perhaps not even charged with any crime, may be dragged to the police station and put through tortures that wreck him physically, or, worse, unhinge his reason "and send him forth a hopeless idiot." Mr. Weir gives some cases of "third degree" savagery that have come under his observation, and continues:—

"From the inquisition of the 'third degree,' as we find it, for instance, in New York and Chicago, the private citizen has no redress nor appeal. It is a power which is czarlike in its supremacy. To attack it through the clogged channels of the which may stretch through years of time and involve an expense of tens of thousands of dollars, with the odds against a favorable verdict, no matter how persistent and stubborn the fight. We may not like to think of the American law as so futile in its protection as this. Some of us may even refuse to accept this statement as true. We are not dealing with the dust-covered theories of Blackstone, remember. We are dealing with a law which is higher and mightier than Blackstone—the law of machine-politics. The police know this to be a fact, whether you do or not. The police administration of the average American city is so thoroughly entrenched behind the menacing power of the corrupted ballot that it can literally snap its fingers at any law that would set itself above it.

"Do you know that 75 per cent. of the criminals who are arrested for petty larceny, pocket-picking, hold-ups, and the like from the red-light districts, of New York, are freed by the ward politicians?

"This is why the American police can develop the tortures of the 'third degree' without fear of interference. This is why the victim who seeks redress finds himself engulfed in a mire before which he is helpless. It is not legal to arrest a man without definite, tangible cause. Of course not! And so we snuggle in fancied security, behind our flimsy laws, and shrug indifferent shoulders at what we term the rantings of the muck-raker who would tell us of our blunder and our danger. This is why innocent men are arrested every day—every hour—and held 'on suspicion,' or perhaps as 'witnesses,' until such time as the police see fit to give them their release. It is the smug contentment of some of us—blind stupidity, if you will—and the grasping avarice and respectable thievery of others of us that give us a thug for a political dictator, and make an institution like the 'third degree' possible.

"The system of the 'third degree,' as we know it in this country, is bad. It is more. It is a menace to the the rights of the citizen, the sanctity of the home. And it is not aiding the cause of justice. Europe has never known the excesses of the 'third degree,' which we have recorded in America. And crime in Europe has never reached to the proportions of crime in America. The foreign police do not need the inquisition of the 'water cure' nor the torture of the burning light to attain the ends of justice.

"In spite of the brutality of the 'third degree'—of which we can never know the half—the American police are not protecting either public safety or public property. While the innocent, hapless 'suspect' is bullied and badgered and beaten, the real criminal is undisturbed. This is the worst."—Literary Digest.

Then he let her toil,
Fry, bake and stew, bake and broil,

and hoe,
Bear seven children, sew and darn

Care for his parents and to neighbors lend

And on her gravestone had them neatly cut;
I have them here! They sound all

Marmora, the winners of the Trent Valley Hockey League, played a fast and very exciting game here with the Havelock junior team on Friday evening last, resulting in a score of 5—3 in favor of the visitors.

The Havelock team returned the game on Monday evening, but were unable to turn the tables on the champions, having had very little practice during this season.

The C.P.R. telegraph gang, which is employed in erecting new poles on the division east of Havelock, have completed the line as far as Central Ontario Junction. The sleet storm last November, which pulled down most of the poles between here and Smith's Falls, necessitated the building of a complete line. Only the standard poles are being used in constructing the line, and each one is held firmly in its place by guy wires. About twenty-five men are employed at the work, and it will likely be the latter end of June before the task is completed. The company have decided to construct the line in such a manner that the sleet storms will have no effect on the system at all. During the last storm communication was cut off between Havelock and Smith's Falls for nearly two days, and the C.P.R. could turn but very few trains.

AN APPLE SHOWER ON GEORGE STREET AT NOON

J. D. Frowlie, a farmer, while in the act of delivering a load of apples to Oke, on George street to-day at noon, had an experience that will likely jar on his nerves for some time to come. His team of horses attached to the sleigh were facing the north and took fright at a street car coming from that direction. He was unable to manage them and both dashed across the street, the car striking the sleigh and scattering the contents of a couple of barrels in all directions. The driver jumped as the horses started to cross the track and escaped what might have resulted in serious injuries. The animals turned down south and parted at the corner, one going west on Simcoe and the other galloping down George street. Both were caught shortly afterwards and it was found that the harness was badly damaged. Many persons who were near the scene of the accident, took advantage of the apple shower and helped themselves to the fruit just as though they owned them, and those clerks from the neighboring stores may expect to receive a big bill at the end of the month.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE WITH THE DOGS OF PETERBOROUGH?

The members of the Legal Committee talked about dogs last night. It was resolved that there were good dogs and bad dogs and that it would require great skill to draw the line between the good and the bad.

However, the dog question is very much to the fore on account of the prevalence of rabies in Western Ontario. There is no telling when the dread infection might reach Peterborough and the aldermen are desirous of taking means to prevent an outbreak here.

Ald. Buller said he had experience with good and bad dogs. Ald. Turner said there are a lot of bad dogs around the city. Ald. Duffus and Ald. Gillespie agreed with Ald. Turner.

Ald. Turner read the dog by-law the city has at the present time. He did not think it was enforced as it should be. The by-law in force at Galt was read, but it was not considered a very good measure.

The suggestion was made that it might be well to have the dogs of Peterborough chained up or muzzled for three or four months—till the rabies scare was over.

City Solicitor Hall said that a dog made more noise when chained up than when at liberty.

He was of the opinion that the legislature would shortly take some steps to deal with the outbreak of rabies in which event it might be well to await some action.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Buller,—That no action be taken in this matter until the committee have an opportunity to ascertain in what manner the government is going to respond to the public agitation against dogs, so general throughout the country.—Carried.

BARBER SHOP PRICES ARE LIKELY TO BE ADVANCED

Peterborough men will likely be paying more for their shaves and haircuts within a few days. The minimum scale for journeymen barbers has been advanced from nine to twelve dollars per week, and as a result of the increase the proprietors of the tonsorial establishments will hold a meeting within a few days to consider an advance in the price of work done in the shops. The advance in the wages of journeymen went into effect on February 1st. It is learned that the prices of shaves and hair-cuts will be raised.

CHISHOLM HAS PLAN TO PROVIDE SEVEN DREADNOUGHTS

With an Outlay of $1,500,000 a Year, East Huron Member Says Canada Could Pay the Interest on a Naval Expenditure of $50,000,000.

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—While the naval debate may be said to be dragging its weary way the proceedings were somewhat enlivened yesterday afternoon by two features. One was a speech by Dr. Chisholm (Con., East Huron), in which radical treatment was given the question of Imperial defence. The other was a particularly lofty address by E. T. Congdon (Lib., Yukon), whose utterance has been anticipated with some interest by both sides of the House, there being some doubt that he would not support the Government in view of his speech last year, indicating that he was opposed to doing anything in the nature of imperial defence. However, Mr. Congdon supported the naval measure.

Dr. Chisholm proposed to show that Canada could give seven Dreadnoughts to Great Britain at a less cost than the present scheme. He favored the enlargement of drydocks, believing that the Government was doing the right thing in this respect for trade and commerce. He favored drydocks at St. John and Halifax and a naval college at the latter point.

He criticized the Government for doing nothing for McCurdy and Baldwin, the Canadian aviators, while they were carrying on their experiments at Petewawa. On such matters, Canada was the only laggard in this great empire of nations. Germany had brought her airship fleet to such perfection that a sham battle in the air was fought for three hours.

His chief point, however, was that as Britain had to protect her food supply she must be able to do so with Dreadnoughts. She could protect the trade route of the Atlantic from Hudson Bay with four of these monster ships. Canada could supply these four, and three more, by paying $1,500,000 annually, the interest of a capital outlay of $50,000,000, which capital could be furnished by Great Britain. As to smaller ships, Britain had plenty of these to spare, and they could be got for the protection of our coasts, thus saving an enormous expense to Canada. The sum of his argument was that Canada could build five more Dreadnoughts than Mr. Borden proposed and save Canada millions of dollars.

Mr. Congdon said he regretted that the tone of certain portions of the debate was not higher. This was particularly the case of F. D. Monk, than whom there was no man of more dignity in the House, but who had descended to a place not worthy of himself.

Mr. Borden had considered that there was nothing inconsistent in Canada contributing the cost of two Dreadnoughts to Great Britain, while declaring in the same resolution that the question of a Canadian navy should be submitted to the people.

Germany, he argued, had as good a right as Great Britain to build up naval defence. In this country it was the duty of every loyal man not to go around howling and raising prejudice against Germany, but to endeavor honestly and sincerely to allay it. He did not think the real danger to the empire would come from traitors and disloyal men, but from ultra-loyalists who were not trying to serve their own country, but to cause hostility in other countries.

He did not think there was any reason why the Munroe doctrine should not supplement Imperial defence in the defence of Canada, but no self-respecting outside people would rely entirely upon the Munroe doctrine.

An important bill was introduced by C. A. Magrath (Medicine Hat) yesterday to amend the Dominion Lands Act. Its object is to surround western water powers with greater safety than already exists. Mr. Magrath desires that the period of license should be fixed by law not longer than 25 years in organized territory and not longer than ten years in unorganized territory. Also, no license should be issued unless by order-in-council.

F. D. Monk (Jacques Cartier) remarked that the conservation commission was at present preparing a bill much on the same lines.

J. E. Armstrong (East Lambton) asked yesterday whether the German conventional tariff was the lowest Germany had adopted, whether the schedule contained all the articles likely to go into Germany under the favored clause, and whether German goods were to come into this country under a favored tariff.

Hon. W. S. Fielding replied that he had no information to give out in addition to what had been given yesterday. Any additional correspondence was of a confidential nature. He had been advised that the conventional tariff was the lowest. Canada had refused to Germany the advantages of the French treaty. In short, Canada had arranged to give up the surtax only, while Germany gave Canada the benefit of the lower tariff on articles prized most by Canadian exporters.

Mr. Armstrong asked if the question had been considered that some Canadian manufacturers had been built up under the German surtax.

Mr. Fielding said he did not know this. However, Canadian manufacturers were aware that this surtax was simply a commercial war tax.

F. R. Lalor (Haldimand) said that the removal of the surtax on certain raw materials, such as yarn, would affect Canadian industries built up under the surtax.

CHAMBERLAIN TAKES OATH AS MEMBER OF NEW HOUSE

Frail and Tottering He Goes Through the Ceremony With the Help of His Son Austen—Is Unable to Affix His Signature to the Roll, But Has to Make a Cross.

London, Feb. 17.—For the first time since he was stricken with paralysis years ago, Joseph Chamberlain put in an appearance in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon and took the oath as a member of the new Parliament. Mr. Chamberlain walked with marked difficulty, being assisted by his son, Joseph Austen, and Lord Morpeth. When the membership roll was placed before him for his signature, he required the aid of Austen, who signed the name of his father, the latter appending his mark.

The whole scene was painful to those who recalled the vigor exhibited by the statesman on his last previous appearance in the House. Yesterday his frame was shrunken and his features were ashen. He was unable to move without assistance, and haltingly spoke the words of the oath while the son had spoken them in his father's ear.

It was evident to those who witnessed the scene that all hope of a recovery from physical infirmities must be abandoned. There was perfect silence throughout the trying ordeal.

Mr. Chamberlain, it is announced, accepted the presidency of the Imperial League, formed by Norton Griffiths, M.P., with the object of assisting in emigrating unemployed workmen and their families to Canada.

COL. MATHESON IS BACK IN LEGISLATURE AGAIN

Sam Clarke Says "Booze" Needs a Muzzle More Than the Dogs—Criticizes the Price Paid for Indian Pictures—Wants Profit-Sharing.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—Tumultuous and prolonged applause arose from both sides of the House when Hon. Col. Matheson resumed his seat in the Legislature for the first time after the accident to his arm. A vase of white roses stood on his desk.

Sam. Clarke (N. Northumberland), in resuming the debate on the budget, congratulated the Provincial Treasurer on his convalescence.

In a week-end trip to the rural portions of his constituency he had found that the dog question was more discussed than the budget. The dog was the friend of the young and of the old. He hoped the Government would see fit not to go to the extremes in this matter of muzzling.

But if they wanted to do some effective muzzling, there was a dog at large, the whisky dog, the liquor dog. Hardly a family in Ontario but had had a member bitten by it. Yet the vote of 60 out of 100 was required to muzzle it.

Turning to the public accounts, he objected to the size of expense accounts. Then he read "25 portraits of Indians of the American race, $3,500. They had seen the same item last year.

"What's the use," retorted Mr. Clarke. "They all look alike, I could bring you down a carload of live Indians at a less cost. Five thousand dollars of good hard cash for 50 portraits of Indians of American race! One good portrait of old Oronyathekha was all that was needed."

A. E. Donovan (Brockville) defended the Government on the Gillies limit question. The Opposition seemed to forget that they still possessed 60,000 acres of the limit.

He taunted the member for South Wentworth (D. Reid) on writing the letters from farmers about the Hydro Electric, which he read to the House on Tuesday. Why didn't he let the farmers write their own letters?

What did the people of the country care whether the name of T. Eaton, or Gage, or any other name were on the school books, so long as they got cheap books?

Allan Studholme (East Hamilton) complained that in all the talk of the last two weeks not a word had been said about the wage-working class. They never got a square deal.

He had no objection to $10,000,000 expenditure, but how was it being spent? The recent deputation asking a paltry $30,000 increase to the $70,000 grant to agricultural societies should never have been turned down.

More attention to technical education had been asked for again and again. Higher education was getting an undue share of the expenditure.

The cry was "back to the land." In the cities to-day were thousands of the pick of young Canada who should never have left the farm. Young men had told him they would never go back to the farm to work for another but they would on a profit-sharing basis.

If the United States were able to entice our men to their dairy farms by profit-sharing, there was surely something for the Government of Ontario to do. It might be called "Socialism," but it was what the C.P.R. was offering in the Northwest.

Hon. Col. Hendrie presented a petition from 700 Hamiltonians asking for the repeal of the McNaught Bread Act.

W. H. Hoyle (North Ontario), chairman of the standing orders committee, stated that 25 private bills would be thrown out if time of presenting and introducing were not extended. An extension was made to Wednesday and Thursday next.

Hon. Adam Beck, in answer to the question of Hon. A. C. MacKay, explained that up to Oct. 31, 1909, $495,984.46 had been expended by the Hydro Electric Commission, $230,273.29 of which was for transmission lines. The commission builds all transformer stations.

In the private bills committee yesterday morning the application of the Toronto General Burying Ground trustees for permission to sell land not required for cemetery purposes, and to invest moneys held in trust for the perpetual care of lots, met with approval.

Mr. Godfrey—"Bill to prevent procreation of confirmed criminals, idiots and rapists."

Hon. A. G. MacKay—"Bill to amend the Power Commission Act and the Power Commission Amendment Act 1909."

Love-Sick Swain Attempts Suicide.

RIOTERS AND TROOPS FIGHT

German Political Troubles Result in Injuries to Several Persons.

Kiel, Feb. 17.—Further disturbances occurred at Neumanster, Schleswig-Holstein, where indignation meetings were held to protest against the action of the police in interfering with Sunday's demonstration against proposed Prussian franchise laws. A crowd gathered at the town hall and hooted and stoned the police. The latter attacked with drawn sabres, and also requisitioned a company of infantry, which with fixed bayonets, cleared the square.

Despatches from Cassel say that serious riots also occurred there, the police fighting with the Socialists for more than an hour.

The franchise bill, which the Socialists oppose, retains the "three class system," whereby electors are divided according to the amount of taxes they pay, but it provides that officers and other members of the educated classes are to be placed in the first and second classes, irrespective of the amount of their taxes. Direct, instead of indirect voting, is also provided for in the bill. The Radicals have joined with the Socialists in their opposition to the bill.

A SOCIALIST BOYCOTT IN GERMANY

Berlin, Feb. 17.—The Socialist boycott and increased taxes have reduced considerably the consumption of brandy in Germany. Since Oct. 1, the production of alcohol in all forms has declined by 6,380,000 gallons. The Socialists are maintaining the boycott to prevent the empire from securing the intended revenue from the alcohol tax and to rob the agrarians of the benefits which they would secure through the special discrimination in their favor, contained in the law.

WOOD ALCOHOL CAUSES DEATHS

Stettler, Alta., Feb. 17.—On Saturday last, three homesteaders, father and two sons, named Sloen, living sixteen miles from Castor, bought some wood alcohol from a Castor druggist. On reaching home, they each drank some of it. The elder son took the most and, going to bed, apparently died at once. The father awoke in great pain, but died before the second son could get a doctor. The second son arrived in Castor in very bad shape, but is now out of danger.

COACHES UPSET AND NINE HURT

Montreal, Feb. 17.—A serious train wreck took place near West Sheffield, Que., last evening, when the Central Vermont train from Montreal to Waterloo was thrown from the track.

Two rear cars, the first-class and the smoker, jumped the track, and being detached from the tender and engine, plunged along the ties for a while and then went down a 15-foot embankment and turned over on their side.

There were a good many passengers in both cars, and it was providential that no one was killed.

One by one the men and women began to crawl out of the cars, and it was found that though nine had been injured, no one was seriously hurt. They were taken to Waterloo and looked after.

The rolling stock was damaged considerably and the roadbed plowed up.

HERRING INDUSTRY OF LAKE HURON

THE SCOWS WERE ALWAYS OVERLOADED

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—Chief Engineer Lafleur of the Public Works Department, yesterday told the public accounts committee the reason the figures for the amount of dredging done in the Gaspereaux River, New Brunswick, exceeded the normal capacity of the scows, was because the latter were always overloaded. The contract price, 90 cents per cubic yard, was above the average.

ATTEMPT TO UNSEAT BRANTFORD COUNCIL

Brantford, Feb. 17.—It was stated yesterday that a move will be made to unseat the entire Brantford City Council with the view primarily of upsetting the license reduction by-law recently passed. The technicality is that the declaration of office of the alderman elect should have been taken before a justice of the peace rather than the city clerk, and it is claimed that on similar grounds the City Council of St. Catharines had to seek re-election.

The Town Council of Paris Tuesday night laid over to a special meeting the question of license reduction. A petition signed by 594 citizens asking for reduction and a petition signed by 371 ratepayers was presented against. A motion to leave the matter to the ratepayers was defeated.

HIGH LICENSE FOR NICKLE THEATRES

Brantford, Feb. 17.—Local theatorium managers made a strong effort here on the City Council to have the license fee of $300 per annum, reduced to $150. Brantford, it is stated, has the highest fee in the province. The council refused to make a reduction, theatorium having other business concerns for central location and are consequently rated as well able to pay the impost.

HUSBAND'S PARENTS ARE AFTER ANNUITY

Paris, Feb. 17.—The Marquis de Castellane have instituted suit against the Princess de Sagan for $13,000 back annuities which they allege the count and countess in the marriage settlement of 1898 engaged themselves to pay at the rate of $5,600 a year.

This annuity was paid until the Count and Countess de Castellane were divorced, when the countess, formerly Miss Anna Gould, of New York, refused to contribute further to the support of her former husband's parents.

CONSERVATIVE SUCCESSFUL IN BYE-ELECTION

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 17.—For the first time in thirty years, a Conservative was elected yesterday in Queen's County in the bye-election to fill the vacancy in the Legislature created by the translation of Hon. E. M. Farrell from the Speakership of the local House to the Senate at Ottawa.

W. L. Hall, a Liverpool barrister, has a majority of 230 over his Liberal opponent, A. W. Hendry, the leading business man of the county. Farrell's majority at the last general election was about 300.

This is the first bye-election in which a Conservative has captured a seat in the Legislature since 1878.

As the present Liberal Government must appeal to the people before the end of 1911, the present turnover in the county represented federally by Hon. W. S. Fielding, has caused consternation in the ranks.

QUEBEC HAS SHARP POLITICAL CONTEST

Montreal, Feb. 17.—The contest now going on in the County of Gaspe is attracting a great deal of interest as Mr. Perron, the prominent Montreal lawyer, is encountering stiff opposition from Dr. Gauthier. It is believed however, that Perron will be returned, and that after entering the Quebec Cabinet without portfolio, will subsequently become Attorney-General.

It is also thought that as soon as the election is over G. Langlois, M.P.P., will be appointed to the Legislative Council.

FISH FIRMS HAVE FORMED MERGER

Montreal, Feb. 17.—Following close upon the announcement that a number of large Nova Scotia firms handling dried fish had decided to form a merger, the announcement is now made that the fresh fish companies will be taken over by a Montreal syndicate, headed by the National Securities Co. of Montreal. It is planned to take over the Whitman interests, who are the biggest fish dealers in the Province of Nova Scotia, and who own the largest cold storage warehouses in Canada, at Canso, and also to buy out the fresh fish business of the Atlantic Fish Co.

MUZZLES FOR DOGS MUST BE OF METAL

Toronto, Feb. 17.—On and after Feb. 21, all dogs not locked up or chained within the premises of the owner or other person in charge of such canines must be muzzled with a metal muzzle. Even if held on a chain the dog may not go upon the street without his muzzle.

This is the opinion of one who will have to do with the enforcement of the bylaw as amended by the police commissioners at their meeting Tuesday. Further the leather muzzle will not go.

This means a land office business for the vendors of dog muzzles, and advertisements calling upon dog owners to call early and avoid the rush have already been issued by dealers who do not fail to take advantage of any wind that blows. There is likely to be a rush, too, for it is doubtful if there is now in the city, or can be had by the time the regulation goes into effect.

WOMEN ON THE POLICE FORCE

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 17.—If women are given the right to vote in New York State, the first jobs they will try for will be on the police force. That is what Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National American Women's Suffrage Association said at the first political convention of women suffragists ever held in Erie County.

"One hundred women on the police force of New York City would do more to wipe out juvenile crimes and sins against childhood than all the other forces in Greater New York combined," declared Dr. Shaw.

HISTORIC BUILDINGS WILL BE DESTROYED

Kingston, Feb. 17.—The naval cottages on the Royal Military College grounds will be razed.

S. J. Chapleon and Paul Whitney, of the Public Works Department, Ottawa, are here for the work. The material will be used for the Government drydock repairs. The cottages were built early last century and were quarters for the officers of the British navy flotilla on this lake. R. M. C. employes who lately occupied them, are now housed in new cottages.

DEVELOPMENT OF NEWFOUNDLAND

Evidence for Eight-Hour Day.

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—Victor Dubreuil fair wage officer of the Labor Department, gave evidence yesterday morning re the movement for an eight hour day before the special Commons committee. He stated that there was a general tendency to a reduction of hours of labor, especially in the west, and that in British Columbia and Alberta the building trades had already secured the eight-hour day.

Shot Wife and Self.

New York, Feb. 17.—After breaking in the door of the house where his wife was living apart from him at Presport, Long Island, yesterday Geo. W. Taylor, shouted out his intention to kill her, followed her as she ran screaming to the home of a neighbor, and shot and fatally wounded her. He then shot himself.

No Home; No Friends.

Kansas City, Feb. 17.—Miss Agnes Elkins, a niece of United States Senator Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia, shot herself yesterday at her room at a local hotel.

LA PRESSE GETS AFTER BOURASSA

Montreal, Feb. 17.—It is stated that Hon. Mr. Berthiaume of La Presse will enter action for $300,000 against Henri Bourassa of the new Nationalist paper, Le Devoir. The plaintiff complains, so rumor has it, that the Bourassa organ made reflections upon the financial standing of the big French daily.

Mayor's Vote Killed Reduction.

ECONOMICAL MANAGEMENT

The Toronto News has been led by the complaints of the rise in food prices to make an enquiry into the cost of providing a number of Ontario public institutions with the kitchen staples and finds that the Government has been able to reduce the cost. The facts it gives are interesting and instructive, as follows:—In 1908 one day's provisioning for one patient in the Epileptic Hospital at Woodstock cost 14.70 cents. In 1909 this was reduced to 14.18 cents. At the Mimico Asylum for the Insane the figure was brought down from 13.91 cents to 11.56 cents, and more or less similar economies in the purchase of food were effected at the several other prisons and asylums throughout the Province.

Considerable margins were saved upon breakfast foods, butter, tea, coffee, eggs, flour, fresh and canned fruit and vegetables, milk, potatoes, salt, butchers' meat, fowl and fish. These are the very articles the growing expensiveness of which is worrying the average householder, and driving his wife to distraction. How has the Government done it?

In the same way the Administration has cut down the cost per patient of clothing, including footwear. At the Penetang institution in 1908 each inmate was clad and shod at a cost of 3.56 cents per day. Last year the item was brought down to 2.66 cents. At the Woodstock institution the outlay on laundry and cleaning fell from 1.29 cents to 1.10 cents a day. Savings were effected in other directions, notably in heating and lighting. It cost 8.18 cents per day per person to warm the Kingston asylum during 1908, and only 4.29 cents in 1909.

This particular economy has been secured by the introduction of modern heating appliances. Moreover, in each institution the quantity of coal dealt out to the stoker night and morning depends to some extent upon the state of the weather, and the direction of the wind. Generally speaking, maintenance expenses have been lowered by a resort to improved methods of administration, including a centralized system of accounting by means of which each Provincial institution is made to act as a check upon every other. The elimination of the patronage list in the purchase of supplies also makes for the avoidance of waste. There is no suggestion that the economies have been effected at the expense of patients or inmates.

THE SPLIT IN ALBERTA

The latest political sensation is a split in the Liberal Cabinet of Alberta. Hon W. H. Cushing has resigned; it is said that Hon. Mr. Buchanan will follow his example, and that all the Liberal members south of Red Deer will join the Opposition in voting against the proposal to give a subsidy of $20,000 per mile to the Alberta and Waterways Railway. This is not an ordinary dispute between Conservatives and Liberals, but a fight between the interests of Northern and Southern Alberta and more particularly between Edmonton and Calgary. The people of the southern half of the province believe that the Government are unduly favoring the northern half. Calgary in the south and Edmonton in the north both aspired to be the capital of Alberta. Edmonton won the prize. Then the Provincial University and the Agricultural College were both located at Strathcona, a town just across the river from Edmonton, and now the money of the whole province is to be used to subsidize a railway running out of Edmonton into the far north.

At the time the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta were created out of the Canadian Northwest Territories there was a difference of opinion as to how the boundaries should run, many believing that the boundary between Saskatchewan and Alberta should run east and west instead of north and south. The chief argument advanced at that time in favor of such a division was that in the southern country there were larger areas that required irrigation, while in the north the country was well watered. It was said that the northern and southern districts would thus have different problems to deal with.

In Saskatchewan the fight for the capital was not quite so acute although Saskatoon the thriving city of the north, contested the claims of Regina, which was chosen chiefly because it had been the capital of the united territories for a number of years.

If a redivision of the provinces were made now no doubt Edmonton and Regina would remain the capitals, so that Calgary and Saskatoon would gain nothing by the change.

ANOTHER BURDEN FOR THE FARMER

Weekly Sun.

Some rather startling figures were given by C. C. James, in the address reported on page 12 of this issue, in which the Deputy Minister of Agriculture dealt with the decline in rural and increase in urban population of Ontario.

The change that has taken place is largely the result of legislation favoring certain classes of the community at the expense of agriculture. The balance between profit and loss is so nicely adjusted in all lines that a very little favoritism in one direction will make certain lines unduly profitable at the expense of others. And in this country there has been gross favoritism. Certain iron and steel manufacturers have received more in bounties from the public treasury than the sums paid by these manufacturers in wages to their employees. Protection given to cotton manufacturers has rendered possible the payment of dividends of 50 per cent. on a considerable portion of the capital employed in manufacturing cotton. With such conditions in existance—conditions directly tending to the amassing of wealth in the hands of the few—it is not surprising that the young and sanguine have been attracted to the centres where such unfair opportunities are given.

If the Government's naval proposal is gone on with the situation will be aggravated. Sir Frederick Borden estimates the annual cost of the navy and militia combined at $1.25 per capita. That estimate is certain, if present plans are gone on with, to be exceeded in the same proportion that the first cost of the Transcontinental has been exceeded. But even taking the case as it stands, it means a charge upon the average family of $5 per year. For families on the farm the charge will be greater than that because some other classes will evade their share of the burden. The manufacturer will add his portion of the cost to the price of his goods—protection against foreign competition rendering this possible; the professional man will add his portion to the fees charged for his services. For the laborer and farmer there will be no escape, and on these will rest not only their own share of the burden, but that of others as well. Even on the basis of $1.25 per head the cost to Whitby township will figure out at close on $8,000 or a most one-fourth the annual levy for school and township purposes. By the time the portion of the cost which other classes will escape is added to the farmers' load Whitby's share will amount to at least one-third the sum now collected in municipal taxation. And all this is on the assumption that Sir Frederick Borden's estimate of the cost of the navy will not be exceeded.

A discussion of long speeches in Parliament is going on in some newspapers, which object to the length of orations at Ottawa. This is an old story. Similar objections have been urged repeatedly before, but Hansard still contains reports of speeches that occupy hours in delivery.

A newspaper philosopher of Toronto thinks that when children build snow houses they build them from memory of the Ice Age when their forebears dwelt in igloos. Then from where do those chioldren who in the fall lay out houses of leaves recall the idea of building made of that material?

The winter march of two Kingston batteries is a good idea. If Canada should ever be invaded much of the fighting would probably be done in the winter, and the Canadian forces would have an immense advantage if they were thoroughly trained in methods of campaigning in the snow. It might be well to have a winter camp for volunteers. Many farmers and farmers' sons in the rural regiments could go into military service with less sacrifice in winter than in summer.

ONCE MORE FROM THE GREAT WEST

Cyrille Maginel Cured of His Rheumatism and Diabetes By the Reliable Kidney Remedy.

"I suffered from rheumatism and diabetes," Mr. Maginel says in telling the story of his cure. "My sleep was broken and unrefreshing, and I was tired and nervous all the time I was treated by a doctor but he failed to cure me. Reading that Dodd's Kidney Pills were good for brick sediment in the urine, led me to try them, and after using twelve boxes I am as well as I can possibly be. Dodd's Kidney Pills have made a new man of me and I am thankful.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are no cure-all. They cure sick kidneys and that is all that is claimed for them. But sick kidneys are the root of numerous diseases caused by impure blood. For you can't have pure blood with sick kidneys. It is the work of the kidneys to strain the impurities out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Diabetes because it is a kidney disease; they cure rheumatism because it is caused by sick kidneys failing to strain the uric acid out of the blood.

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

That's what he is. I wish God open up his heart a bit and ask us into that devilish American bar of his."

"He owes us something for the warship we delivered to him last night," said Bobby. "He has made good with his warship story, after all, thanks to the King's Own and Britt."

"And the fairy princess," added Lady Deppingham.

"I am doubly glad I came if you include me in the miracle," said Genevra, shuddering a little as she looked at the lounging natives. "Isn't it rather more of a miracle that I should come upon mine ancient champion in this unheard of corner of the globe?"

"I'd like to hear the story of Chase and his adventures in the queen's garden," reminded Bobby Browne.

"I'll tell it to you tonight, my children," said the princess as they started for the palanquins.

Hollingsworth Chase dodged into the American bar just in time to escape the charge of spying.

CHAPTER XIII.

MR. SAUNDERS HAS A PLAN.

MISS PELHAM'S affair with Thomas Saunders by this time had reached the stage where observers feel a hesitancy about twitting the parties most concerned.

"Miss Pelham is a clever girl, much cleverer than Saunders would be if he were a girl," said Britt. "She's found out that he earns a thousand a year and that his mother is a very old woman. That shows foresight. She says she's just crazy about London, although she doesn't know where Hammersmith is. That shows discretion. She's anxious to see the boats at Putney and talks like an encyclopedia about Kew gardens. That shows diplomacy. You see, Saunders lives in Hammersmith, not far from the bridge, all alone with his mother, who owns the house and garden. It's all very appealing to Miss Pelham, who has got devilish tired of seeing the universe from a nineteenth story in Broadway."

"A very saucy one," added Deppingham, who had come a severe cropper in his single attempt to interest her in a mild flirtation.

"She's off with Saunders now," went on Britt. "That's why you can't find him, my lord. If you really want him, however, I think you can reach him by strolling through the lower end of the park, but don't fail to shout."

"I do want him, confound him! I want to ask him how many days there are left before our time is up on the island. Demmed annoying that I can't have legal advice when I"—

"How many days have you been here?"

"How the devil should I know? That's what we've got Saunders here for. He's supposed to tell us when to go home and all that sort of thing, you know."

Deppingham, phlegmatic soul, was forever disturbing Saunders with calls to duty, although Saunders was British enough in his British way to maintain—in confidence, of course—that he was in the employ of Lady Deppingham or no one at all. Nevertheless he always lived under the shadow of duty. At any moment his lordship was liable to send for him to ask the time of day or some equally important question. And this brings us to the hour when Saunders unfolded his startling solution to the problem that confronted them all.

First he confided in Britt soberly, sagely and in perfect good faith. Britt was bowled over. He stared at Saunders and gasped. Nearly two minutes elapsed before he could find words to reply, which proves conclusively that it must have been something of a shock to him. When at last he did express himself, however, there was nothing that could have been left unsaid—absolutely nothing. He went so far as to call Saunders a doddering fool and a great many other things that Saunders had not in the least expected.

The Englishman was stubborn. They had it back and forth, from legal and other points of view, and finally Britt gave in to his colleague, reserving the right to laugh when it was all over. Saunders, with a determination that surprised even himself, called for a conference of all parties in Wyckholme's study at 4 o'clock.

"Now, what's it all about, Saunders?" demanded Deppingham, with a wide yawn. Saunders looked hurt.

"It is high time we were discussing some way out of our difficulties," he said. "But five weeks remain before our stay is over. The apparent impossibility of marriage between Lady Deppingham and Mr. Browne naturally throws our joint cause into jeopardy. There would be no controversy, of course, if the terms of the will could be carried out in that respect. The islanders understand our position and seem secure in their rights. They imagine that they have us beaten on the face of things. Now, the thing for us to do is to get married."

He came to this conclusion with startling abruptness. Four of his hearers stared at him in blank astonishment.

"Get married?" murmured first one, then another.

"Are you crazy?" demanded Browne. Britt was grinning broadly.

"Certainly not!" snapped Saunders.

"Oh, by Jove!" exclaimed Deppingham, relieved. "I see. You mean you contemplate getting married. I congratulate you. You gave me quite a shock, Saund"—

"I don't mean anything of the sort, my lord," said Saunders, getting very red in the face. Miss Pelham looked up from her notebook quickly. He winked at her, and her ladyship saw him do it. "I mean that it is high time that Lady Deppingham and Mr. Browne were getting married. We haven't much time to spare. If"—

"Open the window and give some air," said Britt coolly.

"My lord, I am here to act as your legal adviser," said Saunders, with dignity. "May I be permitted to proceed?"

"Rather queer legal advice, 'pon my word."

"Please let him explain," put in Mrs. Browne, whose sense of humor was strongly attracted by this time. "If there is anything more to be learned concerning matrimony I'd like to know it."

"Yes, Mr. Saunders, you may proceed," said Lady Agnes, passing a hand over her bewildered eyes.

"Thank you, my lady. Well, here it is in a nutshell: I have not spoken of it before, but you and Mr. Browne can very easily comply with the provisions of the will. You can be married at any time. Now, I"—

"And where do I come in?" demanded Deppingham sarcastically.

"Yes, and I?" added Mrs. Browne. "You forget us, Mr. Saunders."

"I include Mrs. Browne," amended Deppingham. "Are we to be assassinated? By Jove, clever idea of yours, Saunders! Simplifies matters tremendously."

"I hear no objection from the heirs," remarked Saunders meaningly, whereupon Lady Agnes and Bobby came out of their stupor and protested vigorously.

"Miss Pelham," said Britt, breaking in sharply, "I trust you are getting all of this down. I wish to warn you, ladies and gentlemen, that I expect to overthrow the will on the ground that there is insanity on both sides. You'll oblige me by uttering just what you feel."

"My plan is very simple," began Saunders helplessly.

"Demmed simple," growled Deppingham.

"We are living on an island where polygamy is practiced and tolerated. Why can't we take advantage of the custom and beat the natives at their own game? That's the ticket?"

Of course this proposition, simple as it sounded, brought forth a storm of laughter and expostulation, but Saunders held his ground.

"You have only to embrace Mohammedanism or paganism, or whatever it is, temporarily—just long enough to get married and comply with the terms. Then, I dare say, you could resume your Christian doctrine once more, after a few weeks, I'd say, and the case is won."

"I pay Lady Deppingham the compliment by saying that it would be most difficult for me to become a Christian again," said Browne smoothly, bowing to the flushed Englishwoman.

"How very sweet of you!" she said, with a grimace which made Drusilla shiver with annoyance.

"You don't need to live together, of course," floundered Saunders, getting rather beyond his depth.

"Well, that's a concession on your part," said Mrs. Browne, a flash in her eye.

"I never heard of such an asinine proposition," sputtered Deppingham. Saunders went completely under at that.

"On the other hand," he hastened to remark, "I'm sure it would be quite legal if you did live to"—

"Stop him, for heaven's sake!" screamed Lady Agnes, bursting into uncontrollable laughter.

"Stop him? Why?" demanded her husband, suddenly seeing what he regarded as a rare joke. "Let's hear him out. By Jove, there's more to it than I thought. Go on, Saunders."

"Of course if you are going to be nasty about it"— began Saunders in a huff.

"I can't see anything nasty about it," said Browne. "It might be that our wife and our husband may decide to be stubborn and unreasonable, but it sounds rather attractive to me."

"Robert!" from his wife.

MORPHINE'S SAD VICTIMS

How Dread Drug Gradually Enslaves Many—Useful Friend but Dangerous Master.

The custom of taking stimulants in one form or another has become such a time-worn and honored one, justly or unjustly—heaven forbid that I should be the one to raise my hand in protest!—from the dainty maid in the five o'clock tea room all the way down to the debauched absinthe drinker of the Parisian Latin Quarter, that at the present time we have come to look upon many of these habits not only with tolerance, but with avowed approval.

Tea, coffee and cocoa we have come to regard, if I may be pardoned for a contradiction of terms, as luxurious necessities of life and even alcohol, administered to us in the form of various confusing but delectable beverages, is not lacking in enthusiastic advocates. But it is not of these harmless or harmful stimulants that I wish to speak to-day, but of a vicious habit which is becoming so alarmingly prevalent even in our own fair city that a few words upon the subject may not seem out of place. I refer to morphinism and morphinomania—two varieties of the same affection.

We may describe morphinism as the habit of taking morphine in small doses for the relief of pain and without any appreciable increase in dosage, except as necessity demands.

Morphinomania, on the other hand, is a condition in which morphine is taken for pleasure or as a stimulant and in ever increasing doses.

DANGEROUS MASTER

Morphine contains all the potentialities for good and evil. We have no more obedient or useful servant and no more tyrannical or dangerous master. It is the octopus of medicine, winding its great arms softly, subtly, soothing about its victim; its horrible fascination overcomes him and he falls limp until at last the cruel tentacles contract with a firm, unyielding grasp and slowly but relentlessly crush him to death.

It is startling to think that in this city of less than one hundred thousand inhabitants there are probably several hundred morphine habitues—poor, unfortunate creatures, egotistic and unreasoning, who walk about the city streets, sepulchral images of their dead selves, human in outward semblance only—in reality lost to the common instincts and impulses of humanity.

THE RESULTS

After about six months use of the drug some of the characteristic symptoms develop. The memory becomes treacherous, the patient may be able to recall events which have occurred years before and yet the immediate or quite recent past remains a blank. During a conversation words fail to come and embarrassment and confusion ensue. Insomnia gradually becomes more pronounced, for, contrary to what we might expect, the morphine habitue does not sleep well, the nights are spent in restless tossing about for want of a better occupation in reading. Or, if by chance he should fall asleep he is possessed by the most frightful nightmare, grotesque and hideous objects flit before his harrassed imagination, he hears gruesome sounds and starts from his clammy pillow into wakefulness, only a degree less terrible than these phantoms of his dreams.

A feeling of despondency oppresses him and this sensation predominates throughout the day, or is replaced at times by flashes of unwonted animation superinduced by the drug—a fleeting and transitory brilliance in which the ideas are exaggerated and unnatural—a lightning-like illumination of the mind, fast followed by impenetrable darkness.

The will power is enfeebled, whole days are often spent in bed, the patient lacking the initiative necessary to arise and attend to pressing duties. The sense of responsibility is obtunded and is replaced by indifference and perfect egotism.

An inability for consecutive mental work develops and added to this we find a moral inertia, he becomes untruthful, unreliable and unethical. Criticism of all kinds is resented, for although he may feel in his better moments that he is doing wrong he will not acknowledge it and in his self-sufficiency recognize no other authority. He shuns society.

Morphine not only robs its victim of his physical vitality, but leads finally to his mental and moral degredation. As a general rule the drug is first used to combat pain, real or fancied, or as a remedy for insomnia, although many cases have occurred where it was first used from curiosity or through the example or advice of an habitue. Unfortunately, there is a considerable number of individuals in whom it produces even from the first a species of delirious pleasure akin to drunkenness and to this type it is particularly dangerous.

Morphinomaniacs almost invariably use the hypodermic method. There are several reasons for this. There is a certain morbid fascination about the needle: the transitory self-inflicted pain, followed so quickly by transcendent pleasure, the more rapid effect and its greater certainty than where other means are used. The hypodermic method is less subject to variations in results, and a much smaller quantity will produce the desired effect than when the drug is administered orally.

The morphinomaniac feverishly pursues an elusive myth which appears before his distorted imagination. He seeks mental strength exaltation, relief from ennui; the drowning of sorrow, of the sense of failure and hopeless despair. He seeks to annihilate the present and the future. To approach this result he must constantly increase his dose and even then the best he can hope for is a temporary forgetfulness, a fleeting happiness soon followed by a corresponding depression—he succeeds only in obliterating his better self.

The Contrary Sex

"I deserve the honor of membership," said he, "for I have always upheld woman. I have upheld her even against herself.

"For instance, I strongly reprimanded a Hannibal, Mo., woman, once. Here was the occasion:

"'So this is a little girl, eh?' I said to the woman, as she displayed her children to me. 'And this little sturdy urchin in the b'b belongs, I suppose, to the contrary sex?'

"'Yassah,' she replied. 'Yassah, dat's a gal, too.'"

HAMILTON MAN FOR PASTOR OF GEORGE STREET CHURCH

Rev. Isaac Couch, M.A., B.D., Extended a Hearty Invitation—Will Likely Accept—Rev. E. A. Pearson Going to Hamilton.

Rev. Isaac Couch, M.A., B.D., of Hamilton, last evening was unanimously invited by the Official Board of the George street church to the pastorate such invitation to take effect in June next.

Mr. Couch is regarded as one of the strongest of the younger men of Canadian Methodism. He spent a four-years term in Toronto before being called to Gore street church, Hamilton.

Since Methodist union some twenty years ago Gore street and Wesley church, Hamilton.—Rev. Dr. Tovell being in charge of the latter — though situated but one block apart, have both been used for worship, but one year ago they were united into one strong church of over 1,000 members, and called Central church, both pastors being retained for the year. Rev. E. A. Pearson has recently been invited to this church and now, Mr. Couch, having been secured, the transfer between the two conferences will be easily accomplished. Mr. Couch, while stationed in Toronto, was secretary of the Toronto conference for one year. It is expected he will accept the invitation so heartily accorded.

DOG FIGHT CAUSE OF RUNAWAY

A runaway of a somewhat sensational character occurred on Charlotte street this morning when a sleigh and team ran away while standing in front of a grocery store. The horses took sudden fright at a dog fight which commenced right before them and dashed up the street. At the time there was nobody in the sleigh except a little girld. After going two or three hundred yards the horses began to slow up a little, and a man ran from the sidewalk, jumped into the sleigh and brought them to a stop.

ANGLICAN SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AND SUMMER SCHOOL WILL BE HELD

A meeting of the city Anglican clergy, Sunday school superintendents and teachers, was held in St. John's Guild rooms last night, to form a committee in connection with the S.S. convention to be held here next June.

The meeting was very largely attended, and characterized by considerable enthusiasm for the work in hand.

The Rev. J. Russel McLean rector of Colborne, was present, and outlined the work proposed to be taken in hand by the committee for the deaneries to be represented at the convention. On the Sunday preceding the convention, the Anglican pulpits will be occupied by Bishop Sweeney, Archdeacon Cody and Rev. Canon Powell. Papers will be given by Mr. Barlow Cumberland, Rev. Mr. Burns, Rev. Holdsworth and others, Rev. C. Vi Pilcher, organizing secretary of the diocese of Toronto Sunday schools, and Rev. Canon Powell, Toronto, will also attend.

Wednesday and Thursday of convention week will be devoted to a summer school conducted by expert S.S. teachers. A city committee was formed as follows;—Mr. Edgar, of All Saints', chairman; Miss Birdie Dawson, Mr. R. J. Devey, secretaries; the three local superintendents, convenors with five representatives from each congregation, will form the executive of the committee.

In the course of the discussion that followed strong emphasis was laid upon the fact that merely academic discussion at the coming convention would be useless, and consequently the committees were requested to take up subjects that would be of real practical assistance to Sunday school teachers.

The object of the world to be taken up, both at the convention and the summer school will be to specially help Sunday school work in purely rural districts.

Rev. H. R. Trumpour, of All Saints', presided at the early part of the above proceedings, followed by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, of St. Luke's church.

GREYSTOCK RESIDENCE WAS BURNED TO THE GROUND

About 9.30 on Saturday morning, fire broke out at the residence of Mr. Jos. Robertson, Greystock, and the building was burned to the ground. The property is owned by the school section, and was rented by Mr. Robertson. The cause of the fire is not known and the only cause it can be attributed to by the householders is that it had its origin in the chimney.

Some of the household effects were saved, but a considerable quantity were lost in the fire. The house was insured, but none of the contents. The structure was a one-storey frame building.

Mrs. Robertson and his family have moved to Downer's Corners.

PREMIER WHITNEY SAYS THE THREE FIFTHS CLAUSE WILL BE RETAINED

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—The annual deputation from the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance met Premier Whitney and Hon. W. J. Hanna at noon, but only five were present instead of the hundreds last year, and the interview was in private. They asked for the abolition of the barroom treating system, drinking in clubs and the repeal of the three-fifths clause. Sir James informed them that in the interests of temperance the three-fifths would be retained, and suggested that they all unite to assist the Government to enforce the law under existing conditions. The government legislate ahead of public opinion.

The Private Bills Committee refused to grant the application of Berlin to become a city.

Sir James made a statement denying that the government had any intention of changing assessment act to permit municipalities to assess improvements at less than land values. They had never considered this.

Rev. J. G. Potter, of Peterborough, was a member of the temperance deputation.

ANOTHER PHASE OF DOG NUISANCE

"This matter of taking precautions to protect the citizens from vicious dogs, which the council is now considering, has more than one phase," said a prominent citizen to The Review to-day. "While a possibility of the rabies epidemic makes it necessary that some preliminary steps to minimize its dangers should be taken, the council might, in the meantime, do something for the protection of the people driving horses on the city streets. These are particularly affected by snapping and barking dogs, which create such a disturbance that runaways are frequently caused, and it is a common occurrence for valuable robes to be torn by yapping curs which run at large without restriction. Complaints, I am informed, as the result of this nuisance, have been made to the mayor, and I think it would be a timely matter for the council to take up and act upon without delay."

Will Try to do Better

On Monday an item was published in the Review relative to an undesirable state of affairs existing in a family in the south end of the city on account of the husband and father being addicted to the drink habit. It is learned that the man has turned over a new leaf and has decided to try and do better in the future. He has steady employment in one of the factories and a wife who will assist him in every way to make amends for the past. It is said that a marked improvement is already noticeable in the home. The wife is a bright, cheerful person and possesses all the qualities of a good homemaker.

THE DEATH OF CAPT. KENNEDY

Winnipeg Free Press—Capt. John W. Kennedy, one of Winnipeg's pioneers, passed away in his 66th year Saturday at his residence, 965 Portage avenue. He was the last of the Kennedy brothers, who were so prominent in military affairs in this city, and indeed in Ontario, before moving to the west. The older of these brothers, the late Colonel W. N. Kennedy, was the chief mover in the organization of the 90th Rifles and the first commander of that corps. The late Capt. Jas. Kennedy accompanied his brother, the Colonel, on the Nile expedition, and died in this city only a coulpe of years ago. The late Capt. Joseph Kennedy commanded a company of the 91st in the second Riel rebellion.

John Wesley Kennedy was born in Peterborough, a little over 65 years ago, being a son of Colonel John Kennedy, of the 57th Peterborough light infantry. He joined his father's battalion at 14 years of age as bugler, and at 17 took his place in the line. At 19 he went to the military school and was gazetted ensign on graduation. At 22 years of age he became captain of No. 2 company, and no less than three of his brothers were officers of the battalion under the command of their father at the Fenian raid at Ridgeway in 1866.

Mr. Kennedy came to Winnipeg about 1880, and in the following year was a member of the home guards at Fort Osborne barracks. In 1885, when the second Riel rebellion broke out, he recruited a company for the 91st battalion and was made its captain, going immediately to the front.

He was married in 1866 to Sarah Elizabeth Newman, who survives him. The family consists of two sons, Wm. N. and John H. N., both married and residents of this city, and one daughter, Lulu, the wife of Geo. A. Brown, M. D.

The deceased with his brothers opened up business in painting and decorating and for a number of years were a prominent firm in that line. John W. afterwards went into the life insurance business and for a time was manager for Manitoba and the west of the North American Life. For some years he has held a position in the land titles office.

The Kennedy family were all active Methodists and John W. was for many years a prominent and official member of Grace church, transferring later to Young church, which was nearer his residence, and still later he transferred to St. James Park Congregational church, which was more convenient to his home. A memorial service will be held in that church on Sunday morning, Feb. 20, when Rev. Ernest R. Weeks will conduct the service.

Mr. Kennedy was a great lover of music and possessed a fine tenor voice which he used most generously in connection with religious services, always associated with the church choir.

He was particularly prominent as a temperance advocate, proud of the fact that he was a life long abstainer and had joined the cadets of temperance when only eight years of age. He was a member of the Good Templars and of the Sons of Temperance but for the last twenty odd years was regarded as a leader in the Royal Templars of Temperance. He was at one time the presiding officer of Aurora council No. 1, of that city, and prided himself upon the remarkable record of initiating 111 members during the year of his incumbency. He passed through the chairs of the provincial body and won the honors of the past grand councillor, representing Manitoba in the national body. At the time of his death he was one of the grand trustees and only a few days before was making preparations for the annual convention of this week. He took particular interest in the reception of the Dominion Banner, which this year was awarded to his mother council, Aurora, No. 1. He was the president of the Glee club of that society. Without a doubt a memorial service will be held during the annual convention, probably on Thursday evening.

He was a member of the Masonic order, of the Orange order and of other fraternal societies.

John W. Kennedy possessed all the elements that make up an enterprising and useful citizen. He was ever ready to give a helping hand to every movement that made for the betterment of society and was particularly devoted to moral reform and Christian work. He was an exemplary Christian, a loving husband and a kind father, whose passing will be sincerely mourned by his own family and by a large circle of friends.

WEDDING BELLS

MOORE—MANN

The marriage took place yesterday of Chas. E. Moore, son of Mr. J. K. Moore, Smith, to Miss Eunice Ada Mann, eldest daughter of Mr. Thos. R. Mann of the same township. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's parents at 12.30 o'clock and was witnessed by a large number of friends and relatives.

The officiating clergyman was Rev. Jas. Bonner of Gilmour Memorial church. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Ida Jackson of Peterborough. The bride was given away by her father and looked charming in a dress of white liberty satin, trimmed with lace, and wore a bridal veil with wreath of orange blossoms. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Sadie Mann, who was dressed in pale blue and carried pink roses.

On their return they will reside in Smith.

Both bride and groom are exceedingly popular and received a large number of beautiful presents. They will have the best wishes of a host of friends.

HAVE MARRIAGE LICENSE ISSUED BY FAMILY DOCTOR

"At present there is no real check upon the marriage of diseased and mentally weak persons.

"The marriage license business ought to be taken out of the hands of jewellers and opticians and placed in the hands of the family doctor.

"The average person doesn't know the awful nature of the venereal diseases that infest a city like Toronto. A thousand dollars a week is spent in drug stores in Toronto on remedies for two private diseases."

So spoke Rev. Byron H. Stauffer, pastor of Bond street Congregational church, to the Canadian Club in Toronto on Monday. His subject was, "Who Hinders Reforms?" His address was notable for several startling statements and for the fact, that he censured business men while addressing a club that is largely composed of men in business.

"Reforms are the leaps by which society moves forward," he said.

"The progress of civilization is a succession of dashes, punctuated by pauses, that men often mistake for a re-action.

"The advance of civilization is led by the reformer. Some brave soul goes ahead in utter loneliness, fights a hand-to-hand battle and opens a door long enough for humanity to surge through.

"Whose shoulder is on the other side of the door? Who hinders reforms from being accomplished?

"In the inexperience of our youth we thought that it was necessary merely to state an evil to have it at once corrected, but when we reached maturity we found that there is a deep chasm between what is and what ought to be.

"Whose fault is it?

"To my mind it is not the fault of the man who profits by evil.

"The brewer, the professional gambler the keeper of wicked resorts and the hand-book man after all haven't very much influence.

"Neither do those who contribute to evil keep reforms from being enacted.

"To my mind the man who hinders reform, is the indifferent, conservatively-inclined man whose business is the centre of life, and who is so anxious to maintain prosperity that he has neither the time nor the inclination to express himself on the evils of his day.

"The men who hinder reforms are our prosperous business men, good fellows, wearing large-sized hats, good reasoners, looking well to the income, good husbands, and fathers, members of the church, and not staying out late at night, but keeping their heads so well over their desks that they have little time to devote to the general good."

PETERBOROUGH RINKS ARE DOING WELL AT THE BOBCAYGEON BONSPIEL

Bobcaygeon, Feb. 16.—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Bobcaygeon curling club was right royally celebrated yesterday afternoon when their big 'spiel was opened with seventeen rinks in attendance. The rinks at the 'spiel were five from Peterborough, four from Lindsay, four from Fenelon Falls and four from 'Caygeon. It was fully expected by the members of the club that several other rinks would be in attendance, but for some unknown reason they did not put in an appearance.

The weather man certainly favored the 'spiel by sending forth several degrees of frost, and as a result the ice was very keen, and on two of the rinks very crooked, but considering the fact that it is skating ice it was in first class condition.

Secretary W. Davis and the other members of the club did everything possible for the comfort and entertainment of the visiting curlers and seemed to appreciate their attendance at their first attempt to hold a bonspiel since the organization of the club half a century ago. The 'spiel opened at 1.30 o'clock, the second draw at 4 and the third draw at 8 o'clock in the evening, and at the conclusion fo these games many cruck rinks that were sure winners fell by the wayside.

Peterborough is strongly represented and don't be disappointed if the five prizes go to the electric city; they are easily the strongest rinks at the 'spiel and two of them remain in the primary event viz. Frank Matthews, an old Lindsay boy and Mayor Geo. Morrow, and from here they look like easy winners.

All the Lindsay rinks were knocked out of the primaries, Terry and Thomas going out in the first round and Butler and Tilly in the evening draw. Terry was knocked out by Robson, of Fenelon, by one shot. Thomas lost to Neill, of Peterborough, by one shot, Butler won from Bottum in the afternoon by a couple of shots and lost to Mayor Morrow of the electric city in the evening, who has one of the strongest rinks at the 'spiel. The other Lindsay rinks, skipped by Tilly, easily disposed of Stewart of 'Caygeon in the afternoon, and only lost to Gould, of Fenelon in the evening by one shot. The four rinks will now play in the consolation. All the 'Caygeon rinks were knocked out of the primaries with the exception of Davis who won a game by default in the afternoon and trimmed Robson, of Fenelon, in the evening, and it is now up to the secretary to win some of the crockery for the home club.

Myles Hamilton and Alvin Gould are the only Fenelon rinks left and they will put up a stiff argument in the next round, and look out if that Hamilton rink don't have some say where part of the crockery will land as they appear to be very strong and defeated Neill's crack Peterborough rink on an extra end in the evening.

Two of the biggest surprises of the 'spiel was the defeat of Waddell's strong Peterborough rink by Alvin Gould, of Fenelon Falls, and the defeat of Albert Bottum, who was looked upon as a winner, by Butler's rink of Lindsay.

The 'spiel has created considerable enthusiasm in the summer resort town and large crowds of spectators were present at both afternoon and evening games. The fair sex are especially noticeable and hand out many hot roasts to the visiting clubs, especially if they are defeating a local rink.

A dainty lunch was served in the club room upstairs by the members of the club at the conclusion of each game, and it was appreciated by the curlers, especially in the evening.

The big event will likely be completed by Wednesday evening, when the five prizes will be safely landed in their summer homes. The rinks:

WILMOT STRICTLY ON THE ROCK

The friends of Wilmot Reesor, the Markham young man who acted as goal umpire in the recent 3 to 3 game at Peterborough between the Markham team and the Peterborough High School, are much incensed at the report from Peterborough that he was intoxicated at the game, and was therefore removed by the referee. Reesor is a young man of high standing in Markham, and is not addicted to the use of intoxicants. His friends maintain that he has been done a very great injustice.—Toronto Globe

He had escaped from Siberia nine months before and after much hardship had penetrated so far south in an effort to get aboard and English ship and some of the Mediterranean ports.

Chicago Reports Predict Rise to 9 Cents—Ranching Areas Diminishing

Consumers of beef who have been protesting against the high price of meats, may have further justification for complaint before the summer is over, if expert predictions prove correct.

It is the opinion of a cattle man of long experience in Chicago, that, before the first of June, cattle will be selling in that city, at 9 cents per pound on the hoof. This dealer sets no bounds to the advances which will probably follow.

It is not difficult to account for the present state of affairs, said this authority. The face of the Western States is being altered and ranch lands are diminishing with the introduction of railroads and the influx of population. Cereals, too, are now being put to so many manufacturing purposes, that grain growers in the west are finding their best profits through these channels, and the feeding of cattle is becoming a complex question.

C. G. E. TEAM CHAMPIONS

Of Mercantile Hockey League—Defeated Anburns by 4—1 Score

The Canadian General Electric team captured the Mercantile League honors last night by defeating the Auburns by 4—1, the half-time score being 1—0, for the champions. In this period the play was even, and there was little to pick between the two teams. C.G.E. scored the only goal after ten minutes of play. In the second half, the electric team's superiority, and the work of Clancy and Elliott were conspicuous. The Auburns were inclined to mix it up, but Referee Rose was quiet to the task before him. Kendrey and Weatherston worked well for the losers, and Lillie handled many shots at his position between the nets.

howling their approval. Derocher got in front of a hard shot. In 12 minutes, and after the Straths had made an assault on the West End nets Ray tied up the score again.

Strathconas 4, West Ends 4.

Derocher stopped a corner shot and a second later Dobson missed a pass in front of the net. Moore was penalized for getting Shortt along the boards, and with the advantage of his absence West Ends pressed, but could not get the necessary. McWilliams was chased for getting Burritt, and with him off the Straths went ahead, Burritt beating Halpin from a faceoff. Time 5 minutes.

For the remainder of the game the West Ends were a beaten team. The last goal scored seemed to take all the heart out of the team and they went to pieces. In 3 minutes Ray on a long rush placed one on the other side of Halpin, and one minute later Burritt took another.

Strathconas 7, West Ends 4.

The play of the Strathconas was meeting with only half hearted opposition. Crane was penalized for tripping Ray. Weatherston took the next score in 30 seconds, and in the same time Ray took the next and last tally of the game.

Strathconas 9, West Ends 4.

CITY LEAGUE HOCKEY HONORS AGAIN PASS TO STRATHCONAS

West Ends Beaten in Game to Decide Championship—Score Was 9-4---Was Anybody's Match Till Last Ten Minutes, When Commissioners Scored Five in a Row.

Large and Enthusiastic Crowd Went Wild in the Closing Period of the Game—West Ends Played Their Best Men on the Fence Too Frequently—Whitehead's Good Work With the Bell.

The Strathconas are champions again. The great work of the team last night placed them in the much-coveted position, and the score of 9—4 represents one of the most exciting and well-played games of hockey yet pulled off in Brock street rink. It was by no fluke that the Commissioners won. They secured the victory, the tide of which turned in their favor towards the latter part of the game, when, with McWilliams, of the West Ends, on the penalty list, Burritt scored the goal that put his team ahead, and at the same time took all the heart out of the Oldham seven. For the remainder of the game the red and white outfit had their opponents beaten and put four counters past Halpin. It was a great finish to a great game.

was the largest that ever witnessed a City League game, and to say that they were thrilled with the exhibition would be putting it mildly. From the first face-off to the last ring of the gong there was a fever of excitement, and each team had an equal number of rooters. The West End supporters had come prepared to cheer on their team, and at each score the uproar was deafening. Horns, tin pans and lusty voices all combined made a great upheaval, but it did not serve the purpose—that of getting the Straths "up in the air," and their less noisy supporters, augmented by many turnovers, had the laugh when the team went ahead in the second half, never to be caught up with.

The first half saw the score go in favor of the Strathconas by 3—2. At times the West Ends showed superiority. Giroux had all kinds of chances at his wing, but although he scored first for his team, his shooting was away off. There was all kinds of brilliant combination plays and individual work, and the performance by Denison, who secured the puck at his position and tore through the West End defence for the odd goal, was a pretty piece of hockey. The West Ends gave a great exhibition of checking, when, with two men on the fence, they prevented a score on the part of their aggressive opponents.

The first goal of the game went to the Strathcona, but Giroux was not long in evening up. The winners took the next, and again the West Ends tied the figures. Then Denison secured his counter, and despite heroic work on the part of the yellow and black team, the lead was held for the remainder of the half. Ken Crane put his team on even terms again shortly after the face-off, and followed up with another, which put them in the lead. During the stage of the game the West Ends were outplaying the Straths, not to any great extent, but with the lead, it was sufficient to make the chances of the team appear bright. It was Captain Ray who relieved the situation for the Strathconas, and started the team on the road to the championship. McWilliams, who had already journeyed too frequently to the penalty box, was given another penalty, and with him off the ice, Burritt netted the rubber in, and the West Ends were beaten.

There appeared to be, on several occasions, a little hard luck on the part of the West Ends, but to go over the game and figure out the situations, it looks like an even break for the two teams. There is no doubt that the loss suffered by their penalty list. The men most needed on the ice were the ones to fall under the displeasure of the referee, and, comparing the two totals, the Strathconas had the advantage, their number being nine, while that of the West Ends was 13.

are to be congratulated on again winning the championship, which is the third time in five years. The players have had a hard season, the majority having given their services in the O.H.A. series, and the games coming, as they did, close together, has been a severe strain. The other City League teams have also contributed players, and in doing this the object of the league has been attained. Of the original team which played under the name of Swindles, only one player is on the present line-up, he being McMillan, and in last night's game he was as reliable as ever. Weatherstone, who has always been conspicuous for his aggressiveness, put up his usual effective game. Ray and Burritt were always pressing, and shared the honors with Crane and Dobson. Denison starved, and his steady, all round work was always prominent. Moore checked and rushed splendidly, and played his position in a creditable manner. Derocher let a couple of easy ones get past him, on the whole his work was up to his usual high standard.

Every man on the West Ends played sterling hockey up to the time when the unexpected happened. Halpin, McWilliams and Seymour, on the defence were a classy trio. The shots that beat Halpin were hard ones, and good enough to count as goals. Crane and Dobson worked well together. Crane suffered four penalties, which is somewhat unusual for him. Shortt gave a good account of himself at all times and his checking was always in evidence. Giroux was off in his shooting, but, like his pal on the other wing, his checking and stickhandling was good.

Referee Whitehead handled the game in a manner that was satisfactory, both to the teams and the crowd, and when any official can do that he is a good one.

THE SCORING.

The West Ends took the north end goal and Straths drew the face-off and the puck travelled up the ice only to be returned. There was just a slight evidence of nervousness on the part of the players of both teams. It was up to Derocher to stop the first shot of the game. The play was very fast and even. Dobson got in a nice shot, but the play had been offside and Referee Whitehead had his pockets working. McWilliams stopped Weatherston as he rushed the boards, the game being stopped for a few seconds. On resuming, Weatherston was sent to the fence for the first penalty, for hooking McWilliams. The Straths pressed but Giroux broke away and sent a hot one at Derocher, but there was nothing doing. Shortt drew a penalty, and he was followed by McWilliams. The Straths, however, were kept in subjection by the five West Enders. Moore tore off a lonely, but the pass near the nets was wasted. Seymour was ordered from the ice for a rest, and finally Maggie McMillan sent Halpin, and there was joy in the camp of the Strathconas. The West Ends evened up in half a minute, Giroux fooling Derocher on a shot from the side. The tin pan brigade of the West End rooters got busy.

Denison was mistaken for McMillan and journied to the timekeepers. Crane missed an elegant chance to put his team ahead by not getting the quick pass in front of the Straths nets. The play went into the corner, Ray secured and rushed, but fell by the wayside. The puck being worked up and down the ice with the players all performing at their best. Burritt was chased for loafing after missing a good chance on a pass out from the corner. Giroux took a long shot. Derocher blocked and for a short time the West Ends kept the Straths busy in defending their nets. Ray got away and McWilliams was penalized for stopping him in a manner not in accordance with the rules. Crane pulled off a dangerous looking rush, but Dobson collided with him, and in the mix-up Straths captured the puck. After five minutes and from the face-off ten feet out from the West End goal, Burritt sent his team in the lead.

Right after the face off, Burritt almost went one better on a pass from Ray, who rushed, the shot missing the west post by inches. Crane and McWilliams were rolled back at centre ice. Giroux took a shot, which, however, was wide. After a series of fast plays by both teams Craneput an easy one behind Derocher, and the score was tied up again. Time 4 minutes.

Both nets were attacked in turn, and the West Ends looked to be having slightly the better of the argument. Giroux's shot went to the bad, and Weatherston and Crane were sent to decorate the fence. Seymour went down alone, only to be outtracked. The fast pace was beginning to tell, both teams being effected. Moore secured, rushed and fell a victim to McWilliams, who was presented with another sojourn in the box. Weatherston's scoo, failed to connect, and Denison rested for tripping Crane, who returned the puck. The latter lifted too high shortly afterwards on a pass from Seymour, who rushed, the Strathconatorters heaved a sigh of relief and gave Derocher the glad hand when he left his nets and saved a counter a few seconds later. Denison contributed the next score on a pretty piece of work. Taking the puck from his position he went up the boards, and, although juggled about by the West End defence, put the disc past Halpin. Time 7 minutes.

There was no more scoring for the rest of the half. Derocher blocked one from Crane and with the puck hovering around Halpin, the Straths could not turn the trick. Shortt went off for getting Ray and Denison stopped Dobson as he combined with Crane. Crane drew another penalty for tripping Denison along the boards. Moore rushed nicely, but Burritt missed the shot on the pass.

Strathconas 3, West Ends 2.

SECOND HALF.

Crane and Shortt went up from the faceoff and Denison returned. McMillan falling down on the play. Crane came along in one minute with the counter that tied the score, and the yellow and black followers gave a mighty yell.

Both nets were attacked, but there was nothing doing in the line of a score. Ray was benched, and with him off, the West Ends had the advantage and the better of the play. Shortt and Crane got away together, but the play went into the corner. Moore received a jab in the eye and the game was stopped. Crane took the puck from the face off and shot. Derocher blocked, but Crane went right in and batted the rubber for a score from the rebound and his team was one ahead. Time 5 minutes.

After the faceoff Crane went off for slashing Ray. West Ends looked good to score for the next few minutes, and the Straths were lucky in preventing. Ray got the puck away and a couple of shots were sent at Halpin. Denison visited the penalty box and McMillan received the same treatment for tripping McWilliams as he went up the boards. It was fast hockey all the time and the fans were

COBOURG NOW TO MEET COLLINGWOOD

Cobourg, Feb. 16.—In a great game here to-night before a crowd of about 1,500 people, the local septette ran up a score of 10 to 5 on the Trenton seven, winning the round by six goals.

Both teams played excellent hockey. The locals defence was a wall of strength and their fight forwards certainly had lots of speed and clever stick-handling with them. They also checked back on every occasions, and it was seldom that the visitors got near Patton, and if by chance they did, Patton was there with the goods.

The score at half time was 6 to 2. F. C. Waghorne refereed very strictly. This gives Cobourg the championship over three districts, and their next game will be played with Collingwood in that town Friday night. The line-up:—

BASEBALL

O'HARA FOR TORONTO.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 15.—Manager Joe Kelly, of the Toronto Club, while hunting at it for some time, has about made up his mind that he can serve his team better by directing his men from the bench than in the field. With this view uppermost in his mind, he went to New York last night to secure Outfielder Bill O'Hara, formerly an Oriole.

To-day Kelley got in touch with Roger Bresnahan of the St. Louis Nationals and had an extended talk with him. A good sum of money was offered Bresnahan, who is the man who prevented Kelley from getting O'Hara when McGraw let him go. Assurances were given Kelley that O'Hara would in all probability be with Toronto this season. Bresnahan stated that he merely wanted to hold him for a short time in order to see if his own outfield would measure up to expectations. He told Kelley that he need not worry, as he felt sure he could let him have the fleet Toronto boy. This will give Kelley Outfielders O'Hara, Delahanty and Grimshaw, thus making it unnecessary for him to play except in a pinch.

Jack Dunn to-day sold Catcher Hughey Hearne to the Newark club. Joe McGinity made Dunn a good offer over the thousand mark, and the latter accepted.

Dunnville carried by-laws to bonus a gas engine works and a telephone manufacturing company.

CURLING

TWENTY SHOTS UP.

Bobcaygeon, Feb. 15.—The bonspiel is on, four clubs competing for the prizes. The first round is being played. Peterborough came here by evening train last night four rinks strong, and hooked with four of the local rinks for the first round of the Bottom-Fitzgerald trophy and came out on top by twenty shots.

J. B. Stewart, skip, lost to W. G. Morrow, skip, 9 to 10; A. E. Bottom, skip, lost to R. M. Waddell, skip, by 8 shots to 20; W. A. Davis, skip, lost to R. Neill, skip, by 12 to 15; E. J. Broad, skip, lost to T. F. Matthews, skip, by 10 to 14. Total, 39 to 59.

The visiting clubs are all strong, so it will be hammers and tongs till the final stone is curled. May the first bonspiel for Bobcaygeon not be the last.

HOCKEY

From information gleaned from a member of the Renfrew hockey team Monday, the Creamery seven will be reinforced on their trip to the north country by "Newsy" Lalonde, of the Canadiens.

As is well known, Canadiens are owned by the Renfrew management, and it is but a simple matter to secure Newsie's release from that team. Renfrew needs a scoring man, in centre ice, and will flag Whiteroft, giving the place to Lalonde.—Ottawa Free Press.

Local Man for Tourney

The Toronto Star says:—H. Sheridan, of Peterborough, and R. Stokes, Langstaff, are the outside boxers already entered for the tournament Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the Riverdale rink. They are in the 125 and 112 pound classes. Several other boxers from nearby towns are expected to be heard from before the close of entries to-morrow at 297 Yonge street. Intending competitors are reminded that only regular amateurs will be allowed to compete, and all must possess C.A.A.U. cards.

Insurance Companies Lose About $125,000.00 by the Wreck at Spanish River

Double Liability for About Twenty-five Persons

A loss of somewhere in the neighbourhood of $125,000 is what the Accident Insurance Companies estimate the wreck at Spanish River bridge means to them.

They figure that about 25 of those who met death carried Accident Insurance, and the average insurance, according to the tables, is $5,000. In case of death in a railway disaster there is a double liability, making the figure $6,000, or $5,000 to be more conservative.

Their loss may total more than that, for the commercial travellers, a number of whom were killed, usually carry very heavy insurance. In addition, some of the companies make the policies payable on the death of the wife while travelling, though the policy is taken out in the husband's name. In such cases they pay the husband the same amount as they would have paid the wife were the husband killed.

We issue the BEST Accident and Sickness policy offered to the public.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. LETITIA BLAIR, Canifton, Ontario.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to suffering women.

CARD PLAYING A VICE SAYS A PREACHER

"I do not condemn card playing, branding it a vice. I am neither narrow or presumptuous infringing upon any man's liberty, or adding an iota to the divine law. I allow wide latitude to others, as I claim it for myself. But I hesitate not to condemn card playing, as for some time practiced in our city, as verily a public sport, with players and winners announced to the world in the newspaper press as worthy of commemoration. I condemn the perpetual round of card playing parties, consuming the best hours of the day, always lessening and often utterly destroying all interest in domestic duty, and deadening the nature to the claims of public utility, philanthropy, and religion. Excessive card playing lowers the moral standard of the community banishes high-toned fellowship, intellectual converse, and the refining, ennobling influences of truly cultured society.

"Here and there I find individuals of unquestioned position and sterling worth, who say, that they are not in Kingston society now because they do not play cards. I say that such persons are the light and the salt of the city, are the highest stratum of Kingston society. They have not gone down. God keep them there, however few they may be, and make them the uplifters of many.

"Like every other thing abused and turned into a vice, excessive card playing has its baneful effects and quickly shows them—the wrinkles and lines of care, the haggard and dissatisfied look, and the hard expression, and in the end nervous prostration. These are the wages of this profligate frivolity—some of them—and are sure to be paid.

"If the devotees are inclined to doubt the minister, let them consult the physician, and leave off. II. Peter., 2, 13—They that count it pleasure to riot in the daytime."

Montreal has a rumor that on the site of St. Lawrence Hall the C.P.R. will erect a million and a half dollar hotel and office.

NEW ANGLICAN MOVEMENT

Laymen's Missionary Movement Has Swept Into the Church of England

The canon of the "open pulpit," to allow the clergy of other denominations to preach in Episcopal churches, approved last year by the House of Bishops, is now joined by another invading force. "The Laymen's Missionary Movement has swept into the Episcopal Church from the outside sea of Protestant sectarianism," says the Lamp, Garrison, N.Y., "widening the breach in her embankments made by the so-called "Open-Pulpit' canon." The Lamp is the organ of the Graymoore colony, that having renounced their Anglicanism and went over to the Roman communion. The editor of this journal seems to look backward upon the minority of the Episcopal brotherhood whom he sees affronted by first one then another liberal movement in the church at large, and standing "almost persuaded" to follow in his footsteps. He presents the situation in these words:

"Mr. Silas McBee, the editor of The Churchman, the richest and most influential paper published in the Episcopal Church in America, has been a chief promoter in this Laymen's movement, and recognizing it as a financial success the bishops and other ecclesiastical leaders of Protestantism proclivities have endorsed it, and now the Living Church, which poses as the oracle of all that is truly "Anglo-Catholic,' has fallen into line in the wake of The Churchman."

There is still, however, a remnant who do not believe in the "open pulpit." To quote further from The Lamp:

"All this new departure is, however, a great grief to those old-line High Churchmen of the school of Pusey, Liddon, D'Koven, and Nicholson, who since the days of the Oxford revival, have held to the sincere conviction that the Anglican Church is not merely for England the true and only Catholic church with lawful jurisdiction, but that it is also 'that pure and Apostolic branch of the Church Catholic, which God has planted on these western shores,' we are using the exact language of Anglo-Catholic apologists. In order to understand and more fully sympathize with the unfortunate position in which this advanced section of Anglican Churchmen now find themselves in the face of an "open pulpit' and the Laymen's Missionary movement, we must take into account that they believe almost everything that Roman Catholics believe. In their own eyes they occupy much the same position in regard to Rome as the schismatic churches of the east. They have a firm conviction that the Apostolic succession has been preserved in the English Church and that in consequence they have a true priesthood and valid sacraments. Their ritual observances are closely modeled after the decrees of the Roman Congregation of rites, they not only believe in the Sacrifice of the mass and the Real Presence of the Holy Eucharist, but they strictly observe fasting, communion and go frequently to confession. In some of their churches they have adopted the service of benediction. Not a few use the rosary and accept the dogma of the Immaculate Conception. In regard to the papacy the most of them confess to accept a primacy of Rome."

The Lamp, which of course is now a Roman-Catholic organ, thinks the Church of the Papacy has met with an opportunity it should not ignore, and we are told:

"It seems to us that here is afforded an opportunity for Catholics to indicate to these high-minded followers of the traditions handed down by the Oxford leaders of a generation ago, that in so far as their principles are akin to those which we ourselves hold as members of the one Catholic and Apostolic Roman Church, they have pour cordial sympathy.

"In the December number of the Reunion Magazine the Rev. Spencer Jones spoke of the various parties in the Anglican Church as constituting "sections.' We wonder if we shall be very far out of the way in venturing to suggest that perhaps some day in the not far distant future there will be a cleavage between those sections and the section which has been truest to the original teachings of Newman. Harold Frowde, and W. G. Ward will ultimately follow them into the Catholic Church."

HAVE YOU CHILBLAINS?

Nothing Like Zam-Buk for Them!

If you are a victim to the itching of chilblains—that intolerable tickling as soon as they get warm, and that almost unbearable soreness when they are rubbed—try Zam-Buk.

Mrs. F. S. Sargent, of Quebec, says: "For many years I was troubled with chilblains. I tried first one remedy and then another, but could never get anything but temporary relief from the awful itching and burning. I at last procured a supply of Zam-Buk, and determined to give it a trial. I was so pleased with the result from the first application that I continued with the treatment, and in a short time my chilblains were quite cured."

Zam-Buk is equally good for chaps, cold-sores, frost-bite, etc. Mr. B. Zanoli, of Dorland, Ont., says: "I had the big toe of my right foot badly frozen. I suffered great pain and had to have a doctor. He lanced the toe and dressed it, but the pain continued to be very bad, and for several days I could not walk. I then used Zam-Buk, and the first few dressings gave me great relief. The wound healed up very quickly, and in a very short time the toe was quite right again." All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk. 50 cents box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

Hamilton liquor licenses will remain at 66.

DUKE LOVES A NOTED DANCER

Report Concerning His Grace of Westminster and Gertie Millar of "Our Miss Gibbs"

London, February 16.—A romance in which the Duke of Westminster and Miss Gertie Millar, who is a prominent dancer in "Our Miss Gibb," were the principals has just come to light.

Miss Millar, who is the wife of Lionel Monckton, has been out of the east a great deal of late, and has been frequently seen in the company of the Duke.

It is well known that the relations between the Duke and Duchess, who was Miss Constance Edwina West, a daughter of Mrs. George Cornwallis West, have been exceedingly strained for some time, but now it is understood that the divorce suit which was contemplated and which would have involved the Duke has been amicably settled. The reconciliation, it is said, has been effected by the King, who dearly loves to play the part of reconciler. The Duchess is now in the South of France, where it is understood the Duke will soon join her.

The Harvest

By Walt Mason.

Life is pretty cheap and yellow, and it often bores a fellow if he thinks about his troubles through the long and weary day, if he talks about his sorrows, saying bets that all to-morrows will be just as stale and sombre, just as gruesome and as grey. Ah, the world is what we make it; if we fuss around and rake it, hunting for a crop of trouble, we'll have windrows high and wide; but it will not pay for reaping, and the threshers will be weeping when they see the scurvy harvest that has been your boast and pride. If you fare all thoughts of sadness, and go raking round for gladness, if you just insist that worry take its grip and trunk, and room, you are sure to find the mowing pays for all the work and sowing, and the threshers will be whooping on the day of Harvest Home. All my metaphors are tangled, and this rhyme is badly jangled, but you'll doubtless catch its meaning if you use a hook and line; do not mind the ills that bore you, nor the clouds that threaten o'er you; every day provides its solace, and to-morrow will be fine.

Profane Language

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Some time ago an Ontario judge had occasion to deal with a man who was brought before him for using profane language. He severely punished him. The judge stated that the common use of profane and blasphemous language was far worse in Ontario than in Quebec. I do not think that this statement was in any way misplaced, and I think it can be fully substantiated by anyone who happens to be in the city of Toronto at the present time. It is only too true that there is no part of the country which is free from the vice of profane language, but as to the Puritan city of Toronto, with all its churches, colleges and other educational institutions, it is hardly creditable that such a vice should be allowed to go on and increase to the proportions it has, with so little being done to check it. It matters not what direction you may go, whether in a hotel, restaurant or on the street, it is impossible to escape hearing the name of the Almighty or the Saviour used in a blasphemous way. This is not done in temper or in anger, but cold-bloodedly in all forms of conversation. It is not only confined to the race track and betting men, or those in the slums, but it seems to be increasing among people in all walks of life, and it can be heard among some people who are taking active part in church work. This is corroborated by two visitors, who attended one of the churches and came in contact with an usher at the entrance. While he was ascending the steps he stumbled, and to ease his feelings he called on the name of the Saviour in the same blasphemous way it is heard on the street. What may account for the great increase of profane language in Ontario is that it is in easy access to American cities, and that it is overrun with race track and betting men and low comic actors. These sow the seed of profanity, and they are aped by others, who think it smart and witty. When in Toronto I happened to visit a restaurant and sat at a table opposite another table where sat four well dressed men. It seemed almost impossible for them to open their mouths without calling on the name of the Almighty and interlarding this with other bad language. It is only too true that this class of language is becoming common amongst the children of all ages throughout the land. We have heard much of late about the great lack of reverence amongst the people. I think this can be chiefly placed to the low form of our language and the great disrespect shown for the name of the Supreme Being. It is really surprising that there is no more done to stamp out this most unnecessary evil that is doing so much harm. In Toronto some time ago steps were taken and meetings called to take some action against it, but they seemed to be spasmodic and not followed up. There are many newspapers in Canada and the United States that have done a great deal by printing articles and trying to enlist the police in having the law enforced. Occasionally we hear of an offender being brought before the court and fined, but the police, who should be looked to to stamp out the evil, seem to give but little attention to it, and in many cases have become offenders themselves. I think Halifax some years ago was as bad as any city in that respect, and that the benefit of the enforcement of the law was well demonstrated here, as since the police were ordered to arrest the offenders, and there were dozens of them arrested and brought before the court and punished, the flow of profanity around the streets and public places had decreased 75 per cent. This is the only course which can be taken to rid the country of it. I think the time is ripe when such steps should be taken in all cities and towns, and have the law which exists against it vigorously enforced. This common use of profane and low language is gradually lowering the better instincts of the people, and goes far to prompt crime.

GERMANY AND THE NAVY

Germany's rise in commercial power is impressing her sister nations no less than her growth in naval strength. Mr. Ellis Barker in his exhaustive study, "Modern Germany," declares that England has been quite out of the race. List, the great German economist, once wrote of England that that country was "a world in itself, a world which is superior to the whole rest of the world in power and wealth." Cobden declared of his native land "Great Britain is and always will be the workshop of the world." This is no longer the case. Germany, declares a writer in the Edinburgh Blackwood's Magazine, has now outrun Great Britain in every department of commercial activity. Germany has beaten England even in the manufacture of steel, which was once the specialty of the British, and we read:

"In 1880 Great Britain produced more than twice as much steel as Germany. In 1896 Germany produced nearly twice as much steel as Great Britain. Britain's yearly steel production in those sixteen years increased less than fivefold; German steel production increased eighteenfold. And this, in spite of the distance from the seaboard of the German coal-and-iron-fields."

In the domain of commercial chemistry, in the production of sugar, and in scientific agriculture, Germany also takes the lead in Europe, according to this writer, who tells us:

"Wonderful has been the growth of the chemical industries in Germany, in many of which she has gained a virtual monopoly. Yet Germany is dependent upon foreign countries for the raw material of these industries, and to a great extent for the inventions upon which the industries are based. Perhaps the most striking example is that of anilin dyes, made from coal-tar. This remarkable invention is due to Mr. W. H. Perkins, an Englishman, but it is in Germany that the invention has been utilized; it is Germany that exports some £5,000,000 worth of these dyes annually, largely made of English coal-tar. It is Germany that, by the production of synthetic indigo, has thrown 1,500,000 acres in India, that fifteen years ago were producing indigo, almost entirely out of cultivation. It is Germany that, through the skill of her chemists, has so extraordinarily increased the yield of sugar from beet-root, and made that industry so profitable and that product so cheap, that, besides producing all the sugar required for her population of over 60,000,000, she exports £10,000,000 worth annually, and the West India sugar industry has been ruined. The output of German chemical industry—not including sugar, which is agricultural produce—is estimated at about £60,000,000 annually, of which £20,000,000 is exported. Nearly 200,000 hands are employed, and their wages amount to nearly 10,000,000 sterling yearly."

Germany would like to take possession of such foreign countries as suit people raised in a temperate zone, declares this writer. The Monroe doctrine keeps her out of Brazil, and the British Government keeps her out of South Africa. The "end of German statesmen," we read—

"is not to Germanize men who have emigrated to countries under other rule and belonging to other races, but to obtain countries of her own as a field for the overflow population. Such countries must be suitable for Europeans; they must have fairly temperate climates; and, when he surveys the world, the German, Emperor or peasant, sees that the habitable portion of the globe is already divided up among the Powers, and that, if we except China, the bulk of it belongs to Great Britain and the United States.

"The Germans looked to South Africa falling into German hands; but that hope has been disappeared. Brazil, with a large German population, was a tempting bait; but the Monroe doctrine has barred the route, and the time for a quarrel with the United States is yet far distant. If Germany is to obtain colonies, there is only one nation from whom they can be taken. Great Britain holds Canada, Australia, South Africa, and the best parts of Africa in the East and West. To paraphrase Mr. Ellis Barker, Great Britain has all the territory she wants, and she strives only to preserve in peace what she has won by war. But Englishmen must be simple if they believe that Germany will rest satisfied with the fact that Great Britain has practically all the colonies in the world while Germany has none.

"Whenever Germany is ready, the British colonies must and will be her aim. And in that day we must rely upon our own right arm alone, and if our navy is not equal to the herculean task that will be imposed upon it, we shall lose colonies and empire."—Literary Digest.

ARCHBISHOP SAYS TRUE AMERICANS UPHOLD POPE

Mgr. Farley Discusses the Stand of Pious X. in the Fairbanks Case—Sorry Incident Was Not Averted—Methodist Paper's Statement.

A New York despatch says: Archbishop Farley yesterday expressed confidence that every true American would approve the attitude of Pope Pius X. in his refusal to grant an audience to Mr. Charles W. Fairbanks, formerly Vice-President of the United States.

The Archbishop of New York said also he was sure every true American would confess to himself that the Pope could not have acted otherwise without belittling the holiest trust.

The archbishop made these statements in an interview with a Herald reporter at the episcopal residence, No 452 Madison avenue. He said that as a rule he did not care to utter an opinion through a newspaper, but on this incident in Rome he thought he could throw a little light. He was sorry, however, that the affair had taken place at all, and he regretted that it had caused a controversy.

"I don't think Archbishop Ireland said the words attributed to him, that he was coming East to fight," said Archbishop Farley. "He knows very well that the East can take care of itself.

MET BY METHODISTS.

"Mr. Fairbanks' visit to Rome was heralded by the Rev. Dr. Tippe, head of the Methodist mission there, and Mr. Fairbanks was met at the station by these people and personally conducted by them as the champion of Methodism. The Holy Father, head of the Catholic Church, could not shut his eyes to this triumph on the part of these people under the very walls of the Vatican.

"Should the Holy Father have received Mr. Fairbanks, it would have been equivalent to an indorsement of the work of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Rome in its endeavor to pervert the faith of 'the little ones of Christ, so dear to the heart of the Vicar of Christ.'"

The Archbishop was reminded that Mr. Seth Low had been received by the Pope in somewhat similar circumstances.

"Mr. Low, formerly mayor of this city, was received by the Holy Father a few years ago, although Mr. Low later addressed a Protestant congregation in Rome," commented Archbishop Farley. "I was the one who presented Mr. Low to the Holy Father on that occasion. Neither the Vatican authorities nor I knew that Mr. Low had any intention of making such an address. I am inclined to believe that Mr. Low himself at the time of the audience had no intention of so doing.

"If my memory serves me correctly Mr. Low reached Rome on Saturday, and on that evening called at the American College, where I was a guest at the time. He asked if an audience with the Holy Father might be arranged. As my own audience was arranged for the following morning I promised to see what might be done to permit my presenting Mr. Low and his party on that Sunday morning.

MR. LOW'S VISIT.

"When Sunday morning came Mr. Low and I drove to the Vatican. Everything was satisfactorily arranged. Mr. Low was presented to the Holy Father, who received him and his party most cordially, going out of his way to be cordial because of Mr. Low being a distinguished American.

"Had Mr. Low made known that he intended to address a non-Catholic religious body in Rome, I should not have presented him, for the same reason that not even a Catholic European Sovereign would be received at the Vatican in similar circumstances.

"As is well known, when Emperor William took Alma Tadema with the Vatican has to be consulted and its wishes followed before they can be received by the Holy Father. Both Emperor and King conform to the etiquette of the Vatican. None of their subjects ever has taken offence because of such conformity.

"It is inconceivable, therefore, that sensible, self-respecting Americans should protest because the Holy Father found it necessary to decline to receive Mr. Fairbanks, now a private citizen.

"The spirit of toleration is not so universally American as it is sought to make the public believe. All remember the discourteous letter, to say least, addressed by a body of Protestant ministers—I do not remember whether Methodist or not—to Mr. Roosevelt when he was President, in which they protested against receiving at the White House the late Cardinal Satolli on the occasion of His Eminence's last visit to this country.

"The answer of Mr. Roosevelt was worthy of him. It was substantially that to him was reserved the right to make conditions as to whom he would receive. And the writers of the letter were politely reminded that there might be other business of a more urgent nature demanding their time."

ADVOCATE'S ATTITUDE.

In its issue of yesterday the New York Christian Advocate, official organ for the East of the Methodist Episcopal Church, prints on the first page a picture of Mr. Charles W. Fairbanks, announces that the whole Church in this country will await with interest a report from the Rev. Dr. Bertrand M. Tippe, resident Methodist pastor in Rome, or some other representative for news of the Fairbanks incident, and speaks editorially in part as follows:—

"It was highly honorable in the former Vice-President that he refused to be enchained by any restrictions upon his movements and public addresses. The refusal of the Pope, or the officers who determined his programme, is in full harmony with his principles and claims.

"Mr. Fairbanks may find some consolation, if he needs it, in reflecting that within his life there was a time, and for hundreds of years before, that if he had died in Rome his body could not have been interred in any Christian cemetery in Italy. Not until after the days of Garibaldi and Cavour could a non-Catholic be buried in consecrated ground. Italy swarms with opponents of Christianity and with those who are Catholic by birth, but who refuse to affiliate with the Roman Catholic Church.

"The government of Italy admits freely all religions. The Methodist Episcopal Church went there for the purpose of raising up a different presentation of Christianity than that upheld by the Catholic and all connected with it, and other communions have done the same, and the longer the American churches remain and prosper, the more will Roman Catholicism be benefitted by the contrast and the necessity of doing away with various ancient evils with which it has not yet successfully coped. The same is true in Spain and to an even greater degree in Latin America."

HATS AT LESS THAN COST PRICE

Thief Helped Himself to Part of Order for Peterboro Merchant

Mr. E. N. McWilliams, the George street hatter, was advised by the local customs house to-day that a consignment of hats billed for him from a New York manufacturer had been broken into between New York and the Canadian border and several hats stolen. Mr. McWilliams' loss will be considerable as a result of the theft, but as the shipment, which is of spring styles, is a generous one he will not be inconvenienced, and he will have the balance of the order forwarded by the manufacturer at once.

The employed boys plan to go to Lakefield, where they will spend the evening skating; later at 7.30 o'clock the school boys leave for a drive around the city afterwards, returning to their rooms for lunch. Both affairs are proving popular with the boys.

BIG STORMS LASHED FRANCE

Landslides and Avalanches in the Alps Endanger Towns

Special to the Review.

Paris, Feb. 17. — Unprecedented storms lashed France to-day adding to the havoc wrought by the tempests of the last three days. Landslides and avalanches in the Alps endanger towns and tourist resorts. Winds of cyclone forces have blown down houses in Marseilles and other places. Snow has derailed trains. The only relieving note in the reports that come in to-day was the lack of rain in the river at Paris. When dawn came the crest of the third flood of this disastrous year was past.

USE OF RIGS MAY BE PROHIBITED

In Local Option Campaigns—Rev. J. G. Potter Addresses Alliance

Toronto, Feb. 16.—Hon. Mr. Hanna has pronounced that legislation will be enacted to prevent the hiring of rigs in local option contests. "It is a matter of legal doubt, and we want it cleared up."

This statement was made by Rev. H. H. Spence, at the preliminary conference preceding the annual convention of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, held in the Elm street Methodist church. There was a large attendance, and Mr. Gibson the president, was chairman.

Rev. Mr. Beatty of Cobourg, was asked a question concerning the hiring of rigs.

"We must not have rigs—they have to do it all the same," he said.

"Our friend, Mr. Beatty, was giving vent to the humorous side of his nature," Chairman Gibson said a minute later. "We local optionists always want to keep within the law."

THE LOCAL OPTION BY-LAW.

"You can't sell liquor without a license, and you can't get a license. This is the fundamental foundation of the local option by-law," said Mr. Spence, who spoke on Our Local Option By-law.

He said Hon. Mr. Hanna had formulated legislation to prevent "shake purses" consumption of liquor. A shake purse is when a number of fellows pool their money to buy quantities to bring to boarding houses.

Mr. Spence told of an incident at Owen Sound, where Mr. MacKay said there had been less drinking in Owen Sound.

"I was in a hotel lobby conversing with a number of newspapermen," he said, "and they were saying that there was as much liquor drunk in Owen Sound then under local option, as under the license system. Owen Sound was at its worst under the local option law, then, too. Mr. MacKay, who was sitting nearby, said: 'It is not true, there is not one-tenth as much drinking in Owen Sound now as there was under the license system.'"

"What we are striving to attain," said Mr. Spence, "is a decreased consumption to liquor. There has not been half the number of convictions in local option districts as in the districts under license law.

GET UP RIG PETITIONS.

In the Round Table Conference which followed on How to Conduct a Local Option Campaign, Mr. Spence advised the delegates to secure an overwhelming petition to present to the local city, town, or village councils.

Mr. Spence told the delegates to have the petition in separate sheets recalling an incident in Toronto when a number of these lists were cut off except the one at the top and the list was thrown out.

"Watch your opponents' lists," said Rev. John Coburn, "and see that no dead men, boys, or ineligible people are allowed on the voters' list. Election day seems to be a kind of resurrection day for many, and Gabriel's Trumpet seems to bring a lot of them to life to vote.

In advocacy of this he told how 2,500 names had been struck off the voters' list in Toronto, that the anti-license reductionists had endeavored to have placed on the voters' lists. This had won the election, he said, as the majority had only been 846. A change over of 3,800 had been effected.

"Can a minister who lives in a parsonage vote in a local option contest?"

This question was asked Mr. Coburn, and he said yes, because the free use of house was included in his salary, and actually in part of his salary.

"We want to win local option contests on a clean fair or not at all," said Chairman Gibson.

Rev. Mr Beatty, chairman of the Cobourg Local Option Committee, spoke on the canvas and getting out the vote. He gave some advice gained from experience on the subject. "If you're not systematic you cannot accomplish the work you otherwise would," he said.

Mr. Beatty said there was an increasing number of "black ballots" being cast in local option campaigns. These should be guarded against.

In his address on literature and publicity, Mr. H. P. Moore, of Acton, advised the use of all literature possible in the campaigns, especially the local press. A newspaper proprietor should not be asked to give his columns free because he might be a supporter.

Rev. J. G. Potter, of Peterborough, gave an address on the canvas and getting out of the vote.

The convention proper opened this afternoon. Two hundred and twenty-four delegates were present.

THE SECRET OF OUR SUCCESS

In suiting the demands of exacting wearers of Glasses is that we not only use the best qualities of Lenses and Frames, but our examination of the eyes is so thorough as to investigate the irregularities and peculiarities of each case and give the greatest possible help by powers specially made to fully correct and relieve all those irregularities. There is usually more help possible than would be supposed, and those who put up merely with what they can manage to see with, endanger the eyes and miss much comfort and pleasure. NEW WAY TO MAKE "TOUCH" ON A FRIEND

When Frank O. Gale, who works at Gray's, returned to his boarding house the other day he found the following epistle in his room:

"Dear Frank.—Pardon me, I took some of yours (that is money). I could not ask Mrs. W., she would have felt bad. We had too much of a time last night. I would have been pulled in, so you can do without it for that long—till next pay. If not, I can get it for you when I talk to you privately. Do not let on, please; my word is good for that matter.—Henry."

Gale discovered that $6.70 of his money was missing, which explained the gentle wording of the letter—or rather vice versa. The signer of the letter was Henry Pourassa, a young Frenchman from down Montreal-way, who boarded at the same house. Gale felt that this was just a little too much, especially in view of the fact that he recently missed dollars, when there had been no note left behind. So he laid an information against Pourassa at the police station.

This morning Pourassa came up, when he pleaded that he took the money, but that he had every intention of giving it back. The case was remanded for a week. Pourassa is a good-looking young man, well-dressed. He says that he has relatives on the fourth concession, Dover, who will put up bail. The bail was fixed at $200.

Fonthill is to build a new four-room school to cost $8,500.

OPPORTUNITIES OF THE CANADIAN WEST

The Grand Trunk Railway System has issued a splendid twenty-five page booklet entitled "Golden Business Opportunities in Canada," which contains a vast amount of information about the Dominion. The great Canadian West is dealt with principally, and the richness of that part of Canada is set forth in an exceedingly interesting manner. The booklet states that the area of Canada exceeds that of the United States, including Alaska, that Canada has more sunshine than Europe, that it is the land where there is no drouths, no floods, no cyclones. The resources of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba are placed before the reader in striking style. There are also chapters on "Character of the Settlers in the West," "Religious and Educational Institutions," "Law, Order, Security," "Banking Facilities" and "Entertainment."

The booklet has a handsome cover design.

WHITNEY ACCUSES MACKAY OF PLOTTING AGAINST HYDRO

In Bitter Debate in the Legislature Sir James Declares That the Liberal Leader is in League With the Corporations to Ruin the Government.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—Pyrotechnic recriminations illumined the closing hours of the budget debate in the Legislature yesterday. The leaders on both sides of the House had girded for the fray and the fur fairly flew.

Hon. A. G. MacKay was in good form and made a fighting speech, devoting himself mainly to the schoolbook contract and the Hydro Electric easements.

The Premier, who followed him, precipitated a sharp interchange of heated language by charging that the leader of the Opposition had been in league with the solicitor of the Toronto Electric Light Co. and the solicitor of Mrs. Fleming, statements which that gentleman branded as absolutely untrue.

"The chief characteristic of these annual statements of the Provincial Treasurer," said Hon. A. G. MacKay, "is the fact that the current annual expenditure exceeds the current annual receipts."

He found $1,177,715.50 entered under current receipts which could not fairly be classed other than as receipts on capital account.

"Take from the current receipts what is fairly capital receipts, take from current expenditure what is fairly capital expenditure; any bare analysis of last year's financial statement will show at least $250,000 deficit."

What would become of the timber wealth of this country, he asked, if the present policy were continued? The municipal act should be amended so as to allow the municipalities to purchase waste lands, of which there were 8,000,000 acres, for reforestration.

When he read of $2,600,000 increase in the revenues, he was more than ever proud he was a Liberal and proud of the old Government which had laid the foundations.

It was all very well to belittle the matter of power line easements, and talk about dealing with 2,000 owners and only having 60 disputes, but with competent men there would have been no dickering with the farmers. A competent man would have been able to say within $100 or $200 what was a fair price for an easement, and it should have been offered and stuck to.

Hon. Adam Beck rose to take exception to the statement of the leader of the Opposition that the Hydro valuators were incompetent. The final valuator was Mr. Farley of Belleville, buyer of the right of way for the G.T.P., a Liberal in politics, and one of the most capable men in the province.

Mr. MacKay concluded by moving an amendment to the motion to go into supply, embodying expressions of regret at the various shortcomings of the Government which he had covered in his address.

Sir James Whitney, in rising to reply and close the debate, twitted the leader of the Opposition on what he hoped, despite reports current, would not be his "valedictory utterance in the political life of the province." He was wondering what the new leader would say when he read in the records of the House the position the opposition had made of itself on the budget debate.

The Premier touched on severe criticisms made during the debate. The Opposition and the companies, Sir James charged, were doing all they could unitedly to kill the power scheme.

Mr. MacKay objected: "There was no alliance."

Sir James: "I repeat the statement. The hon. gentleman feels very tender on the subject. I can prove it. Twenty times in the course of last session the leader of the Opposition left his seat to consult with Henry O'Brien, the paid solicitor of the Electric Light Co."

Mr. MacKay: "It is untrue."

Sir James: "Within the last few days he has been in consultation with the solicitor for Felker."

Mr. MacKay: "I don't even know the solicitor for Felker. I got my information mainly from the representatives of the constituencies. I am prepared to table every document I have got, notes and all."

Sir James: "These hon. gentlemen think they can disguise from this House, and from the people, the fact that they are in league with the corporations to destroy the power scheme and ruin the Government."

Mr. MacKay appealed to the Speaker and requested withdrawal of the expression.

Sir James: "I used the word in a political sense. I have been twenty-one years in this House, and I have never withdrawn a statement yet."

On Mr. MacKay's amendment being put, a division was called for, which resulted in a vote of 17 to 71 against the amendment, Mr. Studholme voting with the Government.

The House then went into committee of supply, voted one item of $100 and reported progress.

Spark Exploded Dynamite.

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 18.—A spark from a miner's lamp, falling into a box of 100 dynamite cartridges, caused a terrific explosion in the tunnel of the Dunkleberger colliery, near Trevorton, yesterday, and badly injured three men.

Board of Trade Opposition.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 18.—St. John Board of Trade Council yesterday passed a strong resolution against the sale of the Sandpoint steamship terminals to the C.P.R.

TWO MEN WERE SUFFOCATED IN FIRE AT HAMILTON

Three Fires Result in Two Deaths and Injuries to Five Firemen—Chief Ten Eyck Displays Heroism in Taking Out Dying Man.

Hamilton, Feb. 18.—Hamilton was visited by three fires last night that resulted in the loss of two lives and the serious injury of four firemen.

The first alarm came at 5.30 from the Gurney-Tilden Co.'s foundry at John and Rebecca streets. Two employes, Henry Bawden, a laborer, 55 West Main street, and Robert McCullough, Port Credit, 25 years of age, a stove mounter, were suffocated.

The fire started in the lacquer room in the second floor. A young woman and a boy were employed in the room, and they say that they saw a spark drop from an electric wire into a vat of lacquer. In an instant the vat was a mass of flames, and in a few minutes the building was filled with smoke so dense and stifling that it was impossible for those in the adjoining rooms to see.

The flames and smoke swept up a stairway to the third floor where some thirty men were working. All but Bawden and McCullough managed to grope their way to safety. Bawden was missed, and Fireman Murdock rush up to the third floor, and stumbled across his dead body lying near the door. A few more steps would have taken him to safety.

It was not until Bawden's body was recovered that McCullough was missed. Chief Ten Eyck, as Murdock had done, did not hesitate to risk his life, and rushed through the choking smoke to rescue McCullough. He found the senseless body on the floor near a window. He tried to protect himself from the smoke by holding his coat in front of his face. There was a spark of life when Ten Eyck staggered down stairs with him, but he died an hour later.

While the firemen were engaged at the Gurney-Tilden fire, an alarm came in from Victoria avenue sub-station of the Cataract Power Co. A transformer was burned out, and the street car system was tied up for about half an hour. Loss $400.

The third alarm came about eight o'clock from a house near the corner of James street and Charlton avenue. The fire here did not amount to much but when the Central Station Company was returning it was run down by a Brantford car at Hughson and Main streets.

Some of the men jumped, and those in the front part of the sleigh were thrown out. Wm. McDougall received a big gash over the ear. He was taken to the City Hospital, and his condition is regarded as serious. Captain Glover's thigh was severely cut, and Lieut. Smith, 56 Colborne street, was also seriously injured. Fireman James Crawford, 69 North Wellington street, and Daniel McCarthy were also cut and bruised.

COL. McLEAN AN INSURGENT ON THE NAVAL POLICY

New Brunswick Member of Commons Disagrees With Liberal Plans and Favors Mr. Borden's Scheme For a Fleet Unit.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—The naval debate took a new turn last evening, when Col. H. H. McLean, the Liberal member for Sunbury-Queen's, N.B., one of the substantial men of the House, openly criticised the Government's policy as inadequate, and agreed with R. L. Borden regarding the necessity for a fleet unit, though he considers that the Opposition leader ought to have gone even further and moved for the building of two Indomitables, cruisers of the Dreadnought type.

"I do not agree," he also said, "with many of my friends' action on the Government side that the German peril is a scare. The action of Germany is very serious. Germany has a large naval program. It is no use blinding ourselves to these facts. I hope that there will be no war. I hope that England, now that she is aroused, will be able to build faster than Germany. But we know that Germany is able to carry out her naval program. It is not safe to rely on the good-nature of Germany. The Germans are business people, they are a warlike people. Like England, they will not hesitate to take an advantage in war. I have no reliance in the good faith of Germany, if she thought she could get an advantage."

Col. McLean proposes that rather than the five small cruisers proposed by the Government, they should have three cruisers and an Indomitable, in other words, a fleet unit headed by an Indomitable on the Atlantic and an Indomitable on the Pacific. He was confident that before long we should have Dreadnoughts also. He criticized the opposition policy of sending money to the Admiralty. He believed in building the ships in Canada, manned by Canadian sailors, but officered first by Britishers.

Continuing his speech, which was not concluded Wednesday, F. T. Congdon (Yukon) noted that certain English newspapers objected to the removal of the German surtax. What they wanted was the greater share of Germany's trade, and cared nothing about the removal of the causes of friction between the two countries.

Great Britain never occupied a position of greater naval superiority than to-day, and to say that these stouthearted old Britons were afraid of Germany was enough to make us dispose of those who said it. The great thing to-day, he said, was to establish about the world a circle for the protection of the commerce of Great Britain.

Col. Sam Hughes described Mr. Congdon's speech as a magnificent essay. It was philosophy, but bad history; it condemned everything that had gone to make Britain great. Dreamers such as Robespierre were dangerous. As to the German surtax, it was in the interest of Germany that the surtax had been removed; it was not in the interest of the Empire.

The opening of the House yesterday saw a lively exchange between Hon. Wm. Pugsley and O. S. Crocket (York, N.B.).

Mr. Pugsley rose to a question of privilege. He said Mr. Crocket the other day had denied the accuracy of The Toronto Globe's report regarding the Pink Rock Wharf, and had stated that the Minister himself knew it was untrue.

Mr. Pugsley said Mr. Crocket could not corroborate this statement. Not a dollar of money had been spent on a public wharf. The wharf was the property of the crown, but there was an agreement which gave the public a right of way over the wharf. The crown had the right to collect tolls, except from the vessels of the Albert Manufacturing Co.

Mr. Crocket accepted the challenge with alacrity. He declared that the vote under review was for an extension of the wharf, the private property of the Albert Company. The agreement was nothing but a "colorable arrangement," the crown being allowed to collect tolls on vessels not owned by the company. But no other vessels had ever tied up there, and none other could use it for years to come. Moreover, the work had been ordered by the managing director of the company, and the bills simply forwarded to the Public Works Department.

Mr. Pugsley concluded by saying that Mr. Crocket had better devote his attention to larger subjects. He was indulging in small tactics.

During the question time Major Sharpe (North Ontario) asked if it was the intention of the Government to so amend the Volunteer Bounties Act as to enable the Canadian civil surgeons who served in the South African war to receive grants.

Hon. Frank Oliver replied that it was not considered advisable to do so.

R. L. Borden was informed by the Minister of Militia that fifty per cent. of the men serving in the Canadian permanent force re-enlist after the expiration of their term; that approximately ninety per cent. of the officers and 20 per cent. of the non-commissioned officers and men are Canadians, and that at present the force is at full strength.

Mr. Borden was told that the training ship Rainbow will cost Canada approximately fifty thousand pounds sterling, and that the cost of the new navy given to the House did not include interest on the cost of construction or provide for a sinking fund.

"Loan Sharks" Held In Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Feb. 18.—Ten managers of loan companies, including several whose branches extend to many cities in the country, were held in $800 bail for court here yesterday on the charge of maintaining disorderly places.

COALITION MAY FAIL

British Labor Members Are Insisting on Passing of Veto.

London, Feb. 18.—G. W. Barnes, member of Parliament for Glasgow, Blackfriar division, who two days ago was elected chairman of the Labor party in Parliament, threw a bombshell into the political arena yesterday afternoon in the shape of a manifesto which, if acted upon, means the severance of the ties which heretofore have united the Liberals and Laborites. The statement says:

"I learn that Premier Asquith is to hold office without assurances from the King with regard to the veto and that the veto is to be dealt with after the budget.

"That, of course, will not be acceptable to the Labor party. It means that the powers that be think the general election was not sufficiently decisive with regard to the Lords' veto and it involves, therefore, another election before the question of the Lords is settled.

"If another general election is to occur, we should have it as soon as possible."

This manifesto, which has been sent to Premier Asquith, is generally accepted as an ultimatum; that in the event of this protest being disregarded, the forty Laborites will vote against the Government, and it created an almost panicky feeling among the Liberals in the lobbies of the House of Commons yesterday afternoon.

Negotiations between the Government and the Irish Nationalists are still in progress, but it is stated that the present position of the overtures are very unpromising. John Redmond, the Irish leader, is reported to have failed to carry his demands and yesterday T. P. O'Connor, president of the United Irish League, took up the work of trying to unravel the political tangles.

Premier Asquith yesterday afternion had an audience with the King, when he presented the final draft of the speech from the throne.

LYNCHING FAILED

Special to Review.

Cairo, Ills., Feb. 18.—Two companies of sheriffs armed with rifles are guarding the county jail to-day following an attempt to lynch two negroes accused of snatching purses of white women. The attempted lynching was foiled by sheriff Nellis and his deputies who opened fire on the mob as it advanced to storm the jail, killing one man and wounding eleven others. Fearing a renewal of the mob's attack, Sheriff Nellis appealed to Governor Deneen for troops. Company K, 4th Infantry, of this city was ordered out at once and company G of Effingham was rushed to the scene at day break to-day.

J. C. EATON GIVES A QUARTER MILLION

Toronto, Feb. 18.—John C. Eaton, president of the T. Eaton Co., has given $250,000 to build the surgical wing of the new General Hospital. The splendid donation, which is given in memory of the late Timothy Eaton, was announced yesterday by J. W. Flavelle, president of the General Hospital Trust.

"It is a noble gift," said Mr. Flavelle. "The $250,000 will erect a magnificent surgical building, which will stand as John C. Eaton's tribute to the memory of his father."

The surgical wing is on the extreme left, on the College street section of the new hospital. It will contain 150 beds, and building and complete equipment will be the gift of Mr. Eaton.

NIGHT RIDERS ARE INDICTED

Cincinnati, Feb. 18.—The first blow struck by the United States against alleged night riders was delivered yesterday when a federal grand jury at Covington, Ky., returned indictments against twelve men of Dryridge, Ky., for conspiracy in restraint of trade. One of the men indicted is John S. Steers, a member of the state Legislature.

The indictments charge that the defendants conspired to prevent W. H. Osborne from shipping four hogsheads of tobacco from Dryridge to Cincinnati. They were charged with having intimidated, by threats of violence, both Osborne and the station agent at Dryridge.

NEW SMELTING COMPANY HAS BEEN FORMED

Kingston, Feb. 18.—The Frontenac lead mine has been conveyed by the Gunn estate, Romaines estate and Machar estate to Samuel L. Bernhardt, as trustee, in trust for a company to be known as the Canadian Smelting Co., Ltd., capital $500,000. Barnhardt is the man who sold Barnhardt's Island for $900,000 to the Long Sault Development Co. The directors will be Samuel L. Barnhardt, capitalist; Edward J. B. Pease, Kingston; Orlando L. Cushman, head of Cushman Bakeries, New York City; Robt. E. Cushman, Kingston; W. G. Craig, Kingston; John Seeley, New York; John C. Crapser, New York; David Murray, manager Northern Crown Bank, treasurer. One of the large stockholders is Fred L. Dewey, president of the Citizens' National Bank in the United States.

THOUGHT MONEY HAD DISAPPEARED

North Bay, Feb. 18.—Not a little excitement has been occasioned among those directly concerned in the disappearance of a registered package containing $8,500, sent by mail from the Cochrane branch of the Bank of Ottawa, to the Toronto office. As neither mail bag or money turned up at the destination, the suspicion of robbery deepened and an investigation has been in progress. Peter T. Collican, postoffice inspector of Ottawa, has been working on the case and has located the missing bag with the money intact.

It seems that the bag went astray on Feb. 9, when the T. & N. O. Railway employes have for some time expressed dissatisfaction at the responsibility involved in handling mail bags, and it is understood that a mail car will soon be placed on the run between Englehart and Cochrane.

EXTEND JUVENILE DELINQUENTS ACT

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—There should reach the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario and the Provincial Legislature to-day a petition signed by some of Ottawa's most influential citizens. It asks for provincial legislation to pave the way for the Juvenile Delinquents' Act (now in force in the capital) going into force in all cities, towns and county towns in the province.

MAD MULLAH OUT AGAIN

Aden, Arabia, Feb. 18.—Mohammed Abdullah of Somaliland, the "Mad" Mullah, is again on the war path. A big force of Dervishes has raided the Sultanate of the Mijertins, killing and burning in all directions. The slaughter of the tribesmen was very heavy.

One whole town was gutted by fire and 14,000 camels taken by the Dervishes.

Car Plunges Down Bank.

London, Feb. 18.—One of the big electric cars on the Springbank line shot down a 40-foot embankment, west of the city, and came to a rest a few feet from a cove in which the water is very deep. The crew escaped with slight injury, but Frank Elson of Byron, was badly shaken up. Ice on the rails caused the derailment.

NEW BRUNSWICK JUDICATURE ACT

St. John, N.B., Feb. 18.—Premier Hazen announces that the new Judicature Act will go into effect May 1.

It will bring about a completely new method of procedure and practice in the courts of the province. It will also create changes in connection with the Supreme Court Bench, making it so that a judge will not sit in appeal on a case that he has tried, as at present. Four judges will handle the law side of the court and two the equity side.

The act at present in force, which is down as common law procedure, has been on the statute books for about half a century, but has been somewhat modified in that time. The rules of procedure under the new act are made to conform with the English Judicature Act rules as much as possible.

BURGLAR HAS A BAD RECORD

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 18.—John Millen, who was caught in the act of burglarizing G. C. Dilmar's jewelry store, received a sentence of three years in penitentiary from Magistrate Fraser yesterday. He is a burglar and crook of international reputation, and speaks half a dozen languages. Born in Buffalo, he was arrested in Warsaw, Russia, with a bunch of anarchists in 1904. In 1907 he was sentenced at Buffalo to five years for burglary, and was released on parole in 1909, in which year he enlisted in the U.S. army, deserting three months later. Dec. 7, 1909, he was arrested in Toronto for bicycle stealing under the name of Frank Moleski, and sentenced to 30 days. He is wanted at Hamilton for burglary.

MONTREAL JUDGE WAS INSULTED

Montreal, Feb. 18.—Convicted of theft and remanded until Tuesday for sentence, Arthur Paquette, in leaving the dock, remarked to Judge Choquette, that there were lots worse crooks at liberty. The judge said they'd get their deserts if arrested and Paquette retorted: "What's the use? You are just as bad as the rest of them."

Out of respect for the bench, the judge promptly imposed a sentence of four years in penitentiary.

ESCAPED PRISONER HAS BEEN CAUGHT

Montreal, Feb. 18.—Alex. Rondeau, who sawed his way out of Joliette Jail Sunday, was caught here yesterday after a hard running fight. A man who knew him by sight met him at Cote St. Paul and spoke to him. He turned and ran. The man went to the police station, a few yards away, and the police poured after him in pursuit. The chase lasted for half an hour, and Rondeau turned and drew a 38-calibre revolver.

Before he could fire, a policeman gave him a football tackle, which brought him down, and others wrenched the gun away. Taken to the cells, he ran full tilt several times with his head against the walls, and then stripped naked.

IS A HEN A BIRD? IS THE QUESTION

This puzzling problem was put up yesterday to Robert O. Bailey, secretary to the Secretary of the Treasury, by a citizen who desires to be straight.

It appears, as set out in the letter, that whereas eggs are subject to a duty of five cents per dozen in the Payne tariff law, bird's eggs are admitted free.

The Treasury Department is asked: "Is a hen a bird?"

Recently the customs division decided that frogs' legs were poultry within the meaning of the law. Secretary Bailey turned the letter over to the customs division.

NEWSBOYS MAY BE LICENSED

Winnipeg, Feb. 18.—Manitoba's Attorney-General is introducing a bill to license newsboys and juvenile hawkers, setting an arbitrary age and educational limits. It also empowers that a search and confiscation of smoking materials and obscene literature or objects found on a child under the age of 16 by any constable or teacher.

FRIDAY, FEB. 18, 1910.

A LEANING TO SECRECY

A crisis has arisen in the Government of Alberta, and Hon. Mr. Cushing, Minister of Public Works, has resigned. This, it is said, does not mean the loss of the Minister only in the support of the Liberal Government, for other members of the Legislature on the same side share his views and will support him in his action, and Hon. W. A. Buchanan is said to be entertaining the idea of following the same course. The defeat of the Government and an appeal to the electors is probable.

A despatch from Edmonton to the Globe says the immediate cause of disagreement is said to be the refusal of the Premier, Mr. Rutherford, to give any information whatever concerning the contract of the Great Waterways Railway, or to divulge the names of the officers and incorporators, and anything pertaining thereto, even to Mr. Cushing. The Alberta and Great Waterways Railway is a Government colonization project.

This idea of keeping public business secret seems to possess Liberal Premiers and Governments at times. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier made his extravagant bargain with the Grand Trunk Pacific Company he took the matter into his own hands and kept his Minister of Railways in the dark as to the negotiations. Perhaps if Mr. Blair's business ability had been called into the service an arrangement much less costly to the country and more beneficial might have been made. But Mr. Blair, although Minister of Railways, was not permitted to take part in the negotiations and when the scheme was presented to Parliament he disapproved of it. Suggestions that he should withhold expressions of his disapproval, and allow the impression to be made that he was in accord with the proposal, were rejected by him, and his resignation followed. The Liberal members at Ottawa, however, were more complaisant than they seem to be at Edmonton, and the country has to bear the burden of the extravagant bargain made more costly by bad management since the work began.

In the transactions with the Trading Company respecting immigration the Government refused, as Premier Rutherford seems to have done, to make known the names of the men with whom the country did business and to whom they paid large sums of money. It was asserted that it would be unwise for the Government to make the names public, and the information was persistently refused and never given, but the Ottawa Liberals were easy to deal with and did not try to compel the Government to give the information. Later events growing out of a suit of the company against the Government, indicate that while pretending to withhold the names the Government did not know them, and was misleading Parliament and the country.

The idea that one man, or any set of men, have a right to conduct the business of the country without giving full information should not be countenanced.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

It is argued by supporters of the Government that the question of a Canadian navy has been before the people of Canada and that in consequence there is no need of submitting it to them. In proof of this it is recalled that at a congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire held in Montreal in 1909 the subject was discussed and that certain Canadian gentlemen took part in the discussion. That is true enough, but the people will scarcely think, because the subject was considered at the meeting in Montreal, and that a few Canadians participated in it, that they have had an opportunity of expressing an opinion upon it. Mr. Borden's resolution sets out the principle that "no permanent policy should be entered into involving large expenditures of this character until it has been submitted to the people and received their approval." The constitutional manner of carrying this out is to have the matter brought before the people at a general election, and after the thorough discussion and consideration it would then receive if the electors return a majority of members who favor the policy of the Government they can then say that the people have endorsed it. It is a mere pretence to say that a discussion in a body such as the Congress of Chambers of Commerce, however respectable and important such a body may be, is putting the question before the country or submitting it to the people. If that is the way the will of the people should be expressed a Chamber of Commerce should be called every five years to elect the members of the House of Commons instead of holding a general election for that purpose. The congress was an important gathering, but was not convened to express the opinions of the electors, and whether its action was one that the people would sanction or not it did not voice approval of a scheme such as the Government has now submitted to Parliament.

EDITORIAL NOTES

King Edward has bought a villa on the Bay of Naples in which to spend his holidays. But he has never seen Stony Lake.

A wind storm at Burlington stopped the street cars in Toronto for two hours. This vividly calls attention to the changed conditions that have been brought about by the development of electrical power.

A new element, polonium, has been discovered, which is 5,000 times rarer than radium. And radium is several times rarer than gold, and gold is rarer than silver, and few of us will ever see polonium.

The Government of Alberta, like the Government in England, holds office just now by a precarious tenure. It does not seem to be a good time for Liberal Governments.

"Now that Canada has got H. M. S. Niobe in commission as a cruiser any little island from which we buy molasses and ginger will do well to mind its manners or it will wake up some morning to find our fleet frowning over its front fence," says the Liberal Toronto Star facetiously. There is more truth than humor in the fact that the chief ship of the Canadian fleet is big enough only to frown down on defenceless little islanders. What Canadians want to feed their fleet is a ship that can stand in the front line of battle between German dread nought if there should be need for it.

OPINIONS OF THE CANADIAN PRESS

THIS IS TERRIBLE.
Hamilton Times.

It is said New York is alarmed at the prospect of 5,000 milliners going on strike for $50 a week. And just at Easter, too!

HONOR THE PRESS.
Goderich Signal.

The editor of this paper was presented at Christmas with a gold-headed umbrella. This is mentioned not in a spirit of boasting, but just to let folks know, lest they should fail to wondering, when they see it, if he did not come by it absent-mindedly.

THEY MAKE MISTAKES.
Hamilton Spectator.

A Western man swallowed a tooth a couple of years ago without knowing it, and since that time the doctors have been treating him for consumption. Now he has coughed the molar out and his consumption is cured. In more ways than one our friends the medicos are amusing.

DOG MUZZLES.
Toronto Star.

It is worth while to remember that muzzles consisting only of a strap around a dog's mouth are worth than useless. These permit the animal to bite, but do not allow him to let go. A muzzle on the birdcage principle, with a steel bar crossing the mouth at right angles, is the only adequate safeguard for a vicious dog.

SOMEBODY'S OPPORTUNITY.
Cobalt Nugget.

The syndicate that erects a fireproof hotel [illegible] along proper lines will make from $50,000 to $100,000 a year on their investment. The project is one of the most promising business openings in the north country. The entire outlay can be made in profits in three years' time. No such promising investment is offered in Ontario.

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—The railways reported receipts of 108 carloads of live stock at the City Yards for Wednesday and Thursday, consisting of 1586 cattle, 1901 hogs, 339 sheep and lambs, 85 calves and 3 horses.

Exporters.

We did not hear of any cattle being bought for export, unless it was a few bulls, which sold from $4.75 to $5.30, and these prices were paid for bulls to be slaughtered here.

Stockers and Feeders.

Harry Murby reports a scarcity of stockers and feeders, so scarce that he has been unable to fill a lot of orders, that he has had placed in his hands for many weeks. Prices for butchers cattle are so high, that cattle, which would have been sold for feeding purposes, are being taken for slaughtering at too high figures to allow of Mr. Murbys handling them.

Prices for milkers and springers were reported higher than for some time, ranging from $75 to $70 each, and one or two up to $75, but these latter were of extra quality.

Veal Calves.

Upwards of 100 veal calves sold at prices ranging from $4 to $7.50; while a very few new milk fed calves of extra quality reached $8 per cwt.

New York, Feb. 18.—Two men with drawn revolvers raided the lobby of the Waverley Hotel on the Bowery, shot and killed Fred Devlin, a guest who, when they demanded money for drinks, was only able to produce a dime, and then held up and robbed the clerk of the night's receipts, less than $10.

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

"He's only joking, Mrs. Browne," explained Deppingham magnanimously. "Now, let me understand you, Saunders. You say they can be married according to the customs—which, I take it, are the laws—of the islanders. Your plan provides Browne with two charming wives and gives me but one. There's nothing to compel Mrs. Browne to marry me."

"But, my lord," said Saunders, "doesn't the plan give Lady Deppingham two husbands? It's quite a fair division."

"It would make Lord Deppingham my husband-in-law, I imagine," said Drusilla quaintly. "I've always had a horror of husbands-in-law."

"Saunders," said Deppingham soberly, "I must oppose your plan. It's quite unfair to two innocent and uninvolved parties. What have we done that we should be exempt from polygamy?"

"You are not exempt!" exclaimed the harassed solicitor. "You are merely not obliged to; that's all. You can do as you choose about it, I'm sure. I'm sorry my plan causes so much levity. It is meant for the good of our cause. The will doesn't say how many wives Mr. Browne shall have. It simply says that Agnes Ruthven shall be his wife. He isn't restricted, you know. He can be a polygamist if he likes."

"You're right," said Britt. "The will doesn't specify. But, my dear Saunders, you are overlooking your own client in this plan."

"I don't quite understand, Mr. Britt."

"As I understand the laws on this island—the church laws, at least—a man can have as many wives as he likes. Well, that's all very well for Mr. Browne. But isn't it also a fact that a woman can have no more than one husband? Lady Deppingham has one husband. She can't take another without first getting rid of this one."

"Saunders," said Deppingham, arising and lighting a fresh cigarette, "you have gone clean daft. You're loony with love. You've got marriage on the brain. I'd advise you to take someone for it."

"Do you mean that for me, Lord Deppingham?" demanded Miss Pelham sharply. She glared at him and then slammed her notebook on the table. "You can josh Mr. Saunders, but you can't josh me. I'm sick of this job. Get somebody else to do your work after this. I'm through."

"Oh!" exclaimed every one, in a panic. It took nearly ten minutes to pacify the ruffled stenographer.

"Perhaps we could arrange for a divorce all round," cried Saunders, suddenly inspired.

"On what grounds?" laughed Browne.

"Give me time," said the lawyer.

"It's barely possible that there is no divorce law in Japan," remarked Britt, enjoying his confrere's misery.

"Are you quite sure?"

"Reasonably. If there was such a law I'll bet my head two-thirds of the men in Aratat would be getting rid of their wives before night."

"I'm tired," said Lady Deppingham suddenly. She yawned and stretched her arms. "It's been very entertaining, Saunders, but really I think we'd better dress for dinner. Come, Mr. Browne. Shall we look for the princess?"

"With pleasure, if you'll promise to spare Deppingham's life."

"On condition that you will spare Deppingham's wife," very prettily and airily. Mrs. Browne laughed with amazing good grace, but there was a new expression in her eyes.

"Your ladyship," called Saunders desperately, "do you approve of my plan? It's only a subterfuge"—

"Heartily!" she exclaimed, with one of her rarest laughs. "The only objection that I can see to it is that it leaves out my husband and Mrs. Browne. They are very nice people, Saunders, and you should be more considerate of them. Come, Mr. Browne." She took the American's arm and gayly danced from the room. Lord Deppingham's eyes glowed with pride in his charming wife as he followed with the heartsick Drusilla.

"I would have won them over if Britt had not interfered," almost

Genevra gently waved her handkerchief

"I'm getting to hate that man," said Miss Pelham loyally. "And the others! They give me a pain! Don't mind them, Tommy, dear."

Lady Deppingham and Browne came upon the princess quite unexpectedly. She was in the upper gallery, leaning against the stone rail and gazing steadily through the fieldglasses in the direction of the bungalow. They held back and watched her, unseen. The soft light of early evening fell upon her figure as she stood erect, lithe and sinuous, in the open space between the ivy clad posts.

Genevra smiled securely in her supposed aloofness from the world. Then, suddenly moved by a strange impulse, she gently waved her handkerchief as if in greeting to some one far off in the gloaming. The action was a mischievous one, no doubt, and it had its consequences—rather sudden and startling. If the observers were to judge by her subsequent movements. She lowered the glass instantly. There was a quick catch in her breath, as if a laugh had been checked; confusion swept over her, and she drew back into the shadows as a guilty child might have done. They distinctly heard her murmur as she crossed the flags and disappeared through the French window without seeing them:

"Oh, dear, what a crazy thing to do!"

Genevra, peering through the glasses, had discovered the figure of Chase on the bungalow porch. She was amused to find that he, from his distant post, was also regarding the chateau through a pair of glasses. A spirit of adventure, risk, mischief, as uncontrolled as breath itself, impelled her to flaunt her handkerchief. That treacherous spirit deserted her most shamelessly when her startled eyes saw that he was waving a response. She lay awake for a long time that night wondering what he would think of her for that wretched bit of frivolity. Then at last a new thought came to her relief, but it did not give her the peace of mind that she desired.

He may have mistaken her for Lady Deppingham.

CHAPTER XIV.

TWO CALLS FROM THE ENEMY.

DEPPINGHAM was up and about quite early the next morning—that is, quite early for him. He had his rolls and coffee and strolled out in the shady park for a smoke. The princess, whose sense of humiliation had not been lessened by the fitful sleep of the night before, was walking in the shade of the trees on the lower terrace, beyond the fountains and the artificial lake.

"I was thinking of you," she said in greeting as he came up.

"How nice you are," he said. "But, my dear, is it wise in you to be thinking of us handsome devils? It's a most dangerous habit—thinking of other men."

"But, Deppy, dear, the prince isn't here," she said, falling into his humor. "That makes quite a difference, doesn't it?"

"Your logic is splendid. Pray resume your thoughts of me—if they were pleasant and agreeable. I'll not blow on you to Karl. By the way, I have a compliment for you. Browne says your hair is more beautiful than Pong's. That's quite a compliment. Titian never even dreamed of hair like Pong's."

"You know, Deppy," she said, with a pout, "I am very unhappy about my hair. It is quite red. I don't see why I should have hair like that of a red cocker. It seems so animalish."

"Rubbish! Why should you complain? Look at my hair. It's been likened more than once to that of a Jersey cow."

"Oh, how I adore Jersey cows! Now, I wouldn't mind that a bit."

They were looking toward the lower gates while carrying on this frivolous conversation. A man had just entered and was coming toward them. Both recognized the tall figure in gray flannels.

"I trust I am not intruding," Chase said as he came up. His gaze was as much for Deppingham as for the princess, his remark quite impersonal.

"Not at all, not at all," said Deppingham quickly, his heart leaping to the conclusion that the way to the American bar was likely to be opened at last. "Charmed to have you here, Mr. Chase. You've been most unneighborly. Have you been presented to her highness, the— Oh, to be sure. Of course you have. Stupid of me."

"We met ages ago," she said, with an ingenuous smile, which would have disarmed Chase if he had been prepared for anything else. As a matter of fact, he had approached her in the light of an adventurer who expects nothing and grasps at straws.

"In the dark ages," said he so ruefully that her smile grew. He had come, in truth, to ascertain why her husband had not come with her.

"But not the forgotten variety, I fancy," said Deppingham shrewdly.

It would be impossible for the princess to forget the greatest of all fools," said Chase.

"He was no worse than other mortals," said she.

"Thank you," said Chase. Then he turned to Lord Deppingham. "My visit requires some explanation, Lord Deppingham. You have said that I am unneighborly. No doubt you appreciate my reasons. One has to respect appearances," with a dry smile. "When one is in doubt he must do as the Moslems do, especially if the Moslems don't want him to do as he wants to do."

"No doubt you're right, but it sounds a bit involved," murmured Deppingham. "Lady Deppingham will be delighted to see you. Are you ready to come in, princess?"

They started toward the chateau, keeping well in the shade of the boxed trees, the princess between the two men.

"I say, Chase, do you mind relieving my fears a bit? With all due respect to your estimable clients, it occurs to me that they are likely to break over the traces at any moment and raise the very old Harry at somebody else's expense. I'd like to know if my head is really safe."

"I came to see you in regard to that very thing, Lord Deppingham. I don't want to alarm you, but I do not like the appearance of things. They don't trust me and they hate you—quite naturally. I'm rather sorry that our British man-of-war is out of reach. Pray don't be alarmed, princess. It is most improbable that anything evil will happen. And, in any event, we can hold out against them until relief comes."

"We?" demanded Deppingham.

"Certainly. If it comes to an assault of any kind upon the chateau I trust that I may be considered as one of you. I won't serve assassins and bandits—at least not after they've got beyond my control. Besides, if the worst should come they won't discriminate in my favor."

"Why do you stay here, Mr. Chase?" asked the princess. "You admit that they do not like you or trust you. Why do you stay?"

BOSTON IS VERY ANGRY

An Historian Who Says That Benjamin Franklin Was a Thief and Samuel Adams a Defaulter

(New York American.)

Boston, Feb. 16. — James Henry Stark, a local historian, has provoked much criticism and abuse by statements contained in his latest book, "The Loyalists of Massachusetts and the Other Side of the American Revolution." Mr. Stark calmly asserts his book contains truths which he has gathered after years of research and which other historians have wilfully passed by.

Its pages teem with facts that demolish the altars erected to Massachusetts' heroes of the Revolution and are extremely humiliating to families who pride themselves on the immaculacy of their ancestry.

Patriotic societies in Boston, such as "The Sons of the Revolution," are deeply aroused, as the book contains many damaging statements that cannot be refuted.

Concerning the causes of the American Revolution, Mr. Stark's book says:

"In Virginia the Revolutionary movement of the poor whites, or 'crackers' led by Patrick Henry, was against the planter aristocracy. It was only very slowly and very deliberately that Washington identified himself with the disunionist cause.

"PATRICK HENRY UNRELIABLE."

"Patrick Henry was one of the most unreliable men living. He had been successfully a storekeeper, a farmer and a shopkeeper, but he failed in all these pursuits and became a bankrupt at twenty-four. Then he studied law a few weeks and practised a few years. Finally he embarked on the stormy sea of politics. One day he worked himself into a fine frenzy and in a most dramatic manner demanded 'liberty or death,' although he had both freely at his disposal.

"John Adams joined the disunionists, probably before he saw that if the revolution was successful there would be great opportunity for advancement under the new government. This proved to be the case."

That Samuel Adams was a defaulter Mr. Stark proves in a copy of a letter sent by Mr. Adams to the town of Boston, of which he was the tax collector. Mr. Adam's sureties had to pay $5,000. Of the Boston massacre the book says:

"The rioters reputedly challenged the soldiers to fire if they dared, and the torrent of coarse and profane abuse poured upon the soldiers is astonishing even in its echoes across the century and would furnish material for an appropriate inscription in the Attacks Monument.'"

"JOHN HANCOCK SMUGGLER"

Of the Boston Tea Party he says; "The illegal seizure of the tea was in a certain sense parallel to the so-called 'respectable' mob which on the eleventh day of August, 1834, destroyed the Charlestown Convent and a year later nearly killed Garrison and made the jail his only place of refuge."

Many of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were smugglers, Mr. Stark asserts, and John Hancock, while having the name of being a 'fair' trader, was in reality the owner of one of the smuggling vessels. Concerning Mr. Hancock's connection with Harvard University, Stark writes:

"In 1773 John Hancock was elected treasurer of Harvard College. The amount of college funds paid over to him was upward of fifteen thousand and four hundred pounds, and like his friends, Samuel Adams, he, too, proved to be a defaulter. For twenty years the corporation begged and entreated him to make restitution. They threatened to prosecute him and also to put his bond in suit, as Adam's was, but it was of no avail. He turned a deaf ear to their entreaties, and it was only after his death, in 1793, that his heirs made restitution to the college, when a settlement was made, in 1795, in which the college lost five hundred and twenty-six dollars interest."

President Josiah Quincy, of Harvard, later asserted that these defalcations hurt the university considerably, and that it would be grateful to pass over in silence the extraordinary course he pursued in his official relation to Harvard College had truth and fidelity to history permitted.

"B. FRANKLIN MAIL THIEF"

In a chapter on the life of Thomas Hutchinson, a loyalist, Stark submits proofs to his claim that Benjamin Franklin, when sixty-seven years old, was dismissed from his position as Boston's Postmaster because he rifled the mail boxes. He tells in detail how Franklin was tried in England and banished in disgrace from the service.

Mr. Stark is a prominent business man of Boston, president of the Photo Electric Plate Company, of Boston. He is also prominent in club life, being a founder of the Dorchester Historical Society, South Boston Yacht Club, Savin Hill Yacht Club, president of the British Charitable Association, vice-president of the Victorian Club and a member of the New England Historical Genealogical Society. He was born in London, but came to Boston at the age of eight and was educated in the local schools. He lives in Dorchester.

THE VALLEY

A. C. Nash, Peachland, B.C.

I know a val'ey in lonian hills
Where choristers for ever wake their song;
And where the murmur of a million rill's
Makes music all day long.

No city noise on this fair spot intrudes,
Nor restless surging of the distant sea;
No human voice invades these solitudes
Known but to God and me.

I know each green park leading to the sky,
Each gentle slope, each waterfall I love;
'Twere sweet to live alone, alone to die
Thus raised the world above.

Blithe vale within thy heart keep endless spring;
Clear flow thy rivulets to yonder sea;
And while thy birds in copse and covert sing,
In dreams I'll dream of thee.

STOCKING DYE CAUSED POISON

A case at Kingston shows vividly the danger of neglecting to apply Zam-Buk to a cut or a sore. Mrs. A. Harrison, living in Place d'Armes, while attending to her household duties, struck her ankle against a sharp projection on the furniture. She took no notice of the injury, deeming it trivial. In a day or two the ankle began to swell and cause excessive pain. A doctor, called in, found that dye from her stocking had entered the wound and set up blood poison. Treatment with Zam-Buk followed, but it was several days before the limb was out of danger. "Had it not been for the powerful antiseptic properties of Zam-Buk and its exceptional healing virtues, the wound might have had a very serious result," says Mrs. Harrison. "But I believe if I had applied Zam-Buk at the time of the injury, it would have prevented the blood-poisoning altogether."

WIFE LOCKED OUT OF HOME BY HER DRUNKEN HUSBAND

Two Charges Preferred Against Blacklist Man — Proven Guilty of Both, Was Fined $30 and Bound Over to Keep the Peace for One Year.

One of the most pitiful cases that Magistrate Dumble has had to deal with for some time, was heard at the police court this morning, and the particulars only go to show one more case where the use of liquor destroys the truer and better instincts in man and brings trouble and unhappiness to the wife, whom he once promised to love, honor and protect. After hearing the evidence in the two charges, His Worship imposed a fine of $10.00 in the first offence, and $20.00 in the second, on the defendant, and ordered that he be bound over to keep the peace for a period of one year, the fines to be paid forthwith and the prisoner to remain in gaol, till the securities necessary for his release, be furnished.

The defendant was in March, 1909, put on the blacklist at the request of his wife, he being addicted to the excessive use of intoxicating liquor. The charges preferred this morning were for offences committed on February 7th and 16th, respectively, that of being found under the influence of liquor. To both charges, the defendant pleaded not guilty.

The substance of the evidence of the first charge was that the defendant returned to his home about 9 o'clock at night, after having with another man been engaged during the day in carting furniture from Millbrook to the city. According to the statements of his wife and daughter, he used abusive and insulting language. The wife said she smelled the odor of liquor, and he acted in a similar manner as on other occasions when he had been intoxicated. After having had his supper he left the house, and at eleven o'clock he was engaged with his companion of the day, in removing the scenery and other property of the Cole & Johnson show, from the opera house to the station. He returned to his home at 2 o'clock on the following morning, but his wife could not say as to whether he was then intoxicated, she and her two children having then retired and locked the bedroom door, as had been customary for some time, owing to threats having been made against her by the husband.

The man who had been with the defendant during the day, stated that the prisoner had, not to his knowledge, drank any liquor. In the evening he had not taken any particular notice of him. The defendant stated under oath that he had not had any liquor during the day.

SECOND CHARGE.

The wife of the defendant first called, said that her husband had come home about two o'clock on the morning of February 16. He broke into her room, and as in the previous cases, used abusive and insulting language. She became alarmed and jumped out of bed, put on a couple of articles of clothing and went into the hall. He was staggering and the odor of liquor was strong on his breath. On an attempt being made by her to get into the room again, she found the door locked, and then, only lightly clad, went over to the C.P.R. station and called up the police station, the operator in charge allowing her permission to use the telephone. P.C. Meharry, the witness said, answered the call, and on being made acquainted with the nature of the request for help, said that he would rather go to the home himself or send another officer. It turned out, however, that none of the officers turned up. On returning to her home she found that the door had been locked in her absence, but about four o'clock her eldest daughter came downstairs and let her in. In the morning her husband was sick, and about six o'clock acted as if "in the blues." He did not go to work that day. Asked if he had made threats the witness stated that she felt alarmed for her life, the husband having threatened to do her bodily harm.

The daughter of the witness, next called, stated that it was her father who had locked the door. She intended to remain awake, and when her mother returned, to unlock the door, but she had gone to sleep. Her younger sister had awakened her. She thought her father had been intoxicated.

License Inspector Stewart, who was called to prove the serving of the blacklist notice, enlightened the court on some past history of the defendant. He had known him to be a man who drank excessively. After being served with the notice he had left his family and had remained away for some time. All the money for a stove had not been paid and the owner had it taken away, leaving the family to bear the consequences which would arise from its removal. A local minister and himself interested themselves in the family and the stove was returned. The wife removed to another house and supported herself and family by keeping boarders. Afterwards at the request of the husband, she allowed him to return.

The defendant admitted having used liquor on Tuesday, 15th. His excuse for locking the door was that "people generally locked the door." Asked by Mr. Moore where he got his liquor, he stated that he met a man who wanted to get to Burkelon, and and bought a bottle of whiskey from him.

Mr. Moore intimated that the prisoner should be sent to gaol as in the case of a fine, they (wife as she had done on another occasion, would have to pay the amount out of her own pocket.

GROWTH OF CONGREGATION DEMANDS NEW CHURCH

Is the Opinion of the Quarterly Board of the Charlotte St. Methodist Church—Resolution Passed—Pastor Will Remain Another Year.

At a meeting of the Quarterly Board of the Charlotte street Methodist church the following resolution was passed;

"Moved by Mayor Morrow, seconded by A. B. Cunningham, and resolved, that in the judgment of those present at this meeting, the time has come to consider the question of the building of a new church and for the purpose of further discussion that an adjourned meeting of this board be held at the call of the chair."

At the same meeting a unanimous and hearty invitation was extended the pastor, Rev. G. W. Henderson, to remain pastor of the congregation for the next conference year. Mr. Henderson cordially thanked the board and decided to accept the invitation.

NORTH MONAGHAN FARM HOUSE WAS BURNED TO GROUND YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

As the result of a fire, the source of which is unknown, which started yesterday afternoon at about 4.30 o'clock, the residence of Mr. Lewis Fry, North Monaghan, four and a half miles from Peterborough, on the line to Springville, just south of the gravel road, was burned to the ground. The blaze started on the east side of the house while Mrs. Fry was in town, and Mrs. Fry and her two children were visiting at a neighbor's. It is suspected that the blaze had its origin in a defective chimney.

None of the neighbors noticed the flames until they had made great headway, and when the house was beyond salvation. All the furniture and household effects were destroyed, only a couple of small articles being saved.

Mr. and Mrs. Fry and the two children are now staying with Mrs. Fry's brother, Mr. Thos. McConnell, North Monaghan.

The house was the property of Mr. J. J. Lundy, Peterborough, and was insured. It is not learned whether Mrs. Fry had any insurance on the contents.

PORT HOPE THINKS THE CANADIAN NORTHERN IS TRYING A BLUFF GAME

Port Hope Times—Port Hope is face to face with a railway problem. The problem must be met, studied, and dealt with in some definite fashion. The town needs another railway—that goes without saying; are there men enough of the right stripe to cope with the sharp railroad magnates and get something for the town out of the deal? That is the question. Port Hope has had enough of the weak-backed policy of the past. Is there to be another such fiasco?

Let us look at the question for one moment. The Canadian Northern railway, one of the big wealthy roads of the continent and one of the fortunate ones so far as the west is concerned, announces that it is about to run a line from Ottawa to Toronto by way of Trenton. So far, so good. Ottawa is growing faster than any other city in America, and, in time will be a city of supreme importance; the same applies to Toronto. There is no need to dwell on this point, but remember that Messrs. McKenzie and Mann are not in the railway business for charity or for their health. So far as the Dominion is concerned, their health is remarkably good.

Now, the supposition is, that there is business to be in the district built through. Already the Grand Trunk Railway and the Canadian Pacific Railway have tapped this territory, and the new line knows that there is to be a spirited competition. But what do we find? The line as surveyed cuts out towns like Oshawa, Bowmanville, Whitby and Port Hope. What is the idea?

It can be taken for granted that every town possible to reach will be touched. If the line passes any town (in the survey) it is safe to assume that one of two things is in order—either that the town in question cannot be reached at all, or the railway is putting up a bluff with the object of stirring up a bonus. It is possible that a town might be passed for a refusal to come with the ad for a refusal to come to time with the bonus; but the chances are that the town that can be reached will be touched. The line needs the business.

Now, this brings us down to the question of Port Hope — the town with the scarlet railway history. The C. N. R. knows that the town has made a mistake in the past and has suffered for years for another railway. Port Hope knows all about that. The C. N. R. knows that the town would likely do anything, say anything, put up anything, and actually get down on their knees, for another railway. What better chance for a bluff at a bonus?

The line came nearer and nearer to town, and, with the eyes of all the citizens upon it, passed (in the survey) by the town. That was not to be expected. However, to the surprise of the road, the town said not a word—and work was gradually stopped. Was that not suspicious?

After a wait of some weeks, a gentleman comes to Port Hope direct from the head office—the head right of way man, the man whose duty it is to force the railway's bluffs. He says, "Gentlemen, you are not taking this railway seriously enough. We have all but decided that the line must pass one mile and a half from your town." (This very seriously indeed.) He continues;—"Well — what are you going to do about it? It is a very serious matter. The line can possibly get into your town, but at a great expense. It would cost at least the sum of $150,000. Now the line will come in if you put up the right of way at a cost of $75,000 and close four streets. This is a real bargain and you had better close with it at once."

Is that not nerve? Not a word as of what the town is to get for its money. Not a word. It is a bluff.

Now a line running through the town, merely, it is not going to do the place such a world of good. The freight rates are "pooled" and the express and passenger rates will be the same. There would be the convenience of having a little better treatment from the local freight men and the choice of another line to Toronto. That is all. Small villages would spring up along the route and they would capture some of the farm trade. This is surely not worth any such sacrifice as the man from Toronto asked for.

Port Hope has a magnificent harbor, and is an ideal site for any industry that wants to come here and get down to solid business. If the C. N. R. would, in return, for this big sum of money, place one of their repair shops here, and take over the harbor as a coaling depot, establish a ferry in connection with their railway, and make the town the summer resort it ought to be—then there would be some sense in talking of a bonus. The Grand Trunk did much for Stratford for a sum not much larger. They put in repair shops that have grown to an enormous size.

Port Hope has a chance to show some backbone. Let the road talk business and give 100 cents for a dollar, and the town will be only too glad to see the road come in. If not, we will be glad to see it come even two miles away, and pay cab fare to the station.

Found the Glasses

If you want to find a lost article let the Review do it for you. Sometimes it does not cost you anything, either. This morning a member of the staff picked up a pair of glasses on Hunter street. They were a valuable pair, but unfortunately the newspaperman did not get a chance to prove them. He had only gone a short distance when he observed a lady directing a boy to go back over the streets she had traversed and attempt to find her glasses. The Review man dug them up from an inside pocket and handed them over to the owner, perhaps fearing that suspicion would be directed against him if he were seen with a pair of gold-rimmed "specs."

WOMAN MADE FALSE CLAIM

As to Where She Obtained Liquor In Lakefield—Arrested for Being Drunk

A case is reported from Lakefield of a woman who came up before the local authorities on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. Quite a sensation was caused by the woman naming the place where she obtained her liquor, but on investigation this was found to be untrue. It appears that she called at the place in question and wanted liquor, but could not get any. This made her indignant, and when she was brought to court she mentioned the place where she had made the unsuccessful attempt to get the liquor.

The woman, who was employed as a domestic near the village, got out of the neighborhood, and the authorities were contented with this as a satisfactory solution of the case against her.

NEW SECRETRAY FOR Y. M. C. A.

H. M. Gilchrist of Quebec City to Succeed F. G. Hassard—Will be Here April 20th

The local Young Men's Christian Association has been fortunate in securing a successor to Mr. Hassard in the person of Mr. H. M. Gilchrist, who is now General Secretary of the Quebec City Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. Gilchrist has been in Association work since 1901, and has been in his present field for three years. He went to Quebec from Affris, Ontario, where he had organized the work of the Association in the new building, which was presented to the town by Mr. John Penman, who is and has been for some years the chairman of the Provincial Committee of the Y.M.C.A. of Ontario and Quebec.

Before going to Paris Mr. Gilchrist was Secretary of the Stratford Association, and was there when the building was erected. The Stratford Association is a combination town and railroad work, being supported largely by the Grand Trunk Railway, so that Mr. Gilchrist has had a varied experience in Association Work.

Mr. Gilchrist comes to Peterborough well recommended by all who know him and his work, and the Association and city are to be congraulted on securing such a man with so little delay, since there is a scarcity of men of ability for Y.M.C.A. work.

Mr. Gilchrist will arrive in the city to take up his duties about the 20th of April.

ASSURED OF A HEARTY WELCOME

Rev. I. G. Couch Has Been Advised to This Effect by Members of George St. Church

Hamilton, Feb. 18.—When spoken to this morning in reference to his call to Peterborough, Rev. I. G. Couch intimated that he would accept it, providing the transfer could be effected. He also stated that he had received word that the call was decided upon at a meeting that was large, harmonious and enthusiastic. In addition to the unanimous call Mr. Couch said he had received a number of letters from members of the Peterborough church assuring him of a hearty welcome. Mr. Couch further said that he would always continue to regard Central church with the warmest affection.

Mr. Couch's work here is chiefly notable for the responsible part it played in the union of Wesley and Gore street churches. He has made a large number of friends, not only in the united congregations of these churches, but among Methodists in Hamilton generally. He has proved himself an able and scholarly pastor, and the hope is generally expressed that Hamilton may have another opportunity in the future of seeing him installed again in one of the city pulpits.

JUDGE SAYS NO SLANDER

In Case of Foster Against Dr. Macdonald—Libel Case Proceeded With

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Feb. 18.—On the opening of the court in the Foster-MacDonald libel case this morning Mr. Justice Magee gave his decision on the point raised as to the claims for damages for slander as well as libel. He ruled there was no slander, and accordingly ruled out that part of the claim. On another point raised last night his Lordship ruled that had Dr. MacDonald in his statement of defence objected that written notice of intention to proceed on a charge of libel had not been given, he would have ruled the whole suit out, but Dr. MacDonald not having so objected, he thought Mr. Foster was entitled to proceed. The case for the defence then proceeded, with Col. Stevenson, Supreme Chief Ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters, as first witness.

ONE MONTH IN GAOL FOR 'LISTER

Pleaded Guilty to Being Found Under Influence of Liquor

Nathan Stabler appeared at the police court this morning to answer to the charge of being found under the influence of liquor on Sunday, February 13, while being on the prohibited list. The case had been enlarged from Tuesday morning. The defendant pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one month in the county gaol. It was the fifth conviction.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, who appeared for the defendant, asked that as he had not been warned at a previous case, that he would be sent to gaol, he be let off with a fine, but the magistrate decided that the judgment given would have a better effect.

Stabler said the liquor was given to him by a man named Ned Quinlan, who resides near Indian River.

WARNE DRUG CO. WERE BESIEGED

Formal Opening Drew Immense Crowd—Souvenirs Distributed

Yesterday was a notable one in the history of the Warne Drug Co. It was the occasion of their formal opening in their new store at Georg street.

For several days they have advertised a free souvenir distribution to the first 500 ladies coming into the store between three and five o'clock, and a few minutes before the hour were obliged to lock the door on account of the store being already full. In a few minutes the sidewalk was also jammed a struggling mass of laughing feminity, on the outskirts being a row of men gathered to see what it was all about. A large staff of clerks quickly handed out the bags containing a number of small articles, and before four o'clock the entire supply of 500 were all gone and a great many disappointed ones were unable to secure the coveted gifts.

The new premises are very commodious and fitted up in most modern style. A new dispensary department is a special feature, and a neat business office has also been added. A cash railway and cashier will facilitate the handling of business on crush days, and the whole interior has a decidedly citified air.

REV. ROBT. EMBERSON IS DEAD

Toronto, Feb. 18.—Rev. Robert Emberson, for the past ten years a missionary of the Methodist church in Japan, died about 11 o'clock last night at the Toronto Orthopedic Hospital. Rev. Mr. Emberson had been an inmate of the hospital since his return to Canada three weeks ago, but from the first no hope was held out for his recovery. The funeral will take place to Bensfort, near Peterborough.

Rev. Robert Emberson was a man of quiet, earnest spirit, always very much interested in mission work, especially in the Forward Movement, and highly esteemed by those who knew him best. He was born about forty years ago, and brough tup on a farm at Bensfort, about ten miles from Peterborough, which is still the family home.

After receiving his education in Albert College, Belleville, and in Victoria College, Toronto, he went to the mission field in Japan. Before sailing he married a Miss Harris of Sarnia. They have been in the work some eight or nine years.

He had been blessed with good health and vitality, but when it became evident that the illness which seized him was likely to prove serious, the medical treatment available at his station proving insufficient to effect a cure, he went to Tokio for advice about October. He was told that his trouble was cancer of the liver, but was unable to arrange to start home till January. The Mission Council sent word that he was not in a condition to travel alone, so the Mission Board directed that an escort be provided. Rev. D. Norman accompanied him to Toronto and then returned to Japan. Besides his widow two children survive.

TEMPERANCE MEN SHOULD ASSIST

Sir James' Advice to Small Deputation—Three-Fifths Clause Again.

Sir James Whitney gave some good advice to a deputation of temperance men who interviewed him at noon yesterday in connection with the liquor situation. Instead of attempting to overawe the Government by a huge deputation, the temperance men were satisfied with a deputation of only five, and so anxious were they to have things kept quiet that the president specially requested that the press be not allowed at the conference. At the conclusion of the discussion Mr. Gibson refused to make any statement whatever.

The five men who composed the deputation were Mr. Joseph Gibson, president of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance; Rev. Ben. Spence, secretary; Rev. T. Beverley Smith, Miles Vokes and Rev. J. G. Potter, of Peterborough.

Mr. Spence read to Sir James the finding of the convention, now in session here, in connection with the abolition of the three-fifths clause, asking for its total abolition. A long statement of figures was presented, showing that there were 800,000 people in Ontario living in "dry" districts.

Rev. Mr. Smith and Rev. Mr. Potter spoke especially in connection with the abolition of the three-fifths clause, and the question of granting licenses to clubs. They wanted the bar abolished altogether, so far as clubs were concerned; if the bars were not totally abolished they suggested that they be placed under the rules and regulations governing licensed hotels.

Sir James Whitney, in reply expressed the opinion that the temperance people of the province should fall in line with the Government and assist in enforcing the liquor license laws. The three-fifths clause, he said, was the greatest protection the temperance people had. The campaign for the abolition of the bar was more an educational one than anything else, and depended on the growth of public opinion. The Government, he said, could neither assist nor retard the growth of public opinion in connection with the liquor question. All it could do was to keep abreast of the times, and it would never be found behind the times when it came to a matter of public sentiment.

The deputation left with the Hon. Mr. Hanna the statements they had read, giving full statistics upon which their claims were based, which will be looked into by the Government.—Mail and Empire.

ACTRESS THREW HER WINDOW OUT

One of the "Kitty Grey" Company Yanked Off a Sash at Kingston

Kingston, Feb. 16.—Miss Nellie Daly, who takes the part of "Kitty Grey's" dresser in the musical comedy presented by G. P. Huntley here last night created quite a sensation by her acrobatic and bright work, but she created an even greater piece of excitement just before she retired to her little bed in the Randolph Hotel, about half an hour after midnight. Nellie felt a bit warm after her strenuous work on the Grand Opera House stage, and when she donned her nightie she decided to get as much fresh air as possible, not being content with the amount of ozone that finds its way through the vent in the bottom of the ordinary storm sash. Nellie, however, didn't know just how to get more cold air without removing the window, so she decided to do this work without the aid of a bell boy. So the vivacious little bronze-haired soubrette unhooked the window. Then something happened. The window slipped from Nellie's hands and fell to the pavement below, just in front of the Canadian Express Company's office. The crash resounded up and down the cold and silent street, and people in rooms facing the thoroughfare threw up their windows to see what was the matter. Nellie's copper-colored head docked back as the window of "Kitty Grey" was flung open, and the leading lady tried to find out what her athletic maid was doing. This morning Nellie expressed sincere sorrow to the smiling hotel clerk for her deed, and was shocked to hear that in the window's flight from the third storey to the pavement every bit of glass in it had been smashed.

NINE MINUTES OVERTIME IN KNOX-ST. ANDREW'S GAME

Long Lift Decided the Score in Favor of the Champions—George Street Won Out Easily From All Saint's—Interesting Contests in Church League.

It took nine minutes of overtime to decide the winner of the Knox—St. Andrew's game at the Auditorium rink last night and the honors went to the champions by 4—3, Clarke beating Howe on a long lift. The game was a warmly contested one and provided plenty of excitement for the large number of spectators. At half time the score stood 2—1 in favor of Knox, but in minutes after the return to the ice St. Andrew's evened up and two minutes later Sills put the team in the lead after a lone rush down the boards. With five minutes to play Knox tied the score and it remained unchanged till the finish. Two five minute halves were decided on and St. Andrew's won out, the score being the same as in the previous game between the two teams. The champions have two games to play with George street and to retain the title the team has to win but one.

For St. Andrew's Sills was the pick and Elliott was the most prominent man for the losers. The teams were;

St. Andrew's 4.—Goal, Petterson; point, Staunton; cover-point, Clarke; rover, Currie; centre, Rae; right, Leitch; left Sills.

All Saints' and George street played the first game, which resulted in a win for the Methodists by a 12—2 score. The half-time figures were 5—0. The winners had on their strongest line-up but the Anglicans were weakened by the absence of two of the regular players. Despite the one-sided score the contest was interesting and All Saints' were not out-played as the score would indicate. It was the long shots and lifts that beat them. Following were the teams;

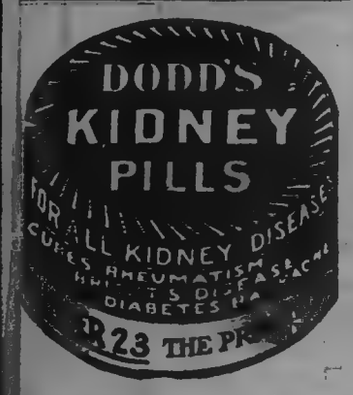
TWO PETERBOROUGH RINKS WON IN 'CAYGEON BONSPIEL

Peterborough curlers returned from Bobaygeon yesterday, where they played the first games for the Fitzgerald-Bottum shield, and competed in a bonspiel. As stated before, the rinks in the games for the shield came out ahead by 20 shots, and with a big lead obtained, should retain the shield when Bobaygeon comes here in the remaining games, which will probably be played next week. In the bonspiel the locals made a very creditable showing. Skip Neill's rink won the first prize of four carving sets in the consolation, and Skip Morrow's rink captured four silver-mounted safety hatchets, as third prize; and as there was no ill-feeling between the two clubs there will be no necessity of burying the hatchets. Mayor Morrow, it is reported, has already communicated with the fair exponent of hatchet juggling, asking for tips. Skip Waddell's rink lost in the last round of the consolation.

The winning rinks were: Messrs. W. P. Adamson, H. Evans, A. Moore, R. Neill, skip; and R. Hartstone, W. J. Thompson, D. Davidson, W. G. Morrow, skip.



HOCKEY

Lakefield News—One of the best games of hockey witnessed at the rink this season was played on Monday night between the T.A.S., of Peterborough, and the Juniors. The visitors came a pexpecting an easy win but they were badly disappointed in that respect. A large crowd witnessed the game, and a fine brand of hockey was put up. The visitors started scoring early in the game, and put a fast shot past Hill. The Juniors came right back and scored three in quick succession. Each scored another and at half time the score stood 4—2 in favor of the Juniors. Shortly after the face-off in the second half the Juniors scored two more goals, and the T.A.S also managed to put two between the posts, the game ending 6—4 in favor of the Juniors. The feature of the game was the fine work of Hill in goal for the Juniors, who stopped shot after shot of what appeared to be sure goals. The other players also put up a good game and were a little too fast for the visitors. On the T.A.S were four old Lakefield players. The visitors played a good game but were checked too closely to be very effective. Following are the players;—

T. A. S.—Goal, Hickey; point, M. Sabatino; cover, M. Quigley; rover, Coughlin; centre, T. Sabatino; right, Hefferman; left, J. Morin.

WILL KEEP THE "BATTLER" BUSY

At last things begin to look as though Bat Nelson and Ad. Wolgast will really meet in their forty-five round battle that will determine which of the lads has the better claim to the lightweight title. The two two boys have been going at each other through the press in savage fashion, and it was no surprise that Wolgast offered to stage an impromptu affair when he met Nelson in the office of Promoter Gallester at San Francisco a week or two back. Wolgast was evidently hot under the collar at the talk that Nelson had been indulging in, and when he once got within reach of him he peeled off his coat and had every intention in the world of obliterating the Hogewash terror right on the spot. The cooler heads stepped in, however, and the public is assured now that the two will climb into the same ring for a set-two within the near future.

Everything pertaining to arranging for the fight has been completed by Hester, but the fight fans are still somewhat shaky, as the whims of both Nelson and Wolgast are somewhat numerous, and it would be no surprise if they should get up one of these days and demand something that would again put the meeting into the discard for another month or two.

Taking it for granted that the fight will take place as originally intended, it would not be going amiss to again sum up the chances of either man in the long battle which will take place. To the close follower of the lightweight game it is easily seen that there is slim chance of either slipping over a knockout blow unless some of them should be out of condition and unable to last out the strain of a long battle.

The forty-five round affair is the strong point in favor of the present champion, and it has been repeatedly said that Wolgast will not stand a ghost of a show, as the persistent bunting of Nelson will wear the Milwaukeean out early in the contest.

It must be remembered, however, that Wolgast is a fighter with an unusual amount of pluck and willingness to mix, and the Milwaukee lad has never known what it is to quit. In addition, he has a build that shows a world of power, and he may surprise many others besides Nelson after the two once get together. There is also another angle to be considered, and that is that Wolgast is a terror in any length of weight from ten up to twenty-five rounds, and he may be able to carry Nelson off his feet before the fight is well under way.

The ten-round affair between the two is still fresh in the minds of the fans, who were more than surprised at the time to learn that Nelson had really been outclassed in a decisive manner. It will be a case of where each scrapper will have a good chance to win, and as Wolgast will have a world of opportunity in the first twenty-five rounds there is reason to believe that he may take good advantage of it with hopes of bringing home victory before the Dane has a chance to show his endurance powers.

WITH THE FIGHTERS

The small difference of 5 per cent. on the gross receipts is the only thing that stands in the way of a match being clinched between Al. Kaufman, the California heavyweights and Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight champion.

Jack McGuigan matchmaker of the National A.C. of Philadelphia, is ready to put on the bout, but as Kaufman demands 35 per cent. of the gross receipts instead of the 30 which McGuigan is ready to give again, the match hangs fire. Ketchel has already agreed to meet Kaufman. Ketchel has been offered a match with Ian Hague, the English heavyweight champion, at San Francisco in March, and may accept it.

Matty Baldwin, the Boston lightweight, and Ray Bronson, the crack lightweight of Indianapolis, were matched in Boston last night by Matchmaker Johnny Mooney, of the Armory A.A. to meet for twelve rounds at the next show of that club on Tuesday night. This will be the second time they have fought, they battling to a twenty-round draw in their previous contest at New Orleans.

Leach Cross and Johnny Marto are in fine fettle for their ten-round bout at the Long Acre A.C. ring to-morrow night. Marto has not fought since he bested Fighting Dick Nelson at Troy, N.Y. some time ago. Johnny has been clamoring for a match with the East Side dentist-pugilist for a long time, as he is of the opinion that he can beat him. If Marto can only beat Cross he will get a bunch of offers for bouts.

Billy Papke Papke, who is taking in the sights at England at present, was recently offered a bout with Tom Thomas, the English champion, at the National Sporting Club, of London, but when Billy named the amount of money he wanted for his services, Matchmaker Bettison told him he would consider it. Since then Bettison has not talked to Papke.

DOESN'T ENDORSE WOMAN SUFFRAGE

The following letter appears in the Woman's Page of to-day's Globe —

Editor of the Globe,—Will you kindly allow me space to give a few reasons why women do not want the franchise: Woman's first duty is to care for the health of her own body and mind; next, to attend to the physical and mental needs of her children.

Mothers must conduct the early education and moral training of children, for to no one else may this be safely entrusted. These are a few of the duties of a mother to her children. The performance of these should be an interesting study and a pleasure to a healthy, intelligent mother. Until a woman can properly and fully discharge these and other duties suitable and proper to our sex, and still have time and energy to spare, I see no good use she can make of the franchise. Now, there are properly and fully discharged even the duties mentioned, which only women can discharge. Examination of school children in New York is reported to show three-fourths of the children suffering from physical defects, mouth breathing, tuberculosis, defective eyesight or hearing, obstructed nostrils, decayed teeth, etc. What have the mothers of these children to say to this state of affairs? Will any one claim that these mothers have done their duty by their children? Why, in the presence of an army of medical practitioners, should measles, scarlet fever, chicken pox, diphtheria and tuberculosis increase? If women would study the value of sunlight and fresh air and the evils that lurk in carpets, curtains and all household furnishings that harbor dust, they could check the spread of these diseases. Then look at the domestic help situation! Women have shown their inability to deal with it. By proper attention to the change in our ways of living we should have better domestics than our mothers had. But we haven't. The performance of our proper household duties, the pursuit of general culture, necessary recreation, social intercourse, charitable, religious or educational work suitable to us is surely quite enough without politics or voting.

What a Word May Do

By James E. Clark.

Every person with whom one comes into contact awakens something responsive in the profound depths of the soul of man. The evil starts up the evil; the noble calls for its kind.

The effect could not be more certain and true if the soul were a chime of bells, a musical instrument, like a piano or an organ. Touch a certain key and a certain sound responds to the pressure. Thus it is that men who have been caught up in the spirit of a street mob and have taken part in its disorder have looked back in calmer moments and wondered what strange influence it was that led them astray.

There is one experience common to all who visit Echo river in the mammoth cave of Kentucky, which illustrates and yet does not exaggerate what may be the effect of a word, a thought, an impression on the human soul. The most extraordinary effects are produced when Echo river is allowed to speak for itself. The method is simply the guide's agitating the water by rocking the boat and striking the water vigorously with the paddle. The first sound to break the stillness sounds like the tinkling of myriads of tiny silver bells. Then larger and heavier bells take up the harmony as the waves seek out the cavities in the rocky walls. These die away to a whisper and are followed by a noise as of an angry multitude mingled with unearthly shrieks. Alarmed, we are ready to go to the rescue, but the guide motions us to keep quiet and await what is to follow. We sit in expectation. Lo, as if from some deep recess that had hitherto been forgotten comes a tone, tender and profound, after which like tender memories are reawakened all the mellow sounds the silver bells, the alarm bells, the chiming cathedral bells, till River Hall rings again with the wondrous matchless harmony.

A word of encouragement, a word of discouragement, an inspiring burst of melody a bitter denunciation, may and do (though not with the same speed) send men and women on their way to turn back to the world all the sounds of real life that Echo hall illustrates.

A wonderful place in Echo river, but its recesses are known and limited while the recesses of the human soul are unlimited.

DOGS HIS FAD; SPENT MILLIONS

New York, Feb. 17.—William G. Rockefeller, whose hobby has been for years the breeding and training of beagles, has retired from the sport because of increased business responsibilities, and is selling out his dogs, which are housed in what are said to be the finest kennels in the country. The kennels are at Rock Ridge, Mr. Rockefeller's country place at Greenwich, Conn. The home of the dogs, together with a cottage for their attendants, cost in the neighborhood of $80,000, and Mr. Rockefeller, during the past ten years or so, has spent upon his hobby, it is estimated, about a quarter of a million. His beagles have won hundreds of blue ribbons at shows all over the United States and also at field trials. Among the champions now at Rock Ridge are Fidgaway, Empress and Andy Dock. There are about sixty dogs there now, although at times there have been as many as 200. The dog farm is about 50 acres in extent and is enclosed by a twenty-foot fence. The place will be closed up and the kennels torn down.

AN ENGLISH LIBEL SUIT

London, Feb. 17.—The trial of the libel suit of Sir Henry Walpole Manners Sutton, son of Viscount Canterbury, the senior partner in a religious publishing firm, against W. H. Crossland, the editor of the Academy, was resumed in the Old Bailey yesterday morning. The suit is based on articles printed in The Academy, which reflected on the moral character of the plaintiff.

Mr. Crossland again took the stand. He declared that a girl to whom Manners-Sutton paid $5,000, had been got out of the way in order to prevent her being called by the defence. The girl is supposed to be in Philadelphia.

Lord Alfred Douglas, the next witness, acknowledged that he had written a letter to the plaintiff, in which he called him harsh names. He said that subsequent events showed that he was justified in using this language.

In reply to questions by counsel, who recalled his lordship's connection with the Oscar Wilde case, the witness said he resented his father's interference with his friendship for Wilde because his father had at the time been divorced from his mother for six years, and the ordinary relations between father and son did not exist between them.

Wilde, after he was released from prison, came to him at Naples and said: "You are the only friend I have. If you leave me I will go straight to h—l."

The witness, therefore, stuck to Wilde until the latter died, and paid his funeral expenses. He had no regrets for his action in this matter.

WOLVES BOLD AND READY FOR FIGHT

Fort William, Feb. 16.—Wolves were never so numerous nor so vicious in New Ontario as they are right now, according to Martin West, a hunter and trapper, who has headquarters in the vicinity of Kashabowie, a village about 13 miles west of Fort William on the C.N.R. railway.

There are two particularly vicious packs running in the district, according to Mr. West, and despite the fact that food is plentiful they do not hesitate to go after and bring down full grown deer and yearling moose. Mr. West saw the wolves bring down one deer and they were reluctant to abandon the carcass as the man, armed with a repeating rifle, approached. There are seven wolves in one of the packs and three in the other. Both packs consist of unusually large animals and they are not only unusually large, but unusually bold and cunning. He saved the head of the deer and poisoned the carcass, but not one of the wolves returned to feed. He says he has been able, however, to kill one member of each pack and that he and the other trappers in the district are to unite in an effort to exterminate both packs before the packs exterminate the deer and thin out the young moose.

Mr. West says the moose seem to be on the increase and that if the wolves could be got rid of there would be good sport in the woods during the season for years to come. Deer was also numerous before the wolves took to feeding on them.

Insurance Companies Lose About $125,000.00 by the Wreck at Spanish River

Double Liability for About Twenty-five Persons

A loss of somewhere in the neighbourhood of $125,000 is what the Accident Insurance Companies estimate the wreck at Spanish River bridge means to them.

They figure that about 25 of those who met death carried Accident Insurance, and the average insurance, according to the tables, is $5,000. In case of death in a railway disaster there is a double liability, making the figure $6,000, or $5,000 to be more conservative.

Their loss may total more than that, for the commercial travellers, a number of whom were killed, usually carry very heavy insurance. In addition, some of the companies make the policies payable on the death of the wife while travelling, though the policy is taken out in the husband's name. In such cases they pay the husband the same amount as they would have paid the wife were the husband killed.

We issue the BEST Accident and Sickness policy offered to the public.

INDIANS KILLING OUT ALBERTA GAME

Fish and Game Men Make Serious Complaints—River Stripped of Fish

Calgary, Alta., Feb. 16.—That steps should be taken to prevail upon the provincial authorities to stop the Indians from slaughtering deer, beaver and other wild game was one of the matters discussed at the annual meeting of the Alberta Fish & Game Protective Association just held here.

While whites are allowed to kill only one deer in a season, it was reported that the Indians are killing them without limit all over. An instance was related where seventeen Indian pack ponies loaded with deer were seen at Cowley last fall. The Indians hunt with dogs and there is a special grievance against the Stony Indians.

Some one remarked that, perhaps, the Indians, owing to treaties of the past, are not amenable to the game laws the same as whites, but the chairman read extracts from the last report of the Agricultural Department touching on game matters to show that the Indians are subject to the same regulations as anyone else.

Attention was also called to the manner in which fish are wantonly destroyed in the rivers and streams of the south, and it was predicted that at the present rate there would be no more fish in three years. A committee was appointed to confer with the authorities at Ottawa in reference to the protection of the streams and the establishment of a hatchery in the province to replenish them.

WINS A LARGE BET BY BEING SAVING

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 16.—Elmer E. Von Vleet, of Elmira, N.Y., a student of social economy, will depart to-night for his home to collect a wager of $10,000, made two years ago that he could save $400 in 24 months while working as a day laborer.

A. V. Mekeel, proprietor of an Elmira newspaper, is the loser in the wager. He admitted his defeat in a telegram to Von Vleet last night when the latter notified him that his bank account now totaled $495.

The wager followed an argument between the men. Mekeel maintaining that a young man to-day without special training has no chance to save money.

Von Vleet started out with a pocket knife and $5 in money. Under an assumed name, "Elmer Gray," he worked as a laborer in Columbus, Cincinnati and in Aurora, Ill., finally drifting to St. Louis. The latest job was his best place, driving a milk wagon at $40 a month. He held 11 jobs during the two years and says but two of his employers treated him like a white man.

His shortest tenure of a job was in Cincinnati, where he quit after working one day in a restaurant.

HANDICAPPED

This is the Case With Many Peterborough People

Too many Peterborough citizens are handicapped with a bad back. The unceasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and stooping or lifting an impossibility. The back aches at night, preventing refreshing rest, and in the morning is stiff and lame. Plasters and liniments may give relief, but cannot reach the cause. To eliminate the pains and aches you must cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Can you doubt Peterborough evidence?

W. Wormington, of 121 Brock street, Peterborough, Ont., says:—"I had suffered with rheumatism for over three years. I found little or no relief in any of the remedies I tried. I became so stiff and sore that I could scarcely turn in bed, and had to lay off from my work. The urine was highly colored and filled with a heavy sand-like sediment which plainly told the disordered state of the kidneys. I tried Doan's Kidney Pills through an advertisement at Wm. Madill's drug store, and was surprised to see how quickly the urine cleared. The kidneys were soon active and the uric acid went from my system. The rheumatism gradually became less severe and finally left me. I am better than in years previous and could not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

CONCERNING THE GERMAN SURTAX

Removal Better than Dreadnoghts Says a Manufacturer to Toronto Star

The Toronto Star says: "A friendly agreement of this sort is a most important thing, both commercially and politically," was what Mr. W. R. Brock said to the Star to-day, about the removal of the German surtaxe. "It is better than ten Dreadnoughts, and to my mind it affords an excellent opportunity for this country to look into the very great expenditure on ships of war which they are about to undertake. They are always talking about a war with Germany, but it's not war that Germany is after, it is business. The fact that they have made very great concession shows that they are primarily a trading people. Broadly speaking—I like to speak broadly on such matters—it is of much greater importance to Canada to have the good opinion of Germany and the United States than to have a great expense like the navy will be. Peace and commercial intercourse are heralded by this treaty, not war."

INFLUENCE ON BUSINESS.

Speaking about the influence which the new arrangement would have upon his own business, Mr. Brock stated that it would mean the restoration to Germany of trade in such lines as men's and women's hose, underwear, embroideries, muslins and a great variety of fancy goods, which have been diverted to England by the surtax.

"You do not think that they will have any difficulty in winning back their former customers in Canada then?" asked the reporter.

"They will have difficulty, but have no fear for their ultimate success. They have not undertaken the risk without due consideration of that fact. They know the importance of Germany in the commercial world. They know of the superiority of the German goods, and they know of the cheapness of German labor. They are the most earnest, pushing, business men in the world."

ANOTHER OPINION.

Mr. Henry Nerlich, of Nerlich and Company, does not entirely agree with Mr. Brock:

"Germany will never regain her prestige in Canadian trade," he said decidedly to the Star. "Since the surtax came into effect in 1903 the attention of Canadian importers has been drawn to the same goods as manufactured in France, Switzerland and Austria, and a trade has been built up with those countries which cannot be entirely destroyed by a mere removal of an extra tax. In a great many lines we are more satisfied with the products of our present dealers than we ever were with the Germans. Nevertheless, there are a great many articles which we have been unable to secure out of Germany, and in these cases it will merely mean a change in prices. In other things the Germans are making excellent stuff, which we have been unable to find a substitute for because of the high price. Take chinaware, for instance. The Germans are manufacturing some first rate lines in this article, and the reduction of the duty on them will attract attention to them in a way that nothing else could, for there is a prevailing though erroneous opinion that all German china is junk."

PREACHER SAID HE'D MARY HER

Grand Rapids Girl told Friends She Was to Be Bride of Rev. Parkinson

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 17.—Detroit Journal Special.—Inquiry among the friends and relatives of Miss Etta Trendt, whose testimony caused the downfall of Rev. Benj. E. Parkinson from his seat in the Methodist Conference at Muscatine, Iowa, disclosed some interesting facts bearing on the near-romance of Miss Trendt with the former Grand Rapids preacher. Miss Trendt was doubly deceived by him, as she knew him as Conrad Reardon, and he told her that he was unmarried, while he had a wife in Iowa.

According to the stories told by the girl's friends, Parkinson had promised to take her west and marry her. The girl's brother, J. Lewis Trendt, of this city, said she had spoken of going out west, and it was generally understood that she was to become a bride, although her friends did not know who her fiance was.

Diligent inquiry concerning "Rev." Benjamin E. Parkinson disclosed several facts of interest in view of the nature of the case which resulted in his expulsion from the church at Nicholas. He lived with his wife here for several months last year, leaving there in October, at which time he removed to the Iowa town. He is described as a tall, slim man, with dark hair and moustache, and is said not to have exhibited any particular degree of taste in his dress.

Mrs. A. H. Shank, who is in charge of the house where he boarded, Monday night declared that Parkinson had accumulated numerous obligations while he resided there, and that several collectors and merchants had called since his departure, in the effort to collect the amounts alleged to be due them.

Mrs. Shank said: "He once told me that in case any one sought to leave a message for 'Reardon,' that I was to receive it and give it to him. His wife told me that they had once had some domestic difficulty because of his attentions to a young woman, but while they were here he seemed quite attentive to her. It was evident to me that he thought himself fully capable of getting his living with his tongue, as he certainly was a smart talker."

Mrs. Fred. J. Blymeir, of 29 North Jefferson street, is a cousin of Parkinson, but denied that she had heard from him since he moved away. She said that Parkinson ran away to get married when he was 19 years old, and that his wife was several years his senior, and had been divorced. Parkinson's father is John Parkinson, of Toronto.

Good, Better or Best?
A VITAL DIFFERENCE IN BREADS

QUALITY you know is comparative. Just as much so in bread, as in woolens or linens.

If you make bread at all you naturally want it to be good—as good as, or better than your neighbor's.

But is your bread as good as it ought to be? Does it furnish its full quantum of health and strength? Is it nutritious as well as delicious?

Ordinary flour makes fairly good looking bread. But if you care for food value, for nutrition, for digestibility, for bone and muscle and blood building quality, you will want a flour rich in the highest quality of gluten. You will want the flour that makes bread not only good-to-look-at, but also makes it strength-producing, health-producing.

But where can you get such flour and how can you tell it from the kind that isn't nourishing?

The safe way is to get OGILVIE'S "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD". Then you can't make a mistake.

"ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" is the finest flour in the world and makes the best bread in the world.

And it is just as good for Pastry as it is for Bread. It is the one flour which has proved an unqualified success for every household purpose. And its absolute uniformity guarantees you against failure—

ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR isn't just ordinary wheat sent to an ordinary mill and ground by the ordinary process. It is Manitoba Red Fyfe Wheat which is especially rich in high quality gluten, scientifically milled and subjected to scientific chemical tests as well as baking tests before it comes to you in sack or barrel, etc.

No wonder "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" makes the finest and most nourishing bread. No wonder it makes the most delicious and healthful pies, cakes, biscuits, muffins, rolls.

Bread made from ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR is vastly more nourishing than bread made from ordinary flour. Also it is lighter, flakier, more delicious as well as more nutritious.

Order "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" at once. Don't delay. The sooner you commence using this finest of all flours the better for your family.

OGILVIE'S ROYAL HOUSEHOLD

ENGLAND'S POLITICAL CRISIS

Instead of deciding the issues of the campaign, the British elections seem to many observers to have ended so nearly in a deadlock that another election in the near future is inevitable. The Unionists now have 273 members and the Liberals 274 plus about 100 Laborites and Irish Nationalists who may vote with them on some questions and not on others. Unless Mr. Asquith can swing in one mass the Liberals, Home Rulers, and Laborites, then he must go to the wall, as the Balfour party will find no difficulty in defeating him the moment his followers fall apart into opposing groups. The Irish, for example, did not vote for the budget at the last session, as it puts a heavy tax on whiskey, a staple article of production and use in Ireland. It is a question, therefore, if the budget can can pass the new Parliament with this tax retained. In fact, many doubt whether any of the questions of the campaign can be said to be decided. The London Telegraph, a Conservative organ of much influence and authority, believes that Asquith and his party have put themselves in a dilemma:

"They cannot attack the House of Lords: they cannot pass Home Rule; they can do nothing but worry people they dislike by administrative vexation. . . . . If the remaining elections complete the proof given by the earlier ones, that the country is sick to death of this Government, its members will represent a row of extinct volcanoes, and do as little as they can beyond drawing their salaries."

The Peers are exclaiming that with so close a vote Asquith dare not attack the Lords, and his aim of mending or ending the House of Peers is therefore defeated. To this argument the London Daily Express replies derisively:

"One would suppose that the only thing which could absolutely justify the Peers must be a vote of emphatic confidence and support from the electorate. If the electors declared definitely that they wanted to be governed by the Peers, and not by their own representatives, some justification for the House of Lords would be provided. But what has happened? The one thing which the elections have already made perfectly certain is that no such vote will be given. On the contrary an anti-Peer majority is assured. It may be something less than 100, it may be something more. The House of Lords, then, are to be absolutely justified by a hostile vote. This reasoning seems curious."

Another anti-Peer paper, the London Daily News, characterizes the Asquith majority in these glowing terms:

"The Government is likely to have as large a majority almost as any Liberal Government has possessed, and one much larger than many a Government has enjoyed which has written some of the finest pages of English history. The majority of 1910 is industries, the progressive cities, the vigor and the independence of those

HIS CONSCIENCE PROMPTED HIM

To Return Money He Received for Singing in the Choir--Remembered Christ's Admonition

New York, Feb. 18.—Because his conscience told him that he was not justly entitled to money he had received thirteen years ago for singing in a church choir, Mr. Roy C. Wilhelm, a wealthy coffee importer, at No. 104 Wall street, forwarded to the Second Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Zanesville, Ohio, yesterday a cheque for $100, which, he said, was the payment of the amount originally recieved, with interest added.

"When I was one of the quartette of singers attached to the little church," Mr. Wilhelm said, "I was only nineteen years old, and I did not at that time consider that I was doing wrong to accept the $50 which the leader of the choir offered for my services. I took mine as did the others, and it was several years before I began to consider that I probably was indebted to the church for the money which I accepted.

"Does not Jesus say 'Make not the house of God a house of merchandise?' Therefore, in returning this money I am not making a charitable gift, but I am paying a just debt. It is just as if I borrowed the money and were paying it back with interest."

Mr. Wilhelm acquired a large fortune in the coffee business in Costa Rica, and owns a country house in Englewood, N.J.

SOLDIERS SAVED BURNING WOMAN

A New York despatch says: Mrs. Antoinette Lagonia was saved from burning to death last night by a score of soldiers attached to the coast artillery and stationed at Fort Schuyler, in the Bronx. The woman is in Fordham Hospital, suffering from burns about the face, hands and body.

Mrs. Lagonia and her husband, George, have a small hotel on Fort Schuyler road, not far from the government reservation. In the evening a squad of soldiers of Company H stopped at the road house before returning to the fort. All had departed except Walter Brooks, a bugler.

The woman was trying to light a small oil stove which stood in a room near the restaurant, when there was an explosion, and she was showered with oil. Almost before she could smike an outcry and Brooks and her husband could get near her, the flames enveloped Mrs. Lagonia and the woodwork in the room caught fire.

Brooks threw his large overcoat around the woman and instructed Lagonia to smother the flames. Then he rushed to the door of the road house and sounded "Assembly!" on his bugle.

The call, clear and shrill, could be heard more than half a mile away. Another call was sounded, this time "Retreat," and from the distance Brooks heard the shouts of his companions of a quarter of an hour before.

ARMED WOMAN CAPTURES TWO MEN SHOPLIFTERS

A New York despatch says:

Miss Nira Bennett, a good looking young private detective, who is employed in a big Broadway department store, mostly devotes her attentions to spying out women shoplifters, but today she varied the monotony of sticky-fingered ladies by capturing two sneak thieves of the ostensibly sterner sex. Did it after a fight and a gun play, too.

Miss Bennett first became sort of suspicious when she saw two flashily dressed young men strolling about a department devoted to women's wear. One after another stockings, jabots and the like would vanish as the pair passed a counter, with nothing to show where they were going. But as a $50 silk shirtwaist was whisked out of sight Miss Bennett's quick eye solved the secret. One of the suspects was carrying a dress suit case and the suit case had a trick hinge in one end of it—an old thieves' device. Any small article could be shoved through the flap, which would instantly flip back and the suit case to all intents would seem properly locked and strapped.

When the pair started to go away Miss Bennett followed them and at the street door she halted them and told them they were under arrest. One of them—he turned out to be Aby Cohen, of No. 160 Broome street—grabbed her by the throat and tried to choke her. Instantly Miss Bennett brought from under her apron a small, shiny revolver and at the sight of it Cohen wilted like a wet collar. Cheered by the crowd that had gathered Miss Bennett marched her prisoners back inside the store, still holding them under the muzzle of her gun, and turned them over to Frank Haight, a special officer, who handcuffed them together and took them to the Tenderloin station, after removing silk articles worth $128 from their suit case.

At the station house Cohen was recognized as an old-timer whose picture already decorated the Rogues' Gallery. His partner, who called himself Joe White and said he lived at No. 1520 Webster avenue, the Bronx, was a debutante of the present season, apparently.

In the Jefferson Market Police Court Magistrate Herrman held them for the Grand Jury in bonds of $1,500 each.

COST OF LIVING INVESTIGATION

Results of Special Inquiry to be Published

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—With the current issued of the "Labor Gazette" the department begins the publication of the results of the special investigation, which has been in progress for some months into the increase during the past few years in the cost of living. In subsequent issues there will be given statistical reviews of the trend of wholesale and retail prices during the past twenty years in Canada, with comparisons as to the trend of prices with other countries. The investigation will cover some 225 commodities in general use. This month a statistical statement is given as to the wholesale prices of animals and meats from 1890 to 1909. Averaging the price for all meats included in the investigation the statement shows that during the year 1909 wholesale prices were approximately 48 per cent higher than during the ten years' period from 1890 to 1899, and that compared with 1906 they were fully 77 per cent higher. The issue also contains a table showing the prices of 34 commodities which enter into cost of living at the more important centres of the population throughout Canada. It is the intention of the department to publish quotations for a similar list of commodities from month to month in the Labor Gazette, thus making it possible to ascertain by comparison the changes in retail prices and the cost of living in the various parts of the Dominion from time to time.

Peter Veregin, Financial Agent of Doukhobor Colony is in Winnipeg to Make Purchase

Winnipeg, Feb. 16.—Peter Veregin, leader of the Doukhobors at Veregin, Sask., who is in the city with a committee of his fellow colonists for the purpose of purchasing implements, dry goods and other requirements for the community, was interviewed at the Mariaggi hotel yesterday.

Mr. Veregin does not speak English, but with the assistance of an interpreter he gave a number of interesting details to a Free Press reporter.

"Our purchases," he said, "will total in value between $35,000 and $40,000, equally divided almost between implements from the manufacturers and in dry goods.

"Last year our crop would total about 1,000,000 bushels wheat and barley about one-third and the balance oats.

REGRET LOSS OF HOMESTEADS.

"We would have done much better had we been allowed to retain our land as was at first arranged when we settled in the country, but of the 2,000 homesteads we were to have for our community, 1,500 have been taken away from us, notwithstanding the fact that we had cultivated a good portion of the land. Although we were deprived of these 1,500 homesteads, the $10 we paid for each homestead entry fee was withheld, a total of $15,000. The government has apparently changed the regulations since we came out. We were guaranteed that we could live as a community in villages, but this stipulation has not been allowed, and because we refused to separate the land, much of which we had cultivated, has been taken from us and given to other parties who, in their turn, have offered it back to us for sale at $10 per acre. We have already spent $150,000 in repurchasing this land from those who appropriated it after we had improved it. It would cost us at the rate we are asked to pay, now $2,000,000 to recover the whole, that is 1,500 homesteads of 160 acres each at $10 per acre.

TROUBLE OVER OATH.

"The whole trouble seems to be that we would not take the oath as is required by the Canadian law, but that is against our religious principles. We don't believe in oaths as Christ's teachings are against the principle. We are a community and every person is equal, our shepherds, our farmers, our workers in mills; we believe that kings, noblemen and peasantry are all equal and we give no special privileges in our community. We have now 8,000 people in our colony, and 2,500 of these are old enough and in every way qualified to work and take up each a quarter section of 160 acres, but we cannot conform with the requirements which are against Christ's teachings. We intend to continue the cultivation of the land we have, and under favorable conditions we should have even a larger crop than we raised last year. If the land we think we are entitled to had not been taken from us, we think we could have raised 5,000,000 bushels of grain instead of what we have under the restricted conditions."

COLONY BECOMING RICH.

"Some of your colony are leaving to settle in British Columbia?" remarked the reporter.

"Yes, we have there what promises to be 10,000 acres of good fruit land and I think about half of our people will move to that province, leaving the others to look after the present colony. We were poor people when we came to Canada, but now we have our flour mills, our saw mills, our brick yards, our farm buildings, threshing engines and other farming machinery. We have forty villages and one flour mill to each village, so that it is not necessary for the farmer to take his grain too far."

The party will return to Veregin, Sask., to-day.

HENDERSON REMANDED

Robert Henderson, who is charged charged with the assault of the Misses McPherson, near Norwood, received his weekly remand this morning, pending the outcome of the attack on the elder lady.

TRIUMPHIAL HOME COMING

Of the Mendelssohn Choir—Great Success of Second Concert at Cleveland

The News says: The Mendelssohn Choir arrived in Toronto this morning shortly before 10.30 o'clock, after a long but comfortable night's journey from Cleveland, Ohio. The concert last evening was in point of enthusiasm and surpassing musical merit a repetition of the Monday and Tuesday triumphs, the audience being of the same proportions, with more than five hundred people turned back from the box office for lack of seating room. The Mendelssohn Choir will be for many a day the popular topic among music lovers in the Ohio city, for in a place rich enough to attract the greatest organizations and solo artists, and holding something of a blase attitude toward all glories of music, probably, the Toronto choir was able to stir up and stimulate the people to a show of fervent admiration. The victory is the greater in the light of Cleveland's aggressiveness along musical lines. It has several good singing societies, many individual artists of distinction, and a general standard of art knowledge which makes big musical audiences possible.

ANALYZING DR. VOGT'S METHODS

After vainly trying to analyze the method by which Dr. Vogt obtained his effects, a prominent Ohio choral conductor expressed to The News what he believed to be a solution of the puzzle. "It is discipline," he opioned; "discipline which is possible to Britishers, but which I could not persuade my American chorus to undergo. All Dr. Vogt's singers have soldiered, as it were, under a strict and painstaking general. It is against the grain of singers here to submit to leadership beyond a certain moderate point. I question if Dr. Vogt could make another Mendelssohn Choir if he recruited his society south of the border." However, the success of the choir is in reality due to a man, not a flag.

The afternoon of yesterday was spent in enjoyment of the gracious hospitality which Cleveland tried its best to make acceptable. The men jogged off to the Hermit Club for luncheon; the ladies were captured by the Rubinstein Club and entertained at the Hotel Euclid. The Hermits are a body of young and wealthy professional men in sympathy with the best in art, and able to afford an hour, now and then, to gather at the club rooms and talk over the simple things beyond the hurly burly and the dust.

The Rubinstein Club has similar aims, but a more conventional expression of them. The few hours after these functions gave opportunity for a rest, and when evening came the singers were prepared for another conquering concert. Mrs. Adelia Prentiss Hughes, manager of the big musical events of the city, announced that at the close of the programme the audience would sing "My Country 'Tis of Thee," followed by "God Save the King." By special request "Babylon's Wave" was repeated from the first night, with equally considerate reception. The larger part of Brahms' "Requiem," was given with "Scots Wha Hae," Greig's "Ava Maria Stella" "The Bells of St. Michael"s Tower," and Cesear Frank"s Ode. Herbert Witherspoon was a feature of the concert, singing with orchestral accompaniment "Young Lochinvar," by Chadwick, and taking the solo part in the "Requiem."

NOTES OF THE TRIP.

John D. Rockefeller was one of the guarantors and will have to "put up" $500 for the Mendelssohn visit.

Two hundred and fifty came up from Oberlin to hear the Brahms' Requiem, which they intend to produce later on.

Just as in Toronto, the librarian of the Thomas Orchestra, who bears resemblance to Dr. Vogt, was given a hearty round of applause by mistake when he stepped out to collect the music.

Dr. Vogt"s command of the orchestra in the accompanied numbers was as remarkable in its way as his dominance of the choir. The attitude of orchestra artists toward the average choral conductor is not exactly printable. Not so, however, with the Toronto conductor. Moreover, they know he knows German.

The trip cost $7,000 and receipts stopped at about $5,000, leaving a deficit at Cleveland of about $2,000. The guarantors share up this sum cheerfully.

KING'S COURAGE

The Ontario Gazette of this week's issue bears an interesting announcement concerning the King Edward medal. By a circular signed by Lord Crewe, Colonial Secretary, the scope of this medal has been considerably extended.

Originally intended by His Majesty to be awarded for courage in saving or attempting to save life in mines and quarries, the medal will now be awarded "to those of His Majesty's subjects who in the course of industrial employment, endanger their lives in saving or endeavoring to save the lives of others from perils incurred in connection with such employment." His Majesty's proclamation extending the scope of the medal is contained in the Gazette. The King's directions say in closing:

"Where the said medal is granted otherwise than for acts performed in mines, the medal shall bear our effigy on the obverse and on the reverse a suitable design with the words "For Courage."

TO INVESTIGATE CANNIBALISM IN THE PORCUPINE DISTRICT

Montreal, Feb. 17.—Secret service officers arrived in Montreal to-day from Toronto, seeking evidence of an alleged horrible crime committed in the Porcupine gold district, north of Cobalt, some time during the winter. The body of a man believed to have been mutilated by cannibals has been discovered on one of the lonely prospectors' trails in the newly opened mining fields.

An actual photograph of an unfortunate miner, whose name and country are unnkown, has been taken by a Montrealer at present trying his luck in the north, and a print was received by a friend of his in the city.

Whether the man was murdered on the lonely trail, or whether his frozen body was discovered and devoured by starving diggers is a matter of conjecture.

The photograph leaves little doubt that the body was treated like a carcass in an abattoir. The flesh has been cut off in parts, and the upper limbs have been partly dismembered.

The secret service officers believe, however, that the dead man was one of a party of three who set out from Mattawan on a journey outside the area already patronized by miners. They probably ran short of provisions, an evil plot was carried out whereby the unsuspecting third party was overpowered, killed, and partially devoured.

A Montreal gentleman has received a letter from Cobalt explaining how the body was discovered, and how the suspected cannibalism came to light. Two prospectors set out intending to make a superficial examination of the ground between Cobalt and Porcupine. They travelled far and struck a trail. There they discovered the prospector, his rough clothes stripped from his back, and the poor body cut and slashed. Although the sight was a horrible one they took a photograph—modern miners carry cameras as part of the prospecting equipment—and continued their journey. They have only just reached civilization.

News of the affair reached official ears and investigators will endeavor to clear up the mystery.

The visit of the secret service men to this city is for the purpose of obtaining information from a Montreal man who has but recently returned from the district in which the alleged crime was perpetrated.

HIGHER SALARIES FOR THE EMPLOYEES OF PROVINCE

Decided on by Ontario Legislature—Should Get After Chauffeurs as Well as Owners—MacKay's Power Act Amendment is Introduced in Legislature.

Toronto, Feb. 19.—If there were any civil servants within the precincts of the Legislature yesterday afternoon, they heard what must have made their hearts glad. The House was in committee of supply and the subject under discussion was increases in salary.

"In view of the increased cost of living," declared Sir James Whitney, "I am sure we would have been justified in granting a much larger increase than is being given. I can hardly understand how the average employe of this Government can raise and educate a family in this city of Toronto on the salaries that have been given. It used to be that the Government official was looked upon as receiving more than the average man in other occupations. To-day the reverse is the case."

Hon. A. G. MacKay, concurred in the remarks of the Premier. He would like to know, however, what system had been adopted in striking the schedule of increases.

Hon. Frank Cochrane explained that they were awarded largely according to merit.

Mr. Studholme said he understood the Premier to begin at the top. If he couldn't understand how the $1,500 man could live, what about the $500 man. The latter should get the first consideration.

Hon. Col. Matheson explained that it was mainly the lower ones that were getting the increases. "We found," he said, "that they were leaving the service, getting into debt, etc."

J. D. McDougal (East Ottawa) speaking of the enforcement of the automobile law, wanted the chauffeur made responsible for recklessness. As it was at present, the owner was prosecuted and the chauffeur continued to go his reckless way.

Sir James Whitney heartily concurred in the suggestion. "The time is very near," he said, "when we must take some drastic measure to convince chauffeurs that they cannot with impunity drive automobiles at reckless speed on the highways."

Hon. W. J. Hanna, in calling the attention of the House to an item in the estimates of $1,000 for "serum appropriations" for spinal menigitis and rabies, stated that he had recently taken up the matter of local treatment with the New York authorities, and was now in a position to state that daily supplies could be obtained, covering the whole course of treatment, for $20.

Mr. Studholme wanted the responsibility of building inspectors and fire inspectors sharply defined in regard to the enforcement of the law requiring fire escapes on factories. He was assured by Hon. James Duff that there was provision in the present law.

D. J. McDougal (East Ottawa), suggested that the next interprovincial conference take up the question of jurisdiction in the matter of railways and street railways, etc. Though these were incorporated by the Dominion when they extended into more than one province, or across the international boundary, it should be settled that, their operations, in as far as their object was clearly a provincial one, should be retained under provincial jurisdiction.

Hon. A. G. MacKay introduced his bill in amendment to the power act. It declares that the Public Works Act shall apply in the matter of the acquirement of easements, that responsibility for accidents or damage to the crops, orchards, vineyards, land, fences, plantations, buildings, contents of buildings, farm implements, live stock, or any other property, or to the persons of the owners, occupiers, or other persons lawfully on the land or premises over which the transmission line runs, shall be with the commission, whether negligence is shown, or not, and that they may sue without a fiat of the Attorney-General. The commission is to pay costs and collect them pro rata from the municipalities concerned.

Mr. Proudfoot's bill to amend the Municipal Act, which places the fixing of the remuneration of county councillors in their own hands, was allowed to pass its second reading, and to go to committee, on the understanding that the principle of the bill was not approved. Sir James Whitney declared that there was no more dangerous proposition than the reckless desire to depreciate uniform legislation throughout the country in such matters.

Mr. Hoyle's bill to place the beginning of the close season for muskrat on Nov. 1, instead of Dec. 1, was sent to the fish and game committee. The time had come, he said, for protection of the mink.

A number of other bills were passed their second reading, and others put through committee.

Mr. Reed (Wentworth) gives notice that he will on Tuesday next, the 22nd inst., move for an order of the House for a return of all awards by any arbitrator or board of arbitration to settle disputes between the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, and those over whose lands the commission have taken easements.

Mr. Ferguson (Simcoe) a bill to amend the ditches and watercourses act.

Mr. Browser a bill to amend the electric railway act.

Earthquake In Crete.

Canea, Crete, Feb. 19.—A severe earthquake was felt throughout Crete at 6.38 o'clock yesterday morning. It was accompanied with violent subterranean explosions.

In this city a number of buildings were damaged and a minaret of the mosque crashed through the dome.

In the village of Varipetro, a house collapsed, burying six persons in the ruins.

SEVERAL MORE ARE BITTEN

Mad Dog Scare at Hamilton Causes Much Excitement—What is Being Done

Hamilton, Feb. 19.—The police were called upon to hunt down two alleged mad dogs yesterday afternon, both of which bit a number of people. One was killed about 2 o'clock, and the other started on a rampage a couple of hours later. The first one started out at the corner of King and Catharine streets. Amongst its victims were J. German, timekeeper at the Hamilton Bridge Works; William Skull, and Miss Plucker, Pearl street. After a chase of about an hour the police succeeded in killing the dog.

James MacKay of the Canadian Transfer Co., was one of those bitten by the second dog, and several children were also attacked by the brute near the Stuart street station. The heads of both animals were sent away to be tested for sympoma of rabies.

Bitten by Muzzled Dog.

Two Dogs Shot.

Wanstead, Feb. 19.—A dog supposed to be mad was shot by Farmer Graham on the second line of Plympton Townahip yesterday. Graham's dog was bitine by the strange dog, and was also shot.

Belleville Takes Precautions.

Belleville, Feb. 19.—The executive committee of the City Council has recommended that all dogs in the city must be muzzled with metal muzzles.

Spread of Rabies.

Toronto, Feb. 19.—Alarming reports of the spread of rabies are being received daily from every part of Western Ontario by the Provincial Board of Health. Many rural authorities are making the mistake of forwarding heads of animals for inspection to Ottawa instead of Toronto, thus occasioning considerable delay.

MOB WAS REPULSED

Cairo, Ills., Lynching Party Was Quelled by the Police.

Cairo, Ills., Feb. 19.—With three companies of militia guarding the court-house and jail, under the direct supervision of Adjutant General F. S. Dixon, Cairo, settled down last night to complete quiet after a strenuous 24 hours. It is believed the mob spirit is quelled. No crowd is allowed to congregate.

Threats were made yesterday against Sheriff Fred Nellis for the killing of Alex. Halliday, and the wounding of four other men by deputies in beating back the mob that attacked the jail Thursday night, in an attempt to lynch a negro purse-snatcher.

John Pratt, the negro, was sentenced yesterday to prison for not more than fourteen years. He will be taken to prison to-day with twelve other convicts in a special train. Lincoln Wilson, arrested as a suspected companion of Pratt was released last night. A searching grand jury investigation of the attack on the jail was ordered by Judge Butler. His instructions to the grand jury were in substance a demand that the rioters be brought to justice and made to stand trial for rioting a felony.

"This sort of procedure must be stopped," he said. "There have been five murders in Cairo since Nov. 11, when we had a previous occurrence of mob violence. These murders show that mob law is no deterrent to crime and it is your duty to see that mob law ceases to be."

Coroner McManus has not ordered an inquest of the killing of Halliday. He said he intended to go slowly.

Sheriff Nellis was in touch with Governor Deneen by telephone yesterday. He said that his course had been commended by the governor.

PROTESTANT PLATFORM

Kamloops, Feb. 19.—The most important business of the Orange Grand Lodge sessions just closed, was the adoption of a Protestant platform prepared by a special committee and adopted as a whole. It was decided to publish this broadcast and send copies to all the provincial grand lodges in Canada and Newfoundland. The platform is as follows:

Entire separation of church and state.

A non-sectarian public school system which shall be the only system to receive aid from the public treasury.

Resistance of any further special privileges to any section of population of the Dominion, either on account of race or religion, and a gradual elimination of any special privileges which they now possess.

The English language as the only official language in Canada, and the compulsory teaching of the English language in all its schools.

The maintenance of British connection, and support of any movement which tends to make closer and more binding the relations between Canada and the Mother Country.

Close supervision of all new settlers and encouragement of suitable white emigrants from the British Empire, United States and Northern Europe.

Public inspection of all institutions under control of any religious denomination which receives aid in any way from the public treasury, either by direct grant or by rebate of taxes, and that provincial books and all other records of these institutions be inspected by a public auditor at any time; also public inspection of all nunneries, convents, monasteries, churches, schools, academies or other institutions, and that all teachers in the aforesaid institutions be compelled to hold a Government certificate.

Full recognition in every province of Dominion marriages performed by a qualified clergyman of any religious denomination or any other persons vested by the law with that power.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

The Western Union Telegraph Co. plans a cheaper night service, allowing fifty words at night for the rate of ten by day.

Two of the famous quadruplets—daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Wilson of Burk's Falls—have passed away. The other two little ones are still living.

Hon. Clifford Sifton was the guest at the Canadian Club's first meeting at Kingston last night, delivering an address on "Canadian Resources." H. W. Richardson presided.

That an adequate system of Government inspection of canned fish of all kinds, produced in Canada, similar to that exercised over canned meats, will shortly be established, is the statement made by Hon. Sydney Fisher.

Dr. Fred. A. Cook yesterday admitted his identity. He visited his old comrade, the Belgian Engineer Bvaselberghe, and the two were together for some hours. Cook told Bvaselberghe, it is said, that he is preparing a complete account, which will prove that he reached the North Pole.

D. Roy Smith, Boston, acting for Senator Fish and other capitalists there, has made a proposition to the Kingston Council and Board of Trade for a new hotel. The company will build a $250,000 hotel, the city to convey to the company the site and guarantee bonds to the amount of $100,000 as first mortgage, with exemption of taxes for twenty years.

PRIVATE MEMBERS' DAYS ARE CUT OUT AT OTTAWA

Government Measures Will Have Precedence on Monday Afternoons for the Rest of the Session—No Negotiations With Germany at Present.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—There will be no more private members' days in the House of Commons this session. Hon. W. S. Fielding, in the absence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who is confined to his residence with a slight cold, moved that all subsequent Mondays, after questions, be given over the Government business. The motion was adopted without discussion.

R. L. Borden put a number of questions to Mr. Fielding in respect to Canada's new trade agreement with Germany, eliciting the information that there were no negotiations going on with Germany at the present moment with the object of further extending the trade relations between the two countries, and that there were not likely to be any for some time.

Mr. Fielding explained that other British colonies shared in the trade favors which Germany extended to Great Britain, and got Germany's full conventional tariff, for which they gave Germany favored in nation treatment in return. Canada could get the same treatment on the same terms, but this would mean that Canada would be obliged to allow German goods to come into the country at the same tariff rates as had been extended to France under the Franco-Canadian treaty.

He added that Canada, by the attitude adopted by the Government, had beaten Germany in her contention that she should get the same trade privileges from the colonies as are extended to the Mother Country.

F. D. Monk said he had received a number of letters from Montreal hay dealers, who are anxious to have hay added to the list of Canadian products which will get the benefit of Germany's conventional tariff. He said that it had been represented to him that there was room for the development of a considerable trade in hay with Germany.

Mr. Fielding said it was too late to have the list further extended, as the agreement had been signed. He would be glad, however, to receive suggestions as to a further extension of the arrangement in the future.

The Senate committee on banking and commerce dealing with the insurance bill yesterday decided one of the most important and contentious clauses of the measure. It decided to throw out the clause requiring a tax on persons who go outside of Canada for insurance.

After discussing section 139, which provided that a firm may go outside the country for fire insurance by paying 15 per cent. on the premiums, Senator Dandurand said there were many principles involved. First was, shall citizens be allowed to freely insure in unlicensed foreign companies? This question the committee unanimously answered affirmatively.

The next one was, shall all unlicensed fire companies be prohibited from having representatives in Canada to solicit insurance, or from soliciting directly or indirectly? The committee gave a unanimous affirmative answer to this also.

In the Senate yesterday, a report upon the effect the pollution of streams has upon public health was made by the Senate health committee through the chairman, Senator Devebor.

The report called attention to the evidence taken by the committee last year, and recently distributed in printed form, showing the dangers which to public health of Canada is being seriously imperiled by the custom of disposing of sewage, garbage and so forth, by dumping it into the lakes, rivers and streams of the country," and was of the opinion that "the only remedy, and the only safeguard, lie in the passage of legislation to control this practice.

"The legislation to be effective must be uniform throughout the whole Dominion, and it can only be brought about by co-operation by the Dominion and Provincial Governments.

"It is, therefore, recommended that the commission of conservation, representing as it does all the Governments in Canada, be requested to call together the health authorities of each province, to meet them in conference at one early date and endeavor to devise means whereby this end may be obtained."

The House last night went into supply on public works estimates, and Mr. Pugsley and Mr. Crocket held the floor, the latter worrying the Minister much regarding these New Brunswick wharves, which have occupied the attention of the public lately.

Mr. Pugsley announced, regarding the "sawdust wharf" at Richibucto, that he would utilize a portion of it and sell the rest for $3,500 to A. & R. Loggie, a firm which has done a good deal of Government work.

Domestic's "Thrilling Adventure."

Montreal, Feb. 19.—Albertine Clermont, a 14-year-old domestic in a Westmount residence, was found bound and gagged yesterday when her mistress returned home, and when released told a thrilling story of a burglar who tied her up and took $1.25 from a drawer and skipped. Later she admitted to the police that she had fibbed.

Increased Immigration.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—Immigration into Canada for January was 6,638, as compared with 4,097 for January of last year. The total immigration for the ten months of the present fiscal year was 165,567 as compared with 125,653 during the same period last year.

A Memorial Manse.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—In memory of her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Lumsden, Mrs. C. C. Cummings of Toronto, will present a manse to St. Paul's Presbyterian congregation.

FOSTER'S SUIT AGAINST DR. MACDONALD

Toronto, Feb. 19.—In spite of the most persistent and strenuous objections on the part of Mr. Hellmuth counsel for Hon. George E. Foster, suitor for $50,000 damages for libel against Editor Macdonald of The Globe, Mr. Rowell, the opposing counsel, succeeding in producing evidence at yesterday's sitting, showing Mr. Foster's alleged unsavory association with deals aside from the main deal—the Swan River affair—under investigation. Two important cases were the Great West Land Co. deal and the Kamloops Lumber Co. deal. It was shown that the Union Trust Co. put large sums in these enterprises and that Mr. Foster had received a consideration from each of them, while still managing director of the Union Trust Co.

Mr. Hellmuth repeatedly held that the reviewing of these deals was irrelevant and entirely aside from the investigation of the Swan River deal, which had been given prominence in Mr. Macdonald's allege charge, and which was especially complained of in the statement of claim. The court, however, ruled that the statement of claim was sufficiently broad to bring into enquiry any and all deals, it having set out that the defendant had accused Mr. Foster of wrongfully endeavoring to secure certain trust funds for speculative and other purposes.

The entire day was taken up with the examination of Elliott Stevenson, supreme high chief ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters, who was the first witness called by the defence.

HE COULD NOT HELP MARRYING

New York, Feb. 19.—Wm. Dresher holds the record for being the youngest bigamist now in captivity. Not yet 25, an awkward, ill-favored butcher's boy, he was sentenced yesterday to Elmira Reformatory by Judge Foster after confessing he had three wives.

The three women who prosecuted Dresher wept copiously as he was led away.

"You are very young to have married these three women," said Judge Foster, before he sentenced Dresher. "Why did you do it?"

"Oh, I dunno," said the boy sheepishly. "I just couldn't help it, I guess."

THREE ELEPHANTS RAN AMUCK IN SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Feb. 19.—Three elephants owned by a showman broke away from a street parade, and for thirty blocks ran amuck. With crowds scattering in pursuit the elephants took to the sidewalks, and many persons had narrow escapes of being trampled. Swerving into a butcher shop, the big beasts paused long enough to half wreck the place, then headed for a winery where they tossed barrels and kegs about. They were finally cornered in a vacant lot.

EXPECT BUSINESS FROM THE TREATY

Montreal, Feb. 19. It was announced yesterday that the Thomson Line would run a line of steamships to France next year, making three lines trying to get the trade which they think will follow the France-Canadian treaty.

Up to the present there has only been one, the Allans, which runs to Havre. The second will be the Canadian Northern, which will run to Cherbourg. The Thomsons will run probably to St. Malo, certainly not to Havre.

WIRELESS OPERATOR HAD CLOSE SHAVE

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 19.—The Government steamer Quadra, which had started for Triangle Island the day previous, returned to Nanaimo Thursday to secure immediate medical attention for wireless operator, G. H. Davy, who was suffering from ptomaine poisoning, contracted through eating canned peaches.

Davy is now out of all danger. He is one of the best known operators on the coast, and comes from Napanee, Ont., having several relatives also in Toronto.

Revolt In India.

Allahabad, India, Feb. 19.—Jagdalpur is the centre of one of the most serious Indian revolts of recent years. Thousands of natives are said to be involved, and the loyal part of the population, including a few Europeans, is in danger. There are only 120 police available for duty. The Government is rushing troops to the scene.

FORWARD POLICY TO THE JAPANESE

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 19.—Investigations are to be made into alleged army scandals in Japan according to news received by the Empress of China, which arrived yesterday. Collusion and graft on a large scale between army officers and contractors is alleged.

The War Minister announces plans to increase the army from 19 to 25 divisions, in view of the increasing armament of the powers.

Japan will build no more warships abroad, Admiral Saito, Minister of the Navy, having announced to Parliament that all war craft would in the future be constructed solely at Japanese Government and private yards. Plans were submitted for a big naval base at Chinhai Bay, Korea, construction of which will involve ten years work.

Construction has been ordered of a battleship of the Dreadnought class, and two cruisers, one of 18000 tons, and three destroyers, while next year funds will be provided for two battleships. Big extensions are being carried on a Kure naval station. Two large docks are being built, the steel foundry and arsenal increased and a new gun factory and torpedo plant, and powder factory added. 23,000 being employed when the work is completed. Admiral Saito announced that the use of crude oil, mostly brought from California, had increased the navy's steaming capacity forty per cent.

TWO FARMERS ARE SENT TO PRISON

Brockville, Feb. 19.—Thomas and H. J. Forsythe were sent down yesterday for nine and five months respectively for an assault upon J. W. Montgomery, an Oxford Mills hotelkeeper. The men were drinking, and when requested by Montgomery to keep quiet they handled him roughly. The prisoners are well-known farmers of Oxford Township, aged 34 and 32 years. One is married.

That Long Sault Dam.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—Opposition from the Conservation Commission and a request from the City of Montreal for postponement caused the bill respecting the St. Lawrence Power Transmission Co., to be put over yesterday till Wednesday March 2.

Bodies Mummified In Mine.

Cherry, Ill., Feb. 19.—Eleven bodies of miners were recovered from the St. Paul Coal Mine yesterday. To the amazement of veteran mine inspectors, the bodies, entombed since last Nov. 13, were found to be almost perfectly mummified.

DECIDE NOT TO BUY A CHEMICAL ENGINE

The Fire, Water and Light Committee held a short meeting last night, when the question of purchasing a chemical engine was discussed. It was decided not to purchase it, after going into the matter for a short time.

Ald. Morgan, chairman; Mayor Morrow, Ald. Metherel, Ald. Barton and Ald. Graham were present.

MANY WOUNDED IN FRANKFORT

Frankfort, Germany, Feb. 19.—It was two o'clock yesterday morning before the police had cleared the streets of the crowds gathered in public protest against the proposed Prussian suffrage laws. Yesterday some fifty of the demonstrators were in the hospitals and of the number five are seriously injured.

The Socialists insist that those attending the meetings had been advised by the speakers to go quietly to their homes and that the most of them were so doing when a policeman who had arrested a man was fired upon by a party of would-be rescuers. This incident, the Socialists say, afforded the police detachments the opportunity for which they were waiting to attack the home-goers brutally, regardless of age or sex.

Many of the wounded avoided the hospitals, receiving treatment from private physicians, in order to escape any possible legal consequences involved. The number of wounded is now placed at between 200 and 300. Twenty policemen are among the injured.

Other demonstrations have been announced for next Sunday, but the meetings have been forbidden by the police, who are acting under orders from Berlin. The police are not members of the municipal force, but of the Prussian State Constabulary, and to a great extent are former sergeants in the army.

SERVICE AT GEORGE ST.

On Monday Afternoon at Two O'clock, for the Late Robt. Emberson—Interment at Little Lake Cemetery

The remains of the late Rev. Robt. Emberson, who passed away in Toronto on Thursday night, were taken to the family homestead at Benefort this morning, and a private service will be held there to-morrow. On Monday the remains will be brought to this city and a public service will be held in George Street Methodist church at two o'clock. The president of the conference will have charge, and it is expected that the members of the deceased's ordination class will be present and act as pallbearers. Interment will take place at Little Lake cemetery.

HOW REDMOND WILL PLEASE ALL

London, Feb. 19.—Individual Laborites yesterday disavowed the ultimatum which George N. Barnes, the new chairman of the Labor party in Parliament, sent to Premier Asquith, demanding that the veto question precede the budget measure in the House. They said that the Labor party had not reached as yet a decision, and asserted that the chairman's manifesto constituted merely an expression of his personal opinion.

It is expected that John Redmond will salve his conscience by offering an amendment, either to the Premier's speech next Monday or to the budget measure, to the effect that Ireland shall be excluded from the operation of the land and excise clauses of the financial bill.

The Premier cannot possibly accept such an amendment, but the Irish leader will be in a position to say that he did all he could and, with this explanation, allow the budget to pass.

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

"I came out here to escape certain consequences," said he candidly. "I'll stay to enjoy the uncertain ones. I am not in the least alarmed on my own account. The object of my visit, Lord Deppingham, is to ask you to be on your guard up here. After the next steamer arrives and they learn that Sir John will not withdraw me in submission to Rasula's demand, with the additional news that your solicitors have filed injunctions and have begun a bitter contest that may tie up the estate for years—then, I say, we may have trouble. It is best that you should know what to expect. I am not a traitor to my cause in telling you this. It is no more than I would expect from you were the conditions reversed."

"It's mighty decent in you, Chase, to put us on our guard. Would you mind talking it over with Browne and me after luncheon? You'll stay to luncheon, of course?"

"Thank you. It may be my death sentence, but I'll stay."

In the wide east gallery they saw Lady Deppingham and Bobby Browne deeply engrossed in conversation. Deppingham started and involuntarily allowed his hand to go to his temple as if to check the thought that flitted through his brain.

"Good Lord," he said to himself, "is it possible that they are considering that —— Saunders' proposition? Surely they can't be thinking of that!"

As he led the way across the green Browne's voice came to them distinctly. He was saying earnestly:

"The mere fact that we have come out to this blessed isle is a point in favor of the islanders. Chase won't overlook it, and you may be sure Sir John Brodney is making the most of it. Our coming is a guarantee that we consider the will valid. It is an admission that we regard it as sound. If not, why should we recognize its provisions, even in the slightest detail? Britt is looking for hallucinations and all"—

"Sh!" came in a loud hiss from somewhere near at hand, and the two in the gallery looked down with startled eyes upon the distressed face of Lord Deppingham. They started to their feet at once, astonishment and wonder in their faces. They could scarcely believe their eyes. The enemy!

He was smiling broadly as he lifted his helmet, smiling in spite of the discomfort that showed so plainly in Deppingham's manner.

Chase was warmly welcomed by the two heirs. Lady Agnes was especially cordial. Her eyes gleamed joyously as she lifted them to meet his admiring gaze. She was amazingly pretty. The conviction that Chase had mistaken her for Lady Agnes the evening before took a fresh grasp upon the mind of the Princess Genevra. A shameless wave of relief surged through her heart.

Chase was presented to Drusilla Browne, who appeared suddenly upon the scene, coming from no one knew where. There was a certain strained look in the Boston woman's face and a suspicious redness near the bridge of her little nose.

"It's very good of you," said the enemy after all of them had joined in the invitation. "Why is it that I am more fortunate than your own attorneys? I am but a humble lawyer, after all, no better than they. Would you mind telling me why I am honored by an invitation to sit at the table with you?" The touch of easy sarcasm was softened by the frank smile that went with it. Deppingham felt it his duty to explain.

"It's—it's—er—oh, yes, it's because you're a diplomat," he finally remarked in triumph. It was a grand recovery, thought he. "Saunders is an ass, and Britt would be one if Browne could only admit it, as I do. Rubbish! Don't be sorry for pretty Mrs. Browne. He sat opposite to the princess. His eyes were refreshing themselves after months of fatigue; his blood was coursing through new veins. And yet his head was calling his heart a fool.

"Besides," said Bobby Browne loudly, "I haven't heard of your clients inviting you to lunch, Mr. Chase. The cases are parallel."

"I'm not so sure about his clients' wives," said Deppingham, with a vast haw-haw! Chase looked extremely uncomfortable.

"I am told that some of them are very beautiful," said Genevra sedately.

"Other men's wives always are, I've discovered," said Chase gallantly.

The party had moved over to the great stone steps which led down into the gardens. Chase was standing beside Lady Deppingham, and both of them were looking toward his distant bungalow.

"That is my home, princess. It is the first time I have seen it from your point of view, Lady Deppingham. I must say that it doesn't seem as far from the chateau to the bungalow as it does from the bungalow to the chateau. There have been times when the chateau seemed to be thousands of miles away."

"When in reality it was at your very feet," she said, with a bright look into his eyes. For some unaccountable reason Genevra resented that look and speech.

"Is that really where you live?" she asked, so innocently that Chase had difficulty in controlling his expression.

At that instant something struck sharply against the stone column above Chase's head. At least three persons saw the little puff of smoke in the hills far to the right. Every one heard the distant crack of a rifle. The bullet had dropped at Chase's feet before the sound of the report came floating to their ears. No one spoke as he stooped and picked up the warm, deadly missile. Turning it over in his fingers, he said coolly, although his cheek had gone white:

"With Von Blitz's compliments, ladies and gentlemen. He is calling on me by proxy."

"Good God, Chase," cried Browne, "they're trying to murder us! Get back, every one! Inside the doors!"

"I'm sorry to bring my troubles to your door," said Chase. "It was meant for me, not for any of you. The man who fired that did not intend to kill me. He was merely giving voice to his pain and regret at seeing me in such bad company." He was smiling calmly and did not take a single step to follow them to safety.

"Come in, Chase! Don't stand out there to be shot at."

"I'll stay here for a few minutes, Mr. Browne, if you don't mind, just to convince you all that the shot was not intended to kill. They're not ready to kill me yet. I'm sure Lord Deppingham will understand. He has been shot at often enough since he came to the island."

He lighted a cigarette and coolly leaned against the column, his game bent on the spot where the smoke had been seen. The others were grouped inside the doors, where they could see without being seen. A certain sense of horror possessed all of the watchers.

"For heaven's sake, why does he stand there?" cried the princess at last. "I can endure it no longer. It may be as he says it is, but it is foolhardy to stand there and taunt the pride of that marksman. I can't stay here and wait for it to come. How can"—

"He's been there for ten minutes, princess," said Browne—"plenty of time for another try."

Before they were aware of her intention the princess left the shelter and boldly walked across the open space to the side of the man. He started and opened his lips to give vent to a sharp command.

"It is so easy to be a hero, Mr. Chase, when one is quite sure there is no real danger," she said, with distinct irony in her tones. "One can afford to be melodramatic if he knows his part so well as you know yours."

Chase felt his face burn. It was a direct declaration that he had planned the whole affair in advance. He flicked the ashes from his cigarette and then tossed it away, hesitating long before replying.

"Nevertheless I have the greatest respect for the courage which brings you to my side. I dare say you are quite justified in your opinion of me. It all must seem very theatrical to you. I had not thought of it in that light. I shall now retire from the center of the stage. It will be perfectly safe for you to remain here—just as it was for me." He was leaving her without another word or look. She repented.

"I am sorry for what I said," she said eagerly. "And"—she looked up at the hills with a sudden widening of her eyes—"I think I shall not remain."

Chase made light of the occurrence, but sought to impress upon the others the fact that it was prophetic of more serious events in the future. In a perfectly cold blooded manner he told them that the islanders might rise against them at any time.

"The people are angry, and they will become desperate. Their interests are mine, of course. I am perfectly sincere in saying to you, Lady Deppingham, and to you, Mr. Browne, that in time they will win out against you in the courts. But they are impatient. They are not the kind who can wait and be content. It is impossible for you to carry out the provisions of the will, and they know it. That is why they resent the delays that are impending."

Deppingham told him of the scheme proposed by Saunders, treating it as a vast joke. Chase showed a momentary sign of uneasiness, but covered it instantly by laughing with the others. Strange to say, he had been instructed from London to look out for just such a coup on the part of the heirs—not that the marriage could be legally established, but that it might create a complication worth avoiding.

He could not help looking from Lady Deppingham to Bobby Browne, a calculating gleam in his gray eyes. How very dangerous she could be! He was [illegible] very sorry for

EXPERT SELF ADVERTISERS

Are the National League Magnates, Now in Congress

The National League magnates, in session at the Waldorf-Astoria, are past masters in the art of self-advertising. As newspaper space grabbers they are wonders. Only recently they wrangled loud and long in electing a president, and now they are having a prolonged gabfest over the adoption of a schedule for the coming season. It is likely they will agree to-day in time to have the schedule printed in to-morrow's papers.

At present five of the club owners are in favor of the schedule of 168 games, while the other three want the one calling for 154 games. Those in favor of the longer schedule are Bush of New York, Ebbets of Brooklyn, Robinson of St. Louis, Fogel of Philadelphia and Murphy of Chicago. Those opposed to it are Dreyfuss of Pittsburg, Herrmann, of Cincinnati Dover of Boston. It requires six votes to adopt a schedule.

Charley Murphy didn't have much breath left after his speeches to the magnates. What little he did have was taken from him when he emerged from the meeting room. What shocked the Chicago magnate was the serving of a process on him in a suit that Pitcher Andy Coakley, the Indoor King, has brought against the Chicago Club for salary due him for the season of 1908. Coakley sues for $2,280 for salary. In addition he asks for an accounting of the money taken in during the world's championship series between the Cubs and the Detroit Tigers. Coakley, although a member of the team, was ordered out when the cash was distributed. His claim is that he was entitled to a share of the money.

The Board of Directors of the League failed to take up the case of Billy Murray against the Philadelphia club. The reason given was that President Fogel of the Phillies is still confined to his room with an attack of gout brought on by Fogel's participation in numerous banquets given in his honor since he became the president of the Taft annex in the Quaker City. Among baseball men the consensus of opinion is that the league directors are dodging the issue, and that Murray will have to take his case to the law courts to get what is rightfully his.

At the Congress Hotel in Chicago the representatives of the American League, the American Association and the Western League gathered for their annual schedule meetings. The sale of Barney Reilly of the White Sox team to the Wichita club of the Western League was the most important transaction of the morning. The Denver club secured Pitcher Young from the Boston American League club.

The American League did not meet until late in the day. Most of the business of the league is to fix up another working agreement, as the ten-year contract under which the league has been operating will expire the coming fall. The schedule for the coming season had been drafted so that there was little business outside of routine. A short session is being held in Chicago to-day to adopt the schedule.

THE LONG SAULT PROJECT

From all sides comes the advice to go slow in the matter of permitting an American company to construct a dam at the Long Sault rapids in the St. Lawrence for the purpose of generating electric power. The company proposes to spend, it is said, $20,000,000 in the enterprise and to develop 700,000 horse power. This is an attractive programme, and one that some years ago might have been received with more favor than it has been at this time. The idea of conserving the natural resources and of keeping them under control of the people has taken strong hold. For this the Hydro-Electric policy of the Whitney Government is largely responsible, for a demonstration that natural resources may be made available for public use by public bodies has done more in a few years to forward the idea than many years of argument would have done. In addition to this there is, in connection with the Long Sault project, the fear that the navigation of the St. Lawrence might be injured. This would be a serious matter, the St. Lawrence being the outlet to the sea for all the traffic from the west that comes by water. Both considerations, that of the conservation of natural resources for the people and the importance of navigation to the whole country, combine to urge caution in dealing with the ambitious project of the enterprising gentlemen from the United States.

A CHANGE IN METHODS

Very wisely the English suffragettes have ceased to use what they called militant methods in endeavoring to advance their cause. It was adopted to call their attention to their demands and what they believed to be rights of women of which they were deprived. It was a method of advertising. But wisdom, or at least common sense, which is pretty much the same thing, is needed in advertising. The attention of the public may be caught, but it may be done in a way that will repel instead of attacting. A judicious advertiser wishes to arouse interest, and at the same time leave a favorable impression, but the suffragettes while arousing interest with a great many people made a very unfavorable impression, and instead of gaining accessions to the ranks of those who supported their views they convinced many who were favorable, or at least not antagonistic, that to give votes to women would be a mistake. To cause people to talk is not enough. If that had been all that was necessary the suffragettes should have won a victory in the last election and be in a position now to force Parliament to enact the law they desire. In order to succeed the methods adopted must be such as to lead people to talk favorably of the cause advocated, and to horse-whip a Cabinet Minister, is not calculated to lead to that result. The suffragettes, however, have not abandoned their campaign for "votes for women," and if the different societies having that object in view unite their forces and adopt sane methods they will make more headway than they have done in the past few years.

LOCAL OPTION IN ASSESSMENTS

In Toronto the papers seem to have been captured by those behind the effort to have local option in methods of municipal taxation, and they urge the Legislature to pass the bill which has been introduced to permit each municipal council to levy a higher rate of taxation on land than upon improvements, if it so desires. But their arguments are aimed at convincing the legislators that there would be a benefit in the adoption of the principle that land should bear the higher burden. Be that as it may, there is danger in the local option idea as applied to this subject. Nothing is more injurious to business or to enterprise than uncertainty. It is true that money is timid—or that those who possess it are cautious about investing it—and the uncertainty that would result from permitting municipal councils to have the authority proposed, would be almost certain not to result in the benefit the advocates of the measure believe would follow, but have the opposite effect. The object aimed at is to stimulate building. Each municipality—each urban municipality at any rate—is anxious to encourage the erection of improvements, factories, business places and residences, and the competition that is seen in the desire to attract manufacturing industries might easily enter into the application of a law that allowed a discrimination in favor of improvements as against land. A city could advertise that improvements were taxed very low in that municipality, and that it was, therefore, a desirable place to locate manufactories: buildings, while another, not to be outdone, would "go one better" and announce a still lower rate. And there would be no certainty that a rate adopted—a comparative rate as between land and improvements—would continue for any length of time, for as each municipality would have control of the matter the exigencies of revenue and changes in the membership of the councils would lead to changes in the rate at which the discriminatory principle would be applied. The instability would soon have a bad effect, and instead of being beneficial, the change in the law might easily be injurious.

Sir James Whitney has announced that the statement the Government has such a measure under consideration is not correct, and that the measure regarding assessment that will come before the House will be the measure as the main reported by the Assessment Committee, which sat during the recess. The Government has shown prudence in the legislation that they have introduced and supported, and it is expected of them that they will give due consideration to such a proposal before dealing with it. If the principle that land should bear a larger share of taxation than it now does, and that the rate on improvements should be lower than that levied on land, is correct, then it should be applied to the whole province, but in a matter of such importance the Legislature should be careful before they authorize the confusion that would follow the permissive principle in such a matter as this.

EDITORIAL NOTES

An Arizona astronomer has discovered a canal on Mars one thousand miles long where previous photographs made last May failed to show any trace of a canal. If we could only get that celestial government to take hold of the completion of the Trent Valley Canal! Perhaps Sir Wilfrid Laurier will send a commission to Mars to enquire how it was done, and thus find another excuse for delay.

SEA DELIVERS THE MAIL OF MAROONED ISLANDERS

Letters Sealed in Casks and Sent Adrift Travel 60 Miles Across Gulf

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 18.—Methods that were resorted to years ago in establishing mail communication across the water, when sealed casks containing letters were dropped from ships and the safe deliverance of the contents trusted to fate, are again being made use of by people on the Magdalen Islands. Because the cable between the islands and Cape North is broken and will not be repaired until warm weather sets in, the populace of the islands have again adopted the ancient way of transmitting their messages and mail.

A heavy barrel containing between thirty and forty letters sealed in cans was picked up on the Cape Breton coast yesterday by persons diving near the shore. Letters were received by the post-office authorities to-day and duly sent to their respective addressees. The tides had carried the barrel from the Magdalen Islands sixty miles across the Gulf of St. Lawrence in ten days. The letters were all in good condition.

Katherine Purcell, of Paterson, N. J., for months had a live mole in her body.

ST. LUKE'S W. A. HONORED A DEPARTING MEMBER

Mrs. G. R. Browning Presented With a Life Membership and Gold Pin of the W. A. — Officers of Auxiliary Elected.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Luke's church was held on Thursday a number of members of the Auxiliary branches of of All Saints' and St. John's were also present. After the presentation of reports of the various officers a very pleasant event took place, which was a presentation of a Life Membership certificate and gold pen of the W.A. to Mrs. G.R. Browning, who is about to leave for Havelock, where Mr. Browning has entered business. The address is as follows;—

St. Luke's Parish,
Ashburnham,
Feb. 17, 1910.

Mrs. G. R. Browning

Dear Mrs. Browning,—We are about to leave this parish for another abode we desire to give you some tangible expression of our high appreciation of the many services you have rendered to the church in her various interests. We feel exceedingly sorry that the pleasant relationship existing among us will have to be broken because of your moving away. In the various organizations of St. Luke's you have taken an active part, especially so as member of the Woman's Auxiliary, Sunday school teacher, superintendent of the Mission Band and President of the Chancel Guild. Your work in these respective capacities was gladly and enthusiastically done, and your lead in earnest application to the interests of Christ's cause enthused others to follow.

We believe that it will be in keeping with your zeal and interests to present you with a Life Membership of the W.A., and we ask you to kindly accept the accompanying Life Membership certificate and gold W. A. pin as a mark of our regard for you, and our acknowledgement of valuable help given us by you in our various religious interests.

May the gift ever remind you of your many friends in St. Luke's parish, who will follow you with earnest wishes for your future happiness and success.

On behalf of St. Luke's congregation.

(We are, sincerely yours.

He was glad to know that the women of the congregation were at one in honoring one who had been such a great help in the activities of the church. Nothing seemed to be more appropriate than the recognition of faithful work done by the presentation of a Life Membership in that greatest of all women's organizations, the Woman's Auxiliary of the Church of England.

The next matter of business was the election of officers, which resulted as follows;—

Hon. President—Mrs. E. A. Peck.
Hon. Vice-President—Mrs. Joseph Phillips.

A RATEPAYER HAS COMPLAINT

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—According to the reports in the papers, the other evening a woman, a resident of this city, was locked out of her house by her husband, after she had been telephoning the police, and was not allowed into her home until her husband had gone to sleep, and the door unlocked by one of her children. According to her statement, after telephoning to the policeman, she was told that some one would be sent down immediately to take the husband into custody, but no one appeared on the scene, and the woman, though scantily clothed, had to walk about for an hour or so to keep herself from freezing. If the above facts are correct, a rigid investigation should be made into the conduct of the policeman responsible.

The system of policemen having no beats seems to be antiquated for a city of this size. More than that, a system for the night policemen to ring in, say every half hour, at a given point might do no harm. In any event the public would be satisfied, that somebody was ringing in at the proper time, if it was done at all.

I beg to remain,
RATEPAYER.

WILL SPEAK ON PRESENT CONDITIONS OF THE JEWS

The Rev. S. B. Rohold, first Hebrew-Christian-Presbyterian-Pastor, Superintendent of work amongst the Jews in Canada, will preach and deliver addresses in the following churches: St. Paul's in the morning, Knox in the evening, Y.M.C.A. in the afternoon, 4.15; St. Andrew's Monday evening. He was born in Jerusalem, a son of a leading Rabbi, educated and brought up for the same position. Thirteen years ago after his conversion, he left the Holy City and labored with much acceptance amongst his brethren in Scotland. Two years ago he came here by the invitation of the Presbyterian church, to organize the work amongst the Jews in Canada, with its headquarters amongst the 16,000 Jews in Toronto, where his efforts were met with singular success. The Mission, which is situated in the very heart of the Jewish quarter, has become a centre of attraction to all kinds and classes of Jews. The Mission has now a regular staff of seven missionaries, three men and four women, who carry on a very aggressive work in the following departments: Reading rooms, night schools for men and women, sewing classes for women and girls, Sunday school, Boys' Club, kindergarten, tract distribution, gospel services and Bible classes, and open air services, free dispensary, club for young business women, systematic visitation of homes, hospitals and other institutions.

Mr. Rohold will not only tell of his work, but will deal with the Jewish problem in general.

The subject for the morning service will be "The Present Condition of the Jews and Their Attitude Towards Christianity." Subject of the evening service, "Israel's Cry for Christ." Subject for Monday "The Glory of the Messiah." At the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday afternoon at 4.15 Rev. Mr. Rohold will deliver an address to the men. A male quartette, Messrs. Thornton, Milner, Nelson and Cole, will be present and assist in the singing.

NORMAL SCHOOL GROUNDS WILL BE MADE BEAUTIFUL

Extensive improvements are to be made at the Normal School grounds this spring, and for the work a substantial sum has been placed in the estimates of the Ontario Government. Plans have been prepared for the beautification of the grounds and the work will be started as soon as possible. Shrubs and flowers will be planted, and the surroundings of the school made one of the prettiest spots in the city. Several thousand dollars will be spent on the work.

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS THAT A. COMSTOCK HAVE AMBULANCE FOR YEAR

The Property Committee had a meeting last night, at which one of the principal items of business was the passing of a resolution that A. Comstock be given control of the Dan Spence Ambulance for the ensuing year at $200. Mr. D. Beleghem and Mr. J. Comstock both addressed the committee in reference to the matter.

The members present were: Ald. Duncan, chairman; Mayor Morrow, Ald. Graham, Ald. Morgan, Ald. Batten and Ald. Bradburn.

It was moved by Ald. Morgan, and seconded by Ald. Graham, that A. Comstock be given the care and service of the Dan Spence ambulance for the ensuing year at $200 per year, a clause to be put in the agreement that the ambulance shall not be used for conveying patients from the railway stations, and must not be taken outside the city.—Carried.

Col. A. Stevenson and Major Bennett waited on the committee in reference to the 57th Regiment being given control of the band instruments which are the property of the city. In the past the instruments were kept in the band hall on Simcoe street, and the city has paid the insurance on them. Now they are kept at the armories, and the insurance is to be paid by the regiment. As a result of this, the officers of the regiment feel that they should have control of the instruments. On motion of Ald. Batten and Ald. Bradburn, Ald. Morgan was instructed to confer with the band, and if they have no objections, that the instruments be leased to the regiment at $1 per year.

PUBLIC LAVATORY.

W. H. Moore and A. Stevenson, of the Peterborough City Trust, were present, on invitation, in regard to heating the market building and installing a public lavatory.

It was moved by Mayor Morrow and seconded by Ald. Morgan, that the commissioners be requested to see what arrangements can be made for a public lavatory in the cellar of the market arcade, and confer with the chairman of the Property Committee.

J. C. Shook was heard in reference to an exchange of land at Dublin street, proposed by the Dickson Co.

On motion of Ald. Morgan and Ald. Bradburn, the chairman was instructed to see the Dickson Co. and ascertain if they will give the lot on Dublin street for a park if the city will put it in shape and maintain it.

The matter of the model of the statue, "Mercury Charmed by His Own Invention," given the city by Miss Katharine Waite, was left with the chairman.

WERE PLEASED WITH THE CONFERENCE WITH PREMIER

The Rev. Jas. G. Potter, who was one of the members of the Dominion Alliance Executive chosen to wait upon the Government on Thursday, returned home from Toronto yesterday.

Mr. Potter was asked regarding the nature of the visit to the Cabinet Ministers, and he stated that the interview and the reception accorded to the deputation was all that could be expected, and was mutually pleasant. Owing to the fact that a short time ago a large and influential delegation from various sections of the province had waited upon the Government the convention considered it unwise to go over precisely the same ground, but thought it the proper thing to lay before the Premier and the Provincial Secretary the matured judgment of the convention, which had also become public property. This presentation was made by the five members of the Executive Committee. Under these conditions the conference at the Premier's suggestion, was altogether informal and conversational and in view of this the newspaper reporters were promised the result of the conference which was supplied them by Mr. Miles Vokes, and the Rev. Beverley Smith, at the close of the interview. The report that the Premier refused to recede from the three-fifths clause is not correct, Mr. Whitney explained why he had always believed in the three-fifths clause, but that in view of the strong representations that had been made the Cabinet was going to give the matter its most careful thought, and that whatever would be the outcome he wanted the assistance of all in the carrying out of the law.

The Premier expressed the view that in the past there had been a good deal of misunderstanding on the part of all parties regarding the motives of the Government and the motives of temperance men, but they were making an honest effort to keep abreast of public opinion and the work of temperance men had not been in vain—so far as the formation of public opinion was concerned. No pledge or promise was asked from the Premier and none was given.

The convention was the largest in the history of the temperance work of the province, and men who had attended the annual meet for years stated that it was a distinct evidence of the great advance of and enthusiastic interest in the temperance question.

A local convention will be arranged shortly when the result of the conference will be more fully discussed.

Y.M.C.A. DOINGS

Last night the Boy's Department of the Y.M.C.A. held two driving parties. At seven o'clock the employed boys went to Lakefield where the evening was spent skating; later at 7.45 the school boys left the association on a drive around the city, returning about 9.30 for lunch. Both were popular, particularly the latter, which could not have accommodated another boy.

Monday next the cabinet of the Boy's Department will hold a special meeting to prepare for a membership campaign to be held soon and continue only a few days as they think better results will follow than by canvas extending over a longer period.

Another exhibition of gymnasium work will be the feature of Friday, the 25th, for which no charge will be made and should be well attended.

DIED ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Death Came Very Suddenly to David Breckenridge, Formerly of This City—Distressing Circumstances

A Cranbrook, B.C., despatch, of February 13 says:—David Breckenridge, foreman in charge for the Crow's Nest Pass Lumber Company at Wardner, and brother of John Breckenridge, the prominent railway conductor, died this forenoon under particularly distressing circumstances.

It appears that yesterday he became suddenly ill at one of the company's camps about two miles below Fort Steele. The symptoms became of so alarming a nature that he was at once removed to Fort Steele, where it is stated Dr. Hugh Watt administered some medicine to alleviate the patient's extreme suffering. This morning Mrs. Breckenridge and Mr. Arthur Lund proceeded to take him with the fastest team available to the St. Eugene Hospital at Cranbrook, his condition then being gravely critical that the necessity of an operation had grown imperative. While ascending the long hill near Fort Steele he suddenly died in his wife's arms. The afflicted lady is said not to have known the death occurred until within a mile or two of Cranbrook. He was forty-two years of age, and for several years past has been in charge of the very extensive logging operations of the Crow's Nest Pass Company.

Acute gastritis is suspected as the cause of death. The remains await interment from the undertaking establishment of W. R. Beatty, but no announcement has yet been made as to the date of the funeral.

The utmost regret is expressed in every section of the community and the public deeply sympathize with Mrs. Breckenridge in her bereavement.

AN EMERGENT MEETING

Of Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges A. F. & A. M., will be held at the lodge rooms 358 George Street on Sunday at 2 p. m. for the purpose of attending the funeral of our late brother David Breckenridge of North Star Lodge No. 30 Cranbrook, B. C. The funeral will leave the residence of brother Matthew Breckenridge, No 108 Boundary St. at 2.30 p.m. R. P. WATT, A. P. McLEAN, Wor. Masters The lodges have arranged for busses to convey the brethren.

UNTIMELY SHOW OF COLORS

West Ends Ribbons were Displayed at Opera House Just After Strathcona Bouquet Was Given to Leading Lady

It was a good one to gull over, but looked very ungracious in view of the presentation to the leading lady of a bouquet of red and white carnations, the colors of the Strathcona hockey club, the members of which occupied box seats at the presentation of "The Man From Home" at the Grand last night. The explanation of the matter in question is that at the end of the third act of the play the bouquet was flung on to the stage, and when the leading lady picked it up, amid loud applause, the leading man waved a cane, which was elaborately adorned with yellow and black, the colors of the West Ends.

As the West Ends were the unsuccessful bidders for the championship trophy, and as the Straths were at the opera house in celebration of their victory, the display of West End colors looked quite untimely. However, Mr. Hall was not aware perhaps of the local hockey situation, and likely did not realize that the featuring of the West End ribbon was a poor acknowledgement of the Strathconas' tribute.

THEATRICAL

The Man From Home

Original in some respects and conventional in others, "The Man From Home" made an excellent impression on a large audience at the Grand last night. The central character, Daniel Vorhees Pike, is one of those homely droll speaking Missourians with a very matter of fact view of things in general, and with a logic that comes of a quiet innate and well placed confidence in his view of the affairs of life. Henry Hall's drawing of the character was an easy and accurate one, and he played the role in a highly acceptable and finished fashion. His lazy philosophy of the "show me" state contained many gems of dry humor, in spite of their spontaneity, indicated true insight and were built on a good foundation of solid and consistent judgment.

Mr. Hall's support was satisfactory in every way and the scenic equipment of the play was admirable. In order that the local color might be more realistic, several Italians were employed in various parts, the scene of the play being in Sorrento, in Southern Italy.

Conspicuous for their very acceptable delineations of their roles were Charles D. Herman as the Grand Duke of Vasilvitch, Mary Elizabeth Forbes as Ethel Granger Swanson, Bertha Welby as Lady Creech, and John Martin as Ivgnoff.

The Strathconas, champions of the City Hockey League, occupied boxes, and at the end of the third act a bouquet for Miss Forbes was tossed onto the stage by the big mogul of the club, Mr. F. D. Craig.

ART EDMUNDS WAS VERY "ILL"

And Would of Course Like Another Bout When He Feels Better

Artie Edmunds, the Toronto wrestler, whose defeat by Sundberg, a Finn wrestler, in Winnipeg, on February 8th, created such surprise in Toronto, returned home yesterday.

"I was sick when I left Toronto," said Edmunds. "The bad water got me before I left, and I was as weak as a kitten when I went upon the mat at Winnipeg. You know that no man in the world at 124 pounds has any license to beat me two falls in 12 minutes. I was sick when I arrived, and the medicine and rest I took chased my weight up to 134 pounds, yet they insisted on my making 124 pounds. I made it after 12 hours in a Turkish bath, and was so weak I could scarcely walk. The result was I was beaten. Now, I want a return match with Sundberg at 124 pounds again, and I'll bet $500 on the side that I beat him. He is claiming the featherweight championship. He isn't the featherweight champion until he makes 122 pounds and wins. I'll meet him either at 122 or 124 pounds and make the side bet. All I want is a chance at him again."

All of which sounds reasonable to Toronto people in view of Edmunds' great record as a wrestler.—Toronto Star.

CURLING

The local curlers who went to Keene yesterday, won from the players of that place, finishing 15 up.

Keene will send up their best to compete in the bonspiel next week.

Two rinks from Hastings came up last night, and after playing two rinks skipped by Fraser and Stevenson, returned home with the honors by 3 and 10 shots.

A bonspiel for local curlers will take place Wednesday, February 23, at the Charlotte street rink, commencing at 1.3 0 p.m. All the members of the curling club desiring to take part are asked to sign the list at the curling rink before 8.30 Tuesday night.

There will be two prizes for the main event and two consolation prizes also.

On March 1st an open bonspiel will be held, the particulars of which will be stated later.

The unfinished club bonspiel will be played off after March 10th.

JOHNSON AND JEFFRIES

Personal and Pugilistic Characteristics of the Fighters

The Jeffries-Johnson match is beginning to attract the attention of the fight enthusiasts. The personalities and the fistic qualities of the two men are eagerly discussed and both have their strong admirers. Jeffries has already started west to begin preliminary training. Johnson, however, faces a charge of assault in New York, which may land him in prison and upset the plans of the fight managers to hold the battle July 4th. A sporting writer thus discusses the two;—

Few of the thousands who have trooped behind Jeffries, applauded him or shaken his hand know Jeffries the man. An inclination to shrink from publicity which Jeffries has often displayed is as near surliness as it is modest. He is not an entertaining conversationalist. All his eloquence is in his fists. Most of his notable ring successes have been gained by overpowering strength.

Nothing bores Jeffries more than the attentions of fight fans who try to get the big Californian to talk shop. Jeffries is not a fighter who loves to battle. He has confessed that he would never have attempted to succeed in the ring if he could have see line that was open to him. As a been convinced that there was as much money to be gained in any other school boy Jeffries seldom engaged in fisticuffs. A New York business man who knew Jeffries in his early days in Ohio and California, says that he might have picked Jeffries for a piano mover, but never for a fighter.

But aroused! There is another Jeffries. When he shifts uneasily in a chair, or grits his teeth, he is either about to leave the room or "start something." He usually leaves abruptly. Years of pleading on the claim of patriotic duty, assurances of a fortune, the appeals of closest friends were necessary to bring Jeffries, the stove, before the public again as a fighter. Then he wanted to train to see whether he would "be right." Satisfying himself on this point, he plunged into the preliminary work, accepting every chance that added to his bank account, and the publicity end of the coming championship contest. Jeffries has not the mental alertness of Corbett or McCoy, little of the kind of fighting spirit that a rough and ready fellow like Battling Nelson has. But Jeffries has determination, unfailing courage, remarkable strength and the support of a majority of the Anglo-Saxon race.

Against the huge, muscle-covered framework of Jeffries a negro of skill will contend. Johnson is not a troublesome fellow, despite reports of quarrels. He likes to live as high as his roll will take him, and if it is wine he enthuses no more over it than he would beer. Johnson is not a fighter of the slashing, boring type. He is seldom serious in the ring or out of it. A song, followed by buck and wing dancing, is Johnson's first idea of a "little fun." Then he may pick some strapping young athlete from the floor and toss him to the other side of the room. A poke in the ribs that makes a man's tongue droop and his eyes water is one of Johnson's pleasant ways of greeting an old friend.

Jack has more confidence in his cleverness than in his strength, but above the waist the champion is powerful. Johnson is a born boxer; Jeffries was developed gradually. Experts who saw Johnson half a dozen years ago say he could box as well then as he can now. Johnson has repeatedly refused to let himself out in bouts, having as an excuse that he did not want to "scare matches away." During his encounters with speeding automobiles and caustic critics Johnson has shown an astonishing fluency of speech. He likes to inject a word of great length into everyday conversation, and he has practiced so faithfully that he seldom misses.

It does not seem possible to frighten Johnson. He continually talked while in the ring with Burns despite the championship at stake and bitterness toward his opponent. He said he pitied Ketchel. Pictures of the fight showed that until Ketchel had landed a solid punch Johnson made no attempt to finish his opponent. But he has no pity for huge Mr. Jeffries.

The psychological moment will arrive when Jeffries removes his bath robe in the ring and is greeted by admiring thousands. There will be hisses for Johnson to offset the applause. ("Lick him quickly, Jeff; he cannot fight," references to his race and a hundred more other tauntings heart-piercing conditions may arise. Can Johnson weather them and Jeffries, too?

LOCALS LOST TO ORILLIA SEVEN

A picked team of local hockeyists went down to defeat in Lindsay last night at the hands of the Orillia Collegiate Institute team, by a 5—4 score, the winners securing the odd tally on a long lift in the last half minute of play. The half-time score was 2—1, against the locals. The boys state that the game was a fast one, and that Orillia was represented by a classy aggregation. Halpany took three of Peterborough's goals, and Stevenson the other. Another game may be played in the near future.

Gamble, of the Lindsay Midgets, handled the b.l.

So Says Charles Bell of Dodd's Kidney Pills

He Had Rheumatism for Ten Years and The Old Reliable Kidney Remedy Cured Him Completely.

North Range, Digby Co., N.S., Feb. 9th.—(Special.)—"I am so filled with gratitude to Dodd's Kidney Pills that I cannot praise them too highly." These are the words of Mr. Charles Bell, well known here, and they are echoed by many another who has been freed from the tortures of rheumatism by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I suffered terribly from rheumatism for ten years," Mr. Bell continues. "I was so bad I could scarcely get in and out of bed. After trying various medicines without getting relief, a friend advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Six boxes cleared the Rheumatism right out of me."

That what Dodd's Kidney Pills do to Rheumatism—clean it right out of you. They do this simply and naturally. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. When the kidneys are healthy they strain the uric acid out of the blood. When the kidneys are healthy they strain the uric acid out of the blood. With no uric acid in the blood there can be no Rheumatism. Consequently to cure Rheumatism, cure your kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure the kidneys.

COOKS' MASQUERADE.

How Nine Young Matrons Spent a Jolly Afternoon.

Thursday—4 to 7
490 Adams street

So read the invitations written on butcher's paper and inclosed in tiny new spice boxes, says a contributor to Table Talk.

The nature of the party we guessed from the invitations, and our surmises were confirmed by a telephone message. Our hostess requested my sister and I to masquerade as American and Dutch cooks for the afternoon.

Of course I as the American needed no "fixin's," wearing my usual kitchen seersucker and its accompanying long sleeved apron. My sister wore the short sleeved dress of the Dutch housewife, with its gathered skirt and white yoked neck. A plain gathered apron and wooden shoes completed her costume.

Thursday came, dark and rainy, but our apparel was storm proof, and we sallied forth anticipating a jolly time. On approaching the house we were not surprised to see a large sign—a hand—and written thereon, "Servants' Door to the Rear."

At the back entry we were met by our hostess, but what a transformation from her usual sunny self! Garbed in calico of Irish hue and padded in proportion, with hair tightly drawn and a bit of smut over one eye, she was indeed Bridget Kelley. Her Irish brogue kept us laughing as we doffed our shawls in the entry.

We were a happy set, nine young matrons in all. There were Mrs. Eaton, trim and chic, with the modish cap of the French cook, and Mrs. Rice, her brunette coloring enhanced by the glittering sequins adorning the sleeveless jacket of the Russian dress which she so charmingly wore. The dainty Jap, plaided Scot and tall Swede, with her peaked cap and homespun apron, not unlike a Roman scarf, added their varied colorings. Finally came Sue Farley, impersonating her own southern mammy. She was the last to arrive, and so well disguised was she that we scarcely recognized her.

The spacious kitchen, with its blue tiled wainscoting, alcoved dining tables and hooded ranges, was a beautiful as well as convenient place in which to work. Our hostess gave us slips of paper on which were written various recipes.

These were prepared at stated periods, and while they were cooking our hostess, an accomplished cook, entertained us by a talk on the various dishes of the Germans. She spoke from experience, having lived several years in Germany. Household economies formed a profitable topic of conversation the last half hour before tea. The discussion served as an appetizer to the meal, which we enjoyed the more because of our part in its preparation. As souvenirs of the delightful affair we each received a wooden cake spoon, with date and "A Kitchen Tea" written on the handle.

Cheerfulness at Meals.

A thousand little windows are opened by the cursory conversation at the breakfast table through which to look into the deeps and shallows of the home.

Sometimes the only meeting place of a family of growing boys and girls is at the table. Yet, as a rule, how much is left to be desired in the way of cheerfulness and conversation during the mealtimes of most large families!

There is only one way to create a revolution in the family conscious of having dull, silent and uninteresting meals. It is for each member of it to turn over a new leaf. Each one must come to the table prepared to show his or her best side, the side too often withheld from family life, be it bestowed ever so abundantly elsewhere.

Every member of the family must realize as evening closes in and the varicolored threads of the busy day are gathered together that there must be a little unselfish effort made by each one if the unity is to be preserved and the family life kept harmonious.

The cheerfulness that tells most at family meals finds expression in light, pleasant, happy talk. Do not bring your troubles to the table, but interesting stories, anecdotes and the happenings of the corner of the world in which your work is situated. If the father brings home pleasant things to talk about, his business life will be real and glowing to those who love and believe in him and can see life only through his eyes. To be cheerful is not to be artificial; neither is it forcing insincerity upon those around you. Cheerfulness is a form of unselfishness, a difficult, noble form, which is too seldom given the appreciation it deserves.

A Way of a Clever Mother.

Few people are ready in little ways for sickness. I keep on hand a suit case, says a careful mother, containing a kimona, two nightdresses, bed slippers, brush and comb and toothbrush for emergency. Much confusion and hurry can be saved in a household, especially where there are children, if the mother will renew certain supplies before they are quite used up. I always keep on hand shoe laces and shoe buttons, side elastics, a new pair each of gloves and stockings, a toothbrush or two and many other things in my supply drawer, a plan I learned from painful experiences of breakages and holes found at the last moment, when it was too late to rush out for new articles. No one is allowed to help themselves from this source of supply without permission.

Gordon Dymond, of Strathroy, was bitten by a dog and was sent to New York for Pasteur treatment.

WHAT'S A JEW? BEING DISCUSSED

(Washington, D.C., Feb. 17.—Is the word "Jew" descriptive of a race or a religion? That is one of the questions that the Immigration Commission will have to answer in one of its forthcoming reports. It has been put squarely up to the members of the commission by two of the distinguished members of the race or religion, namely, Judge Julian Mack, of Chicago, and Simon Wolf, president of the B'Nai B'Rith.

It may or may not, seem strange to the members of the Jewish faith or race, that both Judge Mack and Mr Wolf argued to the commission that the Jews are not a race, but that the word applies to a religion only. They made their statement in one of the most interesting sessions the commission has had, as a protest against the classification of immigrants as "Jews" instead of as Germans, Russians, Austrians, Roumanians, etc., by countries. In other words, Messrs. Mack and Wolf argued that as a race the Jews are extinct, but that they survive as the members of a religious sect.

The argument grew out of the custom of the United States Immigrant bureau in classifying all members of the Hebrew race, or faith, as Jews no matter what country they come from. Mr. Wolf quoted Cyrus Adler one of the ablest Hebrew scholars, to the effect that the word "Jew" does not mean a race, but refers to a religion.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who is something of a scholar himself, came right back, with a quotation from the Jewish encyclopaedia, of which Adler is one of the editors, stating that "Jew" means a race and not a religion.

"Take the case of Disraeli," said Senator Lodge. "He changed his religion, yet he was still a Jew, and was known as one, and the Jewish people claim him."

"True," said Judge Mack, "but if Disraeli had come to America after he had become famous. In answer to the question put to him at the port where he landed, he would have said, "I am an Englishman."

Insurance Companies Lose About $125,000.00 by the Wreck at Spanish River

Double Liability for About Twenty-five Persons

A loss of somewhere in the neighbourhood of $125,000 is what the Accident Insurance Companies estimate the wreck at Spanish River bridge means to them.

They figure that about 25 of those who met death carried Accident Insurance, and the average insurance, according to the tables, is $5,000. In case of death in a railway disaster there is a double liability, making the figure $6,000, or $5,000 to be more conservative.

Their loss may total more than that, for the commercial travellers, a number of whom were killed, usually carry very heavy insurance. In addition, some of the companies make the policies payable on the death of the wife while travelling, though the policy is taken out in the husband's name. In such cases they pay the husband the same amount as they would have paid the wife were the husband killed.

We issue the BEST Accident and Sickness policy offered to the public.

Given Up To Die

No. 100 George St., Sorel, Quebec.
"I suffered from womb disease for seven years, with dreadful pains over the front of the body, over the back and down the legs. I had indigestion and chronic constipation and the constipation was so bad that I went sometimes for ten to fifteen days without any action of the bowels. I was ill in bed for one whole year. At one time I was so low that everyone thought I was going to die, and the last Rites of the Church were administered to me. I was treated by six different doctors without any benefit.

Then I got a sample of "Fruit-a-tives," but I had no faith in them at all, and I would not have taken them only my husband begged so hard for me to try them. As soon as I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" I grew better, the bloating was relieved, the sleeplessness was cured, my stomach acted, and the bowels were moved, but above all the fearful womb pains were made easier.

I have taken eighteen boxes in all and I am now perfectly well again."

GIRL REFUSED TO MARRY HIM

And Rejected Suitor Slashed Pretty Girl's Face

Miss Jannini, nineteen years old, of No. 69 Taaffe place, Brooklyn, is a sad little girl to-day, for doctors have told her that she may never be pretty again. Mary had been working for quite a while in a tailor shop at No. 143 Floyd street, Brooklyn. She was the prettiest girl in the shop and could have had many beaux, but she was a hard worker and had no time for sweethearts.

Not long ago, Frank De John, thirty years old, a man with snappy black eyes and bushy eyebrows, got a job in the shop. He immediately began making love to Mary, who did all she could to discourage him without offense.

Here is a kind nature, and she wanted to be on friendly terms with all her fellow workers. But De John would not take the hint. He seemed all the more determined.

Last night the force worked overtime. When they started home De John asked Mary if he might walk with her, and she consented.

"I've tried to get a chance to tell you something before," he said. "I love you and want to marry you."

"Don't talk foolishness," she replied. "I have no time to think of love. I have my family to help."

As they walked on De John became more ardent in his protestations of affection, and she threatened to leave him and go on by herself. They had reached Floyd street and Marcy avenue and halted to let a car go by.

"Won't you marry me?" finally asked De John again.

"No, I told you before I would not," she rejoined.

"Then nobody else will ever want you," he said savagely, as he pulled a keen knife from his pocket.

The girl screamed. With a vicious sweep of his arm he laid her left cheek open from brow to chin. She fell in a faint and he ran.

Policeman Wilkins picked her up and called Dr. A. Waldron, who lives two blocks away. He attended her and said the jealous suitor's attempt to permanently mar her beauty had probably been a success. The police have sent out a general alarm for De John.

FAMOUS BEAUTIES NEVER GET FAT

Womankind wonders why famous beauties grow old, but do not grow fat. They live at ease, amid the porcelain of the pots. The wine that puffs out obscure mortals, flows not illiberally down their alabaster throats. Yet their life-long loaf does not thicken their limbs nor double their chins. What is the secret of the long-lived gracefulness of the fair ten?

(One-half ounce Marmola, 3-4 oz. Fl. Ex. Cascara Aromatic, 4 3-4 oz. Peppermint Water. This is the famous Marmola Prescription, long familiar to the fashionable pharmacists of the world and their clientele, but which has only recently penetrated to the knowledge of the hoi polloi of womankind. Since when, for convenience sake, it has been put into elegant pocket form, the Marmola Prescription Tablet, which can now be had of well nigh any druggist, fashionable and ordinary, or the Marmola Co., 1103 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., in large cases for seventy-five cents.

CUPID ASSISTS

By Eleanor Piatt.

They were sitting—now I'm certain that you envy their position—
For he had both arms around her, quite against her admonition.
He was telling her he loved her, but she answered with a pout
"That's exactly what they all say, as I've long ago found out."

Nothing daunted, he continued to enumerate her praises,
And he sang them all the evening in the most endearing phrases.
Till she turned her head to listen, though she answered with a pout;
"That's exactly what they all say, as I've long ago found out."

He grew eloquent and pleaded with an ardor energetic.
He urged his suit in language both graceful and poetic
And then Cupid, as the scene shows, ready for a lark
Took his aim, and—need I tell it?—his arrow hit the mark!

Now young Cupid leaned upon his bow in pensive meditation.
He gazed upon the lovers rapt in silent adoration.
Then he shook his head and murmured to himself: "Without a doubt That's exactly what they all do, as I've long ago found out."

DIVORCE CASES AND NEWSPAPERS

(From the Toronto Mail.)

Movements are under way in Great Britain and the United States to restrain newspapers from publishing details of divorce cases. A royal commission is investigating the subject in the old country, and bills have been introduced in Congress with a view of remedying an evil whose existence is generally admitted. As far as Canada is concerned, absolute privacy surrounds the trying of divorce cases; and our newspapers are free from the taint that makes some of the greatest of London and American papers unfit for general reading when a noted divorce case is in progress.

PORNOGRAPHIC THUNDERER.

Probably the most notable offender is the London Times, which might well have adopted as its motto the remark of an American newspaper owner who said that anything the Lord didn't consider too bad to permit to happen he didn't think was too bad to print. The Times will gravely publish details of divorce cases which the most pornographic author would not dare to put in his obscene literature. The more prominent in society are the parties to the action, the more careful is the Times to omit no detail. This, of course, is newspaper instinct the world over. There is a certain section of the public, perhaps, a preponderating section, which revels with avidity in divorce proceedings. The business of a paper is to satisfy its readers. Therefore the business of the newspaper is to print all details of divorce cases.

TERROR TO THE GUILTY

This would be the excuse of the newspaper if asked to justify its course of action in sensational divorce cases. It is urged, too, that the severest punishment for the man or woman who proves faithless to marriage vows is the terrible publicity of the divorce courts. With the modern tendency to look upon marriage as a more or less casual relation, lightly assumed, and lightly thrown off, some such penalty is necessary. The fact that every shameful detail of an illicit attachment is likely to be reported in the newspapers with ghastly precision and discussed over a million breakfast tables serves as a deterrent; and if it does not prevent men and women from violating their mutual pledges it keeps them from the courts. The pornographic press, therefore, is credited "with saving many a home, and causing husbands and wives to forgive transgressions rather than stand upon their strict legal rights in a court.

DEMORALIZING THE PUBLIC

It is held by judges of such experience as Lord Chief Justice Alverstone and Lord Gorell Barnes, who presided so many years over the London Divorce Court, that these supposed salutary influences are not worth mentioning in comparison with the demoralizing tendency of sensational reports. As most of the cases that are widely reported concern titled persons or other members of the upper classes, the average newspaper readers are in danger of assuming that a disregard of decency is rather smart, and that to be respectable and straitlaced is to be dowdy and bourgeoise. Liaisons are too often discussed as "romances," and divorce records show that many a home has been broken up through the perverted idea that it is fashionable and "up-to-date" to pay attention to another man's wife, or to receive the improper attentions of some well dressed rake.

HEARD IN CAMERA.

Judges in England can stop the publication of divorce details if they desire to do so, but curiously enough the parties who are concerned suffer more through the suppression of facts than through their publication. When a judge decides to hear a case in camera, and seals the records, so that their contents can never become known, the public leaps to the conclusion that the facts are so foul and horrible as to be unprintable. Newspaper readers know how vile are some of the published cases. How atrocious, therefore, are those cases that are unfit for publication! A man or a woman may live down the odium of a divorce case whose details are known but no one can socially survive the disgrace of a trial in camera.

THE JUDGE'S OPINION.

That section of the public that does not take this view is very apt to suppose that the judge shows partiality in hearing some cases in private, and opening the others to the gaze of the world. Naturally the judges do not wish to be suspected of any favoritism, and most of them are extremely desirous that there shall be both in Great Britain and the United States laws forbidding the publication in any details of divorce cases, except the names of the parties, and the grounds of the judicial decision.

JEALOUS GIRL ANNOYED A NEW YORK MAN

Had "Ad" Printed Falsely Announcing Engagement—Banker-Father Wroth.

New York, Feb. 17.—John L. De Soulles, or "Jack" De Saulles, as he was better known in the days of his gridiron fame at Yale and before he became a cotillion leader in the "younger set," got back from Albany to-day to find that a jealous young society lad had involved him in a hornets' nest of the most excruciating sort.

During his absence from the city there appeared in a morning newspaper the announcement of his engagement to Eleanor G. Brown, daughter of Waldron T. Brown, the wealthy head of the banking firm of Brown Brothers. The Browns live at No. 32 East Thirty-fifth street, and move in the most exclusive circles of New York society.

When Waldron T. Brown read the announcement of his daughter's engagement, which was news of the newest to him, he achieved a Pauline ascension. He declared that the announcement savored bitterly of Munchausen. De Rougemont and Cook. There wasn't a scintilla of truth in it. He would look up "Jack" De Soulles in the Racquet University or some of his other clubs and give the young man a dressing down.

"NOT GUILTY," ANSWERS "JACK"

The banker did get on touch with De Saulles and considerable conversation ensued. The one-time Yale quarter-back and second baseman showed the storm to break over him for a few minutes and then deported with dignity that he was no more guilty of announcing the engagement of himself and Miss Brown than her father was. If such an announcement had been sent in in his name it had been a forgery. He was as greatly aggrieved over the spurious publication as Mr. Brown, for he admired Miss Brown and would not injure her feelings for a million or two.

Banker Brown calmed down and apologized for losing his temper, for "Jack" De Saulles promised to employ private detectives and learn who it was that sent in the engagement announcement to the newspaper.

The young man learned to-day that a young society girl, whose name will probably never be revealed, wrote the announcement of the engagement in the Waldorf-Astoria and despatched it by messenger to the newspaper in which it appeared. She did this, it is alleged, because she was jealous of Miss Brown and wanted to destroy for all time any possibility of "Jack" De Soulles becoming engaged to her. In other words, this jealous young lady adores young Mr. De Saulles.

Reports of the increasing friendship of Eleanor Brown and "Jack" De Soulles have been circulating in the "younger set" for almost two years, ever since they acted as bridesmaid and best man, respectively, at the wedding of Miss Brown's sister to H. R. Talbot, a former partner of De Soulles in the real estate business.

"NO LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT," BOTH SAY.

De Soulles and Eleanor Brown met for the first time at this wedding, and the gossips of their set would have it afterwards that they had fallen in love at first sight. Such was not the case, however. There may have been mutual admiration, but both declare that there was not love at first sight.

Matchmakers in the "Younger Set" would have it their own way, though, and for months past have pestered young De Soulles with anonymous letters, urging him to hurry up with his suit. Several writers warned him of rivals, and filled their missives with all sorts of gossip and nonsense, all of which was very distressing to both De Soulles and Miss Brown. And now, to cap the climax, a jealous debutante has schemed to break off the friendship out of which other busybodies were trying to weave a romance.

GRATEFUL TO MR. EDWARDS

The Dorcas Society is deeply grateful to Mr. Edwards, proprietor of the "Crystal" for the proceeds of Wednesday afternoon's entertainment a substantial sum which will greatly aid them in their work of assisting the poor. A splendid set of pictures were given, which were greatly enjoyed by all who were present. Mr. Edwards is always to be congratulated on the high tone of the entertainment which he puts before the public. One is always confident when they visit the "Crystal" that the pictures will be free from suggestiveness, but amusing, and often instructive.

CROWD ATTACKS CHAUFFEUR WHO RAN DOWN CHILD

Flight Stopped by Pursuers Who Make Work for Ambulance Surgeon

New York, Feb. 18.—Jacob Meixner, eighteen years old, a chauffeur, was beaten and cut by a crowd that chased and captured him after he had run over Fanny Van Kopsky, six years old, this afternoon at Glenmore avenue and Osborne street, East New York.

The child, who lives at No. 68 Thatford avenue, was returning to Public School No. [illegible] and was crossing the street when the automobile driven by Meixner came along. After he ran over the little girl, Meixner tried to escape, but a crowd quickly gathered and prevented him from driving away. Then he jumped out and tried to run, but he was chased and mauled by several men. He was arrested by Patrolman James Monahan. His face was so badly cut that he was attended by Dr. Delany of St. Mary's Hospital.

The little girl was taken to the hospital. Her head is bruised and cut and several ribs are broken.

FAKE MARSHALLS' CRUEL WORK

Warrants Issued for Arrest of Nine Impostors in New York

New York, Feb. 19.—Warrants were issued to-day by Magistrate Krotel for the arrest of nine men who have been posing as city marshals and have been executing evictions for landlords in the Bronx and in Harlem without the slightest legal authority. Five of them were brought into court at 2 o'clock to-day.

District-Attorney Whitman heard much of these fellows when he was on the bench. Ever since he has been District-Attorney he has been trying to get hold of them. He assigned Mr. De Vivier, one of Jerome's hold-over assistants, to make an example of some of them.

Magistrate Krotel issued the warrants when Mr. De Vivier presented the information. They called for the arrest of Frank Donnelly, of No. 912 Brooke avenue; T. H. McLaughlin, of No. 87 Brooke avenue, Frederick C. Langley, of No. 70 Manhattan street; George Harkell, of No. 152 East One Hundred and Twenty-first street, and David Flum, of No. 2 Sylvan place, and four others. The five named were arrested and arraigned in the Tombs Court. All but Harkell gave $250 bail for examination. He could not furnish it. District-Attorney Whitman appeared in person to conduct the prosecution.

Mr. Whitman said that the wrongs committed on very poor people who could not pay their rent by these fake marshals was outrageously cruel. He said that the custom of these men was to take fees from landlords who were anxious to coerce other tenants by using rough methods towards those who were behind in their rent, and that these fake marshals did things that regular city marshals would never dare to do.

Later in the afternoon the four others were arrested. They are James W. Slater, of No. 239 West Twenty-first street; Charles J. Mosher, No. 45 East One Hundred and Sixty-first street; David Golden, No. 606 Teasdale place, the Bronx, and John S. Lee, No. 157 East Fifty-seventh street.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

Bread lemon peel sprinkled on coals will destroy any disagreeable odor in the house.

Hot biscuits generously buttered, and spread with currant jelly, are delicious served with game.

Wafer-like slices of bread, spread with caviare, sprinkled with lemon juice and salt, make tasty sandwiches.

A better iron rest than the ordinary metal stand is a firebrick, as it does not cool the iron so rapidly.

Glasses washed in skimmed milk should not be rinsed in water, but should be ironed while damp with the milk.

Combs will soon warp and break if washed with water. They should be cleaned with a good, stiff, dry toothbrush or nailbrush.

Use paraffin paper which lines biscuit boxes to polish flatirons. It is also a good lining for the cake tins.

Clean copper by rubbing it with lemon dipped in salt. Rinse in clear hot water and polish with a soft cloth.

Hanging the oven door is responsible for half the heavy bread and cake. The door should be closed very gently.

Shredded chocolate cocoanut, which is bought already prepared, makes a tasty addition to different kinds of salad.

For spring suppers sliced oranges and shredded cocoanut, put into a dish in alternate layers, is very appetizing.

A delicious jelly is made of gelatine, flavored with grape juice and served with blanched nuts and whipped cream.

A simple water icing for cakes is made by taking two cupfuls of confectioners' sugar and adding enough water to make a thick paste. Then sprinkle in a pinch of cream of tartar. Beat well, and if not stiff enough, add a little more sugar. Flavor with any extract.

The cleansing of saucepans is very imperfectly understood in many houses. Each time a saucepan is used it should be put over a fire, filled with clear, cold water to which has been added a little soda. Heat this, pour it off, and scour the pan with soap and sand.

Many Women Suffer Untold Tortures in Silence

A woman needs a blood-building medicine regularly just because she is a woman. From maturity to middle life the health and happiness of every woman depends upon her blood, its richness and its regularity. If her blood supply is irregular she suffers from headaches, backaches, sideaches, and other unspeakable distress which only women know. Some women have grown to expect this suffering at regular intervals and to bear it in hopeless silence. But women would escape much of this misery if they took a box or two of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to help them over each critical period. These pills actually make new blood. They help a woman just when nature makes the greatest demand upon her blood supply. They have done this for thousands of women throughout Canada—why not for you?

Mrs. Joseph Kinney, Gilbert's Cove, N.S., says:—"For ten years I suffered from nervousness and those troubles that make the lives of so many women one of almost constant misery. At times I would be confined to my bed for weeks. I spent sleepless nights and seemed to lose all courage. I tried several doctors, but they failed to give me any relief. The last doctor I consulted told me frankly that he could not undertake my case unless I would undergo an examination. It was then I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. After taking six boxes I was much improved in health, but I continued to take the Pills for a couple of months more, when I felt like a new woman, and was enjoying such health as I had not experienced for ten years before. I have had no return of this trouble since, but I have used the Pills once since that time for the after effects of la grippe, and the result was all I hoped for. There are plain facts from my own experience, and I have always felt that I cannot too strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to the many women who suffer as I did."

You can get this great blood-building, health restoring medicine from any dealer in medicines or direct by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of the uterus, and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully until I began taking your medicine. It has also helped other women to whom I have recommended it."—Mrs. Henry Clark, Glanford Station, Ontario.

Another woman says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best remedy in the world for women.

Fox Creek, N. B.—"I have always had pains in the loins and a weakness there, and often after my meals my food would distress me and cause soreness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me much good. I am stronger, digestion is better, and I can walk with ambition. I have encouraged many mothers of families to take it, as it is the best remedy in the world for women. You can publish this in the papers."—Mrs. William Bourque, Fox Creek, N. B., Canada.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

HAD A ROW WITH PUPIL

Ben Simpson and a Student Had a Mix-Up in School-Room

Hamilton, Feb. 18.—A fight between a school teacher and a pupil at the Collegiate Institute may result in the teacher and the pupil fighting out the case in the court. At least, that is what the pupil threatened yesterday.

The row started when Ben Simpson, the well known footballer, and a graduate of Queen's, was giving a lesson in algebra. He asked one of the pupils named Houlding, who is somewhat of an orator to answer the question. The pupil said he did not know the answer whereupon the teacher is alleged to have told him that he was one of those boys with the swelled head. The pupil being insulted and angered at the teacher's remarks, demanded an apology, which was not forthcoming. He called the teacher a few uncomplimentary names and finally the two finished by clinching. The pupil left the class, vowing to show the teacher up, and it is likely that the case will be aired in the police court.

EXPERT GRANGER ON GOOD ROADS

Mr. F. N. Godfrey Will Describe What is Being Done in New York

One of the first to accept among the speakers invited to be present at the convention of the Good Roads Association of Ontario in Toronto on March 2nd, 3rd and 4th is Mr. F. N. Godfrey, master of the New York State Grange. There is probably no man in America more capable of dealing with this subject, particularly from the standpoint of its importance to the farmer. He is well known as one of the good roads leaders and has been identified closely with the most comprehensive scheme adopted and carried out successfully in the United States involving an expenditure on the part of New York of over $50,000,000. Mr. Godfrey has been a prominent speaker at the Good Roads Conventions in Buffalo, Seattle and other centres, and his advice is highly valued. He is only one of a number of such speakers who have agreed to address the Good Roads convention.

NO RABIES IN PETERBOROUGH

And No Cases of Children Being Bitten According to Local Doctors

There has been considerable rumor to the effect that some local dogs were affected with rabies, and this morning it was reported that a mad dog had bitten a little girl. The Review rang up several local physicians and asked them if any such case had come under their notice, and they all replied in the negative.

"There are bound to be rumors like that started," said one of them, "especially when cases of rabies have been reported in other towns. The enemies of dogs take advantage of every opportunity to spread untrue and alarming reports."

LISTEN TO THE BELLS

The Finest Collection Owned by an Englishwoman.

OF INTEREST TO HOUSEWIVES

Many Lands and Ages Represented in It—Curious Specimens of the Middle Ages—Bells For Shoes Among Them. Ancient and Modern Devices.

An Englishwoman has the finest known collection of hand bells. She has specimens of foreign bells from all over the world, as well as antique British bells.

The bells range in size from an old English pack horse bell, which weighs five pounds, to the tiny bells worn on shoes centuries ago. There is an ecclesiastical bell of very early date with a fleur-de-lis pattern on it.

Other specimens are an apostle bell, which bears the faces and emblems of the evangelists, and two china bells of the Georgian period, one formed of a droll figure in a fool's cap with hunting scenes on the skirt of his gown, the other a spectacled man in tall cap with a very long forefinger touching his chin.

An Elizabethan bell shows a female figure in a Medici collar and a wonderfully fitted bodice with a basque. The bell portion, which forms the skirt, is engraved in a conventional pattern.

There are models far more interesting than the English bells in this collection, which will doubtless some day be placed in an English museum. There are bells from Rome which were found in the Forum. One is of silver, worked in fish scale pattern, and is over a thousand years old; another is also of silver and has on it a representation of Romulus and Remus and the wolf.

There is a bell from a temple near Lassa. It is of copper inlaid with gold and is of great antiquity. A bell from India is of silver latticework and is said to be the only one of its kind in existence. It was found in Benin.

There is a Siamese bell in the form of a dancing girl enameled in green and gold which was one of those used for water during the French invasion. There is a Medici bell with the crown and balls of the pawnbroker, and there are bells from the tombs of Egyptian kings and from the boudoirs of famous Frenchwomen. There are hundreds and hundreds of bells in this collection gathered by one woman and shown on rare occasions to lovers of the antique, unique and beautiful.

Nursery Tray For Baby.

When the baby first joins the family party at the nursery table he is usually no great stickler for good manners. His pride as sole possessor of a spoon for the first time in his life causes him to brandish it far and wide regardless of the fact that it may not be empty. He also has a way of hammering on the table with it. His control of his cup and saucer, moreover, is purely elementary, and over both go, time after time, to nurse's dire distress and the general detriment of the clean damask cloth. Every one concerned will welcome under these circumstances a special tray, which, clipped upon the table in front of baby, will minimize the sad results of energy and lack of control over his cup and spoon. The tray has actually a ridge and a trough at the edge, is prettily colored and is also pictorially patterned in a way that will gratify baby's sense of the artistic, if not mother's.

GROCERS GEORGE STREET

IN DEFENCE OF STENOGRAPHERS

The following letter, which apparently applies to conditions in Toronto, has been received by the Review:

To the Editor of the Review: Is it not time the Toronto Morality Department was wakened from its anaesthesia and its attention drawn to certain disgusting advertisements that are at present being given great publicity pushing the sale of a brand of chewing gum?

The Billiken—a thing with no especial significance—was ruled out, and yet the street cars, etc., now carry unmolested an advertisement, the vulgar suggestiveness of which is unmistakable. It shows a stenographer and employer, a man beside whom the Billiken was clean and innocent. It casts a slur on a class of girls who are entitled to as much respect and consideration and any other women wage-earners, and surely no manufacturers are justified in advertising their goods by means that lower the dignity of women, professional or otherwise.

Have these signs been overlooked or are they being winked at? M.E.B.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A careful laundress uses a wooden spoon in preparing starch, and never makes starch in a tin utensil. These precautions taken, there is no danger of the starch imparting rust spots to the clothes.

Curtains, ottomans and sofas covered with worsteds can be cleaned with wheat bran, rubbed on with flannel. It is surprising how fresh and bright this process of cleaning will render such articles if done in the proper manner.

Some cooks always add a little potato to the mashed turnips, while others dredge in a little flour before seasoning. When the turnips are large they will have a more delicate flavor if the water is changed at least once during boiling.

Sometimes it is quite impossible to make old glassware bright and clear. If strong ammonia is poured over it and it is then scrubbed well with a brush and rinsed in warm water it will, when dried, look quite as bright as one could wish.

BRITISH PREMIER MAKES PLANS TO KEEP IN POWER

Vacancies in the Cabinet are Filled and This Seems to Indicate That Liberals Think They Can Weather the Crisis—Unreasonable Demand From the Laborites or Nationalists Will Split it All.

London, Feb. 21.—Premier Asquith has filled the vacancies in the Ministry, which is an indication that he at least expects the Government to pass safely through the crisis. The new Ministers are:

William Wedgewood Benn and Ernest Joseph Soares, junior lords of the treasury; Edwin Samuel Montague, Under Secretary for India, and Cecil William Norton, assistant Postmaster-General. Mr. Norton succeeds Sir Henry Norman, who failed of election.

This completes the Ministry. In the case of the junior lords bye-elections will be necessary, though they had good majorities last month, and there is little danger of their losing their seats.

The King's speech, it is believed, beyond the usual references to foreign affairs, will be confined to the questions of finance and the relations between the two houses.

Parliament will be formally opened this afternoon by the King, who will be accompanied by the Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales and Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia. The formalities will take up an hour, and as Premier Asquith is expected to speak early in the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, the members will not have long to wait for the Government's announcements of its intentions.

A general election cannot be avoided if the Nationalist and Labor parties make unreasonable demands and refuse to co-operate in legalizing the tax levies and working out of the salvation of the Commons in an ordinary way. It can be averted if the independent factions allow the Government to perform its primary functions of raising money through the budget, which was submitted to the general electorate and apparently sanctioned, and then unite in carrying the veto bill with the full force of the coalition majority.

Whatever may be the immediate or ultimate effect of the Government's policy, it is safe to forecast that the sovereign will not be subjected to dictation nor dragged into partisan warfare, and that Mr. Asquith will stand or fall as a self-respecting Prime Minister. He lacks a majority independent and powerful enough to justify a demand for guarantees if he ever intended to make it, yet he will not be bullied by factions nor diverted from a rational course of action which makes finance the most urgent issue and leads up to legislation on the veto power, with a dissolution in due time.

As a normal consequence the faction leaders and Mr. Balfour must face the situation if financial chaos is produced by the premature downfall of the only Government capable of restoring authority for the taxes.

A Cabinet Council was held Saturday for sanctioning the King's speech. Herbert Gladstone has resigned the post of the Home Office, and his successor and other Ministers have kissed hands on their new appointments.

There have been official dinners at the Prime Minister's and Lord Beauchamp's, and opposition feasts at Mr. Balfour's and Lord Lansdowne's. Lord Londonderry's dinners have been followed by Mrs. Ivor Guest's party for the Liberals at Winborne House, where the courtyard has been roofed over for the reception of 2,000 guests. Unionists and smart people of all parties have been welcomed at Lansdowne House, with its long series of spacious reception rooms.

These are the social preliminaries to an exciting and possibly a momentous week in British politics, during which history may be made hand over hand.

MURDER CHARGE HANGS OVER HIM

Margaret McPherson, Victim of Attack by Robert Henderson, Died at Norwood Yesterday—Blows From Axe Had Injured the Brain.

Special to the Review.

Norwood, Feb. 20.—Margaret McPherson, the elder of the two sisters who were so brutally assaulted by Robert Henderson at their home, two miles east of this village, at noon on Friday, January 28th, died this morning at 11 o'clock.

Miss McPherson had been confined to her bed ever since the day of the assault, and was under the care of two local physicians. For a time the doctors were hopeful that she might recover, but the crucial time had not been passed, and as this time drew nearer the patient began to show signs of more serious trouble, and it soon became evident that it was only a question of physical endurance—the symptoms indicating clearly that the blows from the axe had injured the brain.

Henderson, the perpetrator of the assault, who was taken into custody the same day near Havelock, will now have to face a charge of murder. He has been confined in the county jail at Peterborough, and has been remanded from week to week, awaiting the outcome of Miss McPherson's injuries. His confinement in jail does not appear to have impressed the prisoner at all with the seriousness of his crime.

For 39 years had the Macpherson sisters lived a quiet and uneventful life in their home, some two miles from Norwood Town, and they enjoyed the good will of the entire community. A third sister, Mrs. Robert Graham, lives nearby, and there are other relatives in the county.

The assault was exceptionally brutal, inasmuch as Henderson declared after his arrest that he had not intended to murder. During the morning he had called at the house and asked for something to eat, saying that he was looking for a brother in the neighborhood. The kindly-natured old ladies obliged him. When he had finished, he asked if they had any wood he could cut and when told no, he insisted on leaving ten cents in payment for the food.

A short time later they saw him running past the house, and a moment later he opened the door, axe in hand. He struck the elder sister squarely over the head with the weapon; the other partly warded off with her arm the blow aimed at her. She screamed and Henderson, frightened, left the house.

Miss Susan ran to the home of her sister, Mrs. Graham, and gave the alarm. Doctors were sent for, while a posse was hastily gathered to chase the assailant. Henderon was overtaken on the railway track by some sectionmen on a handcar, but he held them off with a revolver. They then sent for Police Chief Bennett of Havelock, to whom Henderson quietly surrendered.

Henderson is English, 20 years old, and is wanted in Toronto for theft. According to his own story, he came to Canada in May last year to look for work as a steamfitter. He worked as a farmhand for a while.

In Toronto, he roomed at 56 DeGrassi street, while employed at the gas works, but he lost his job. When he left the house, $15.40 belonging to a roommate also disappeared. He was known to own a revolver.

In Peterboro, he had been swindling the charitable-minded by circulating a bogus subscription list with a clergyman's name forged, soliciting funds to place two poor women in a Muskoka sanitarium. The list was found on him when arrested and indicated receipts of $140.

Henderson is good-looking, with light hair and blue eyes, and is well dressed. He has shown little concern since his arrest.

Special to the Review.

CORONER'S JURY VIEWED BODY.

Norwood, Feb. 21.—The coroner's jury empannelled by Dr. Kindred, of Havelock, viewed the body of the late Margaret McPherson at the McPherson home, two and a half miles from Norwood, at two o'clock this afternoon.

PHILADELPHIA IS IN THE THROES OF STREET CAR STRIKE

Attempt of Rapid Transit Co. to Operate its Service Results in Rioting all Through the City — Five Hundred Persons are Arrested.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 21.—Rioting in every section of this city followed the attempt of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. to operate its lines here yesterday, following an unexpected strike of employes Saturday. Passengers and crews were driven from the cars by infuriated mobs of strike sympathizers, and in nearly a score of instances, the abandoned cars were burned or otherwise destroyed. At nightfall every car was withdrawn from service.

Stern measures were adopted by the police to quell the disorders and nearly 500 persons were arrested, charged with inciting to riot. Two women were shot by stray bullets, and many people were removed to hospitals.

Mayor Reyburn last night ordered police director Clay to swear in 3,000 additional police and issued a proclamation putting in effect the riot act.

The executive committee of the central labor union at a meeting yesterday afternoon, pledged both moral and financial support to the striking car men. They also decided to call a sympathetic strike of every union men in the city in case the authorities put in effect their threat to operate the cars with police and firemen.

During the morning hours, cars were run on every line with little difficulty except in the mill district of Kensington, where cars were stoned by disorderly mobs. At 11 o'clock the transit company officials announced that cars were running on their regular Sunday schedule. Shortly afterwards riots were reported from scores of widely-separated localities.

At 20th and Wharton streets, in the southern section of the city a mob of boys drove the conductor and motorman from their posts and after the four women passengers had left the car, set it on fire with waste from a nearby freight car. The following car was also stopped and was being set on fire when a detachment of police and a chemical engine reached the scene.

In this same section, Mary Devlin, aged 16 years, was shot in the leg when the police fired their revolvers in an effort to check the mob.

In the usually quiet residential section of West Philadelphia mobs were formed which for a time baffled the police. Iron bars and stones were piled on the tracks and several cars were wrecked. Mounted police were powerless to disperse the mobs here, and a fire hose was finally brought into play.

Yesterday's rioting was a continuation of disorders that occurred Saturday afternoon and evening during which two cars were burned, a score of cars were attacked, forcing their crews to abandon them, and numerous arrests were made.

GERMAN COMMENT ON TARIFF

Berlin, Germany, Feb. 21.—(C.A.P. Cable)—The Kreutz Zeitung and other leading newspapers contend that the German-Canadian commercial treaty must be of such a nature that Germany is placed on an equal footing with France. They assert in conclusion that such a treaty will give more advantages to Canada than to Germany.

The Kreus Zeitung declares that the concessions now granted to Canada will not deleteriously affect the German agricultural interests, for "It is immaterial where our requirements of foreign corn and other products are covered from the United States, Argentine or Canada.

It is stated the Germans hope soon to manufacture agricultural machinery, which is the main item of Canada's export to Germany. Factories are being built.

ATTEMPT ON LIFE OF EGYPTIAN PREMIER

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 21.—Boutros Pacha G-Heli, the Egyptian Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, was shot and seriously wounded yesterday by a student, who was arrested.

The student fired five shots, three of the bullets lodging in the Premier's body. Two of them, however, inflicted only superficial wounds. The bullets were extracted, and it is practically certain that the Premier will recover.

The crime was entirely of a political nature, the would-be assassin being a Nationalist. He declared that his motive was to avenge various acts of the Government, which the Nationalists attribute personally to Bouthos Pacha.

WANT TO HAVE MAINE RAISED

New York, Feb. 21.—In its course, the Maine memorial service of the United Spanish war veterans, held yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall, turned into a demonstration to influence Congress to raise the battleship Maine.

A rising vote of an audience which filled the hall, adopted a resolution condemning the spectacle of a rusted hulk of the ship and the rotting bones of its victims, "abandoned without sepulchre in alien waters," and urging that Congress enact legislation for "the immediate removal of the wreck to our own shores and the recovery of the remains of the unclaimed victims for interment in the national cemetery at Arlington."

AUSTRALIA'S MODEL ARMY

Melbourne, Australia, Feb. 21—Lord Kitchener's recommendations to the Minister call for practically the same expenditure as the defence bill, $8,500,000. He suggests a land force of 80,000, half garrison and half mobile, comprising 84 batallions of infantry, 28 regiments of light horse, 56 batteries of artillery, 14 companies of engineers, etc. He advises a minimum camp training of six days annually.

COFFIN OF LADY LEWIS WAS BROKEN OPEN

London, Feb. 21.—Saturday morning the mausoleum at Merthyr-Tydfil belonging to Sir William Lewis, the great Welsh coal owner, was forced and the coffin of the late Lady Lewis was broken open. The body was not disturbed.

It is believed that the perpetrator of the outrage was after the diamond rings that were buried with Lady Lewis, and that he became unnerved and fled.

BREAD TRUST IN NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 21.—The "bread trust is here!" By the organization of a $6,000,000 corporation the promoters hope to be able to corner the bread supply and boost the price of the staff of life. The formation of the new trust, which will be known as the Shultz Bread Co., was completed Saturday. It includes eleven of the largest bakeries in the city and its vicinity, using 11,400 barrels of flour a week.

ONE KILLED IN THEATRE FIRE

Johnstown, Pa., Feb. 21.—Five hundred persons attending a small theatre at Patton, near here, Saturday night, were precipitated into the basement of the building when the floor collapsed, during a fire, and one person was killed.

Men, women and children were struggling in the debris, and to add to the panic the firemen were forced to turn streams of water into the basement, where the crowd were struggling to escape the flames.

NO SCHOOLS FOR ORIENTALS

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 21.—The British Columbia Government has refused Socialist and Opposition Leader Hawthornthwaite's proposal to amend the school act by making provision of separate schools for Orientals obligatory.

The refusal is based on the contention that such discriminatory legislation would be disallowed at Ottawa, and that dictation to school boards in local matters is contrary to the policy of the Government.

SHOT BROTHER WHO INTERFERED

New York, Feb. 21.—John C. Gargan, a bookkeeper, aged 26, shot dead his brother Harry, a lawyer, 25, and his father-in-law, Martin W. Hynes, following an altercation with the latter in a Brooklyn saloon Saturday night.

Harry had stepped in between the two men in an effort to prevent his brother from shooting, and the latter deliberately shot him first. Gargan tried to turn the revolver on himself after the shooting, but was prevented

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

A Belgium firm is issuing playing card with a black border for use during the six months public mourning for King Leopold.

Two suicides took place in Winnipeg yesterday. A Galician named Hungasack hanged himself, and a Frenchman named Ledoux shot himself.

A few Americans took a very active part as scouts in the battle between the insurgents and the Madriz forces at St. Vincente, Nicaragua and at least one of them was badly wounded.

After seven unsuccessful attempts, Bert Swan broke the world's record for remaining under water at St. Joseph, Mo., Saturday, by lying at the bottom of a large tank of water for three minutes and six seconds.

A sudden landslide derailed and wrecked a mail train Saturday near Whitehead, Ireland. Many persons were injured. For upward of an hour the train hung over the sea a few inches from the water's edge.

J. B. Sargent, son of Archdeacon Sargent of Qu'Appelle, hanged himself Saturday night at New Westminster, B.C., with a necktie. He served with the Canadian contingent in South Africa, first as a private and later as a lieutenant.

While Mrs. George Nydes of Pittsburg, Pa., was at the theatre Saturday afternoon, her home caught fire and an eight-months-old baby was burned to death. Another infant, 20-months-old, was so badly burned that it is dying.

PIRATES AT WORK IN THE CHINA SEAS

A few days before the Teucer arrived a trading junk was pirated close to Hong Kong. The vessel was met by a junk which signaled the trader to lower her sails, and a shot was fired from a small gun. The junk men crowded on sail and took to their sweeps, but the pirate, after a short chase overhauled the trader, grappled her, and the pirates boarded and tied up the junk crew while they looted the vessel. The total booty netted them $500. They then cut the ropes of the junk and took away the pole of the rudder and turned the junk loose.

From Shasi the steamer brought news of a heavy loss of life, due to famine caused by great floods. The refugees flocked to Shasi in hundreds and were herded into concentrated camps, where the officials fed them on milk. The people were dying at the rate of 35 to 50 a day.

The refugees were increasing, and will have to be fed until next season's crops are assured.

TRIUMPH OF A CANADIAN GIRL

Winnipeg Woman's Voice Creates a Sensation in Paris.

Paris, Feb. 21.—Dorothea Toye, a young girl from Winnipeg, Man., aroused great attention Friday night at a reception given by Ambassador Bacon at the embassy.

Miss Toye has two voices, one a three-octave soprano, the other a tenor of great power and sweetness. She came to Paris to consult Prof. Frank Dossert, director of the National Conservatory of Music, regarding the advisability of an operatic career. When he heard her soprano voice, he said she was unquestionably fitted for grand opera. A moment later he was stunned to hear her sing a "Pagliacci" song. Her tenor recalled Caruso's voice in intonation, phrasing and exact rendering.

Musicians say such a phenomenon is unprecedented in musical history. She can actually sing a soprano and tenor duet with herself. Ambassador Bacon said: "It is the most remarkable performance ever heard."

It is needless to say that all Paris is talking of her. Personally Miss Toye is a slight girl of singularly bright and winning manners. She is one of eight sisters, all musicians. Physicians as well as musicians are greatly interested in her accomplishments. She has been invited to go to London to sing before the medical congress.

PRINCESS CHIMAY IN PARIS AGAIN

Paris, France, Feb. 21.—Clara Ward, formerly Princess of Chimay, who eloped a dozen years ago with Janosi Rigo, a gypsy violinist, is now living here with a new husband, a cousin of Rigo. They have a modest flat in an unfashionable quarter and keep wholly to themselves.

No one who knew her in her brilliant years would now recognize her. She has grown enormously stout and passes most of the time in bed. Ill-health is the plea for the life she leads, and she prescribes her own remedies.

She has not tried to renew relations with any of her friends of the old days and rarely goes out. Apparently nothing interests her. She has become indifferent even to amusements.

When quarters were to be found here she was too listless to search for them herself or even to decide upon those chosen by her husband. She let him hire the place and carry her to it, and there she has remained, steadily gaining weight and coddling herself as an invalid.

She still receives a small income from her family estate. It seems to be enough to supply her few wants. She rarely refers to the past and seems to be disturbed by no regrets.

The future concerns her as little. Her only thoughts are for quiet, freedom from annoyance and gratification of daily wants, which are inexpensive except for narcotics. She insists on a constant supply of strong drugs to induce sleep and lies much of the time under their influence.

NAVAL SENTIMENT OF QUEBEC PROVINCE

Montreal, Feb. 21.—Montreal La Presse, which is conducting a canvass of its readers on the naval question by soliciting an expression of their choice of four propositions submitted, had, up to Saturday, a small majority in favor of the Government's proposals, as against continuing the present arrangement.

The questions and the vote thereon are: For the proposed new navy, 2,473; for contribution to British navy, 33; to continue as at present, 2,205; for Quebec to remain aloof, 102.

The last-named proposition was based on the supposition that all the other provinces having shown a passionate sentiment in favor of a local navy or of a direct contribution, should Quebec refuse to lend assistance to Great Britain in the hour of danger?

WAS SHOT BY A FORMER SERVANT

Winnipeg, Feb. 21.—Fred Carroll, son of A. H. Carroll, member of the local Legislature for South Brandon, was shot and seriously wounded Saturday night by Lottie McCulloch, who up to a few months ago had been a domestic in his father's house.

About one month ago young Carroll was married and had taken up his residence in the village of Carroll, Man., where his father also resides. Saturday night about 8 o'clock Miss McCulloch called at Carroll's house. When he appeared the girl drew a revolver and without warning fired, the bullet taking effect in Carroll's stomach. She gave herself up to the police. Jealousy is said to be the cause.

ITALIAN WOMEN ARE AFTER VOTES

Rome, Italy, Feb. 21.—Deputy Gallini has presented to Parliament a project for a law sanctioning female suffrage in provincial and municipal elections, allowing women to exercise the liberal professions and to compete for public employments, and abolishing the husbands' authorization. Signor Gallini advocated the reform, which he said was justified by equity, and he hoped the project would be taken into consideration.

Suffragettes who crowded the galleries warmly applauded Signor Gallini's speech, and also Prime Minister Sonnino's reply, in which he said that the recent intellectual economic and social improvement in women justified a corresponding improvement in legislation. Hence he was willing to examine the project.

CONSULS OFFERS TO MAKE PEACE

Managua, Feb. 21.—The consular body resident here yesterday voted to offer its good offices as peace mediator between the Government and the insurgents under Gen. Estrada.

A committee composed of the British, Italian and Spanish consuls was appointed and later visited President Madriz, who was found to be in sympathy with the object of the consuls but unwilling to state the terms upon which he would make peace with the insurgents.

Esquimaux For South Pole.

Biddeford, Me., Feb. 21.—Esquimo drivers, with their wives, children and dog teams, are to accompany the American South Polar expedition, according to Prof. Donald B. McMillan, who was one of Commander Peary's chief assistants in the Arctic. In a lecture here Prof. McMillan said that during the coming summer he and Captain Robert Bartlett will go to Etah to secure Esquimos and dogs for the South Pole dash.

BLACK HANDERS SENT TO PRISON

New York, Feb. 21. — Lupo, chief of black hand in America; Guiseppe Morello, chief of the Sicilian counterfeiters in this country, and six of their confederates, were found guilty and sentenced to hard labor in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., for terms varying from fifteen years and $1,000 fine to thirty years and $1,000 fine.

Lupo, who is under sentence of thirty years for murder in Italy, where he was tried while a fugitive from justice, wept copiously during his counsel's plea for mercy and had to be supported when leaving the room after sentence. Another collapsed in the arms of two marshals, sobbing "Not just, not just," and a third fainted and went into convulsions. All the others sobbed bitterly.

The judge in pronouncing sentence was careful to explain that he cherished no hatred of Italians, but on the contrary, from his dealings with them, had been led to trust them as quickly and as sincerely as he would his own family. Nevertheless, he said, the evils of Italian criminality in this country must be stamped out.

HAS FOUND THAT THE LAW IS RELENTLESS

New York, Feb. 21.—The cry of a fainting woman on the American line pier Saturday when the steamship St. Louis sailed for Europe, revealed a story of the perfidy of a false friend and the futile efforts of an alien to live down a single offence against the British laws. Aboard the St. Louis was Felix Bihl, deported because he had served four months for stealing an automobile in London. Bihl left England to begin life anew and was married recently in Germany. The couple came here last fall and their good appearance caused the immigration inspectors to pass them.

The couple were prospering when, early in January, a friend secretly informed the federal officers that Bihl had served time. Bihl admitted the offence and said all he wanted was a fair chance to earn a living and become a respectable citizen. The verdict of the board of enquiry was that Bihl must go back.

Mrs. Bihl will follow her husband to England.

MEAT PACKERS WERE INDICTED

New York, Feb. 21.—All except one of the directors of the National Packing Co. of Chicago, known as the beef trust, were indicted as individuals by the grand jury of Hudson County in Jersey City on the charge of conspiring to raise the prices of food. Those against whom true bills have been found are: J. Ogden Armour, A. W. Armour, L. F. Swift, E. F. Swift, C. H. Swift, Edward Morris, A. Meeker, Edward C. Tilden, Samuel L. McRoberts, T. J. Connors, L. A. Carton, T. G. Wilson, L. H. Heyman, F. A. Fowler.

The indictments were under the common law, and the proceedings against the giant corporation were undertaken under the statutes of the commonwealth, which always has been considered the shelter and the home of the trust.

Italo-Canadian Tariff.

Rome, Feb. 21.—It is stated that in the event of the failure of the negotiations between Italy and Canada in the matter of granting the most favored nation clause treatment to Italian silks, reprisals are likely to follow and the maximum tariff will be adopted here on all Canadian products.

HORSES AND GAMBLING

According to some witnesses who have given evidence before the Parliamentary committee at Ottawa, racing is necessary to maintain the standard of horses, and betting is necessary to maintain the races, so they oppose the bill intended to prohibit bookmaking. To others this argument, if well founded, presents the question of whether horses or man should be allowed to deteriorate. Professional gambling, at least, such as bookmaking, whether done at the race track or by handbooks in cigar stores, a butcher shop or other business place on the street, is a form of gambling / that has a bad influence on those who engage in it. The law was amended with the intention of putting an end to bookmaking at race meets, but like many other enactments, when brought to the test in the courts, did not accomplish all that was intended, and by moving about, instead of occupying a "place," the bookmakers escaped the penalties, while those who used handbooks on the streets were not affected by the law. What is now attempted is to amend the law so that bookmaking will be prohibited, and the legislators have to decide whether the gambling is an evil, and if it is an evil, whether it may be continued so that good may come to the horses.

THE SENATE

There was a time when Liberals cried out for Senate reform, but that was when they were in Opposition. The present Minister of Customs in one campaign devoted a large part of a long and loud speech he delivered in Peterborough to ridicule of the Senate. Since his party secured a majority in the House of Commons he has not seen anything ridiculous in its periods of legislative somnolence or of complete rest while the Commons was working away. Others who expressed themselves in even stronger terms in regard to the uselessness of that body, have since gladly accepted seats in it.

In the past fourteen years, since the Liberals came into office, a number of Conservative Senators have died and their places have been taken by Liberals, and there are now only twenty Conservative members, out of eighty-seven. If the Liberal Government remains in office a few more years there may be no representation of Conservative opinion in the red chamber, and such a result would not tend to show that the present system of making appointments to it is an ideal one.

The Liberals have no doubt found, if they ever had any intention of reforming the constitution of the Senate, that it is not an easy matter to introduce a change. Constitutional changes are always surrounded by great difficulties, if not dangers. It is found that provisions, objected to, have been given a place for some purpose, and when an attempt is made to remove or alter them the difficulty arises of trying to serve the purpose by other means. When the confederation of the Provinces was formed the second chamber was insisted upon, and any effort to abolish it would be strenuously opposed as a breach of faith and as endangering the position of some of the provinces, including the smaller ones. In any discussion as to the Senate, it can probably be taken as a basis that that body must be retained.

Suggestions have been made at various times for amending the method of selecting the Senators. Some have looked across the boundary line and thought they saw in the system of having the Senators selected by the State Legislatures, one that might be adopted here, and have proposed that the representatives from each province in the second chamber be chosen by the Provincial Legislatures. There is at least one consideration that should cause hesitation in the adoption of that course. The questions that are dealt with the Provincial Legislatures are different from those which the Dominion Parliament have to decide, and it is well to keep these questions separate so that the electors may decide one set without being compelled to deal with the other. If the United States system were adopted the Legislatures would become electoral colleges for the selection of Dominion legislators, and when choosing representatives to send to Toronto the electors would be bound to bear in mind what effect their selection would have upon the course of Dominion legislation. A Liberal could not, as many of the party do, vote to support Mr. Whitney when sought on the issue of honest government and conservation of natural resources for the people, without at the same time giving support to the advocacy of principles at Ottawa, of which he did not approve. And another man might stifle his desire to try to have the "three-fifths clause" repealed, because he could not vote for its repeal without assisting to send to the Senate, supporters of saw-dust wharf deals and other political iniquities. This mixing up of Dominion and Provincial politics might not be beneficial to either the Dominion or the Provinces.

A proper method of reforming the Senate may be found, but so far it does not seem to have been made public.

A PATHETIC INCIDENT

There have been, in the many years that the British Parliament has been in existence, many pathetic incidents within its halls, and one of the most pathetic was that of the taking of the oath of office by Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, as member for West Birmingham at the opening of the present Parliament. Mr. Chamberlain was a vigorous man and politician from the time he went up from the municipal arena at Birmingham to Westminster, until a few years ago. In his early Parliamentary days he was a staunch Liberal—even radical in his views, according to the political standards of the time—and became a member of Mr. Gladstone's Government.

Perhaps no English politician was ever more fiercely assailed than was Mr. Chamberlain, when he resigned from the Liberal Government, and, with Lord Huntington, Mr. Goschen and other Liberals, opposed the party with which they had been connected. These Liberals gradually drew closer to the Conservative party, and their union with it gave birth to the Unionist party of to-day. As a member of a Unionist Government, Mr. Chamberlain was the same strong debater and vigorous fighter as before, and when he undertook to convert the British electors from the doctrine of free trade to the principles known by the name of tariff reform, he resigned from Mr. Balfour's Government to have a freer hand in his contemplated campaign. But physical weakness overcame him, and for years he has been unable to take any active part in political affairs. During the recent election he sent out letters, but could do no more. When he took the oath of office the vigorous hand of former days could only make his mark, after his son had written his name, and the voice which had elated friends and combatted or angered opponents in debate would only whisper his assent to the oath of office. No wonder the House was silent with sympathy while the once stalwart Parliamentarian took office under such changed circumstances.

Noisy Celebration Causes Death.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 21.—Victoria physicians have petitioned the authorities, in the interest of the public safety, to abolish the noisy celebration of the Chinese New Year, citing several cases of the serious aggravation of nervous disorders as a result of the celebration during the past week, and also the cause of James T. Green, a driver, whose death yesterday is directly attributed to the oriental festival. Fire-crackers thrown under his horse's feet cause the animal to bolt. Green being thrown out, striking his head. After twice leaving the hospital, apparently recovered, it was discovered that brain concussion had resulted, and Green died after an unsuccessful operation as a last resort.

The opera was conducted by an amateur, Thomas Beecham, who is beginning a season at Covent Gardens, in which he had invested a large sum of money.

The principals in the opera were tumultuously applauded, receiving more than a dozen curtain calls at the close.

CHAPTER XV.

THE PRINCESS GOES GALLOPING.

A WEEK passed—an interesting week in which few things happened openly, but in which the entire situation underwent a subtle but complete change. The mail steamer brought disconcerting news from London. Chase was obliged to tell the islanders that notice of a contest had been filed. The lineal heirs had pooled their issues and were now fighting side by side. The matter would be in chancery for months, even years. He could almost feel the gust of rage and disappointment that swept over the island, although not a word came from the lips of the sullen population. The very silence was foreboding.

He did not visit the chateau during that perplexing week. It was hard, but he resolutely kept to the path of duty, disdaining the pleasures that beckoned to him. Every day he saw and talked with Britt and Saunders. They, as well as the brisk Miss Pelham, gave him the "family news" from the chateau. It did not require extraordinary keenness on Chase's part to gather that her ladyship and Browne had suddenly decided to engage in what he would call a mild flirtation, but what Saunders looked upon as a real attack of love.

"If I had the nerve I'd call Browne good and hard," said Britt over his julep. "It isn't right. It isn't decent. The disappear for hours at a time, and they've always got their heads together. Poor little Drusilla! She's from Boston, Chase, and can't retaliate. Besides, Deppingham wouldn't take notice if she tried. The worst of it is Deppingham has got an idea that they may try to put him out of the way—him and Drusilla. Awful, isn't it? And, say, by the way, Saunders is getting to dislike you intensely."

"I can't help it if he loves the only stenographer on the island," said Chase easily. "You seem to be the only one who isn't in hot water all the time, Britt."

"Me and the princess," said Britt laconically. Chase looked up quickly, but the other's face was as straight as could be. "If you were a real gentleman you would come around once in awhile and give her something to talk to instead of about."

"Does she talk about me?" quite steadily.

"They all do. I've even heard the white handmaidens discussing you in glowing terms. You're a regular matinee hero up there, my"—

"Selim!" broke in Chase. The Arab came to the table immediately. "Don't put so much liquor in Mr. Britt's drinks after this—mostly water." Britt grinned amiably.

"I say, Britt, you're not responsible for this affair between Browne and Lady Deppingham, are you?" demanded Chase abruptly.

"I? What do you mean?"

"I was just wondering if you could have put Browne up to the game in the hope that a divorce or two might solve a very difficult problem."

"Now that you mention it, I'm going to look up the church and colonial divorce laws," said Britt noncommittally after a moment.

"I advise you to hurry," said Chase coolly. "If you can divorce and marry 'em inside of four weeks, with no court qualified to try the case nearer than India, you are a wonder."

Chase was in the habit of visiting the mines two or three times a week during work hours. The next morning after his conversation with Britt he rode out to the mines. When he reached the brow of the last hill, overlooking the wide expanse in which the men toiled, he drew rein sharply and stared aghast at what lay before him. Five hundred half naked brown men were congregated in the shade of the trees far to the right. By the aid of his glasses he could see that one of their number was addressing them in an earnest, violent harangue. It was Von Blitz. From time to time faint sounds of shouts came across the valley.

Chase shuddered. He knew what it meant.

"How about Allah now, Selim?" he asked sententiously.

"Allah is great, Allah is good," mumbled the Moslem youth, but without heart.

"Do you think he can save me from those dogs?" asked the master, with a kindly smile.

"Sahib, do not go among them today," implored Selim impulsively.

"They are expecting me, Selim. If I don't come they will know that I have flunked. They'll know I am afraid of them."

"Do not go today," persisted Selim doggedly. Suddenly he started, looking intently to the left along the line of the hill. Chase followed the direction of his gaze and uttered a sharp exclamation of surprise.

Several hundred yards away, outlined against the blue sky beyond the knob, stood the motionless figure of a horse and its rider—a woman in a green habit. Chase turned his horse's head and rode rapidly toward her. She had left the road to ride out upon the crest of the green knob. Chase was in the mood to curse her temerity.

As he came up over the slope she turned in the saddle to watch his approach. He had time to see that two grooms from the stables were in the road below her. She smiled as he drew up beside her, not noticing his unconscious frown.

"So those are the fabulous mines of Japat?" she said gayly, without other greeting. "Where is the red glow from the rubies?"

"Who gave you permission to ride so far from the chateau?" he demanded, almost harshly. She looked at him in amazement.

"Am I a trespasser?" she asked coldly.

"I beg your pardon," he said quickly. "I did not mean to offend. Don't you know that it is not safe for you to"—

"Nonsense!" she exclaimed. "I am not afraid of your shadows. Why should they disturb me?"

"Look!" He pointed to the distant assemblage. "Those are not shadows. They are men, and they are making ready to transform themselves into beasts. Before long they will strike. Von Blitz and Rasula have sunk my warships. You must understand that it is dangerous to leave the chateau on such rides as this. Come! We will start back together—at once."

"I protest, Mr. Chase, that you have no right to say what I shall do or"—

"It isn't a question of right. You are nearly ten miles from the chateau, in the most unfrequented part of the island. Some day you will not return to your friends. It will be too late to hunt for you then."

"How very thrilling!" she said, with a laugh.

"I beg of you, do not treat it so lightly," he said, so sharply that she flushed. He was looking intently in the direction of the men. She was not slow to see that their position had been discovered by the miners. "Will you come with me now?"

"It seems so absurd! But I will come, of course. I have no desire to cause you any uneasiness."

As they rode swiftly back to the tree lined road a faint chorus of yells came to them across the valley. For some distance they rode without speaking a word to each other. They had traversed two miles of the soft dirt road before Chase discovered that Selim was the only man following them. The two men who had come out with the princess were not in sight.

"The dogs! So, you see, princess, your escort was not to be trusted," said Chase grimly.

"But they have stolen the horses," she murmured irrelevantly. "They belong to the chateau stables."

"Which direction did they take, Selim?"

"It may not appeal to your vanity, your highness, but it is my duty to inform you that they have gone to report our clandestine meeting."

"Clandestine! What do you mean, sir?"

"The islanders are watching me like hawks. Every time I am seen with any one from the chateau they add a fresh nail to the coffin they are preparing for me. It's really more serious than you imagine. I must therefore forbid you to ride outside of the park."

"I dare say you are right, Mr. Chase," she said at last, quite frankly. "I thank you."

"I am glad that you understand," he said simply. His gaze was set straight before him, keen, alert, anxious.

"I begin to fear, Mr. Chase," she said, with a faint smile, "that Lady Deppingham deceived me in suggesting Japat as a rest cure. It may interest you to know that the court at Rapp-Thorberg has been very gay this winter. My brother, Christobal, has been with us after two years' absence. He came with his wife from the ends of the earth, and my father forgave him in good earnest. Christobal was very disobedient in the old days. He refused to marry the girl my father chose for him. Was it not foolish of him?"

"Not if it has turned out well in the end."

"I dare say it has—or will. She is delightful. My father loves her. And my father—the grand duke, I should say—does not love those who cross him. One is very fortunate to have been born a prince." He thought he detected a note of bitterness in this raillery.

"I can conceive of no greater fortune than to have been born Prince Karl of Brabetz," he said lightly. She flashed a quick glance at his face, her eyes narrowing in the effort to divine his humor.

"As I was saying," she resumed after a moment, "Lady Deppingham has lured me from sun showers into the tempest. Mr. Chase"—and her face was suddenly full of real concern—"is there truly great danger?"

"I fear so," he answered. "It is only a question of time. I have tried to check this uprising, but I've failed. Last night Von Blitz, Rasula and three others came to the bungalow and coolly informed me that my services were no longer required. I told them to—to go to"—

"Will you come with me now?"

"I understand," she said quickly. "It required courage to tell them that." He smiled.

"They protested friendship, but I can read very well as I run. But can't we find something more agreeable to talk about? May I say that I have not seen a newspaper in three months? There must be news that you can give me. I am hungry for it."

"You poor man! No newspapers! Then you don't know what has happened in all these months?"

"Nothing since before Christmas. Would you like to see a bit of news that I clipped from the last Paris paper that came into my hands?"

"Yes," she said, vaguely disturbed. He drew forth his pocketbook and took from its interior a small bit of paper. She read it at a glance and handed it back. A faint touch of red came into her cheeks.

"How very odd! Why should you have kept that bit of paper all these months?"

"You have been married nearly three months," he said reflectively—"three months and two days, to be precise."

She laughed outright, a bewitching, merry laugh that startled him.

"How accurate you would be!" she exclaimed. "It would be a highly interesting achievement, Mr. Chase, if it were only borne out by facts. You see, I have not been married so much as three minutes."

He stared at her, uncomprehending.

She went on, "Do you consider it bad luck to postpone a wedding?"

Involuntarily he drew his horse closer to hers. There was a new gleam in his eyes. Her blood leaped at the challenge they carried.

"Very bad luck," he said quite steadily, "for the bridegroom."

In an instant they seemed to understand something that had not even been considered before. She looked away, but he kept his eyes fast upon her half turned face, finding delight in the warm tint that surged so shamelessly to her brow. He wondered if she could hear the pounding of his heart above the thud of the horses' feet.

"We are to be married in June," she said, somewhat defiantly. Some of the light died in his eyes. "Prince Karl was very ill. They thought he might die. His—his studies—his music, I mean, proved more than he could carry. It—it is not serious. A nervous breakdown," she explained haltingly. "It was necessary to postpone the marriage. He will be quite well again, they say, by June."

"I hope he may be fully recovered, for your sake," he managed to say.

"Thank you." After a long pause she turned to him again and said, "We are to live in Paris for a year or two at least."

"He is in Paris now?"

"No," she answered, and that was all. He waited, but she did not expand her confidence.

"So it is to be in June," he mused.

"In June," she said quietly. He sighed.

"I am more than sorry that you are a princess," he said boldly.

"I am quite sure of that," she said, so pointedly that he almost gasped. She was laughing comfortably, a mischievous gleam in her dark eyes. His laugh was as awkward as hers was charming.

"You do like to be flattered," he exclaimed at random. "And I shall take it upon myself to add to today's measure." He again drew forth his pocketbook. She looked on curiously. "Permit me to restore the lace handkerchief which you dropped some time ago. I've been keeping it for myself, but"—

"My handkerchief?" she gasped, her thoughts going at once to that ridiculous incident of the balcony. "It must belong to Lady Deppingham."

"Oh, it isn't the one you used on the balcony," he protested coolly. "It antedates that adventure."

"Balcony? I don't understand you," she contested.

"Then you are exceedingly obtuse."

"I never dreamed that you could see," she confessed pathetically.

"It was extremely nice in you and very presumptuous in me. But, your highness, this is the handkerchief you dropped in the castle garden six months ago. Do you recognize the perfume?"

"You are very sentimental," she said at last. "Would you care to keep it? It is of no value to me."

"Thanks! I will keep it."

"I've changed my mind," she said inconsequently, stuffing the fabric in her gauntlet. "You have something else in that pocketbook that I should very much like to possess."

"It can't be that Bank of England"—

"No, no! You wrapped it in a bit of paper last week and placed it there for safe keeping."

"You mean the bullet?"

"Yes. I should like it to show to my friends, you know, when I tell them how near you were to being shot." Without a word he gave her the bullet that had dropped at his feet on that first day at the chateau. "Thank you. Oh, isn't it a horrid thing! Just to think, it might have struck you!" She shuddered.

He was about to answer in his delirium when a sharp turn in the road brought them in view of the chateau. Not a hundred yards ahead of them two persons were riding slowly, unattended, very much occupied in themselves. Their backs were turned toward Chase and the princess, but it was an easy matter to recognize them. The glance which shot from the princess to Chase found a peculiar smile disappearing from his lips.

"I know what you are thinking," she cried impulsively. "You are wrong—very wrong, Mr. Chase. Lady Deppingham is a born coquette—a born trifler. It is ridiculous to think that she can be seriously engaged in a"—

"It isn't that, princess," he interrupted, a dark look in his eyes. "I was merely wondering whether dear little Mrs. Browne is as happy as she might be."

Genevra was silent for a moment.

"I had not thought of that," she said soberly.

CHAPTER XVI.

THE BURNING OF THE BUNGALOW.

HE went in and had tiffin with them in the hanging garden. Deppingham was surly and preoccupied. Drusilla Browne was unusually vivacious. At best she was not volatile; her greatest accomplishment lay in the ability to appreciate what others had to say.

Her husband, aside from a natural anxiety, was the same blithe optimist as ever. He showed no sign of restraint, no evidence of compunction. Chase found himself secretly speculating on the state of affairs. Were the two heirs working out a preconceived plan, or were they, after all, playing with the fires of spring?

Immediately after tiffin Genevra carried Lady Deppingham off to her room. When they came forth for a proposed stroll in the grounds Lady Agnes was looking very meek and tearful, while the princess had about her the air of one who has conquered by gentleness.

"It has been so appallingly dull, Genevra, don't you understand? That's why. Besides, it isn't necessary for her to be so horrid about it. She"—

"She isn't horrid about it, dear. She's most self sacrificing."

"Rubbish! She talks about the Puritans and all that sort of thing. I know what she means. But there's no use talking about it. I'll do as you say—command, I mean. I'll try to be a prude. Heaven alone knows what a real prude is. I don't. All this tommyrot about Bobby and me wouldn't exist if that wretched Chase man had been a little more affable. He never noticed us until you came. No wife to snoop after him and—why, my dear, he would have been ideal."

"It's all very nice, Agnes, but you forget your husband," said Genevra, with a tolerant smile.

FRACTURED LEFT LEG

For Third Time — Accident to Carlyle Potter, 14 Year Old Son of Rev. J. G. Potter

Carlyle Potter, the 14-year-old son of Rev. J. G. Potter, pastor of St. Andrew's church, fell on the icy pavement on George street on Saturday night and broke the femur or thigh bone of his left leg. The boy was with his brother, Grant Potter, at the time he slipped and fell, and the latter carried him into the G.N.W. office, in front of which the accident occurred. The driver of a passing cutter was hailed and took the victim of the accident home, where the fracture was set by Drs. Greer and Eastwood.

This is the third time that the youth has had his left leg broken and he has also had his right leg fractured once.

IS SUCCEEDING AS A NOVELIST

The Saturday Magazine section of the Globe contains a very good picture of Miss Dorothy Dean Tate, the author of "The Story of Yuku," a tale of Japanese life, which will soon be published by Wm. Briggs. Miss Tate is a granddaughter of the late Judge Dean, and till shortly after his death resided with her mother in Lindsay. She has a large circle of friends in town, and spent New Years amongst them.

Lindsay people will be glad to learn of her successful entry into the literary world, and doubtless her novel will be one of the most popular and best sellers in the Lindsay bookstores.—Lindsay Post

PRIZE ESSAYS IN Y.M.C.A. CONTEST

Two Tabloids That Put the Aims of the Fine Organization With Great Clearness

A campaign is proceeding in Toronto to raise $600,000 for a new Y.M.C.A. The Toronto World offered prizes for brief essays, and awarded the first one to T. A. Craig of Close avenue, for this one:

THE Y.M.C.A. INVESTMENT.

Every boy who comes to maturity has cost the state—that is, you and me—one thousand dollars.

Some boys go wrong. When a boy goes wrong we not only lose our thousand dollars, but we have to spend another thousand to protect ourselves against him.

The Y.M.C.A. is an organization of manly men, whose sole object is to keep our boys morally, and physically right.

These right ones in turn keep others right. Thus the Y.M.C.A. is an investment that pays cumulative dividends not only in cash, but in character.

Can you suggest a better investment of $600,000?

THE Y. M. C. A.

The chief bulwark of any nation is its young manhood. The Young Men's Christian Association is always practical, never wastes time or money in sectarian controversies, but with all its energies alert, aims at the highest results in physical development, industrial and commercial progress, national prosperity, scientific research and ethical ideals.

By enlisting men in the service of man, for God and home and country, the association has become the most effective agency in existence for the development of the young manhood of the nation, and for the well-being and progress of the world.

The Art Gallery on Phillip's Square, Montreal, was sold for $275,000.

SPECIAL SERMONS AT PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

Rev. Geo. W. McCall, M.A., B.D., Preached Anniversary Sermons at George Street—Civic Sermon at All Saints—Rev. S. B. Robold Speaks at Two Churches.

GEORGE ST. ANNIVERSARY.

At the George street Methodist church yesterday, Rev. G. W. McCall, of Napanee, occupied the pulpit both morning and evening, the occasion being the anniversary day of the church. Large congregations were present and two interesting and profitable sermons were preached. In the morning the Rev. Mr. McCall took his text from Revelations 2 chapter, and 20th verse, "Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come into him, and will sup with him, and he with me." And in the evening from Thessalonians I. 5 chapter and 19th verse, "Quench not the Spirit."

Special music was given by the choir at both services.

The words of the morning text was concluded in the message of St. John to the seven churches of Asia. The speaker took up parts of the verse, separately, and explained the significance of each. It was Jesus who stood at the door and knocked, and it was we who were within. There were some who would be saved, without a Jesus, redeemed without a Redeemer. Some asked, "Why should I open the door to him?" They appointed themselves supervisors of their own lives, but life cannot be narrowed down to such limits, as some men set up for themselves. Jesus showed patience in waiting, and it was to be wondered why any man should insult Him by not opening the door. The speaker used a striking illustration to show how willingly we would open the door to an earthly friend. He took the case where a child was ill and the physician in charge, admitted that he had done all in his power to save the child, and a more skilful physician was sent for. How eagerly was the door opened for him. We open the door to our own friends, but close it on Him, who is the great physician to the soul. What a transformation when Jesus did come in. In letting Him come into our lives we let in the very power of God.

CIVIC SERMON.

In a most appropriate, eloquent and consistent sermon Rev. H. R. Trumpour, rector of All Saints', preached the special annual sermon to the aldermen and civic officials last night. He gave a splendid discourse on the higher duties of citizenship and civic life and spoke of the motives that should prompt those who have the city's affairs to look after and of the principles that they should adopt and live up to in the fulfilling of their highly responsible and important offices.

Mr. Trumpour very cordially welcomed the special visitors to All Saints' and stated that their presence in the church was a peculiar honor which fully appreciated by himself and the congregation.

The text of the sermon was taken from the first chapter of St. Matthew and the 11th verse. "A city that is set upon an hill cannot be hid." In the present generation every city was more or less set upon a hill. But no city needed any geographical elevation in order that it might be known.

A city was a marvellous thing. Its life fascinated, it appealed to the imagination and called forth the best that was in man and woman. Even with the independent life of the country it was the city that attracted. The last returns of the provincial population showed that the urban population had increased and that that of the rural sections had decreased. It was our privilege to be of the city and it was also our privilege to labor to make the city what God would have it.

But with the attractions of the city there were many dangers. We possessed a city—a small city—and the highest life of a small city did not rise to the spiritual height of that of a large city. Could we set our city upon an hill? That was the problem we had to face. In our city we had just raised the walls and now was the time to have our city not set upon an hill alone, but upon one such as Christ would have it set upon.

There were two standpoints that the affairs of the city were to be viewed from—the spiritual and the material. Of the latter a preacher had nothing to do and the less he interfered in the material affairs of the city the better it would be for him. But he was called upon to look after the moral welfare of the citizens. The good character of its citizens was a permanent asset of every country.

The control of the morals of a town was not in the hands of its officials, but their's was the privilege of setting a high example. In that proportion that Christian men ruled a town they could do more than anyone else to set our city upon the hill that it should be on.

The three-fold advice that was given to the Greek youth of ancient history was a trilogy that might be profitably accepted by the civic officials of Peterborough. It was to speak the truth, to face the foe and to leave the country better than when they found it.

In regard to the truth this city was set upon a most unenviable hill and had a reputation for untruthfulness from Halifax to Vancouver, and newspapers, both seriously and jokingly, made capital out of Peterborough's reputation for untruthfulness. In facing the foe there were two terrible problems to be dealt with in Canada. One was the observing of the Sabbath day. The City Council had the force of example in this respect and there was no human power could stop the vice that would follow in the trail of desecrated Sabbaths. Another thing was the matter of economy and in the ideal city the poorest should be able (to live comfortably. The third motto was to leave the country better than they found it. We needed more patriotism, the kind that called for self-sacrifice, in the interests of the advancement of the city and the citizens. The speaker thought that there was a lack of nationality or patriotism in this country such as was found in the old land and this had the effect of making the citizens of Canada apathetic and unwilling to assume the duties of high office. Sacrifice was the very law of life and the thinking population of Peterborough would appreciate all the sacrifice that might be made in the city's behalf. And idealism should be aimed for by the civic officials.

A second triology, that of Bishop Phillip Brooks, was introduced as an excellent one to live up to. It was first faith, second righteousness and third charity. A lucid and convincing explanation of the application of these vitues to the conduct of municipal affairs was given by the speaker.

A REFORMED JEW.

A wonderful cry for the Messiah, a great desire and longing is manifesting itself among the Jewish people, according to Rev. S. B. Robold, himself a Jew, but a Christian and a minister of the Presbyterian church. Yesterday he told of the attitude of the Jews toward Christianity, and emphasized the field for missionary endeavor, as presented by the Jewish people. He spoke at St. Paul's church in the morning and at Knox church in the evening. Tonight he will speak at St. Andrew's church on "The Glory of the Mission," and a most interesting address may be expected. For 2,000 years the Jews have been waiting for a great revelation. When the Son of God came to this earth He was not, according to their ideas, of what He should have been; He did not come up to these expectations. They failed to recognize Jesus as the true Messiah, and the intervening centuries of misery and shame have not been enough to wash away that sin. That longing for the Messiah is still strong in the Jewish heart and a wonderful movement is now apparent among that people. It is a desire for the Messiah, a cry for Christ. Rev. Mr. Robold said that it remains for the Christian people to win over the Jews for Christ. In Jerusalem they have witnessed bitter hatred among three Christian races, and the miserable form of Christianity presented to them stirs up an aversion to it. Because Jesus has been caricatured to them as the reason of their position toward Christendom. "If you want them to believe in Jesus you must so live His life that they will take notice of us," Mr. Robold stated.

The speaker, in explaining the attitude towards Christian teaching, told the story of two young Jews. Both were of good birth, being the sons of rabbis. In Jerusalem, where they were studying, they passed a mission one evening, and seeing others going in, one suggested that they follow. His companion quoted a warning text, but they finally entered. The missionary talked with them in Hebrew, and his questions and statements interested them, and in a manner confounded them. They returned after that to talk with him, and finally the patience of one of the young men began to wonder where he was spending this portion of his time. He was followed by relatives and was seen coming from the mission. They beat him in such a terrible manner that he had to be removed to an hospital. His close studies had resulted in enfeebling his body and he finally passed away, but in peace, with the name of Jesus upon his lips. "And what became of the other young man?" Mr. Robold asked.

"He is speaking to you to-night," he quietly replied, and explained to the congregation that he had been with his friend during his last moments in the hospital.

Mr Robold stated that in spite of everything missionary work among the Jews was most fruitful. It would be found, he said, that there have been ten converts from Judaism to every one from heathenism during recent years, and the field is a most extensive one. There are six million Jews in Russia, and one hundred thousand in Canada. Mr. Robold is in charge of the work that has been undertaken by the Presbyterian church in this country with headquarters in Toronto, and already most encouraging results have been achieved. In Great Britain every Lord's Day there are six hundred converted Jews preaching the gospel. In connection with the mission to the Jews in Canada a church is soon to be erected in Toronto at a cost of $35,000, and upon Mr. Robold is falling a large share of the preliminary work.

Speaking of the characteristics of the Jews, Mr. Robold stated that their capacity for accumulating money had been developed in Great Britain and America. It does not exist among the Jews of Jerusalem. He told of young men in the Colleges who, if they were shown a coin would not know its denomination. In Canada, the land of the brave and the free, a great work can be done among the Jews, for whom the only hope is Jesus Himself.

The Masquerade Carnival at Brock-et, Rink on Friday, Feb. 25th, promises to be a big event. See prizes in China Hall window. 57th band in attendance.

DIED

THE STAGE IS HARD WORK?

It's a Puddin' Says Frank Daniels Confidentially—A Comedian Musn't Sing

Frank Daniels knocks sky high some of the generally accepted opinions regarding the stage. In the first place he says a comedian does not need to have a singing voice. The opinion that he does, is not generally accepted, it can hardly be said for the average funny man who has come to these parts has shown nothing very pretentious in the way of vocal effort. Daniels says that if a comedian has to sing as a singing master would have vocalism, it kills the humorous expression. The star of the "Belle of Brittiany" also remarks that if anyone told him he had a voice he would immediately have it pulled.

"This talk of hard work on the stage is one of the biggest jokes ever," he said. "At least as far as my own experience goes it is. I have been on the stage for years and have never known what it is to work. Why it is the greatest fun on earth. If I had to work I would quit the stage at once. Acting must be easy and natural for a player and the minute it becomes work that minute it ceases to be art. I always keep in good condition—for I realize health is absolutely necessary to good spirits and magnetism—and I enjoy every show as much as the audience. That's the only way for a comedian to be. Hard work—say I'll tell you or the side—it's a puddin'.

So long as educated people profess to be pleased in the theatre by cheap twaddle which they would frankly spurn anywhere else, they are unlikely to get the kind of plays which would give them true pleasure. I appeal to them not to dally doatingly over lumber.—Max Beerbohm.

Among the numerous floral offerings were a wreath from the officials of the company with which the late Mr. Breckenridge was connected and a floral insignia of gates ajar from the employees.

The pall bearers were Messrs. W. R. G. Higgins, Manson Comstock, W. J. Johnston, Ald. G. A. Gillespie, W. J. Henry and Andrew Davidson.

WHERE IS CLEVELAND AND MRS. ROBINSON'S CHICKS?

Charge of Theft Against George Gauthier Was Not Proven—A Warrant for the Arrest of Cleveland.

The outcome of the case in which George Gauthier was charged with the theft of a quantity of poultry, and which was heard at the police court this morning, was that the prisoner was discharged and a warrant sworn out for the arrest of Rudolf Cleveland, who according to the evidence, is the guilty man.

Mr. G. N. Gordon conducted the case in the interests of Gauthier.

According to the evidence of Mrs. Robinson, who lives in North Monaghan, and was the complainant, and her hired man, Hiram Long, poultry has been stolen on three occasions. Twenty-one chickens and two ducks had been taken. On Thursday morning last the door of the chicken-house was found detached from its rightful place and lying on the ground. An inspection resulted in the finding of one pair of mitts, a comforter, a coat and a hat, on which were chicken feathers and blood. In the pocket of the coat, was a small book, similar to that used by St. Peter's T.A.S. and bearing the name of George Gauthier. Footmarks were also discovered in the snow. They were those of a boot with coarse nails in the heel.

Alfred Labane, financial secretary of the T.A.S. was called by the prosecution to identify the book as one belonging to the prisoner and he did so.

For the defence the prisoner was first called, and he denied the charge. He stated that in company with Cleveland and Ben LeBar, he went over to Laroque's hotel between seven and eight o'clock on Wednesday evening, and had one drink. Cleveland had an overcoat on. Returning to his home, Cleveland asked LeBar for the use of his horse and cutter for a short time and he was accommodated. He took off his overcoat and put on a blue coat belonging to him (the prisoner). At 1.30 on the following morning, Cleveland returned, minus the coat. He was drunk and said his hands and feet were frozen. He could not give any explanation as to where he had been. Witness could not say where Cleveland was at the present time. He had been an employee of Ringling's Circus and had been in the habit of staying at the home of the witness, when not working. He was a nephew and frequently wore the clothes of the witness.

Archie Barbeau said he met Cleveland last Friday at noon and he had remarked that it was he who went out there but had not done so with the intention of stealing chickens. This evidence was not noted by the Magistrate, he stating that Cleveland might have had a motive in making the statement.

Ben LeBar corroborated the evidence of the prisoner in regard to Cleveland taking his coat and not returning until early in the morning.

REASONABLE, WELL DIRECTED SCHOOL EXPENDITURE HERE

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In Saturday's issue of your morning contemporary an item with scare head lines appeared advising the good citizens of Peterborough "to curb a halt in school expenditure," and the comparison of figures was intended to set "all thoughtful citizens thinking." If the thoughtful author of the item had followed his own counsel, the figures would not have been given as evidence of extravagant school expenditure.

The figures given for fourteen cities are tabulated to show: 1. Money raised for municipal purposes. 2. Money raised for school purposes, and the deduction from these figures is that Peterborough spends on schools a ratio of 71 to Ottawa's 45, these two being the highest, while Chatham foots the list at 27.

This information, being taken from the municipal statistics, contains only half a truth, as the compiling of these figures is probably different in every city. The amount raised for sewers, sidewalks, roads, etc., being charged against frontage in some cases, and not in others. This and other reasons make the figures given unreliable for the purpose sought after. At the moment only partial information is obtainable, but in the future I hope to present a complete comparison, based on actual figures, as to the cost of our school system, compared with other cities in the province. Sufficient is at hand, however, to show that Peterborough is being well served for the money expended, and that we are not paying more for school progress than other places.

Chatham, according to the item referred to, is lowest on the list of 14 cities, Peterborough the highest. As a matter of fact, Chatham spends 7.9 mills on its assessment, while Peterborough spends 7.8, thus Peterborough is lower than Chatham, London and many other cities have as high a rate as Peterborough.

The latest government report places the school population of Peterborough (Public, Separate and High) at 3,150, at an average cost of 21.19; London pays 23.81, Ottawa 23.29, Fort William 32.60. The latter, according to the item under criticism, shows that their schools are managed at one-half the expense of that of Peterborough—a ratio of 32.60 hardly bears out the claim.

It must not be overlooked that fully one-fifth of the amount asked by our Board for school purposes is for interest and sinking fund on debentures, a debt incurred by the building of our schools, which are an asset of the city.

The major portion of the money asked for by the Board is expended in salaries, and Peterborough is not by any means paying as high salaries as some other cities. The utmost difficulty is experienced in securing competent teachers on our present salary schedule. Toronto and other places have had to advance their schedule to keep their staff up to the proper standard.

I regret to occupy so much space, but I feel an item having a tendency to mislead our people should be corrected.

Yours truly,
JOHN CRANE.

Peterborough, Feb. 21, 1910.

Says That P. C. Meharry Did Answer Summons' for Assistance

Chief Rossel has an explanation to make in regard to the statement made by the complainant in the case reported in Friday's Review which was to the effect that P. C. Meharry did not answer the summons for assistance, asked by her over the telephone and in doing so to also answer the letter of Ratepayer in Saturday's issue. The chief states that immediately after the conclusion of the case on Friday morning, he called up P. C. Meharry and he said that he did answer the call but on arriving at the house found no signs of trouble whatever, nor did he see any person.

"TOUCHED" FOR $26.00

Michael Mead Says He Was Robbed of That Amount in Hotel

Micheal Mead, who claims this city as his home, was one of the principals in a touching scene on Saturday, and is now mourning the loss of $26.00 in greenbacks. His story is to the effect that on Saturday morning he took a drink, and as it was the first in a long time, he became rather sick. He strayed into a local hotel and was taken upstairs to a room, and when he awoke again, his bank roll was missing. Mead reported his loss to the police this morning, but up to late this afternoon no trace of the money could be found.

AN ADDRESS OF INTEREST

"The Wandering Jew" Was Topic of Splendid Discourse at Y. M. C. A. by Rev. S. H. Rohold

Yesterday afternoon the parlors of the Young Men's Christian Association were crowded by the men who went to hear the Rev. S. H. Rohold, who was spending Sunday in Peterborough.

Mr. Rohold's address on "The Wandering Jew," was full of interest and information. Mr. Rohold is a native of Jerusalem and is able to speak with authority on his subject. He pointed out how, that in every country in the world the Jew is found, and his ability to learn a foreign language exceeds that of any other nationality, so it is evident that in bringing about the coming of the Kingdom of Jesus Christ the Jew will prove a great factory in missionary effort.

UPHOLD MUSIC IN SCHOOLS

Mr. J. D. A. Tripp, the noted Canadian piano virtuoso, of a great believer in the teaching of music in the Public Schools. Speaking of the difficulties in choral instructions which a Canadian conductor must face and overcome, Mr. Tripp referred to "accent" as the chief stumbling stone of all.

"Proper instructions in the Public Schools, however," observed Mr. Tripp to an interviewer, "will do a large degree give the children a groundwork for more advanced instruction. As it is, the voices of our Canadian children, singing in unison at school or other gathering are often pitiably unmusical. The work of instruction being carried on at present in our Public Schools deserves indorsement from every teacher who has had to spend precious hours on an individual or a class trying to obtain a correct accent before vocal development could even be hoped for. The tendency of our throats toward flatness can be corrected, and the teaching by a competent musical master in the city schools will go a long way toward giving us an improved generation of readers. To round out our O's and broaden our A's and deepen our R's with more of a burr, are simple points which might be placed in any school's curriculum with beneficial effects not only upon the singing but speaking voices. I attribute the flatness of the average Canadian speech first of all to carelessness. Very few keep a watch on the quality of their utterances, and there seems no premium placed by mothers and fathers on correct speaking in the home. If the musical supervisor of Public Schools can rectify what could perhaps better be accomplished about the dinner table, he is performing a service of inestimable value."

SPORTING NEWS

HOCKEY

The Lindsay Post has the following to say in regard to the Orillia-Peterborough game on Friday night:—

The teams were quite evenly matched and being both strangers to the ice, a beautiful game resulted. The first half was all Orillia's although Peterborough had most unmerciful luck in shooting, being at times ten feet off, while at other attempts the puck came within a few inches of striking the posts or top when on a "B" line for the nets, however, Corbould, Orillia's brave goalkeeper, a second Gamble, was always in the way. The Peterborough seven were not up to their usual strength, having on three strange players unaccustomed to outside ice, three of their strongest men being on the sick list, Denison, Burritt and Crane and it is stated that there would be doings if these three forward men were on their line-up. On the other side, the Orillia seven are the speediest team seen on local ice for many moons. They are not all clean players by any means, but are pretty stick handlers and skaters, on many occasions outskating their opponents, they have a superb combination. In individual playing not a player on the ice could touch Hefferman, he, in all his rushes being like a shot from a rifle, and in shooting on goal made things warm for the northern goalette. Stephenson put up a good game at right wing, having a hard check in the person of Warren. Hall, any played a pretty game, being all over the ice at once, playing both defence and forward whenever needed.

Says the Winnipeg Free Press of Friday:—

These Northern-Crown bank people have some hockey team, if anybody should happen to casually ask you. The folks back east must have caught wind of the fact, too, as the Winnipeg bank league champs have written to about every amateur team in the cent belt, and so far have been able to arrange only two games in all the land of the famous diminutive coin. The two jive ones are the O.H.A. team, of Lindsay, and the Bank of Montreal team at Montreal. They will probably play in the Ontario town on February 25, and in Montreal on March 4th.

The management has tried to get games with teams in Toronto, Peterborough and several other supposedly good hockey towns, but so far most of them have proved to be dead ones. It is expected, however, that games may be fixed with some more of the fast eastern teams, probably in Kingston, Stratford and Barrie, and is possible in Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

WANDERERS BEAT OTTAWA

Montreal, Feb. 20.—One of the greatest hockey matches ever witnessed on Montreal ice was played here on Saturday night in the presence of over 7000 spectators between Wanderers of Montreal and Ottawa. Wanderers defeated the champions by 7 to 5, and thus tied Ottawa for the first place in the national hockey series.

The closeness of the contest may be judged from the fact that the teams alternated goal for goal for 59 minutes of the hour, making the score 5 to 6 with ten minutes to go.

In the last ten minutes the Wanderers scored two games, thus winning the match. The result was a surprise, as the Ottawas were the favorites.

The visitors put up a splendid game until the very finish. The result makes the two teams a tie in the series. The line-up:

1, Ottawa, 9.00; 2, Wanderers, 3.15; 3, Ottawa, 1.00; 4, Wanderers, 4.00; 5, Ottawa, 1.00; 6, Wanderers, 3.30; 7, Wanderers, 5.00; 8, Ottawa, 2.00; 9, Wanderers, 8.00; 10, Ottawa, 5.00; 11, Wanderers, 2.00; 12, Wanderers, 1.00.

BELLEVILLE PLAYER DEAD.

Belleville, Ont., Feb. 20.—Arthur E. Spangenberg, a young man of this city, in his nineteenth year, died last evening from meningitis. Deceased was captain of the city Junior O.H.A. team, playing centre. He was an exemplary young man, and a good hockeyist. He was a clerk in the Dominion Bank here. His demise is a distinct loss to the sport of hockey.

RENFREW ALWAYS AHEAD.

Cobalt, Ont., Feb. 20.—Renfrew, in a hard and rough game here Saturday night, put a decided quietus to Cobalt's Stanley Cup aspirations, defeating the locals 12 to 7. The half-time score was 7 to 2 in Renfrew's favor.

The visitors always had the locals eclipsed, though Cobalt made a desperate effort in the second half to retrieve their lost ground, but Renfrew would not be denied, scoring goal for goal with the locals in this period. Newsy Lalonde made his first appearance with Renfrew, and played great hockey, the ex-Toronto star scoring four goals. Lester Patrick scored as many. These two, with Frank Patrick, were the stars. Taylor found the ice space too small and was never prominent, though he scored a goal just before the close of the game, after a brilliant rush the length of the rink.

Vair and Smith were the stars for Cobalt, Smith getting five of Cobalt's goal. Vair played his best game of the season and figured in most of the scoring.

Capt. Fred Clarke was injured by a thrust in the side from Lester Patrick's stick, and was compelled to retire from the game after a few minutes' play in the first half. His loss demoralized the team. Howard McNamara, from the Trolley League, went into the game to fill up on the wing, Harry Smith going to rover. Doran replaced Walter Smaill, who jumped to Montreal on Friday night, and put up a good game, better, many thought, than Smaill has played at any time this season. He was on the fence too much, however. The line-up:

A meeting of the executive of the hockey club will be held at the Examiner office to-night at 8 o'clock to pick the team to play against Winnipeg to-morrow night.

The Royal and Toronto Bank teams broke even in their game at the Brock street rink Saturday afternoon, the score at full time being 7—7. The Royals were ahead at half-time by 5—4. Allan Campbell refereed and gave good satisfaction to the spectators. For the Torontos, Hall and Bogue were the main guys, the remainder of the team being only fair. Bogue, who boasts of being a Welshman, to the amazement of his team mates and opponents, was attired in a uniform as near as possible to that of the Scotchman, but despite this handicap showed bursts of speed at times. Harvey Pulford Dawe was also on the ice. Fitzgerald used his stick just as though he had been used to chopping wood all his life.

The teams were:—

Royals—Primeau, Giroux, Eastwood, Shields, McClennan and Harper.

Torontos—Hall, Dawe, Cahill, Bogue, Fitzgerald, Wareham.

Umpires—Royals, Harry Lauder McClennan; Torontos, Matthews.

CURLING

LINDSAY VICTORIOUS.

Lindsay, Feb. 19.—Lindsay wins the Sheppard—Needler cup from the Orillia curling club by 61 shots for the season of 1910. The final games for this magnificant trophy were curled in Orillia yesterday afternoon, where four rinks of Lindsay curlers played and won by the small margin of four shots. On the previous games played in both towns Lindsay won by 57 shots, making a grant total of 61 shots on the round.

The Lindsay rinks in Orillia yesterday were skipped by Hopkins, O'Connor, Thomas and F. Knowlson, Skip Hopkins being the only skip to meet defeat at the hands of Orillia's star skip "Frankie" Toogood, who defeated him by nine shots. Fred Thomas played George Thompson and they finished on even terms, after a well contested game. Larry O'Connor drew Tom Main, the veteran of the Orillia club and won fom him by one shot, while Fred Knowlson easily disposed of the ex-M.P., Gordon Grant, by 12 shots. The rinks:

Lindsay won the first round for the Lindsay-Beaverton cup last night by defeating the Beaverton rinks by the smallest possible margin of one shot. Two Lindsay rinks played in Beaverton, skipped by Fred Knowlson and R. A. Millar, and they fell before the Scotchmen by 1 shots, while the Lindsay rinks at home, skipped by Frank Carew and Dr. Sutton, won by 9 shots. In Beaverton Millar player one of Canada's best known lacrosse men, Peter McMillan, and after a hard fought game the ex-lacrosse president, won by one shot. Fred Knowlson drew one James Birchard, the village blacksmith, and was defeated by 6 shots.

In Lindsay Frank Carew had a great game with Martin Roach, and only pulled out a victory on the last end, while Dr. Sutton easily won from Arthur Talbot by eight shots. The Lindsay players speak in the highest terms of the treatment they received at the hands of the Beaverton curlers.

Following are the scores and the rinks of a game in the primary of the first bonspeil:

D B MacRae	Rev. H R. Trumpour
W. Stocker	W H Collier
W Taylor	H Morphet
W G Morrow, Skip 19	W G Reid Skip 6

Three rinks from Millbrook will play three rinks here to-night.

WRESTLING

The Governor's Pardon

Story of a Man Who Showed Himself Brave and True.

By AGNES G. BROGAN.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

The snow had been falling steadily for three days, and the long, low house at the edge of the woods was almost buried from sight.

A tall young man wearing a fur lined overcoat was busily engaged in removing heavy drifts from the wide veranda and in tunnelling a pathway to the door. A great St. Bernard dog watched the performance with dignified approval.

It was a strange house to be placed alone in all this vast expanse of snowy landscape, built of logs, yet with white pillars supporting the veranda and over the doorway a rustic sign bearing the words, "The Bungalow." Behind the house, also built of logs, was a garage or small stable.

The man stopped his labor to pat the dog's head. "No walk for us today, old man," he said. "We must content ourselves with rereading the day before yesterday's paper."

The dog followed his master into the house, one long room of which reached from end to end. The man threw more logs into the fireplace and as the day grew darker lit a great lamp and glanced again at the discarded paper as though longing for the sound of a human voice. He read aloud, and the dog flapped his tail understandingly.

"Here is a society notice, Laddie. We can't get away from society, you see, though we live in snowy solitude: 'Miss Antoinette Marion Drew has left town for two or three weeks' rest. Upon her return invitations will be issued for her marriage to Governor James P. White.' And, after the strenuous work of landing Governor White, Laddie, no doubt Miss Drew, whoever she may be, deserves a rest."

The man yawned and cast the paper from him.

A loud knocking echoed through the house. He hesitated a moment, then, frowning, opened the door. A girl stood before him in the lamplight, a girl with white face peeping out from the scarlet hood of her cloak.

"May I come in?" she asked. "We have lost our way, and it is so very cold."

"Certainly," the man responded; "come in at once. You said 'we.'" He peered questioningly into the darkness.

"My horse," the girl explained. "Have you any place to put poor Billy until we are warmed and rested?"

"If you will step in," the man said, "I will attend to the horse presently."

The girl seated herself before the fire as he drew on his overcoat and lighted a lantern. "Fortunately there are a stable and some fodder," he said, "and if Billy does not object to a stale meal we may make him fairly comfortable."

The girl removed her cloak and settled back into the leather chair with a sigh of comfort as the cheering warmth brought the rose color flooding back to cheeks and lips.

She told him that she was staying with Aunt Martha and Uncle Ben down near the village. He remembered the old red farmhouse which she described and offered to drive her safely there when the storm had abated, but the wind rattled the windows and shook the house to its very foundation, and later when he had forced the horse and sleigh to the roadway he staggered back blindly through the pelting ice to the house.

"You can't go," he told the girl, who stood ready in her scarlet cloak. "It would be impossible tonight. There is just one thing to be done—you must stay here with Laddie, who will guard you well, while the horse and I will try to find our way to the farmhouse to assure your people of your safety. If I should not return until morning you must not be alarmed. You must keep warm, and, above all things, do not let the fire die out." He turned to look at her as she still sat silent. "I am sorry that you must do this," he added, "sorry to leave you alone."

The girl came and stood looking up at him. "You must not think of me," she said. "Is it safe for you to go?"

"Quite safe," he answered smilingly.

Impulsively the girl put forth her hand, and the man clasped it. "Good night," she said. "We will be anxiously waiting for you, Laddie and I."

"I have been examining the doors and windows," the girl replied, "and am afraid it means that we are snowed in."

When the morning dawned he returned from a fruitless search. He slept till 9 o'clock and, noticing that the house was dark, asked the girl what it meant.

The man hurried about the house, looking in vain for a glimmer of light from the outside. Presently he came back to her. "I am afraid it is true," he said. "You wonderful girl, do you take all your misfortunes so happily?"

The girl laughed merrily. "You cannot tell fibs successfully, but I am very sure that Aunt Martha will not worry. It isn't her nature. She will know I have 'fetched up' somewhere."

Early in the afternoon they sat, one on either side of the fireplace, the dog's shaggy length stretched at the girl's feet, while the man read aloud. Presently, feeling the concentration of her eyes upon him, he looked up from the book.

"John Ryder," said the girl suddenly, "why did you come here?"

The man started visibly, and his face paled. "Be," he said, "you know my name?"

She lifted a book from the reading table and, opening it, held it out to him in the lamplight. Upon the fly leaf was inscribed, "To John Ryder, From His Mother." The man's face hardened, then he said: "You must have heard the whole miserable story. It has been well advertised throughout the country."

The girl leaned forward. "Will you let me tell you all that I have heard?" she asked gently. He made an impatient gesture of dissent.

"It will be better for you," the girl urged, "to talk it over. Bearing so much alone has made you morbid."

"As you will," said the man and buried his face in his hands.

"I remember the day"—her voice was tender with sympathy—"that the newsboys were calling, 'Extra!' along the streets and I stopped to buy a paper with its glaring headlines, 'John Ryder Absconded!' I had heard about his extravagant living, his generous gifts to charity. Now I read of widows and orphans left destitute, of homes destroyed because of his dishonesty. Then, while the world was still talking of his great crime, another extra was called—'John Ryder Dead!' As I read the sad story tears filled my eyes, for he was returning home, returning old and broken after one week to give himself up to the authorities, when they found him. But he never reached the prison walls. Heart disease, the papers said, though it seemed to me that, realizing the enormity of his crime and sorrowing for it, he had died. Then I read of the son left to bear the shock and disgrace. They had blamed him, too—the papers—with sharp, stinging words, hinting that, associated closely with his father in business affairs, he must have known that the money which provided him with every luxury was not honestly earned. Oh, I was glad when he showed himself true and longed to go to this second John Ryder to tell him how splendid he was, for he gave up everything—the independent fortune which his mother had left her son, his automobiles, not even withholding the beautiful horse which had been his pet and pride. Then, penniless and quite alone, he disappeared.

"John Ryder," asked the girl again, "why did you come here?"

The man raised his face. "It was the coward instinct, I suppose," he said bitterly. "The fight was too strong for me, so I deserted. My mother loved this little place, and I could not let it go, so it was here we came to hide, away from them all, Laddie and I."

"You a deserter," cried the girl, and her eyes were gleaming—"the bravest man that I have ever known! Shall I tell you why you came here to be alone for a time? It was that you might gather your forces together and then, going back into the very midst of the fight, show them not what a John Ryder has been, but what a John Ryder can be."

The man's eyes seemed to have caught fire from hers. "I could do all that and more," he cried, "if you were waiting for me at the end." The girl's face was very white. "Forgive me," said the man huskily—"forgive me if you can. I have been quite carried away." There was a long silence before the girl spoke.

"You have also heard my name," she said. "I am Antoinette Drew, the promised wife of the governor."

"You!" cried the man incredulously as he looked at the girlish face in its frame of curling hair.

"He was my father's friend," she explained, "and held me upon his knee as a child. It was mother, I think, who made him realize that he wanted me for his wife. We have been taught, my sisters and I, that to achieve prominence and wealth leaves nothing to be desired, and we have done credit to our teaching. Out here in the great white world I have been thinking things over, wondering if I dare be true. I, too, have a battle before me, and I am going to play the game fair. I am going back to brave my father's anger and my mother's displeasure—to tell the governor all and ask pardon for the great wrong done him. I am glad," she added softly, "that my decision had been made before I knocked at your door, else I might question my own motive today."

The man leaned forward. "If he holds you to your promise," he asked tensely, "what then?"

The girl sighed. "I shall at least have been honest."

"And if he releases you?"

With a rush and a slide a great weight of snow came thundering down from the roof. "John Ryder," cried the girl unsteadily, "our furlough is over. Get out your shovel and set me free."

For days he haunted the little post-office. His last memory of her had been as she stood upon the platform of the train that was carrying her away. Just as the car turned the curve she drew herself erect and made a stiff little military salute. There had been a smile upon her lips and tears in her eyes. The picture came back to him this morning as the postmaster handed out a businesslike looking envelope and then a small square one. He hurried out into the sparkling world to be alone.

"It has come, Laddie," he said to the dog; "it has come at last." For a moment he feared to break the seal, then stood still as the full significance of her message came to him. "The governor has granted our pardon," he read.

The man went running up the shining roadway, the great dog leaping and barking joyously at his side. When they had gone some distance he remembered the other envelope and tore it open. It was an offer of a position of great trust and was signed by the governor.

Public Library Institute

The Public Library Institute of this district, to be held in Lindsay, Friday, 25th inst., promises to be an event of interest and profit to all concerned. The problems of the small library will receive especial attention.

Mr. George H. Locke, chief librarian of the public library, Toronto, and a man of wide training in educational library affairs, will discuss the "Mission of the Public Library," and Rev. W. A. Bradley, Berlin, ex-president of the Ontario Library Association, will speak on "What the Library Can do for the Working Man." Inspector Nursey, who has just returned from a tour among some of the leading American libraries, will be present and give an address. Mr. J. Hampton Burnham, of Peterborough, will speak on "Public Libraries and Canadian Literature."

Inasmuch as the expenses of one representative from each library in the district will be paid by the Department of Education, there ought to be a full representation of all the libraries.

Overdoing the Salmon?

That the Pacific salmon industry is being overdone, was the opinion of Prof. J. P. McMurrich in his lecture in the science building of Toronto University recently.

Each year the salmon production varied, and the amount of catch should be regulated accordingly by an international commission.

Big "runs" only came every four years. During the last big run in 1905, $8,000,000 worth of salmon was canned. The catches were diminishing. Canada was sending 26,000,000 pounds of salmon to Great Britain yearly; to Australia 2,000,000 pounds, and to the eastern provinces 7,000,000 pounds.

Since the great bulk of Pacific salmon went to Great Britain and Australia, it was not a local question but an imperial issue, and, as the conditions were different each year the Empire should see to regulating each year's catch.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:

Insurance Companies Lose About $125,000.00 by the Wreck at Spanish River

Double Liability for About Twenty-five Persons

A loss somewhere in the neighbourhood of $125,000 is what the Accident Insurance Companies estimate the wreck at Spanish River bridge means to them.

They figure that about 25 of those who met death carried Accident Insurance, and the average insurance, according to the tables, is $5,000. In case of death in a railway disaster there is a double liability, making the figure $6,000, or $5,000 to be more conservative.

Their loss may total more than that, for the commercial travellers, a number of whom were killed, usually carry very heavy insurance. In addition, some of the companies make the policies payable on the death of the wife while travelling, though the policy is taken out in the husband's name. In such cases they pay the husband the same amount as they would have paid the wife were the husband killed.

We issue the BEST Accident and Sickness policy offered to the public.

CONTRIBUTED PRIZE POEM

The following poem was written by Mr. John Bissette Rose, son of Mrs. L. G. Rose, 524 Weller street, and won the first prize offered by the Carnival Committee, Montreal, for the best piece of verse appropos of the Carnival. Mr. Rose adopted the nom de plume of John R. Bissette. The poem is:—

THE CANADIAN WINTER.

What do we owe to Winter, in our wonderful Northern Land?
What do we owe to the sheets of snow, outspread by an All-Wise Hand?
What do we owe to the winds that blow, bracing, cold and clear?
They are gifts of God to be told abroad—not to be held in fear.

Safe below the sheltering snow, a mantle soft and deep,
The tender roots of luscious fruits, on Earth's warm bosom sleep;
At touch of Spring awakening, when fertile moisture yields,
The strength to bear, in fuller share, to forests and to fields.

Down many a mile of forest aisle, through branches hanging loose,
There echoes stroke on maple, oak, on hemlock, pine and spruce,
And woodmen's sleighs, on snow-built ways, wind to the river's side,
Where the logs plunge down to Timber Town, on the back of the swollen tide.

Rare and fine as a draught of wine, is a breath of a winter day,
When the sun shines bright on a realm of white, beneath the Frost King's sway,
Where skates ring true on a field of blue, and the swift toboggans glide,
Each fugue and rush, a meteor flash, on The snow-clad mountain side.

What do we owe to Winter? Men of a Northern breed,
With nerves of steel, courageous, leal in the hour of the Empire's need.
They are gifts of God, to be told abroad, that the world may understand
The debt we owe to winter, in our wonderful Northern Land.

John R. Bissette.

HANDS WORLD ITS LARGEST LEMON

Minnesota Convict Is a Rival of Burbank in Horticulture

St. Paul, Feb. 17.—The man who demonstrated that the grafting of lemon on pom pom trees would result in raising enormous fruit, decidedly more lemon than grapefruit, one of which weighed 48 ounces and had a circumference of 18 1-2 inches, is serving a life sentence in the Minnesota state prison.

He named it the "Minnesota lemon," and it has never been equalled. He produced the result after four years of effort. Numbers of large lemons were raised by him in the prison green houses in past years, but this year he surpassed all other efforts. The large one was the only lemon to mature this season on its tree. But on a tree that stands beside it there grew six, each weighing over two pounds. On Christmas he picked all the fruit but two.

The lemon trees are in bloom, and stand among other plants in the prison greenhouse.

"Sinbad the Sailor" is the name by which he is known about the prison. He is in for life under the name of Charles Price. He was formerly known by the name of George Parsons. He was received at the prison December 18, 1899, from Washington county, under a life sentence for the murder of a fellow tramp in North St. Paul. They were train hands, and both were intoxicated.

Price was born in Ohio. His father died when he was two years of age. At the age of ten he began life as a sailor on Lake Erie. From the Great Lakes he went to sea service and made many trips to the South Sea Islands. He is now sixty-one years old.

"Sinbad" is a model prisoner, and wears a first grade uniform. Not even the Younger brothers while in prison had more privileges than have been accorded to him. He goes about the prison yard and to the lawn of the warden's residence at will during the day in discharge of his duties as landscape gardner and greenhouse superintendent. All gates open to him during day hours. He is allowed even to converse with visitors. He has knives and tools at his disposal, and is watchful of other prisoners who are allowed the freedom of the park in summer and about the greenhouses. He is regarded as an oracle and a philosopher. His stories of his wanderings are interesting, and he talks entertainingly on botany and other subjects. Lemon growing is only one of his efforts. He has other rare plants in the prison greenhouse.

MAN KILLS RATS WITH HIS HANDS

A Greenwich, Conn., despatch says: As a destroyer of rats Arthur Crawford, foreman at Conyer's Manor, the estate of 1,500 acres of E. C. Converse, the steel magnate, has the Pied Piper of Hamelin beaten "seventeen up and one to play," as Converse himself, who is president of the Fairfield County Golf Club, would term it. Like Hamelin town itself, Convey's Manner has been suffering from a plague of rats. Converse, who is admitted to be the most successful gentleman farmer east of the Mississippi, has been at his wits' end because of their depredations in his henneries, which are about the finest in New England. Converse, like Hamelin's mayor, issued a call for some one to rid him of the pests. Up stepped Foreman Crawford, saying he could do the job. He began operand did pretty well, for he killed 216 rats in half an hour. His methods are not quite as picturesque as those of the Pied Piper, but they are pretty nearly as effective. He covered his hands with "bite proof" gloves, had the floor of the henneries taken up, and calmly delved down into the rats' nests and pulled up the frightened rodents one rat a time, breaking their necks and flinging them aside and then reaching down for more. Those that escaped from the nests he killed with a club. He vows to exterminate every rat on the place in a week.

DR. CARL LUEGER REPORTED DYING

Famous Austrian Anti-Semite Leader is in a Critical Condition

Vienna, February 19.—Dr. Carl Lueger, anti-Semite leader, and burgomaster of Vienna, is dying.

Dr. Carl Lueger was born in Vienna, October 24, 1844. He was graduated from Vienna University, was admitted to the bar, and practised law until 1896.

When Dr. Lueger was still a student, he gave much attention to political matters, and in 1875, when elected a member of the Vienna municipal council, he joined the Democratic party. Subsequently he left the Democrats, and joined the anti-Semitic party, and in 1885, was elected to the Lower Australian House as a representative of this political organization. Later he became the leader of the Anti-Semitics.

Dr. Lueger repeatedly expressed himself in public as opposed to the great degree of admiration with which all men who follow the profession of medicine are considered in Austria, and his utterances on this subject made him many enemies among the doctors of the country.

He was elected Mayor of Vienna in 1895, but confirmation of his election was opposed by the administration, and it was only after a long contest that the election was recognized.

MI-O-NA

Relieves Stomach Misery Almost Instantly

If the food you ate at your last meal did not digest, but laid for a long time like lead in your stomach, then you have indigestion and quick action should be taken.

Of course there are many other symptoms of indigestion, such as belching up of sour food, heartburn, dizziness, shortness of breath and sour breath, and if you have any of them, your stomach is out of order and should be corrected.

Mi-o-na tablets have cured thousands of cases of indigestion and stomach trouble. If you have any stomach distress, Mi-o-na will relieve instantly.

But Mi-o-na unlike most so-called dyspepsia remedies, does more than relieve; it permanently cures dyspepsia or any stomach trouble by putting energy and strength into the walls of the stomach, where the gastric juices are produced.

A large box of Mi-o-na tablets costs but 50 cents at Wm. Madill's, the druggists, and are guaranteed to cure or money back. When others fail, Mi-o-na cures. It is a producer of flesh when the body is thin; it cleanses the stomach and bowels; purifies the blood and makes rich red blood.

HOW AN EX-SHAH LIVES IN EXILE

Late Ruler of Persia Enthusiastic Over New Interests in Odessa

From the ceaseless turmoil of foreign affairs many strange and tragic figures emerge; some withdraw disillusion, others are thrust forth as the current of a stream whirls twigs from its eddies into some dark and secluded backwater. Of these none are more strange than the exiles whose authority and occupation in high affairs is suddenly torn from them, to be replaced by a life of futile effort, trival pastime, and empty honors, which often hide a sneer.

By some strange metamorphosis of character Mohammed Ali, the ex-Shah of Persia, is in banishment a very different person from the indolent, sensuous, and obstinate monarch of the days of power. Coming to Odessa from the Eastern to the Western World, he has found a whole range of interests of which he had always been ignorant. The change has not left him apathetic or contemptuous. He has welcomed it with enthusiasm. His strenuous activities and newly cultivated pursuits are a revelation to his household. He has entered upon a course of European instruction, and is proving himself both an apt and intelligent student.

His new programme began with visits to the chief industrial establishments in the city, and he at once showed remarkable perception in grasping the details of the scientific and other processes explained to him. Among other things the mysteries of the production of a daily newspaper have been revealed to him, and on one occasion he even spent three hours inspecting the Central Odessa Prison. In his recreations Mohammed Ali patronizes the theatres, the cafe-chantants, and the race course. He cruises in the harbor in a steam cutter, and his latest ambition is to make a balloon ascent.

By no means prepossessing in appearance, Mohammed Ali is short, rather stout, squat in build, short necked, bullet headed, and sallow in complexion. His features are redeemed by his piercing black eyes. He dresses simply in dark, close-fitting black Persian headdress.

DAILY LIFE.

This energetic exile is an early riser. Before the weather became severe he might be seen regularly taking his coffee on the balcony of his mansion, which commands a magnificent sea view. A little later he would promenade the garden with his two young sons, Mohammed Mehdi Mirza and Mohammed Hassan Mirza, aged, respectively, 7 and 5, to whom he is fondly devoted. From 9 to 11 the ex-Shah deals with his correspondence, which is of no small volume, and dictates despatches and telegrams to a couple of Persian secretaries. From 11 to noon, on alternate days, he applies himself with creditable zeal to the study of Russian literature under the tuition of a local professor. Between midday and 1 o'clock dejeuner is served. The menus, both at luncheon and dinner, consists of a combination of Persian and European dishes. On Mohammed Ali's arrival here a local restaurateur was engaged to cater for the royal table and for the household, but subsequently his services were dispensed with and replaced by those of a special chef summoned from Teheran.

After lunch the ex-Shah takes his 'constitutional,' but never on foot. He usually drives in a motor car or a pair-horsed victoria, and occasionally he is seen in the saddle. When riding in motor car or carriage he is sometimes accompanied by his official host, the city prefect, but more frequently by some member of his suite, his Russian Adjutant, and a dragoman. The latter is more or less indispensable, as His Majesty's drives generally include a call of inspection at some place of interest or public works. The only and scarcely noticeable bodyguard is a police officer in muffi, who follows at some little distance in the wake of the royal equipage.

THE EXILE'S VISITORS.

The appearance of the ex-Shah in the streets has become so familiar to the citizens that he no longer attracts any public attention. The only salute he receives are those from the police and police inspectors on point duty. Mohammed Ali is quick and alert in movement, but of invariably serious demeanor; he is gracious and amiable to those about him, but is never seen to smile. He dines at 5.30 sometimes with his wife and children, on which occasions no one else is present, but when the dinner is not a family party his Russian adjutant and a few members of the suite are invited to the royal table. Modern music by a small local orchestra frequently forms part of the evening's entertainment.

The ex-Shah's principal visitors are Gen. Kouphkans, Gen. Tolmatcheff (the Prefect), the Mayor, and a few other local dignitaries. It is a rigid rule of the royal exile never to discuss his country's affairs with his official hosts or visitors. It is exclusively with his own Persian entourage that home matters are debated in the privacy of His Majesty's Cabinet. One not infrequently hears the question asked whether Mohammed Ali Shah, domiciled in this country, may not, in certain eventualities, prove to be a trump card in Russia's capricious sleeve. Were it not for the existence of the Anglo-Russian entente there might indeed be some substantial basis for that hypothesis. The royal exile may possibly entertain some latent hope of his restoration to the throne of the Kajars, but he never divulges his innermost thoughts to those about him, and, for the present, he remains the honored and luxurious'y domiciled guest of the Great White Czar.

RUSSIAN HOSPITALITY.

Mohammed Ali's harem consists of thirteen women. They are frequently seen in public, but always thickly veiled, of course, going to and from the Slavianski public baths under the escort of the chief eunuch and a police guard. A lady of my acquaintance, who happened to be at the baths on one occasion when the harem arrived, and who saw the women unveiled, tells me that she did not consider any of them particularly prepossessing—that is, from the Western standpoint of feminine beauty. With two or three stout exceptions, they were young, of good figure, and passably good looking, and they had all the same nonchalant and dreamy expression.

The ex-Shah's palace in the Gogol street, is a two-storied, forty-roomed mansion of old Gothic architecture, and standing within its own grounds. It is sumptuously furnished throughout, partly in Persian and partly in European style. The cost of the interior equipment, of carriages, horses and motor car, and the rent for one year (1,200) is borne by the Czar's private Cabinet. Mohammed Ali is in all respects treated as a royal guest of Russia, and the hospitality accorded him certainly leaves nothing to be desired except a personal audience of the Czar, and that favor his Imperial Majesty has politely but firmly declined to grant.—B. POPULAR WEDDING GIFTS.

New Things to Vary the Monotony of the Butter Knife.

The most popular wedding present of the moment is miniature furniture of the Sheraton and Chippendale period, and little chests of drawers, armchairs, tables and bureaus, just big enough for a fair sized doll's requirements, are being diligently searched for in the old curio shops.

These pieces of furniture, handed down from the classic period of English cabinetmaking, are exquisitely made and finished and altogether perfect specimens of the maker's art.

The miniature chests of drawers and bureau serve as jewel cases, the small top drawers taking the rings and brooches and the bracelets and necklaces being safely stored in the larger drawers. Not so long ago they could be picked up for small sums, but now choice specimens command high prices, and as the price is likely to go up still further they are profitable investments.

Old silver is a favorite wedding present, and more than one bride this season has been given one of the beautiful old silver toilet services of the Stuart period. They are for only very wealthy brides, however, for the price runs sometimes into the thousands.

Old cut glass makes a handsome present, but it should be bought with care, for there are many spurious imitations.

But the present most prized by dainty brides is old lace, the price of which goes up and up each year. There are many societies and organizations acting as distributing agents for modern laces, and very beautiful many of these laces, reproductions of the old patterns, are, but old lace comes rarely into the market. Few dealers indeed specialise in it, and the old lace sales in a year can almost be counted on the fingers of one hand.

A quaint little present, also from the antique shop, is a little silver or enamel patch box.

SHOES ON THE PIANO.

Little Device Said to Be Superior to the Metal Caster.

A sliding shoe has been invented to take the place of the caster on heavy pieces of furniture, and it is said these may be used with the advantage that they do not mar the floor of its covering, whatever their character may be. They are especially recommended for polished floors. The device consists of a rounded button of porcelain or glass, fitted with a split spring stem, which prevents it from dropping out when the piece of furniture is lifted from the floor. The two parts are jointed by a ball and socket joint, by means of which the portion coming in contact with the floor is permitted to adjust itself to any irregularities of the surface over which it may be passing. These were originally made for use on pianos, so that the instruments might be moved around at will, but it has been found necessary to make them in a number of different sizes for different articles of furniture.

Praises French Mothers.

The Duchess de Chaulnes, who is visiting in this country with her mother, says that one thing she has learned during her residence in France is that young society women in that country take better care of the children than American mothers do. She says that when the child is as young as three years old it is allowed to sit at the luncheon table with its mother and members of the family and there learns table manners and the art of table talk in such a way that it is never awkward or at a loss in after years. She intends, she says, to bring up her boy in that way and scores those mothers who go out with their pug dogs while time serving persons are taking care of their children.

Make Home Happy.

Make the home life as happy as you can for the children. Many a boy goes astray not through lack of care and training, but because home life is not made as happy as it might be. Children, while they are young and impressionable, should be surrounded with happiness. It is as essential to their well being as sunshine is to flowers. If, as they grow up, they find that happiness is not to be had at home they soon learn to look for it elsewhere.

Flags of War.

There has just been deposited in the archives department a number of flags which good Canadians will revere. They were borne by loyal men in the war of 1812, and, blood-besmeared and bullet-torn, are hanging on the walls of the new building, set aside as sacred to Canadian history.

The flags are those of the 4th and 5th Regiments of the incorporated militia of Upper Canada, the 100th Artillery, the Royal Emigrants, the 1st Canadian Regiment, the Quebec militia of 1775, and the Royal Engineers.

The flags of the 1st Regiment, the 4th Regiment, and the Quebec Militia are badly tattered and torn and indicate the severity of their engagements.

The two flags of the Royal Emigrants are curious. They are home-made, woven on small worsted square made, woven on small worsted squares, with poles of lances. All of the flags were given to Dr. Doughty's care by the Militia Department.

A Venturesome Countess.

The Countess of Minto, who, with her husband, narrowly escaped being killed by a bomb-thrower in India, has had several exciting adventures. Once she journeyed with her husband from Ottawa to Montreal in Canadian canoes and camped out at night, while on another occasion she startled Canada by riding on the cowcatcher of a locomotive in far-away Klondike, and seated on this dangerous perch, took a number of snapshots of the quickly-flying scenery. On another occasion the wing of the house in which she was sleeping caught fire, and she was only rescued in the nick of time by her husband.

AT TWO O'CLOCK TO-DAY HENDERSON HAD NOT HEARD OF WOMAN DYING

Apparently life behind iron bars has not a depressing effect on Robert Henderson, who is incarcersted in the county gaol. He has not yet been made acquainted with the fact that he will be called upon to answer for the taking of another's life, now that the victim of his cruel assault at Norwood has passed from this earth. In all probability the news will be taken to him by one of the gaol officials within a short time but it is likely that he will receive it with the same indifference which he showed when first charged with assault and which has marked his demeanor during his confinement in the gaol. Aside from his indifference he acts not unlike the average prisoner. He has very little to say, and when he does converse with his gaoler, avoids all reference to the case. He sleeps well and eats his meals regularly.

When a Review reporter called at the gaol this afternoon at two o'clock Henderson had not been told that Margaret McPherson was dead.

AN OLD GAME WAS WORKED SUCCESSFULLY ON HAVELOCK AUDIENCE

Special to Review.

Havelock, Feb. 18.—The home of Mr. Ed. Carr, a Belmont farmer, who resides about two miles east of the village, was completely destroyed by fire on Wednesday afternoon. The house was a new one, only built last summer. Most of the household effects downstairs were recovered before the flames reached them, but nearly everything upstairs was destroyed. The loss on the house is partly covered by insurance, but on the household effects there was none.

The cause of the fire is not known.

Miss Robson, of Norwood, was in town on Wednesday.

Mrs. A. G. Barret is visiting with friends in Belleville.

Mr. Jno. Weir, of Norwood, was in town on Wednesday.

Mrs. P. O. Nelson has returned from visiting friends in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ackerman and Miss Ackerman, of Picton, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. M. Spencer.

Mr. Walter Yare, of West Toronto, spent Sunday last in town.

Master Mowat Garret took part in the programme of the kindergarten department of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music recital in Peterborough on Friday night, when he gave a cornet solo.

Mrs. Wm. Webb and Miss Lillian Webb were in Toronto on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Green entertained a number of friends on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Jas. Fowler was in Peterborough on Wednesday.

The home of Mr. Sim McGill caught fire on Tuesday evening but was soon extinguished with slight damage to household effects.

Thursday, Feb. 17th, was pay day for the C. P. R. employees at this point.

Mr. Joseph Harrison has been engaged as caretaker of the Amity Club rooms and from now on the members will find the rooms warm and comfortable at any time they wish to visit them.

Services will be conducted in St. John's church on every Thursday evening during the Lenten season.

High Mass in the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel will be conducted by Father Meagher of St. Peter's Cathedral staff, Peterborough, at 10 o'clock on every other Sunday instead of 9.30 as formerly.

Wm. Reid, a vagrant arrested on Friday night last by Chief Bennet and who refused to leave town when released, was given twenty-one days in the county jail at Peterborough by Magistrates Joyce and Mathison.

A travelling amusement Co. is the name of a free show syndicate that operated in Havelock on Thursday with good results to themselves, but to the sorrow of some of their many patrons. On Thursday morning the company arrived in town and having rented the hall for advertising purposes, proceeded to decorate the town with literature that soon takes the eye of the small boy and seemingly the older persons also. The bills which were freely distributed, called for a grand free show containing a very elaborate programme, and during the evening $50 to be given away gratis. When the grand event of the evening opened at 8 o'clock, the opera house was crowded to the doors, with many grown-ups on hand, as the bills called for children to be accompanied by adults. After a few preliminary numbers to get the audience interested, the members of the show proceeded to sell watches at $5 each. When several had been disposed of the company true to their promises to give $50 away, handed back the purchasers of the watches their five-dollar bills and allowed them to keep the watches. Those present then became really interested and when they began selling watches at $10 each they were eagerly snapped up, those present expecting they were going to get their cash back as before. But when they had sold all the watches possible they started in on some other article much to the sorrow of the latter purchasers. So the evening proceeded. First an article would be sold and the money handed back and then when the audience purchased heavily there would be no cash rebate. Many lines were sold including watches, razors, rugs, forks, knives and towels. When the spirit of the audience became depressed they revived them by giving $5 for $4, and so on till the pocket books of the purchasers became very low. Before the show ended several amusing stunts were put on, but this part of the programme was not really enjoyed by some of the audience. The company left on the first train for other points carrying with them the opinions that some of the citizens of town are really sports when it comes to a game of chance.

The opinion of the Port Hope Times re the assault in the McPherson home that these two old ladies had no right to be living alone as they did is not held very favorably by the citizens of Havelock or Norwood. Is it not safe for a person to live at the present time in this civilized country of ours how or in what way they wish? These two old ladies living in the most public place possible, a corner where five roads ran out in different directions in the country and hardly a quarter of an hour passing without someone passing their home. Furthermore, to the east but 100 yards is situated another house at so short distance that it would be possible to communicate in time of trouble. Furthermore, these two old ladies were strong and rugged enough to defend themselves against any attack if it had not been done in such a brutal manner. It is contended that these two old ladies were not any more liable to assault than any ordinary person living in any place or in any way.

NEW MATERIAL FOR ROADS

Asphalt is perhaps one of the very best road-building materials in use to-day. The facility with which this substance can be molded, the rapidity with which it hardens, the comparative ease of repair, testify to its merits. But asphalt has disadvantages, and decided ones at that. It is costly special plants for heating the powder and skilled workmen to lay and roll the heavy substance being required. Hence small towns cannot well afford to make use of asphalt and even many large cities hesitate to make use of this valuable substance despite its obvious merits.

Now in combination with rubber—rubber-asphalt,—asphalt loses many of these disadvantages. According to M. Mazerolle, the French engineer, who presided at the International Road Congress held in Paris not long ago, excellent results have been obtained with the new material, and its chief advantages are the facility with which rubber-asphalt can be laid and the few and simple utensils required for laying it. Best of all it can be applied cold.

To bring about this combination of rubber and asphalt, the two substances are placed together in a special mixing apparatus. The asphalt is introduced in the form of a fine powder, the rubber swollen and softened by a solvent. The resultant material is a brown powder of a darker color than the original asphalt, and requiring only compression to settle and harden quickly. The surface then takes on a lighter tint, and, after a few days exposure to the air, becomes a greyish white.

Much thinner layers of the asphalt-rubber material, than of asphalt alone, can be used, inasmuch as the mixture forms a harder substance. This is an important recommendation in addition to the advantage of ease and facility in preparing and laying.

The new preparation stands the test of time well. If a section of the pavement is taken up after long usage it is found to be equally hard at base and surface. A striking contrast with the older material is shown when rubber-asphalt is repaired. It suffices to polish the fractured edge of the old layer where the mending is to be affected, inorder that the new layer may adhere. Then fresh material is mixed and prepared on the spot, is laid down cold, and is compressed quickly into place. Traffic may be resumed immediately on the completion of the work. Only a few minutes are required for the entire process.—From "Rubber and Asphalt for Roads." in the March Technical World Magazine.

SOUTH DOURO'S FARMERS' CLUB

Was Organized by Mr. H. C. Duff at Special Meeting—The Officers

Douro, Feb. 19.—On Wednesday, the 16th inst., a large number of South Douro farmers met for the purpose of discussing the advisability of establishing a Farmers' Institute Club at this place.

Mr. H. C. Duff, of Norwood, was present and explained very fully the meaning of the Farmers' Club, and the work they are doing.

Mr. M. D. Sullivan was appointed chairman and P. Moher, warden, secretary, pro tem.

Mr. Duff then went into details more fully and thoroughly explained the benefits which might be derived from the formation of a Farmers' Club at this place, and by a show of hands the entire meeting decided to give it a trial.

The chairman then read the constitution and by-laws which were adopted, and the following officers were elected:—

President—Mr. M. D. Sullivan.
Vice-President—M. Moloney.
Sec'y-Treas.—P. D. Leahy.
Directors—J. Kennedy, M. O'Brien.
Auditors—Wm. Allen, F. Walsh.

The club will hold its next meeting on March 3rd, at 7.30 p.m., when there will be a debate, subject: "Resolved, that it is more profitable to sell your grain than to feed it on the farm." It is also expected that the membership will be largely increased at this meeting.

1909 WAS BAD YEAR FOR BRITISH BANKS

Savings of the Nation Reported by All the Managers to be Alarmingly Stationary

The bankers of London are glad to see the back of the year 1909, judging from the remarks made at the annual meetings. They also agree in the view that no really important improvement in trade and the general condition of the country can take place until the public confidence becomes normal and the government of the country becomes more settled.

M. O. Fitzgerald, who presided at the meeting of the National Provincial Bank of England, one of the largest institutions in Great Britain, with a capital of $80,000,000, said that when they met last January the country was still suffering from the American panic of 1906-7, and there was no indication of immediate improvement. The present year began with more cheerful prospects.

England's great industries, with one notable exception, the cotton industry of Lancashire, which is suffering from a scarcity of its raw material, are in the main actively employed, and similar accounts come from all quarters of the globe. The production of gold, moreover, continues to increase, and reached the total of $460,000,000 last year, against $310,000,000 in 1908 an increase in ten years of nearly 50 per cent. This, be considered, could not fail to be a favorable influence.

On the other hand, there were the perennial uncertainties of crops and of politics. There was in some quarters a fear that capital for industrial purposes might not be forthcoming, the ground being that the savings of the nation were alarmingly stationary, and also that capital was going abroad in unusual amounts.

There was little doubt, the speaker continued, that savings had not accumulated in the past decade as rapidly as in previous years. Now could it be otherwise? For in that period England had to pay some $1,000,000,000 of war expenses, and there had been a further immense waste of capital in the Russo-Japanese war and in the San Francisco earthquake.

Another influence which would prove a more or less permanent one was the increasing extravagance in public and private expenditure. As regards capital going abroad, it went almost entirely to India, the colonies and foreign countries which provide England with food and raw material. If, therefore, British savings had not accumulated so rapidly, the capacity of the nation to save might not have been greatly diminished. Up to the present there was nothing to show, he continued, that there was any scarcity of capital for legitimate enterprise.

Viscount Goschen, chairman of the London County and Westminster Bank, whose capital is $70,000,000, also said that the last year had not been a favorable one for bankers. During the greater part of the year rates were low, and the period when they were favorable was too short to provide adequate compensation.

Next April the war loan was to be repaid. It was most probable that there would be large borrowings both in England and abroad. America would not likely be borrowing for railway developments, as it was certain if there was a great increase in her trade she would need money for that purpose, and these influences would affect the money market in the coming year.

THE RABIES SCARE

The Review has been asked to publish the following letter which appeared in the Toronto Mail and Empire on Saturday:

To the Editor of the Mail and Empire.

Sir,—A paragraph in your paper has been brought to my notice by several people owning pet dogs who hold licenses for the same, and which are properly tagged, to the effect that such dogs have to be muzzled when outside the premises of the owners, and that on and after the 23rd inst. dog catchers will corral all dogs found on the streets unmuzzled and they will be destroyed.

This order, I understand, was made by the Police Commissioner, by whose order I do not know. At any rate, the order is illegal as applied to a dog that is properly tagged, whose owner holds a license for said dog until the 1st of May next, and where there is no proof of any madness, rabies or maliciousness on the part of the dog in question. I think the dog has as much right to the use of the pavement as the policeman on his beat or the dog-catcher on the road with his waggon.

In any case, the scare is a perfectly absurd one, with no foundation except a lot of silly stories. My excuse I have been asked to do so.

Yours, etc.,
BARRISTER.

MILK COMMISSION PRESENTS REPORT TO THE LEGISLATURE

Important Document is Laid on Table of Ontario House—One Plain and Comprehensive Act is Necessary to Remedy the Evil.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—One of the most carefully prepared documents dealing with a subject of general public interest which has ever been presented to the legislature is the report of the milk commission, which was laid on the table yesterday afternoon.

The commission finds the present law cumbersome and ineffective. While the health officer of the Department may inspect at the source of supply, he cannot enforce improvements without the concurrence of the local health officer, who often has no special interest in the matter, and is not paid for the extra demands which would be made on his time. The enforcement of municipal inspection regulations has been confined to the city vendor or extended to the farm in a merely perfunctory manner.

"Municipalities should be given authority to fix the standard of butter fat and total solids, but a provincial definition of adulteration should be adopted." The latter is to include milk containing more than 88 per cent. water or fluids, less than 12 per cent. fats, milk drawn from animals within 15 days before or five after parturition, from animals fed on distillery waste, or any substance in a state of fermentation or putrefaction, or on any unwholesome food, from cows kept in a crowded or unhealthy condition, milk from which any part of the cream has been removed, diluted with water, or any other fluid, or with any foreign substance introduced, milk over 55 degrees Fahrenheit.

Every city and town should have a system of thorough inspection by a veterinary, the municipalities being given authority commensurate with their responsibility.

In the practical recommendations for the farm, first importance is given to cleanliness and coldness at every stage in the handling of milk. Other recommendations are: Repeated limewashing of the barn, removal of the dung to at least 50 feet from the barn, draining or grading of the barnyard, cement floors for stables, with plenty of sunlight and ventilation, clipping of the hind quarters and udders of the cows for the winter, brushing of cattle before milking, first drawn milk to be discharged, immediate removal of milk from the stable, scrupulous care as to personal cleanliness of the milker.

"It is not to be expected," the report continues, "that any revolution can be wrought in a week or a month." Two great difficulties are the tenant farmer and the man with the old barn.

"The tuberculous cow must go. With 1,075,496 milch and 1,595,088 other cattle in the province, according to the figures of 1909, even the lowest estimate of five per cent. means there are over 125,000 more or less tuberculous animals. It is to be feared, however, that the true total would be nearer double that number. One of the most potent causes of the disease in this province is the low, dark, close, foul-smelling stables in which are cattle are housed.

The most frequent cause of infection in cases of typhoid, scarlet fever and diphtheria is from persons with one of the diseases, milking or handling the milk.

Care should be given to the transportation and retailing. "Milk should be sold in shops only in bottles, except in shops restricted to dairy products." The larger cities, at least should maintain bacteriological laboratories and tests.

Pasteurization is declared to be an expedient, but not an ideal. If done at all it should be done properly. No milk should be sold as pasteurized unless held at 140 degrees for at least 20 minutes. Milk raised to 165 degrees for 30 seconds should be sold as "heated." Similar legal protection should be extended to "certified" milk.

The commission is of opinion that attention to these recommendations would not materially increase the price to the consumer. "Maintaining a sanitary standard in bakeshops," they pertinently pointed out, "has not affected the price of bread nor driven bakers out of business."

Every person engaged in the trade has been allowed to tender," said Hon. W. J. Hanna, when the question of estimates for the supply of provisions to public institutions was up in committee of supply in the Legislature yesterday afternoon. "All that we ask is that he be in the trade, and then we don't ask his politics. We are not paying dollars for the privilege of doing business with our friends." Material savings had been effected, he stated, by closer attention to business methods. It might seem like red tape to weigh out the quantity of coal given to a furnaceman when he went on for his shift but that was the way money was saved.

Valentine Stock (S. Perth) suggested that as the cry was "back to the land," one of the best means of inducing this result would be for the Department to hold a fall show of its own, with prises for agricultural products grown by the young men and women.

Hon. J. S. Duff said, in answer that some of the agricultural societies were already doing this. Nothing had been done by the Government as yet.

Hon. W. J. Hanna paid a strong tribute to the prison gate work of the Salvation Army. Probably they would do this work, even if not a cent were granted, but they could not do as much of it. No organization that he knew of could do the work as efficiently.

Allan Studholme (East Hamilton) contended that the money granted to the aid of the rescue home of the army did not always find its way to the work and to the persons it was intended for. He advised the members of the Government to "tramp it some day; don't go as members of the Government; put on some old clothes and go down to one of these homes, and then you'll find out how the money is being spent."

DOMINION MILLER'S BILL IS SENT BACK TO COMMITTEE

Hon. G. P. Graham Introduces His Bill to Amend the Railway Act—H. P. Miller Sharply Criticized for Sending Out a Pamphlet Reviewing the Anti-Betting Evidence.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Several matters of more than ordinary importance came before the Commons yesterday.

Hon. W. S. Fielding moved that the name of W. R. Smyth (East Algoma), be substituted on the public accounts committee for that of H. B. Ames, who is ill of typhoid in Alexandria, Egypt.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham introduced his promised bill to amend the railway act. It contains a number of important provisions including:

(1) That the Railway Commissioners can deal with works of companies which have proceeded with the location of lines without first getting the authority of the board.

(2) That Canadian railways may appoint as vice-presidents with certain defined duties, men who are not members of the board of directors.

(3) Deals with the erection of wires over tracks, when such action is necessary before the issuance of an order by the board.

(4) Deals with the necessity for brakemen riding on the rear end of locomotives. Mr. Graham explained that brakemen recognize the necessity of this in crowded railway yards, but object to doing it over certain portions of lines of railways on the ground that in cold weather it constitutes a hardship.

(5) Provides that Canadian railways may give transportation to former employes or members of the interstate commerce commission of the United States.

The bill to incorporate the London and Lake Erie Railway and Transportation Co. was given a third reading. Mr. Graham said that the rights of the municipalities had been safeguarded.

The bill respecting the Dominion Millers' Association was referred back again to the special committee to give an opportunity to parties interested to be heard. Hon. Frank Oliver opposed the bill. "So long as there appears to be on the face of it an attempt to form a merger."

Dr. Schaffer (Souris, Man.) thought there ought to be a thorough explanation of the intention of the promoters.

Dr. Sproule (East Grey) said the bill gave the promoters power to form a monopoly against the farmers.

A. H. Clarke (South Essex) argued that the bill was to give smaller millers protection against bigger companies, giving them power to act as traders to buy and sell grain.

Hon. Wm. Pugsley also opposed the bill, remarking that if they had a little larger capital, it would provide a beautiful arrangement for a miller's trust against the farmers.

Major Sharpe (North Ontario) objected to the restriction of membership.

H. P. Miller (South Grey) on a question of privilege, defended his action in distributing a pamphlet reviewing the evidence laid before the anti-gambling committee, in spite of the fact that the argument has not been submitted. As introducer of the bill, he claimed he had the right to comment on the bill.

F. D. Monk (Jacques Cartier), one of the committee, said it was a serious infraction of the privileges of the House, and was unusual and irregular. It was strictly forbidden to refer in the House to the subject matter of the proceedings of the committee.

Richard Blain (Peel), another member of the committee, said it was not in the best interests that the introducer of a bill should be chairman of the investigation committee.

IRISHMEN TO DESERT LIBERALS IF BUDGET IS BROUGHT UP FIRST

Premier Asquith Announces in Commons That Financial Measure Will be First on List of Bills for New British House.

London, Feb. 22.—The players in the game of politics threw their cards on the table in the House of Commons yesterday.

The Government is without the allies necessary to carry legislation and the present prospect is the country will be stirred up by another general election within a few months.

Premier Asquith announced that the financial legislation will be put ahead of the proposals to curb the power of the House of Lords.

John E. Redmond, the Irish leader, declared flatly that the Nationalists would not support that program.

The Laborites are holding a meeting to decide their course. They probably will follow in the footsteps of the Irish members.

The Government may be able to adopt the budget by the grace of the Conservatives, who possibly will vote for it in order to avert financial chaos and keep the wheels of the Empire turning.

But the enactment of the budget will, as Mr. Redmond pointed out, leave the winning cards in the hands of the Lords, who then will be free to reject the bill for the reforming of their House, and force another election.

The meeting of Parliament was a momentous one, for the Cabinet's policy was not revealed to the country until the moment Premier Asquith took the floor.

Seldom in the history of the House of Commons, have its proceedings been watched with more intense interest. Mr. Redmond and his Irish colleagues controlled the course of events.

His pronouncement that the Irish members would not support the Prime Minister, was the sensation of the day, and it appears to have settled the administration's fate.

It is reported 25 Radicals have declared their intention of supporting Mr. Redmond against the Government's course, and that great pressure is being brought to bear from the Radicals to induce Mr. Asquith to resign forthwith.

Austen Chamberlain will propose an amendment to the King's speech in favor of tariff reform and imperial preference, at the same time deploring the failure of the Ministers to recognize in the speech the nature and gravity of the state of trade and employment.

One clause in the King's speech yesterday is regarded as significant. Referring to the proposed reform of the House of Lords, the speech contained the qualifying clause: "In the opinion of my advisers," which is interpreted as meaning that the King wants to disassociate himself from such proposals.

The King yesterday opened in state the third Parliament of his reign. In the course of his speech His Majesty said:

"Expenditures authorized by the last Parliament are being duly incurred, but as the revenue required to meet them has not been provided by imposition of taxation, recourse has been had under Parliamentary sanction to temporary borrowing.

"Arrangements are being made, however, to deal with the financial situation thus created."

Continuing, he said the requirements for the naval defence of the Empire had made it necessary to propose a substantial increase in the cost of the navy.

It is thought six or eight Dreadnoughts are to be provided for.

In concluding, His Majesty said: "Recent experience has disclosed serious difficulties, due to recurring differences of strong opinion between the two branches of the Legislature.

"Proposals will be laid before you with all convenient speed to define the relations between the Houses of Parliament, so as to secure the undivided authority of the House of Commons over finance and its predominance in legislation.

"These measures, in the opinion of my advisers, should provide that this House should be constituted and empowered as to exercise impartially in regard to proposed legislation the functions of initiation, revision and subject to proper safeguards of delay."

The reading of the speech occupied but four minutes. His Majesty was in better voice than usual and was plainly heard. He was expected to state definitely whether the budget or the bill to limit the power of the Lords should have preference. He failed to do so, but from the prominence he gave the budget in his speech and his reference to it, it is assumed the Government wishes it passed before the veto bill.

The first business to be transacted in the House of Commons was the adoption without division of motion deleting the sessional order prohibiting peers from participating in elections. At the conclusion of this business the debate on the address on the speech to the throne was begun.

In the course of debate in the House of Lords, on the address in reply to the King's speech, Lord Lansdowne, leader of the Opposition, said that if the House of Commons adopted the finance bill, the Lords were ready to expedite its passage, although the opinion with regard to it was unchanged.

The proposed sequence of events was clear, he said: First, the financial bill was to be disposed of, and then the veto power of the Lords was to go, in order that the way should be made clearer for home rule.

Lord Lansdowne expressed amazement at the audacity of the Government assuming the right to make such proposals on the strength of the recent elections.

"You think that is a sufficient mandate for pulling the constitution of the country to pieces, for breaking up the union and setting up a single chamber of the Government," he said. "I use the last expression advisedly, because, if the words of His Majesty's speech have any meaning at all, that is what they mean."

Lord Lansdowne insisted the Government obtained no such mandate and declared the real opinion of the House of Commons was against the Government.

Premier Asquith said he had neither received nor asked "guarantees from the King."

In his speech in the House of Lords, Lord Lansdowne said that if the Government was able to show that the Upper Chamber was constituted in a manner not conducive to the efficient discharge of its business, then the peers themselves were prepared to cooperate in finding a remedy. If the Government was not prepared to show this, the Lords were ready to draw up proposals of their own dealing with the question.

RENEWED RIOTING WHEN AN ATTEMPT WAS MADE TO RUN PHILADELPHIA CARS

Special to the Review.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb 22.—With the first attempts to run cars this morning rioting again broke out with renewed force. One man was shot through the chest and fatally hurt when a mob of 5,000 at Allegheny and Germantown avenues pulled a crowded car running on the Germantown avenue from the track and attacked the crew and guards. The police, several hundred strong, gathered from over a wide area and gave battle to the rioters injuring scores with their clubs. Many shots were fired. The car was overturned and pulled to pieces and an attempt was made to burn the wreckage.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

Fire in the business section of Hornell, N.Y., yesterday, caused $125,000 loss.

Ald. G. Y. Choun of Kingston has resigned the registrarship of Queen's University.

The G.T.R. station at the Port Huron end of the Sarnia tunnel was burned out; loss $3,000.

The Montreal Star editorially accuses both the political parties of trifling with the naval question.

Winston Churchill, talking of politics, is quoted as saying "the situation is certainly serious, but I think we will beat the beggars out yet."

At Windsor, Sunday afternoon, during the funeral of Miss Gladys Pennington, the floor of the House began to collapse during the service, resulting in a panic among the mourners.

Magistrate Campbell of St. Catharines allowed seven members of the Maryland Stock Co. their claim for wages against Manager Raleigh of the Grand Opera House, amounting in all to $103.

A summons has been issued to a Sharbot Lake hotelkeeper to appear before Magistrate Farrell of Kingston on Friday next to answer the charge of selling liquor to a C.P.R. engineer who was on duty.

"RATS" CAUSE OF LEPROSY?

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 22.—Acting on information received by the Board of Health that there are two girls in the city suffering from leprosy, caused by the wearing of "rats" made of Asiatic hair, G. A. Jordan, assistant health commissioner of St. Louis, announced yesterday, that he would begin an investigation into the sale of hirsute goods here.

SENATOR CHOQUETTE BEATEN AT POLLS

Quebec, Feb. 22.—Ald. Droin was yesterday elected mayor of Quebec by a thousand votes, defeating Hon. P. A. Choquette. Both were Liberals, but Droin was supported by ex-Premier Parent, chairman of the Transcontinental Commission, and the people evidently thought that it would be better if the railway and the City Council could be made to work in harmony.

Senator Choquette's election looked pretty sure ten days ago, but a wave set in for Droin.

The aldermen returned are pledged mostly to temperance and municipal reform.

GOES TO THE JURY TO-DAY

Foster-MacDonald Libel Suit at Toronto is Nearing Conclusion.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—Evidence adduced yesterday in the Foster Macdonald libel suit showed that two agreements of sale were made out concerning the transfer of the Kamloops property to the Union Trust Co.

In one the consideration was placed at $335,000, and in the other at $170,000.

Peter Ryan, the vendor of the property, testified that he received but $170,000, while some $50,000 had gone to George Fowler, the intermediary between himself and the Union Trust. It was further shown that the plaintiff, Mr. Foster, received a sum of money from Fowler about the time the first payment on the property was made by the Union Trust.

A legal demand was made on Mr. Foster yesterday to produce his bank book, and in failing that to go into the box and testify regarding deposits to his account during the period of the negotiations for the Kamloops property. Mr. Foster did not produce his bank book.

"We are here to give evidence on that matter," put in I. F. Hellmuth, counsel for Mr. Foster.

It is understood that Chancellor Boyd will take the stand to-day and testify regarding the light in which Mr. Foster's private dealings with George W. Fowler was viewed by the Union Trust directors.

Considerable time was taken up yesterday with wordy battles between counsel regarding the propriety of putting in the findings of the royal commission, which investigated the Union Trust affairs in 1906. Mr. Johnston, K.C., finally won out and the findings were put in.

Unless the plaintiff decides to offer evidence in rebuttal, it is probable that the case will go to the jury to-day.

Juryman Dropped Dead.

New York, Feb. 22.—Henry Brunner, a Brooklyn merchant, dropped dead in the jury box yesterday as he stood to answer to his name at the roll call. He answered "present," turned as if to sit down, and fell in a heap on the floor.

HAS HEIR TO VAST ESTATE BEEN FOUND?

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 22.—A hundred days' wrangle over the rightful claimant to the $750,000 estate of the late Daniel Russell of Melrose, has not only marked the case as the Jarndyce and Jarndyce of Massachusetts jurisprudence, but has developed sufficient testimony to warrant criminal action no matter which way the scales of justice fall.

A tall, dark-haired, well tanned man from the plains of North Dakota stands before the Middlesex probate court, either as the long lost son of his father or an accomplished impostor. He says he is Daniel Blake Russell, the second son of Daniel Russell, who disappeared when a boy, and that he did not hear of his father's death until a year after the estate had been practically settled.

Opposite stands Wm. C. Russell, the elder son and principal beneficiary under the will, surrounded by an array of the highest-priced lawyers in the state, who set up the defence that the North Dakota giant is really James Rousseau of Malone, N.Y., and that he has been backed in his fight for the Russell property by a particularly clever group of gamblers in or about Dickinson, N.D.

The case to date has cost $200,000.

RUMORS ABOUT QUEBEC CABINET

Montreal, Feb. 22.—The unfavorable news regarding the health of Hon. Charles Devlin, in France, would appear to foreshadow the entry of the newly-elected member for Gaspe to the local Cabinet at an early date. It is stated here that Mr. Perron will become Minister of Mines and Colonization and that Hon. Mr. Devlin will either replace Hon. Hector Fabre in Paris or accept the position of Quebec agent in London, created last session.

Mr. Perron will be a fine acquisition to the debating power of the Quebec Cabinet, although he is not a great orator. He is a very able lawyer, and is already accepted as Attorney-General, under Hon. Mr. Taschereau, when Sir Lomer Gouin decides to leave the political arena and don the ermine of the Supreme Court bench.

A COMMISSION FOR PORT ARTHUR

Port Arthur, Feb. 22.—The mayor and Ald. King and Ruttan go to Toronto this week to ask the Ontario Legislature to give Port Arthur power to govern itself by a paid commission. If the legislation is granted a plebiscite will be taken during the year, so that if favorable, the new system can be put into effect Jan. 1, 1911.

ASSASSIN'S BULLET FATAL

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 22.—Boutros Pasha Ghali, the Egyptian Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, who was shot by a student Sunday, died at 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

It was at first thought the wounds were not serious.

A score of arrests of supposed accomplices have been made, and a quantity of literature seized that shows the assassination was carefully planned by the Nationalists.

IS LOADED WITH TYPHOID GERMS

New York, Feb. 22.—"Typhoid Mary," whose real name is withheld at the request of the New York health authorities, is a free woman again, after having been confined in charity hospitals off and on for three years.

After repeated cases of typhoid were discovered in families for which she had cooked, the authorities made an investigation which resulted in her detention, on the theory that she was a walking reservoir for typhoid germs, harmless to herself, but easily communicated to those whose food she cooked.

SMILES AT FUNERAL; WAS NO MOURNING

New York, Feb. 22.—The funeral of Neil Burgess, the actor, was held yesterday from a local mortuary chapel. The service was conducted by Mrs. Helen Temple Brigham, head of the Spiritual and Ethical Society.

There were no pall-bearers, but the chapel was filled. There were no mourning costumes, and in place of weeping and tears there were smiles.

CANNOT TREAT IN HOTEL ROOM

St. Catharines, Feb. 22.—If you are so unfortunate as to be compelled to live in a hotel, you cannot have a guest in of an evening and serve liquor to him if it is after prohibited hours. That was Magistrate Campbell's construction of the act in dealing with the case of John Quinn, proprietor of the Russell House yesterday morning.

BOY SHOOTS FATHER TO PROTECT SISTER

Childress, Texas, Feb 22.—Frank L. Craig was shot and instantly killed here yesterday by his 15-year-old son, Alberta, after the elder Craig, enraged at his daughter, Mrs. Ruth Hamlin, aged 18, had chased her into the yard, seized her by the hair and dragged her around for some distance threatening to cut her throat.

Shot In Queer Way.

Visiting Preacher Robbed In Church.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Rev. Astor R. Schrag of Yarmouth, N.S., preached twice at the First Congregational Church here Sunday. During the evening service he left his coat, gloves, scarf and hat in the vestry. When he was in the pulpit a thief "nabbed" the coat, scarf and gloves.

Sales Doubling Every Six Months

Wonderful Demand for a Wonderful Remedy.

During the past few years, the sales of "Fruit-a-tives" have doubled every six months. For the six months from January to July of this year, the sales of this popular medicine were more than twice greater than for any similar period since "Fruit-a-tives" was introduced to the public.

The National Drug & Chemical Company of Canada Limited, the largest wholesale drug house in the world—Lymans Limited of Montreal—and Lymans Brothers of Toronto—are buying "Fruit-a-tives" in 100 gross lots. 100 gross mean 14,400 boxes, which retail for $7,200.00. This gives some idea of the steady demand for these wonderful fruit liver tablets.

It is safe to say that "Fruit-a-tives" is on sale in every drug store and in departmental stores and general stores carrying medicines throughout the Dominion. Nor is the sale of "Fruit-a-tives" confined to Canada. In many parts of the United States, "Fruit-a-tives" is the standard family medicine and hardly a day passes that the Fruit-a-tives Company does not receive prepaid orders from our neighbors over the line.

The many testimonials, which have been published in the leading papers, are the most convincing evidence of the great value of "Fruit-a-tives".

THE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSIONER

The City Council last night decided to grant the Board of Trade $2,000 on condition that the Board raise an equal amount for the purpose of maintaining a commissioner of industries department. Officers of the Board of Trade state that the $2,000 to be raised by subscription is in sight so there is every reason to believe that Peterborough will have an opportunity of seeing what a commissioner of industries can do for the city in the way of development along industrial lines. The experiment is not going to be costly to the ratepayers. Two thousand dollars will not make a great deal of difference on or off the taxes. With the two thousand dollars raised by the Board of Trade, four thousand dollars and perhaps more, will be at the disposal of the department. With this sum the Board of Trade should be able to give the system a fair trial. If it is found to give results Peterborough will be under a debt of gratitude to the Board of Trade, which stepped in and took up the proposition when it was in a fair way of being shelved for a year.

SAMPLE OTTAWA METHODS

Last week more examples of the very peculiar methods of the Liberal Government at Ottawa were brought to light. It was decided to have dredging done at Beacom Bar and Courtney Bay in the harbor at St. John, N.B. Tenders were invited and the Dominion Dredging Company tendered at the rate of thirty-nine and a half cents per cubic yard for all the work, and the Maritime Dredging Company tendered at the rate of fifty cents a cubic yard for the work at Bar Harbor, and thirty-five cents a cubic yard for the Courtney Bay work. The tenders were worked out, that is, the estimated quantities at both places were taken as a basis to find out what the whole work would cost at the prices quoted in the tenders, and it was figured out that the Maritime company's tender was lower by $156,000, and that company was awarded the contract. But that did not end the matter. When the contract with the successful tenderer was entered into it was provided that it should be paid at the rate given in the Dominion Company's tender. The question is naturally asked if the tender of the Maritime Company was not the lowest, why did it receive the contract, and if it was the lowest why did it receive the contract; and if it was the lowest why is it paid at the rate given in the tender put in by the Dominion Company? The answer to this puzzle is found in the fact that the Maritime Dredging Company consists of close, personal business and political associates of the Minister at the head of the Department.

The Government's dealings with this Maritime Dredging Company in connection with the York Point slip at St. John, furnishes another illustration of its methods of doing business for the country. It was decided to have dredging done at this point, and before tenders were asked for Sir. Pugsley gave directions that this favored company should proceed with the work "on agreement to accept price at lowest tender accepted." The company accordingly proceeded with the work, and after a time tenders were called for. Mr. G. S. Mayes was willing to tender, but he vainly tried to get information, and finally wrote to the Department:

"Of course it is perfectly useless for me to tender, as it is quite evident that the work was, and is, intended for Messrs. Moore & Company. It would seem, to the ordinary mind, that the Government might save the expense of advertising."

Only one tender, that of the Maritime Company, was received, and of course [illegible] its president, no doubt agreed with his business competitor in the uselessness of the advertising for tenders, for in sending in the tender he wrote:

"We herewith enclose our tender for dredging work at York Point slip, St. John, N.B., duly executed by us. We are not enclosing any deposit cheque, as we have this work about completed."

There certainly was no intention of giving the work to anyone but the company that did it, and advertising for tenders when the work was "about completed" was an attempted blind that should not deceive anyone.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Windsor has adopted a by-law that children must not remain on the streets after nine o'clock at night. Peterborough has a curfew bell by-law, but the bell has not rung any night for many years.

"Hammer down the tax rate and see the city debt go up," says the Toronto News in one of its cartoons. More than one municipality has seen this done, and the time comes surely when the tax rate does go up.

It has become a regular part of the proceedings of temperance conventions to praise the Whitney Government for its enforcement of the liquor license laws as the Royal Templars did in their recent Grand Council meeting. And the enforcement of these laws is only an instance of the manner in which its duty is performed by this Government, which believes and acts on the belief that the business of the Province should be conducted on straightforward principles.

Toronto's effort to raise funds to build a new general hospital has been encouraged by the offer of Mr. John C. Eaton to erect the whole surgical wing, estimated to cost about $250,000, as a memorial to his father. The Queen City is naturally pleased with this generous contribution to a very worthy public institution. The hospital will be a city one, but the Province will be pleased to see the effort for the new hospital succeed.

A Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature was reported to have referred to "Sheeny Irishmen" in a speech on the budget, but he protested that he said "Sheeny iron men." This recalls an explanation given years ago by a Toronto politician of a misreading of a letter he wrote regarding a proposed railway charter transaction. He was represented as saying that "there must be something for the boy," while he asserted that he wrote for the company, using the abbreviated form Coy., and that this was purposely or otherwise misread boy. The nickname of "Boy" was applied to him so long as he remained in public life in spite of his reasonable explanation.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs Unchanged to Lower at Buffalo.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Liverpool and London cables quote live cattle (American) steady, at 12 1-2c to 13 1-2c, dressed weight; refrigerator beef higher, at 9 5-8c to 10c per lb.

Union Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 66 carloads, consisting of 1382 cattle, 163 sheep, 25 calves and 83 horses.

Exporters.

There were higher prices paid for cattle to kill at this city than was paid or at least reported paid, for export, as will be seen by the many sales reported below.

The only exporters, or at least cattle bought for export, were those purchased by Mr. Campbell being 284 in number, and weighing 1000 to 1300 lbs., at $5.35 to $5.90 per cwt. Export bulls were quoted at $4.75 to $5.25 per cwt.

Butchers.

There were a few, not more than half a dozen, cattle of prime quality that sold up to $6.25, and one load was reported at $6. Loads of good, $5.60 to $5.75, medium, $5 to $5.40; common, all the way from $4.15 to $4.90; cows, $3 to $5; canners, $2 to $2.75.

Veal Calves.

A limited number of calves sold at $4 to $8 per cwt., and one extra quality vealer sold by Maybee & Wilson brought $8.25 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

About 175 sheep and lambs sold at last week's quotations. Ewes $4.50 to $5.25 per cwt.; culls and rams, $3.75 to $4.25; lambs, from $7 to $7.85 per cwt.

Hogs.

The hog market is firm at $6.75 for selects, fed and watered at the market, and $6.50, f.o.b., cars, at country points. But there were none on sale to-day. We heard from drovers at country points that the former price was paid at points in the West of Ontario last week.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 21.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, receipts for last week were 1930 cattle, 870 sheep and lambs, 1040 hogs and 350 calves, while offerings this morning amounted to 1000 cattle, 175 sheep and lambs, 1050 hogs and 175 calves. The quality of the bulk of stock coming forward is all that could be expected, but as they are coming high prices in the country and supplies are not much in excess of the requirements, drovers are maintaining prices fairly well. Among the offerings were several loads of Manitoba domestic cattle of heavy weights and coarse quality. Choice Ontario steers sold at 6¼c to 6½c; good, at 5¾c to 6c; fair, at 5½c to 5¾c; medium, at 4¾c to 5c; common, at 4½c to 4¾c, and bulls at 3½c to 4c per pound.

Hogs—Prices show a further advance of 25c to 25c per cwt, and drovers in some cases asked another rise of 25c for stock to be delivered here later in the week, but packers were not disposed to make contracts. The upward tendency is attributed to continued small supplies. The demand from packers was fair and sales of selected lots were made at $6.75 to $6.80, weighed off the cars.

The market for small meats was quiet, owing to limited supplies. Sales of a few small lots of lambs were made at 6½c to 7c per pound, and ewes at 6½c to 6c per lb. Calves were scarce and met with a ready sale at prices ranging from $3 to $12 each.

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

"Genevra," said Lady Agnes solemnly, "if you'd been on a barren island for five months as I have with nothing to look at but your husband and the sunsets you would not be so hard on me. I wouldn't take Drusilla's husband away from her for the world. I wouldn't even look at him if he were not on the barren island too. I've read novels in which a man and woman have been wrecked on a desert island and lived there for months, even years, in an atmosphere of righteousness. My dear, those novelists are ninnies. Nobody could be so good as all that without getting wings. I'm tired of men and angels. That's why I want to" for awhile. You've got no wings Genevra, but it's of no consequence, as you have no one to fly away from."

"Or to, you might add," laughed Genevra.

"That's very American. You've been talking to Miss Pelham. She's always adding things. By the way, Mr. Chase sees quite a lot of her. She types for him. I fancy she's trying to choose between him and Mr. Saunders. If you were she, dear, which would you choose?"

"Mr. Saunders," said Genevra promptly. "But if I were myself I'd choose Mr. Chase."

"Speaking of angels, he must have wings a yard long. He has been chosen by an entire harem, and he flies from them as if pursued by the devil. I imagine, however, that he'd be rather dangerous if his wings were to get out of order unexpectedly. But he's nice, isn't he?"

The princess nodded her head tolerantly.

Her ladyship went on: "I don't want to walk, after all. Let us sit here in the corridor and count the prisms in the chandeliers. It's such fun. I've done it often. Mr. Britt has advanced a new theory. We are to indulge in double barreled divorce proceedings. As soon as they are over Mr. Browne and I are to marry. Then we are to hurry up and get another divorce. Then we marry our own husband and wife all over again. Isn't it exciting? Only, of course, it isn't going to happen. It would be so frightfully improper—shocking, don't you know. You see, I should go on living with my divorced husband even after I was married to Bobby. I'd be obliged to do that in order to give Bobby grounds for a divorce as soon as the estate is settled. But Deppy has put his foot down hard. He says he had trouble enough getting me to marry him the first time. He won't go through it again. Of course it's utter nonsense!"

"A little nonsense now and then is"—began the princess and paused amiably.

"Is Mr. Chase to stay for lunch?" asked Lady Agnes irrelevantly.

"How should I know? I am not his hostess."

"Hoity toity! I've never known you to look like that before. A little dash of red sets your cheeks off"— But Genevra threw up her hands in despair and started toward the stairway, her chin tilted high. Lady Agnes, laughing softly, followed. "It's too bad she's down to marry that horrid little Brabetz," she said to herself, with a sudden wistful glance at the proud, vibrant, lovable creature ahead. "She deserves a better fate than that."

"Agnes, I'd like you to promise that you will keep your avaricious claws off Mrs. Browne's husband," she said seriously.

"I'll try, my dear," said Lady Agnes meekly.

When they reached the garden they found Deppingham smoking furiously and quite alone. Chase had left some time before to give warning to the English bank that trouble might be expected. The shadow of disappointment that flitted across Genevra's face was not observed by the others. Bobby Browne and his wife were off strolling in the lower end of the park.

"Poor old Deppy!" cried his wife. "I've made up my mind to be exceedingly nice to you for a whole day."

"I suppose I ought to beat you," he said slowly.

"Beat me? Why, pray?"

"I received an anonymous letter this morning telling me of your goings on with Bobby Browne," said he easily.

A dark, saturnine face appeared.

"It was stuck under my door by Bromley, who said that Miss Pelham gave it to her. Miss Pelham referred me to Mr. Britt, and Mr. Britt urged me to keep the letter for future reference. I think he said it could be used as Exhibit A. Then he advised me to beat you only in the presence of witnesses."

"The whole household must be going mad," cried Genevra, with a laugh.

"Oh, if something only would happen!" exclaimed her ladyship. "A riot, a massacre—anything! It all sounds like a farce to you, Genevra, but you haven't been here for five months, as we have."

As they moved away from the vine covered nook in the garden a hand parted the leaves in the balcony above, and the dark, saturnine face of a trusted servant appeared behind it. This secret espionage had been going on for days in the chateau. Scarcely a move was made or a word spoken by the white people that escaped the attention of the swarthy spy. And, curiously enough, these spies were no longer reporting their discoveries to Hollingsworth Chase.

The days passed. Hollingsworth Chase now realized that he no longer had authority over the natives. Rasula made the reports for the islanders and took charge of the statements from the bank.

Every morning Chase rode boldly into the town, transacted what business he could, talked with the thoroughly disturbed bankers and then defiantly made his way to the chateau. He was in love with the princess—desperately in love. He understood perfectly—for he was a man of the world and cosmopolitan—that nothing had come of it. She was a princess, and she was not in a story book; she could not marry him.

So far as Genevra was concerned, on her part it could mean no more than a diversion, a condescension to coquetry, a simple flirtation; it meant the passing of a few days, the killing of time, the pleasure of gentle conquest, and then—forgetfulness. All this he knew.

At first she revolted against the court he so plainly paid to her in these last few days. It was bold, conscienceless, impertinent. She avoided him; she treated him to a short season of disdain; she did all in her power to rebuke his effrontery—and then in the end she decided to give him as good as he sent in this brief battle of folly. It mattered little who came off with the fewest scars, for in a fortnight or two they would go their separate ways, no better, no worse, for the conflict. And, after all, it was very dull in these last days, and he was very attractive and very brave and very gallant and, above all, very sensible.

They rode together in the park every morning, keeping well out of range of marksmen in the hills. Their conflict was with the eyes, the tone of the voice, the intervals of silence; no touch of the hand—nothing except the strategies of Eros.

What did it matter if a few dead impulses, a few crippled ideals, a few blasted hopes, were left strewn upon the battlefield at the end of the fortnight? What did anything matter so long as Prince Karl of Brabetz was not there?

One night toward the end of this week of enchanting rencounters—this week of effort to uncover the vulnerable spot in the other's armor—Genevra stood leaning upon the rail which inclosed the hanging garden. She was gazing abstractedly into the black night, out of which far away blinked the light in the bungalow. It was the first night in a week that he had missed coming to the chateau.

She missed him. She was lonely.

He had told her of the meeting that was to be held at the bungalow that night at which he was to be asked to deliver over to Rasula's committee the papers, the receipts and the memoranda that he had accumulated during his months of employment in their behalf. She had a feeling of dread—a numb, vague feeling that she could not explain except that under all of it lay the proud consciousness that he was a man who had courage, a man who was not afraid.

WOMAN RESENTS PASTOR'S TALK AS "AIMED AT HER"

She Lets Children Dance and Play Cards, Things He Called Disgraceful-Mrs. Haggart Angry

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Feb. 21.—Both sides in the quarrel which has rent the Mill street Baptist church are standing pat on the position which they have taken in regard to worldly amusements, and with vague threats floating about there seems to be little possibility of the breach being healed.

"The matter has passed out of my hands," says the Rev. Wm. H. Hubbard, the pastor, whose sermon in denunciation of certain pleasures was resented by the mother of two young people, whose subsequent talk to her pastor at prayer meeting on the subject started the war. "The deacons do not intend to let the matter rest where it is. I do not care to state what steps they will take," he concluded.

"There has been trouble all along," declares Mrs. Helen Haggart, the maternal insurrectionist in the case, "and if this is the beginning of the end so much the better. Let it come."

The story of the trouble at present is most intricate, being complicated by gossip of various members, singers in the choir and officers in the church, but the fact remains that the pastor and a large part of his congregation differ materially as to what constitutes the conduct of a law-abiding Baptist.

CALLS PASTOR'S VIEWS ANCIENT.

"It is almost impossible to realize that Mr. Hubbard lives in the twentieth century and within a hundred miles of New York City," said Mrs. Haggart to a World reporter today. "For he and his views are positively mediaeval. The Baptist Church has no set of rules which forbids any dancing or card playing or theatre-going. It has always been left to the members as a matter of conscience what they should do, and conscience used to dictate that these things were regarded as sinful. But the world does move; now church people exclaim.

"When my children got ready to join the church, a little while ago, I told them that I believed in these things and intended to do them, although I had been a Baptist for 31 years. They said they did not wish to give up all innocent amusement merely to sing hymns and go to prayer meeting, so I told them that they must join the church with it clearly understood that they were still going to participate in them if they wished.

"The other day in a sermon Mr. Hubbard said that a mother of two children who had been lately baptized and admitted to the church was knowingly permitting her children to disgrace the church and its doctrines by attending worldly affairs which would end in everlasting disgrace. I was not at the service, but the reference was so plain my friends told me of it.

"I resented the minister's attempting to dictate to me in that way and to brand me as a person of that kind, especially as my children had joined the church under the conditions they had, and I spoke to him about it at prayer meeting the next week.

"Well, he came to me and asked for an apology. He said that he had not intended to refer to me, and I replied that if that was the case I was willing to apologize for my remarks in regard to the incident, but not for what I thought of his policy. I gave him a piece of my mind—in fact, I gave him all of it.

TIRED OF SAME OLD HAMMER.

"I'm tired of going to church to hear the same old hammer, hammer about these things. So are lots of other people, but just for the sake of peace they sit back and say nothing, then they go and do as they please. If the Baptist Church forbade these things I would not be a Baptist, and I'm not going to church to hear any preacher arrogate the authority to himself to declare that he will not admit any more people to his church who do these things."

The Rev. Mr. Hubbard says Mrs. Haggart is oversensitive and that his remarks were misinterpreted to her.

"I do not think," he declared, "that it is hardly fair to accustom children to these pleasures and give them a taste for them. Then by the time children are grown they are more than inclined to choose the path along which they lie. Parents should wait until their children have reached a mature age, and then let them choose as they wish.

"I do think that wine drinking and card playing in the home start many a child on the downward road that leads to drunkenness and gambling. With so many souls to be saved and so much of the Lord's work left undone, people could be better occupied than with these amusements."

LEGUMINO THERAPY TO DOWN BEEF TRUST

Green Peas Spell Frivolity, Carrots Good Temper, Spinach Energy White Beans Brains

Washington, Feb. 21.—The high cost of eggs, meat and dairy produce has evolved legumino-therapy, which the Department of Agriculture is ready to present to the nation. According to this science, green peas cause frivolity and flirtatiousness; carrots develop good temper; spinach inspires energy, ambition and will power, while the lowly potato develops the reasoning faculties as well as gives calmness of reflection.

Vegetables are to be taken in quantities and varieties to suit the person who eats them. Well boiled carrots are prescribed for bad temper; green peas should be denied to girls with a tendency to flirt; everlasting peas to those who go to picnics; spring onions; spinach should be taken, particularly by the young, because it induces energy and develops constancy; French string beans are said to constitute an ideal diet for poets and artists; white haricot beans should be eaten by intellectual workers because they restore the nervous system and should, the science holds, be preferred as a strengthening food to any sort of meat, and especially beef. Disraeli, Carlyle, Daubet and Ibsen fed on haricot beans.

Cauliflower and cabbages are very nourishing, but are not advocated because they have the drawback of producing vulgarity of character and slowness of perception.

TWENTY TWO SONG NUMBERS

The Laughter is Caused by Legitimate Methods Only

There will be enjoyment galore for all who witness the presentation of "The Gay Musician" at the Grand next Monday, February 28, for it has every element to please the most diversified taste.

The music of "The Gay Musician" was written by that noted English composer, Julian Edwards, the composer of "Dolly Varden," "Princess Chic," "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," and several other well-known operas. The book and lyrics are the work of Siedle and Campbell. The three gentlemen recently wrote "The Motor Girl" and Sam Bernard's new opera "The Girl and the Wizard," both of these are now playing to enormous business throughout the country.

The record of success won by "The Gay Musician" is a pronounced one, for it ran one entire summer at Wallack's Theatre, New York city, last year, and was followed by a tour of the larger cities of the east, where it met with universal praise, both from the critics and the public. This will make the fourth tour of this charming comic opera success through Canada in less than two years.

There are twenty-two musical numbers in the opera, written in the best style of composer Edwards. Many musicians have said that the music is far superior to that of "The Merry Widow" or "The Waltz Dream." During the engagement of "The Gay Musician" and "The Merry Widow" in Boston last year a voting contest was held as to which production was the more pleasing, and "The Gay Musician" was declared victor.

Not only is the music most charming and dainty, but the story is of that neat and refined order that pleases the intelligent play-goer. There is an entire absence of vulgarity and horse-play that has been so prominent in the majority of the many so-called musical comedies of late, while its laughter is caused by legitimate methods only.

BROADWAY STAR IS EDDIE FOY

Who Will Appear in Peterboro Saturday Night in "Mr. Hamlet of Broadway".-Seats Thursday Morning

The management of "The Grand" are pleased to announce that they have made arrangements with the Messrs. Shubert for the appearance of that prince of comedians, Eddie Foy, in the elaborate travesty "Mr. Hamlet of Broadway." This if the first appearance of this well known star in Peterborough and it is only the fact of this city being situated as it is that the local theatre-goers will have an opportunity of seeing Mr. Foy. The company is jumping all the way from Toledo, Ohio, to Montreal, Canada, and in order to break the long jump they are playing in two Canadian cities only, namely, London, Ont., Friday, Feb. 25th, and Peterborough, Saturday matinee and evening, Feb. 26th. The company is travelling via C. P. R. and will leave Peterborough next Sunday morning for Montreal, where they play all next week at The New Princess Theatre.

The seat sale will open on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Mail orders will be received now, and when accompanied by money orders or check will receive prompt attention.

ONE MONTH IN COUNTY GOAL

Was Sentence Meted Out to Edward Jobe, as a Punishment for His Assault on His Mother

Edward Jobe, who it was charged, assaulted his mother on Sunday, February 13, was proven guilty of the offence, this morning, and was sent to the county gaol for one month.

No defence was offered. Mr. G. N. Gordon, the prisoner's counsel, admitted the seriousness of the offence, but asked for leniency on the grounds that inability to secure work might have been responsible for the young man's conduct, and that the spirit of the law, that of making offenders better citizens, would meet with success, in case the prisoner be not dealt with in a manner that would place him in the associations of hardened criminals.

The evidence of the defendant's mother was to the effect that he had struck her several times, blackening her eyes and causing other bodily injuries. He had not worked for some time and persisted in wearing a younger brother's clothes.

The latter was the direct cause of the assault as she had tried to prevent him. Her son had also used profane and abusive language in the home and she on one occasion had, with the assistance of others, taken a loaded revolver from him. She did not wish to have him about the house as he had made threats.

A young son of the witness corroborated her evidence in regard to the assault and the wearing of his brother's clothes by the prisoner.

The Masquerade Carnival at Brook-st. Rink on Friday, Feb. 25th, promises to be a big event. See prizes in China Hall window. 57th band in attendance.

Ald. Batten, Graham, Metheral and Morgan voted against it and Ald. Duffus, Duncan, Buller, Bradburn, Gillespie, Turner and Phelan voted for it. There was a short discussion.

The report of the committee of the Council containing the recommendation was read by Ald. Buller, who moved its adoption. The motion was seconded by Ald. Bradburn.

Ald. Morgan moved that clause one be struck out for this year as the taxes were going to be very high. Toronto was doing away with its commissioner of industries.

Mr. D. O'Connell, representing the deputation from the Board of Trade, said that the committee appointed to see what could be done towards raising $2,000 by public subscription were being given an enthusiastic and generous reception. Before going to the citizens generally it had been considered advisable to consult with the heads of companies having large interests in the city and they had expressed themselves as heartily in support of the the movement to get more industries. The men in Peterborough in charge of these interests were now communicating with their head offices but what was already known as to their intentions placed the $2,000 in sight. Mr. O'Connell was confident that the Board of Trade could raise the $2,000, and perhaps more within a few days.

The deputation consisted of Messrs. D. O'Connell, W. H. Denham and D. Hughes-Charles.

Ald. Metheral seconded the motion of Ald. Morgan to have clause 1. recommending the grant of $2,000 struck out. The rate was going to be too high without spending $2,000 for this purpose, especially when it was not known whether a commissioner of industries would give the results expected.

Ald. Duffus supported the resolution to give the Board of Trade $2,000. The rate was goin gto be high, but it would be higher if the city did not develop along industrial lines.

Ald. Gillespie said he had figured the matter out that the $2,000 would only mean 35 cents more taxes on a man with an assessment of $1,500. It was worth giving the system a trial at this small cost.

The amendment was lost on a vote of 7—4 and the main motion carried on the same vote.

SISTERS OF DEAD WOMAN TESTIFY

Inquest Opened at Norwood in Connection With Death of Margaret McPherson—Dr. Sutton Gives Evidence—Post Mortem to be Performed.

Special to the Review.

Havelock, Feb. 21.—The inquest on the death of Margaret McPherson, who was assaulted by Henderson on January 28th, and who passed away on Sunday morning, after three weeks of terrible suffering from the wound inflicted in her scalp, commenced at the McPherson home on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, before Coroner Kindred, of Havelock. Crown Attorney Wood, of Peterborough, was present, while Mr. F. Kerr, of Peterborough, appeared on behalf of Robert Henderson.

The evidence of Susan McPherson, who was assaulted also, on the same day, and her sister, Mrs. Graham, who was first to appear on the scene after the tragedy, as well as that of Dr. Sutton, of Norwood, who dressed the wound of the deceased and attended here, was taken when the jurors had been sworn, with Mr. Jno. Fitzpatrick as foreman.

Dr. Sutton, in his evidence, said that he believed death was due to the blow inflicted, causing severe shock, from which system could not recover.

The inquest was adjourned to Monday next at one o'clock at the town hall at Norwood. The jury directed that a post mortem be conducted by Dr. Crawford of Havelock, assisted by Dr. Holdercroft.

Susan McPherson, when sworn, said: I am a sister of deceased. Have lived here forty years (she is 74 years old.) Three weeks ago last Friday, while I was alone with my sister, a strange young man appeared and asked for his dinner, which he was given at 11.10 a.m., and for which he paid ten cents. In his conversation he said his name was Thompson, and that he came from Glasgow, Scotland, and that he was looking for his brother to take back to Scotland. He went out after dinner, and at 12 o'clock returned. I saw him through the window, pick up the axe. He opened the door and lifted the axe and struck my sister on the head while her back was turned toward him. After being struck she remained on the chair with her hands folded on her lap. He then struck at me, but I threw up my hand and warded off the blow, so that I was not severely injured. I screamed before I was struck. The young man then left in the direction of Norwood, while I retarded to my sister's, Mrs. Graham, who resides a quarter of a mile away. When I returned my sister still sat in the chair, and Mrs. Graham and myself placed her in bed. Doctors Pettigrew and Sutton arrived in an hour and a half, and were in constant attendance since that day. Everything possible was done for her. She never left her bed, and gradually grew weaker, passing away at 10.40 a.m. Sunday. She was in good health before being struck—able to do house work, and the day before walked half a mile. She had no serious illness of late years.

Cross-examined by Mr. Kerr, she said:

Prisoner made no threats, or did he speak when he appeared the second time. There was a little money in the house but prisoner did not know it. No change was made when the dinner was paid for. He did not appear angry, but was very civil and mannerly. We had more than ten dollars in the house, but prisoner did not know it. I think he was frightened away by the scream.

Mrs. Nancy Graham, when sworn, said:

I am a sister of the deceased. I live a quarter of a mile from her house. On the day of the attack my daughter came in and said: "Something is wrong at auntie's, for I hear Susan screaming and crying." My daughter and I went to the rescue. When I reached the house Margaret was still in the chair with her hands folded and her head hanging down on her breast. Blood was streaming from her head, and we carried her to bed. I seen her about four weeks before and she was in good health.

To Mr. Kerr:

I could not say what reasons prisoner had for doing the act. I did not know that my sister had any money in the house.

Dr. N. F. Sutton, when sworn, said: I was called, with Dr. Pettigrew, to attend deceased on Friday, January 28th, arriving at 12.45. He found Margaret McPherson in bed with blood running from her head. There was a wound two and a half inches long on top of her head, caused by some hard edged instrument. The outer plate of the skull was penetrated, but not the inner. She was in a semi-conscious condition, as she did not want her hair cut. I attended her every day since. She regained consciousness on January 29th, remaining so until February 9th. She took very little nourishment. I think death was caused by the blow causing severe shock, from which her system could not recover. I gave up hope for her recovery on February 14th. Up till then I thought she had a chance for recovery.

To Mr. Kerr he said that the blows were administered with force. He could offer no explanation of the attack in any way. He thought a post mortem was necessary.

AN ITALIAN DREW KNIFE

Two Disorderlies Fined--A Horse Rented by Brock Wright Caused a Whole Lot of Trouble

Brock Wright was assessed $5.80 and Aito Aimola, an Italian, $6.85, at the police court this morning for disorderly conduct last night on and in the vicinity of Mr. George Steven's premises in Ashburnham. Both amounts were ordered to be paid forthwith, the alternative being in each case fifteen days in gaol.

Mr. Stevens was the complainant and he stated that both men were drunk and disorderly. Bad language was used by both of the defendants and the Italian had drawn a knife with the evident intention of using it on him.

A witness said that Wright was drunk. Both men were arguing. Witness did not see the knife in question.

The Italian, through his interpreter, Mr. T. Minicolo, denied having been drunk. He claimed that he was abused by the complainant in the yard. Stevens, he said, caught him by the neck and acted similarly with Wright. He did not use any bad language.

Wright said that he hired a horse and sleigh from the complainant and the animal had the habit of making for the stable when its driver was away. It performed this feat last night while he and the Italian were having a drink in Hogan's hotel. Both went to the stable and on arriving there Stevens called him a bad name, and while he was taking off the harness, complainant ordered him to leave the premises. He was about to do this when roughly handled by Stevens. Later while out on the street he called to Stevens to come out and talk. He admitted that he was drunk.

On the consent of the complainant, the charge against the Italian of threatening the use of the knife was dropped.

STANLEY CUP HOLDERS MAY CROSS THE POND

Nothing Less Than a Trip to Europe for Ottawa Team.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Mr. Martin Rosenthal, of the Ottawa Hockey Club executive, has received an invitation to take the Stanley Cup Holders on a tour of the larger cities of Europe after the close of the present season. Mr. Rosenthal will look into the feasibility of the trip and should he find that the tour could be undertaken he will proceed to make arrangements to take the Ottawas across the pond.

London, Berlin and Paris, are the cities which so far are included in the initerary, but the team could also take in other centres where there are artificial ice rinks. The plan is to have the team play a couple of games a week in each city, and the promoters on the other side of the Atlantic are willing to finance the affair in proper style.

One of the chief difficulties which is likely to be encountered in connection with arranging for the trip will be the difficulty in securing leave for the different players. Some of the men would undoubtedly be unable to get away from their occupations, but if possible a party of fifteen would be taken along. The trip is as yet in its infancy, but the offer was made in good faith, and the matter is up to the locals. It might also be mentioned that Berlin has an artificial ice rink nearly 400 feet long and about 200 wide.

WINNIPEG TEAM HERE FOR GAME WITH LOCALS

Visitors Have a Fast and Husky Line-up—Two Officials Will Handle the Game, Which Will be Played Under Eastern Rules.

The Crown Bank hockey team of Winnipeg, which meets the locals at Brock street rink, to-night, arrived in the city at noon and are registered at the Oriental. The line-up of the visitors is a strong one and the fans will have an opportunity of getting a line on the class of hockey played in the west. Four of the players, Borland, Gardner, Watson and White, have performed with the Victorias of Winnipeg and the team which will go on the ice to-night has had only four goals scored against it, in the Bank league this season. Eastern rules will prevail, but two officials will handle the game. The referee will be assisted by a judge of play, and by this means there will be no stops.

The local lineup was selected last night and the teams will be as follows:

	WINNIPEG.
	Clarke,
	Fowler,
	White, (Capt.),
	Borland,
Watson,	Bartley, Gardner,
McMillan,	Crane, Weatherston,
	Ray (Capt.),
	McDougall,
	Heffernan,
	Darocher.

Lacrosse on Ice

The Galt Reporter says: Galtonians will to-night have their first opportunity of seeing a game of lacrosse played on skates. For some weeks past a team has been practising hard and they are now in the best of shape for the contest to-night.

Their opponents will be the fast Preston team and the game promises to be one of the most interesting sports yet seen in Galt. The play is said to be much faster than the ordinary hockey, and much more exciting, while the dangers from accident are much less.

There will probably be a large crowd at the rink to-night to see the first game of lacrosse on the ice.

What a Difference

Lindsay Warder.—At the final meeting of the Peterborough city hockey league the statement of the secretary was read and it was decided that the past year had been a most successful one, and the officers and teams alike are to be congratulated. The four teams composing the league were: The West Ends, the Strathconas, the Keenes and the T.A.S., all of whom had to pay $30 on entering. The total balance for the year was $389.30.

The teams joining the town league in Lindsay only have to pay $2 to join but their yearly balance did not average much over $50.

CURLING

Bobcaygeon Independent—A noticeable pointer strongly brought out at the Bonspiel was the necessity of curlers giving their whole attention to the game. There are always two men at liberty to sweep, they are out of the game. Their work is to follow every stone that can be followed. One man at the tee is enough, one man at the back, and two to follow the stone. One man sweeping near the stone, and another smoothing his broom on the ice, ten feet away, is not sweeping. The two must be close together, and close to the stone, keeping stroke and step together. The play made it clear that the head of the skip may conceive and the hand of the player devain, if the two sweepers are not prompt, unfailing and active with their brooms. The present high cost of brooms was also made noticeable by the care observed by most of the players in never letting the broom out of their hands. They were faithfully carried back and forth to the hotels at night and handed over to the clerk to be put in the safe.

A. Moore	B. Rickey,

WANT LARGER LOAF OF BREAD

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—Mr. Nickle, of Kingston, who brought in the bill to repeal the present Bread Act, stated before the Municipal Committee this morning that he was prepared to accept a provincial law in place of his proposed local control. All he wanted was to secure a larger loaf than the present. He was not particular about the method. The committee generally seem to agree. The whole question will be fought out next Tuesday, when the new McNaught bill will be ready.

WON'T OFFER AMENDMENTS

Decision of Irish Under Redmond —Will Support Government

Special to the Review.

London, Eng., Feb. 22.—The Irish, under Redmond, reached a sudden decision to-day not to offer any amendments, but to support the government on the budget and veto of the Lords in order not to precipitate another general election in which home rule might be lost sight of. It is reported that Lloyd-George and Winston Churchill have decided not to serve under Asquith, and will resign shortly.

HENDERSON HAS MONEYED FRIENDS

So He Claims—Unconcerned over His Position

Henderson, the prisoner under arrest in connection with the fatal assault on Miss Margaret McPherson and the brutal attack on her sister, seems very unconcerned in spite of the fact that his position is a very serious one.

If he speaks the truth, he is well connected in the old country and has instructed his counsel, Mr. F. D. Kerr, to leave no stone unturned in his defence.

The prisoner is apparently rational at times, but the impression of some who have come in contact with him is that he is not at all well balanced mentally.

MISHAP TO BRAKEMAN

Harry Zealand, Had a Fortunate Escape From Serious Injury at Lakefield

Harry Zealand, a brakeman of the Grand Trunk Railway, slipped while coupling two freight cars at Lakefield yesterday afternoon, about two o'clock, but fortunately escaped with rather painful though not serious injury to his leg. The cars were in motion at the time, but in losing the control of his feet, he still retained his hold on the iron handle, with which the car is uncoupled. The mishap was noticed and the engineer immediately brought the train to a stop after Zealand had been dragged along ten or twelve feet. It appears that he had a leather legging on at the time and this had the effect of keeping his leg from being drawn under the wheel of the car. His injuries were attended to by a doctor in Lakefield and after being brought to the city was driven to his home.

WHO OWNS THIS DORGIE?

Herbert Fraelick Was Bitten in the Leg But He Didn't Get the Right Owner of the Animal

Fred McCormick said he owned a dog and then when a neighbor explained to him that the animal had used its teeth on his leg, denied the ownership and as there was some uncertainty as to who owned the canine, when both parties made explanations at the police court this morning, the magistrate dismissed the case and in doing so advised the complainant to bring a better brand of evidence to court should he have cause to complain again.

Herbert Fraelick was the victim of the animal's attack. He said that he was leaving his home when the dog came up from the rear and grabbed him by the calf of the leg. He asked McCormick, who was on the street at the time, if he owned the dog and received an answer in the affirmative, but on stating that he had been bitten, McCormick denied owning the dog. He thought it was a bull dog. The defendant said that in saying that he owned the animal, he was only "joshing." He did not know who it belonged to. The court wanted to know if it was not Windover's, but he was not quite sure.

LAID AT REST

The funeral services of the late Rev. Robert Emberson, B.A., were held in George street Methodist church yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. Mr. W. E. McCann, presided at the organ and Miss Beesor contributed a solo particularly appropriate to the occasion. The auditorium was filled with relatives and sympathizing friends and many of the brother ministers of the deceased were present. The chairman of the district, Rev. G. W. Henderson, pastor of Charlotte street Methodist church, announced the first hymn and offered the opening prayer. The scripture lessons were read by Revs. H. W. Manning and Wm. Johnston. Brief addresses were also delivered by Rev. C. E. Manning, and Dr. F. C. Stephenson of the missionary board, Rev. W. W. Prudham, of Japan; Rev. C. S. Moore, of the Ordination Class, of 1909, of which the deceased was a member, and by the president of the conference, Rev. B. Greatrix. The remains were then borne to the Little Lake cemetery, for interment, Revs. C. H. Coon and Wm. Limbert and the president of the conference, officiating, in the burial service. Six of the ministerial brethren, who were members of the ordination class referred to, acted as pallbearers.

The late Rev. Mr. Emberson had spent nearly ten years in missionary work in the island Empire, and he was peculiarly fitted for this work. He was greatly beloved by all who knew him and he will be long and lovingly remembered by what he has done. To his young widow and two children, will be extended heartfelt sympathy, in the bereavement which they have been called upon to bear.

LOST MEMORY THREE WEEKS

New York, Feb. 21. — Charles E. Coutant, Superintendent of the telephone office at Blue Point, L. I., and a prominent citizen of that place, is at home to-day, having returned on a late train last night after a mysterious absence of four weeks.

Mr. Coutant left Blue Point on Jan. 28 last to see Dr. J. A. Hays of East Forty-ninth street, Manhattan, and travelled on the doctor's mileage book of the Long Island Railroad. He left Dr. Hay's office at 2 o'clock that afternoon to return home, and not arriving in a day or two there after the New York police were notified.

A general alarm was sent out and all the morgues and hospitals were searched in vain. All sorts of rumors were afloat regarding Mr. Coutant's disappearance and finally he was given up as dead and his beautiful young wife was in sore distress. His homecoming was the cause of great rejoicing to her and his many friends.

Mr. Coutant was very weak when he arrived home and by advice of his physician is prohibited from seeing or talking to any one other than Mrs. Coutant. She says her husband, although hardly able to speak, told her that soon after leaving Dr. Hays's office he became dizzy and that his conscience left him. He never regained it until day before yesterday, when he awoke and found himself in bed in the City Hospital in Richmond, Va.

He thought only a few moments had elapsed since he left Dr. Hays's office, and when he found out it was almost a month he was nonplussed. He immediately started for his home, notwithstanding the hospital doctors told him he was not strong enough and urged him to remain a little while longer.

Mr. Coutant had his watch with him and a little money when he returned home, but he lost his mileage book. Mr. Coutant is not a drinking man, his friends say, nor is he addicted to the use of drugs.

Insurance Companies Lose About $125,000.00 by the Wreck at Spanish River

Double Liability for About Twenty-five Persons

A loss of somewhere in the neighbourhood of $125,000 is what the Accident Insurance Companies estimate the wreck at Spanish River bridge means to them.

They figure that about 25 of those who met death carried Accident Insurance, and the average insurance, according to the tables, is $5,000. In case of death in a railway disaster there is a double liability, making the figure $6,000, or $5,000 to be more conservative.

Their loss may total more than that, for the commercial travellers, a number of whom were killed, usually carry very heavy insurance. In addition, some of the companies make the policies payable on the death of the wife while travelling, though the policy is taken out in the husband's name. In such cases they pay the husband the same amount as they would have paid the wife were the husband killed.

We issue the BEST Accident and Sickness policy offered to the public.

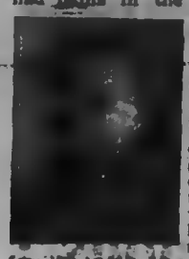
AFTER SUFFERING YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fox Creek, N.B.—"I have always had pains in the loins and a weakness there, and often after my meals my food would distress me and cause soreness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me much good. I am stronger, digestion is better, and I can walk with ambition. I have encouraged many mothers of families to take it as it is the best remedy in the world. You can publish this in the papers."—Mrs. WILLIAM BOURQUE, Fox Creek, N.B., Canada.



The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

"ONLY"

The sun shone down from a cloudless sky,
But the woman's heart was sore;
For griefs that were all her own lay Co'd.
At her being's inmost core.

They sky was blue, but her eyes were full,
And its beauty could not see,
The birds sang sweet, but she did not hear
Their song's cheery melody.

The wind blew cool on her heated brow,
But their kisses brought no smile;
She stood by the ivyed gate, and sighed
For life's endless mile on mile.

An hour ran by and the sun had set,
nd the songbirds sunk in sleep;
But hope shone out of the woman's eyes
With a courage quiet and deep.

For one had passed with a kindly smile,
And a tender word and kiss,
That had warmed the ice-bound heart and soul
With a peace like heaven's bliss.

A BIT OF ADVICE

First—Don't Delay; Second—Don't Experiment

If you suffer from backache; headaches or dizzy spells; if you rest poorly and are languid in the morning; if the kidney secretions are irregular and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. The kidneys are calling for help. Slight symptoms of kidney troubles are but forerunners of more serious complaints. They should be given attention before it is too late.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure kidney trouble. They are recommended by thousands. Can Peterborough residents desire more convincing proof than the statement of a Peterborough citizen?

Mrs. W. Huycke, of 311 Louis St., Peterborough, Ont., says:

"Mr. Huycke frequently suffered with backache. At times the pains in the small of the back would become so severe that he was unable to straighten himself up without much suffering. He could not stoop or lift anything of consequence, and his general health had been run down for some time. He had tried a number of different remedies, but didn't find relief until on advice of a friend he procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Wm. Medill's pharmacy and commenced treatment. He soon found relief. The pains left his back and he straightened. He has had no return of the trouble since, and speaks very highly of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Sold by dealers. Price 50 cents. The D. T. Doan Co., Limited, Fort Erie, Ont., sole Canadian agents.

LONDON'S LATEST THEATRE WILL SEAT FIVE THOUSAND

London, Feb. 21.—A new variety theatre is in course of construction on the site where Henigey's circus used formerly to stand. It is believed that this new building, which is to cost $1,000,000, will be ready for opening in the autumn—probably in September. The theatre will be the largest music hall in Great Britain, and is arranged to seat 5,000 people. Every effort has been made to insure the greatest possible comfort for those attending the performances and in the decoration, quantities of white marble will be employed.

Speaking on the subject to a representative of the Daily Mail, Walter Gibbons for whom the theatre is being built, said, "Everything will be on a vast scale in the new theatre. The exit capacity will not be surpassed by any theatre in London, for we calculate that we shall be able to get the whole of a packed house into a street within one minute of the fall of the curtain. We shall have a magnificent orchestra and a stage where spectacle and ballet can, if necessary, be shown in great display. Scenic grandeur, life, lightness, gaiety and movement are to be the features of the entertainments to be given every afternoon and evening."

Ample space has been set apart for luncheon, dinner and tea rooms, in addition to which it appears there will be a reading room, and a free library. Fitted with tape machines, from which the news may be read as it comes to hand.

The Right and the Wrong Man

By Beatrice Fairfax.

I know a girl who has hitched the chariot of her affections to a star.

The sad part of it is that the star in question is only a star to her; to others he is merely a feeble rush light.

Because she cannot have the love of this one man, she sends all other men about their business. Every man is compared to her star and found wanting.

She prefers his many superficial qualities to the real genuine qualities possessed by other men. Until she empties her heart and mind of his shadow she will never be content with any other man.

There are hundreds of girls who are wasting their youth and love on just such unsubstantial shadows as this man.

If love would only die when a woman ceases to respect a man it would be a happier world for womankind.

NO LIMIT TO A WOMAN'S LOVE.

But there seems to be no limit to what a woman will bear and still love.

Man's love dies so very easily, and woman's so painfully hard.

There is a certain type of man who invariably wins the love of all women. He is sweet-tempered, gallant, understands women, has a certain amount of superficial cleverness, and is absolutely unreliable.

The woman who is unfortunate enough to marry him lives in Paradise for three months, and in misery the rest of her life. All women attract him and it is absolutely impossible to remain constant to one.

NEGLECTS THE WOMAN HE WEDS

He will never speak unkindly or roughly; he simply will neglect the woman he marries, and forget that he moved heaven and earth to win her and that he promised to love and support her the rest of her days.

I have seen couples of this kind end, at fifty, the man is gay, debonair, charming to all women and looks ten years younger than his age.

The woman is old, gray, wrinkled, and worn out with worry and work. The man who charms all other women, ceased to charm her many long weary years ago.

Do keep your wits about you, girls, and don't throw yourselves away on one of those attractive "ne'er-do-wells."

Marry a man on whom you can rely, one whom you can trust.

Don't compare the quiet man of good, sterling quality to the man who, while he may have plenty of talk, has little else.

Those quiet, substantial men are the men who make good husbands. The man who makes a great splurge and is always the centre of attraction will never be content to narrow his circle; he will always want to be in the limelight.

BEWARE OF THE TIPPLER.

He will never be content with the love and admiration of one woman. Marry a man whom you can look up to and respect, not one whom you will have to take care of.

Above all things, avoid falling in love with the man who is fond of convival tipping with his friends. That habit grows until it spreads over the home, like a black cloud of disaster.

Marry a man whose heart you will hold alone, not one whose heart you must share with half a dozen other women.

NATIVE QUESTION A PROBLEM FOR SOUTH AFRICAN GOV'T

Cape Town, Feb. 21.—Of all the questions which the Union Government of South Africa will have to deal with the native question is the most important. In fact that imperative necessity of a uniform native policy throughout South Africa, has probably been from the beginning of the season most frequently alleged for forming the union at all. Practical politicians believe that the uniform policy must be "firm and just," or "equitable, or something of that sort. Indeed, that divergency of opinions on the native question and of the lines which have been adopted in dealing with it in different parts of South Africa is so great that any attempts during the union movement to define what be meant by a uniform native policy," would have raised a turmoil of dispute which might have gone far to endanger the cause of union itself. But that danger no longer exists. It is settled that the country is to have a uniform native policy. It remains to settle—a much more difficult task—what that policy is to be. Among the conflicting currents of opinion it is absolutely impossible to see which will prove the stronger. No doubt there will be compromises on points of detail, but compromises cannot settle everything, and the general policy of the South African government towards its native population will have to be formed in one direction or another during the next few years.

Generally speaking, it may be said that in the Cape Colony the native enjoys a fuller measure of civil and even political equality than in the Northern States or in Natal. The equality is by no means complete in theory, and still less in practice. But the fact that it is even partially admitted differentiates the Cape system from that of the other Colonies. In the latter the generally accepted view has never recognized the native as having either all the rights or all the responsibilities which are admitted in the case of a full-grown male European as a matter of course. The old Boer view, which is probably still widely held among the country population was that the native stood out exactly in the position of a slave or a domestic chattel, but in one analogous to that occupied by the serfs in the ages of feudalism. He had his rights and he had his duties, but they were those of his own caste, and the ordinary rules of intercourse between white men were not held to apply to the relations between white and black. Without discussing the rights or wrongs of this view, it must be admitted that it was a primitive one, and could only apply where the population, both white and black, were mainly engaged in farming. But with the growth of industrialism in mining and in other directions, and with the rise of large towns, it has become obvious that this semi-feudal theory cannot hold good in the case of the bulk of the native population. Consequently it has to some extent been replaced by a rather different view among men who, while they refuse to regard the native as capable of taking his place by the side of the white man as an equal autonomous unit in the state, are still compelled by their knowledge of modern conditions, to admit that he cannot be treated as a serf. This view regards the native population as a whole as being permanently so to speak in statu pupillari.

NO VOTE FOR NATIVE.

It must not be supposed that very large numbers of people who hold, consciously or unconsciously, this theory of the native position are unfriendly to the native. They would not dream of giving the native a vote any more than they would dream of giving it to children, but it does not follow that they have any tendency to disregard the material and moral welfare of the native population. Indeed there are numbered among them many who in the truest, though not in the generally accepted sense of the word, are philanthropists, that is to say, men who have spent their lives among the natives, and some even who would be prepared to sacrifice the interests of the white population if they came into a conflict with what they believed to be the interests of the natives. Not all the followers of the "inferior race" doctrine are animated by these sentiments. Naturally the whole mass of racial prejudice and selfishness is found on the same side. But a mistake is made if it is supposed that the whole opposition of placing the native on a footing of equality with the white man from these latter elements.

Against this view, which is probably held by a great majority of the white inhabitants in the three colonies where the natives have never received the franchise, there must be placed the orthodox political view of the Cape Colonists. This view admits, if not the equality of the native, at least his capacity for equality. It treats him in a few matters, as a fully responsible member of society. It allows him to obtain the vote if he can show that he earns a certain wage or has a certain amount of property, and can pass a very slight educational test. It admits his competition on equal terms in all fields of industry. It is difficult to compare the results of the two systems by the test of actual experience up to the present, because so many different factors must be taken into account. First of all there are the racial differences between the natives themselves. The Fingoes and the other tribes of the Cape Colony differ from the Basutos, and again from the Zulus, or from the Shanghaans of the Northeastern Transvaal and of Portuguese territory. The conditions of a huge native reserve like the Transkei in the Cape Colony, or Basutoland, Zululand differ, or those of the territories where the white and black population live side by side. The advocates of both systems have it open to them to plead that their theory has never been given a full and a fair trial; they can each point to obvious faults which appear to have been produced by the opposite system.

HAS NOT HAD TIME.

For instance, the result of the Cape native franchise at the present day can only be defended on the ground that it is a transition stage, and that the colony of equality has not had time to produce its proper fruits. On the other hand, the working of the opposite system in Natal has been equally unsatisfactory, and the only apology that can be made for it must rest upon the allegation of want of consistency and intelligence in those who have had to carry it out. The statement of the two main opposing theories by no means exhausts the question. There are a great number of subsidiary facts and altogether the question is one of great complexity for the new government.

Not the least important of the many problems that await solution by the Union Parliament is the question of naval defence. Of late much attention has been devoted to the subject throughout South Africa, and the representatives of the Crown have done their best to bring home to the public not only the importance of the subject, but the need for studying the situation so that any contribution the Union may see fit to make may be turned to the best advantage. Lord Selborne, Sir Walter Hely-Hutchinson and Vice-Admiral Egerton, who commands the Cape squadron, have all been counselling South Africans to try and grasp the true significance of the navy to their country, their dependence on it, and their duty towards it. The high commissioner, in particular, has let no opportunity slip of helping, in his own phrase, "to cultivate the maritime spirit." Speaking recently at Johannesburg, he reminded his hearers that South Africans had been left undisturbed to work out their own salvation simply because the British fleet was behind them. "Never forget that from the sea you sprang, and by the sea you must live."

LABOR SCARCE.

From the Transvaal a serious shortage of native labor is reported, the effects of which are being felt, not only on the mines, but on the farms. The optimists who at the time of the Chinese agitation confidently asserted that there was an ample supply of native labor for all the needs of South Africa, if only the capitalists would get it come forward, are now said to be silent or to have changed their minds. It is clear that the available supply is insufficient, for existing developments, to say nothing of the requirements of the future. Some talk of forcing more natives out to work by increased taxation or by other means. Others think that the industries can worry along by getting more natives from the territories north of the present recruiting areas. It is, however, regarded as doubtful whether natives can be obtained from there in any numbers, or, if they can, whether they can work in the mines of the Rand without an excessive death-rate. But assuming both conditions to be favorable to the importers, it is pointed out that such a supply can only be temporary palliative if the resources of the country are to be adequately developed.

THE "ECHOES" FOR FEBRUARY

The February number of the Collegiate Echoes has just been issued and is a credit to the editorial and business staffs. All the departments have been well looked after and the edition is a very interesting one. There are articles by Myra White, H. Armstrong, B. Hall, Estella Cuff, G. E. Minorgan and Marmadue Pearson. The "Corridor Callings" are as bright as ever and will cause many laughs around the school.

The annual expenditure of P.E.I. is $365,009, and ordinary revenue, $375,000.

Judge Stopped a Fight.

When Judge Morgan, he who now gives many weighty judgments seated on his couch in his chambers, was holding court one session up at Sutton, the place where he presided was in a room on the first floor of a hotel near the railway station. On the first morning during this court, the judge looked out of a window which gave a full view of the driving sheds, and there was surprised to behold two men engaged in strenuous combat with their fists.

"Here," called the judge to the sheriff or the bailiff, "run out there and put a stop to that fight."

The officer obediently withdrew and the case in court continued. A minute or so later the official reappeared with a bump on the nose from which the gore was proceeding profusely.

"Your honor, I can't stop them," he protested.

"You can't, eh? Well, I can," declared the judge. He seized his stick, and falling on the two in the yard knocked them both down with shrewd blows of the weapon. That ended the fight, and court continued.

Collapsed on Scaffold.

The Calgary Herald's Fort Saskatchewan correspondent, telling of the hanging of Henry Zhibley, an Austrian, aged 70, for the murder of his wife, recently, says:

Zhibley, old and bent, and supported by two constables of the mounted police, tottered the few steps from his cell in the guard room here to the scaffold in the police carpenter's shop.

He fainted when the black cap was placed over his head and the noose adjusted. He was barely conscious when the Greek priest muttered the last few words of prayer. As the executioner was about to spring the trap, the old man fainted dead away in the arms of the two constables who were supporting him. A few drops of whisky were then poured down the doomed man's throat, and he partly revived. Constables supported him in an upright position over the trap while the priest said the last words and the hangman dropped the lever that thrust the feeble old man into eternity. His neck was broken by the fall, and he was dead within three minutes after the drop.

Alas, Poor Freshie!

Principal Hutton, of Toronto University, is a man of very quiet and reserved manners; but that he is rather a dangerous person to try to take a fall out of, is evidenced by a story going the rounds just now.

It seems that just before Principal Hutton left for Europe a few months ago, he was reading a roll-call at the University. His accent and manner are decidedly English, and the evil genius of one of the "freshies" suggested to him to make game of it. Theodore, when his name was called, he rose in his place, and with a quadruple-plate English accent answered:

"Heah!"

There was a general snicker, but it rose into a roar when Principal Hutton, gazing intently at the ingenious youth, inquired blandly: "Wheah?"

FIGURES ON WHICH TAXRATE IS BASED

Presented by Finance Committee to the City Council at Last Night's Meeting -- 22 Mills on the Dollar.

The tax rate for 1910 will be 22 mills for public school supporters and 23 mills for separate school supporters. In addition to this there will be a half mill for street watering. The rate last year was 19 1-2 mills, with 1-2 mill extra for street watering.

The rate for the present year was fixed at the special meeting of the City Council last night. Ald. Bradburn, chairman of the Finance Committee, presented the estimate and said that after paring down everywhere possible that was the best rate that could be secured. Two thousand dollars had been taken from the Board of Works request and $500 from that of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. The pruning knife had also been used in other places. The total levy for 1909 is $193,184.66, and the assessment for general purposes is $8,636,293.00. Ald Bradburn said it would be imperative on the committees to live within their appropriations.

MEMBERS OF BAND ARE OPPOSED TO OFFICERS OF REGIMENT HAVING CONTROL

Of the Instruments, Which Are Now the Property of the City—Deputation Waits on City Council and Lodges Protest—Question Referred Back to Property Committee.

The proposal that the city hand over the control of the instruments of the 57th regiment band to the officers of the regiment at a rental of one dollar per year has aroused strenuous opposition from the band. The aldermen were made aware of this last night at the meeting of the council. About twenty members of the band were present to oppose any move to give the officers of the regiment control of the instruments, and as a result of the light thrown on the situation, the clause in the report of the Property committee recommending that the instruments be leased to the regiment at one dollar per year was struck out and the matter referred back to the committee. The question was considered a tthe meeting of the Property committee on Friday night, when Col. Stevenson and Major Bennett were present and asked that the regiment be given control of the instruments as they were now in the band room at the armouries and the regiment would have to pay the insurance on them. The committee appointed Ald. Morgan to see the band and find out if they had any objections to the proposal. They had.

Last night a letter was read from J. A. Harper, secretary of the band, protesting against any change being made. It pointed out that the money to buy the instruments had been raised by public subscription and on the petition that was circulated at the time it was specified that the instruments were to remain the property of the city. The money to buy instruments since that time had been raised by concerts given by the band and by donations from the members. In view of these circumstances it was not fair to ask that the officers of the regiment have control of the instruments for one dollar per year, the instruments being worth several thousand dollars. Mr. Harper's letter was accompanied by a statement signed by thirty members of the band asking that no change be made.

Mr. Harper acted as spokesman for the deputation from the band and gave some additional information to that contained in his letter. Every member of the band was opposed to any change being made. The commanding officer of the regiment had complimented the band on their efficiency and good conduct last year and he could see no reason why the officers should desire to get control of the instruments unless it was that they desired to be in a position to coerce the band to turn out whether the band wanted to or not. The regiment had never contributed five cents to the band.

"How many of the bandsmen are sworn in?" Ald. Bradburn asked.

"All but three or four," said Mr. Harper, "and those have not been around the hall since the notice was posted."

Ald. Duncan stated that it had been represented by the officers of the regiment at the committee meeting that ninety per cent. of the members of the band were in favor of having the change made. Apparently this was not the case, and in view of this fact he wanted to see the matter referred back to the Property committee in order that both sides of the question might be heard.

On motion of Ald. Duncan and Ald. Morgan the clause referring to the band was struck out of the report.

EXCELLENT CONCERT AT THE CONSERVATORY HALL

A delightful exposition of the elocutionary art was given at the Conservatory Hall last night by Mrs. Scott Raff, the distinguished reader, and the directress of the Margaret Eaton School of Expression, Toronto. Mrs. Scott Raff is not a stranger to a Peterborough audience, and the announcement of her appearance is always an assurance of a particularly enjoyable and instructive evening. Her consistent adherence to the true interpretation of expression as given by herself in her opening number, "Expression. What is It?" was very evident in all her selections. In the special subject referred to, Mrs. Scott Raff said that the highest art was the art of the spoken word, and that elocution meant true conversation. With this as ideal, the reader's work was a delight, and indicated the highest art in natural and effective expression.

The concert, which was under the auspices of the Conservatory orchestra, was a highly successful one in every respect. The playing of the orchestra with each successive concert is becoming more finished and musicianly, and last night it was the general opinion of those who have followed the orchestra's development with interest, that it was heard to distinctly better advantage than at any other time during the season. The balance of tone was excellent, and the subordination of the brass to the reeds and strings in the softer passages showed splendid direction and produced the desired organ effect. In all the selections the orchestra excelled itself, and the fine quality of the work of the members, both in concert and solo was thoroughly pleasing.

Mrs. Scott Raff's repertoire was a most attractive one, her readings being varied and interesting, and included numbers ranging from a tender little newsboy episode to Owen Meredith's pretentious and dramatic "Aux Italiens," from "Il Trovatore." Her selections showed her remarkable versatility and ease and naturalness of interpretative expression.

The first number for the orchestra on the printed programme was Mendelssohn's 'March of the Priests," from Athalia, but was not given one of the orchestra's happiest efforts "The Farewell of the Gladiators" being given instead by request. In the trio of the march the playing in unison of the twelve violins on the G string was strikingly effective. The Sicilian Chimes was next given to great advantage, the violins taking the staccato with accuracy and precision and the clarionet and flute carrying out splendidly the main theme of the melody. The drums were also prominent and descriptive in this number.

Paul Lincke's fanciful idyll "The Glow Worm," and Kerry Mills' "Barn Dance," both received well merited and hearty applause.

A captivating Mexican dance "Dark Eyes," was a selection characteristic of the far south and descriptive color was lent by the castanets and tambourines.

But of all the numbers of a very excellent programme the one that afforded the orchestra greatest scope and deservedly met with the warmest approval was the beautiful orchestration of the selection from Balfe's opera "The Bohemian Girl." Although it was the last number of a lengthy programme the audience insistently demanded an encore and the last movement of the selection was played again in response to the applause. A distinct feature of this was the playing on the cornet by Mr. Hughes of "The Heart Bowed Down" and "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls." Messrs. Gowie and Barnes took the flute and clarinet parts in a most satisfactory way and Dr. Parks beautifully rendered on the violin what is probably the most exquisite song of the opera "Then You'll Remember Me."

THIRTY MEMBERS MORE TO SPEAK ON NAVY QUESTION

Ralph Smith and L. A. Rivet Speak in Behalf of the Government's Policy—Sir Wilfrid is Suffering From a Cold Which Kept Him From the House.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—After eight days of debate on the naval bill within the past two weeks the House yesterday listened patiently to four more speakers review the arguments presented in extenso by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Sir Frederick Borden, and Messrs. Borden and Pelletier in the first round. The ground has already been so thorough covered that little opportunity is left to the thirty odd remaining speakers still on the list for hearing to develop any new points. Messrs. Ralph Smith and Rivet, both contributed speeches in support of the Government's policy.

A word from the prairies was the feature of yesterday's debate upon the naval bill. Dr. Schaffner, Conservative member for Souris, Man., although of German extraction, warned Canada that the menace from the land of his forefathers was serious.

Touching upon the question of Canadian independence, he said the influence of the Prime Minister and his friends would never be strong enough to bring about a separation between Great Britain and Canada. Among those who said they desired to remain a part of the Empire, but who refused co-operation, refused to do anything, he was sorry to find were some clergymen. If Canada was in danger they declared they would give their last dollar. If there was anything we could not buy in the hour of stress, it was naval defence.

His proposal was an imperial navy under one head, which would stand for unity and co-operation.

"Let us call off the bluff," he said; "the Government's proposals are ridiculously inadequate."

Mr. Rivet, speaking for the French Canadians of Quebec, declared that Mr. Monk misrepresented the attitude of the great majority of French-speaking citizens of Canada, who were loyal to Britain, the mother and guardian of their liberties. From a purely party standpoint, he rejoiced in the tactics of the Opposition, but as a loyal Canadian, he had hoped for a more patriotic and broad-minded dealing with a great national and Imperial question. Dr. Schaffner of Souris, Manitoba, and Dr. Edwards of Frontenac, on the Opposition side, followed the usual lines, charging disloyalty on the part of the Premier and labelling the Government's policy as a separatist movement.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was again absent from the House. He has been nursing a slight cold for the past few days and taking advantage of the time-consuming process of speech-making in the Commons to get in a quiet mid-session rest.

Mr. Ralph Smith of Nanaimo, who resumed the naval debate, noted that the preceding speaker, Mr. Cowan, had been very much alarmed about the security of the British Empire in view of the alleged disloyalty and separatist policy of the Liberal Government of Canada. Mr. Smith thought that the British Empire could rely on the support of the average Liberal Ministry quite as implicitly as it could rely on the loyalty of any Conservative Ministry, of which it was reasonable to suppose Mr. F. D. Monk would be a member. Extreme and illogical statements and invective, said Mr. Smith, seemed to constitute the major part of some of the Opposition speeches, rather than solid argument based on fact.

Senator Scott yesterday moved the second reading of his bill to regulate the transportation of liquor. Some heated talk was indulged in, Senator Domville declaring the country was battling manfully against a tidal wave of misdirected moral legislation.

Senator Scott said the object of his bill was to render more effective the protection of municipalities and provinces which had declared by vote against the traffic. The Prince Edward Island Legislature had passed a resolution asking for federal legislation to prevent the transportation of liquor into any district.

Senator Wood thought it quite proper to punish the shipper and, if necessary, the receiver of liquor designed for a temperance area, but it would be a mistake to make the transportation companies liable, as they could not tell what was in the parcels they handled. Senator Scott agreed with this.

STUDHOLME TAKES FLING AT PROVINCIAL METHODS

Hamilton Labor Member Criticizes the Policy of the Government During Discussion of Financial Aid to Salvation Army.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—"Bonusing has been the curse of the immigration system in every country into which it has been introduced," declared Allan Studholme, M.P.P. for East Hamilton, who came at the Minister of Agriculture loaded for bear, when the vote on bonuses and advances to agents and organizations (including Salvation Army) was under discussion in committee of supply yesterday afternoon.

Hon. J. S. Duff had stated that the total number of immigrants brought in by the Salvation Army in 1908 was 2,193, of whom 1,661 men had been placed with farmers, and 532 were women joining their husbands. For 1909 the figures were 1,168, 1,074 and 94 respectively.

"O course, I can't say they have all remained on the farms," he added. No agency could guarantee that.

Hon. A. G. MacKay asked what proportion were familiar with agriculture.

Hon. J. S. Duff could not say off hand, but they were quite a large proportion. Special efforts were being made this summer to relieve the farm labor and domestic servant situation. They had arranged to give a $5 bonus for each domestic brought out by the Salvation Army or any other organization.

In regard to farm labor, they had found a splendid class, who were not just in a position to pick up and come over. The Government proposed to give $20 towards assisting the passage of such. They hoped to have this repaid. It would form a lien on the man's wages. Even if they only got a large proportion of it back, the money would have been well expended.

Referring to the $17,000 item for reconstruction of the London offices, he stated that the present lease of £550 a year for a basement and ground floor at 163 Strand, expired in March, and that the Government was getting the whole building for £600 rent and £110 taxes. The lease would expire in 1928. The ground belonged to the Duke of Bedford and the building to the Ellis estate. It had been suggested that if they could buy out the Ellis people and deal directly with the superior landlord, it would only cost £420 a year, instead of £710. So far this had not been accomplished. The Ellis people asked too much. The Government had no intention of spending the $17,000 for reconstruction of the building, unless they were able to buy out Ellis and get a 40-year lease.

Dr. Jessop (Lincoln) asked if there was any inspection of emigrants before sailing.

Hon. J. S. Duff replied that that was a Dominion Government matter.

Allan Studholme (East Hamilton) reminded the Premier of his statement of two years ago, that London was no place to go for farm laborers. "You don't find farm laborers walking the streets of London," he said. "You find them in the country, in the hay fields, at the country fairs."

In paying the $5 bonus for domestics nothing was said as to how long the girl was bound to stay in the place.

"It means," he asserted, "that you will have a lot of people who will want to take a trip to London at your expense. You, and you'll find that ladies like a trip to the old country, too."

At this point Miss St. John Wileman, who headed the recent ladies' deputation and who occupied a seat in the centre of the Speaker's gallery, began to sit up and take notice.

"You don't ever say," continued Mr. Studholme, "that a girl brought out has got to have a good reputation."

Sir James Whitney: "What will the honorable gentleman suggest next?"

Mr. Studholme claimed that it was for the wealthier class in Toronto that servants were being brought out. They should be ashamed to ask the Government to pay $5 a head for getting them servants.

Hon. A. G. MacKay: "It is safe to say that not one out of three of the immigrants brought out stay on the farm."

Sir James Whitney said that the honorable gentleman from Hamilton (Mr. Studholme) was opposed to all immigration on certain lines. Others took a different line and said—and there was something to be said for their arguments from the point of view of a Provincial Government—that the advantage accruing from every immigrant brought out went to the Dominion Government and not to the Ontario Government.

He had objected to the London office, but the Government could not have an office in the middle of a common. They had to have it in some place where their agents could come. Moreover, the situation of the office in the Strand was such that a large number of persons passed it every day, and many were thus attracted to come in and make enquiries.

According to the annual report of the Minister of Education, just made public, educational affairs in the province are in a fairly satisfactory state. The one fly in the ointment is the scarcity in the supply of teachers, which is ascribed to the lure of the west. Trustees are earnestly exhorted to face the situation with a careful study of the conditions. Much praise is given to the western provinces for their wideawake attitude. They have faced the situation with intelligence. The average salary for male teachers in Ontario is only $462, while in Manitoba it is $520, in Alberta $635, and in British Columbia $650. In the two later provinces the average salary of female teachers is $621 and $550 respectively.

Attention is drawn to the fact that a consolidation is being made of the regulations, course of studies, etc., of the public schools.

School boards were found quite ready to spend money for larger and healthier schools and for enlarged school grounds.

LABORITES AND NATIONALISTS MISAPPREHENDED THE PLANS

Monday's Crisis in the British Commons May Pass Over Without Serious Results—Joe Martin Delivers His Maiden Speech in House.

London, Feb. 23.—Without any actual change in the Parliamentary situation, the outlook last night was more hopeful for the Government.

It seems that certain Ministers met the new Parliament Monday without having taken any great care either to ask the views of the various groups forming the Government majority, or to satisfy their susceptibilities, and the surprise with which the Nationalists and Laborites learned they had misapprehended Premier Asquith's speech with reference to securing "guarantees" for dealing with the House of Lords was in a great measure responsible for the acute crisis.

Both the Nationalists and the Labor parties are aware that they have little to gain by throwing out the Government. Hence the extremists yesterday displayed a more conciliatory spirit.

The Cabinet held a long council to draft the veto resolutions and debate the general situation. The result of their deliberations was a speech by Winston Churchill, president of the Board of Trade, in the House of Commons, announcing the determination of the Government to stand or fall by the veto bill.

Any direct co-operation between the Laborites and Nationalists to defeat the Government is extremely improbable. Indeed, at a meeting yesterday the Nationalists decided not to take any action for the present, which would embarass the Government.

In the Commons, Joe Martin caught the eye of the Speaker last last night. He maintained that the only reasonable interpretation to be put on the Premier's pledge in Albert Hall was that he would ask the King for a guarantee to create, if need be, a sufficient number of new peers to force the veto bill through the Lords. It was no adequate explanation to say now that what Asquith had in mind was an act of Parliament. No subsequent explanation, though given in perfect good faith, could affect the original statement.

He was a loyal Liberal, he had been elected to support the present Government, but he had not been elected to support merely the reform of the Lords which he understood was contemplated by the Government, which would put him in a false position if they called him to support a proposition of that kind.

He appealed to the Government not to destroy the great powers placed in their hands simply because of any fear of approaching His Majesty in order to obtain the necessary assurance.

The Chronicle's Parliamentary correspondent refers to the "extremely able speech of Martin, who spoke with trenchant power, but in a tone of voice louder than is usual in the Commons." The News testifies to the explicitness of Martin's words.

Commenting on the unexpected collapse in the House of Commons of the debate at the conclusion of Mr. Redmond's speech, the Unionist morning papers predict that the new Parliament will be so short-lived as to be practically stillborn.

The Morning Post bids Mr. Balfour be prepared to take office at any moment.

The Telegraph says: "After this astonishing prelude it would be folly even to conjecture what may happen next. The fiasco is more complete than any Unionist had dared to conceive."

The Liberal papers maintain a brave show, but they have difficulty in concealing their disappointment and depression. The Morning Leader (Radical) says: "When the House of Commons adjourned it was clear that the life of the Government hung on a thread, and that the decision to prolong it or not would be a matter of hours."

JACOB CORNINSKY GIVES $25,000 BAIL

Toronto, Feb. 23.—Jacob Corninsky, arrested Monday night in the act of robbing the fur store of Brodey, Draimin & Co. was committed for trial in the Police Court yesterday. Bail was refused in that court, but was later granted by Judge Winchester.

Corninsky was released upon three $5,000 bonds of his father, Philip Roanbees and Samuel Rosenburg, and his own bond of $10,000. Sergeant of Detectives Mackie, who was concealed in the store at the time, was the only witness heard.

PRESIDENT DIAZ TO VISIT EUROPE

Montreal, Feb. 23.—H. B. Payne, who is in Mexico in the interests of the Elder-Dempster line, says that when President Diaz is re-elected it is his intention to take a trip to Europe, it being the first time the general has thought of leaving the republic since his long tenure of office began.

Artillerymen to Destroy Dogs.

Kingston, Feb. 23.—An order was issued yesterday to A Battery that all dogs in the barracks must be destroyed within twenty-four hours, with the exception of "Bobs," whose life was spared likely on account of its having being named after the famous field marshal.

WILL ATTEMPT TO MOTOR THROUGH NIAGARA RAPIDS

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 23.—In a motor boat filled with 150 watertight compartments so that it can be punctured 125 times and still float, W. E. Rose and C. I. Watford of Detroit, will attempt to navigate the perilous rapids of Niagara next June.

Both men are well known here, having already negotiated the lower rapids.

They now propose to navigate the whirlpool rapids. The boat is named the Rabbit's Foot, and has been constructed so that it can neither sink or be forced to the bottom. The only danger is from capsizing.

To prevent the men from being thrown out, special foot clamps and hand holds have been built, and the men will be fastened in such a manner that they cannot be thrown out.

B. AND O. MEN MAY QUIT WORK

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 23.—The wage negotiation between the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad conductors and trainmen and the company ended yesterday in a disagreement.

The whole matter now goes back to the rank and file, who will vote on the question of a strike, which the Brotherhood officials regard as a strong possibility.

RECIPROCITY WITH STATES

Boston, Feb. 23.—Reciprocity between Canada and the United States was discussed by men of political prominence in Canada and New England at a banquet of the Canadian Club Monday night.

After Justice J. W. Longley of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia had explained why the United States would take the initial step now in securing reciprocity, Governor G. H. Prouty of Vermont, said that while such a condition would undoubtedly assist the manufacturing interests of New York and might be an advantage for the people of the eastern provinces, he thought that reciprocity would retard, rather than encourage the natural growth and prosperity of the Dominion as a whole.

Frank B. Carvell, member of the Canadian House of Commons, also expressed his approval of the continuation of the present trade relations.

SAYS IT WAS AN ACCIDENT

Atlantic City, N.J., Feb. 23.—William Tyler, in his confession to the police Monday night, declared that Jane Adams fell over the railing of the million-dollar pier by accident and that he fled the city only because he feared being held responsible for her death.

Tyler admits that the girl ran to the rail during a quarrel with him, but refused to admit that she met her death while trying to prevent him from assaulting her.

BROKE THE SMALLPOX QUARANTINE

Kingston, Feb. 23.—A despatch from Denbigh says that a couple of fresh cases of smallpox have been reported near there. It also stated that a couple of men from Raglan broke the quarantine and are at the home of a resident a few miles away. A man who broke quarantine was in Denbigh the other day looking for the doctor. His little daughter has smallpox and he thought she was dying.

CROCKET DEMANDS MAYES PAPERS

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Illness.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—The report that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's condition is serious has been denied.

The Premier is doing nicely and expects to be able to resume his duties to-morrow.

THE MEN MAY RETALIATE

Arrest in Philadelphia May Cause a General Strike.

Philadelphia, Feb. 23.—As a retaliatory measure for the arrest of National Organizer C. O. Pratt of the Farmer's Union, President John J. Murphy of the Central Labor Union, which claims a membership of 100,000 persons, has communicated with the presidents of all local trades unions affiliated with the central body, asking them the advisability of calling a general strike in sympathy with the street car men.

Mr. Murphy early in the day stated that a general strike had been ordered, but he modified that later when he announced that the proposition for a general conflict had been referred to the various unions.

The Central Labor Union last Sunday gave the executive committee power to call a general strike, and whether such should be called Mr. Murphy said, rests with the individual unions.

After spending the night in a cell at the City Hall, C. O. Pratt was given a hearing in the central police station yesterday and held in $3,000 bail. He was charged with riot, inciting to riot and conspiracy, the bail on each count being $1,000.

A man was killed as the result of a riot at Fourth and Market streets yesterday afternoon. The man was walking along the street when he was caught in a crowd that was attacking two cars. Forced off the sidewalk he was pushed against a heavy wagon, and fell under the wheels. Before he could be picked up his life was crushed out.

One man died Monday from heart disease, following excitement, when he was caught in the vortex of a turbulent crowd that was attacking a car.

A Heavy Fine.

Belleville, Feb. 23.—Ridley Palmer of Corbyville was before Magistrate Masson charged with selling liquor in that village, which is in a local option township. He was convicted and fined $150 and costs, or $173 in all.

Rochester, N.Y., Feb. 23.—Joseph Fort, an Italian boarding at Canandaigua, was murdered Monday night east of Victoria station, and his body thrown on the tracks of the Rochester and Eastern Railroad.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

The hearing of the Lumsden charges started at Ottawa.

The Ottawa Police Commissioners dismissed Major de la Ronde, the chief constable.

Fire at Cobalt destroyed Smithers saloon and DeWolf's place adjoining. Loss $6,000.

Three boys were shot and probably fatally wounded in strike riots in Philadelphia.

The Papal bill appointing Bishop Fallon arrived at London, Ont., and was taken to Buffalo by Father Aylward.

James Leonard, a reformed crackman, was shot and killed in New York by an old comrade when he betrayed.

A bill has been introduced in the Manitoba Legislature to sanction marriages in the remote districts of the province.

A gas explosion took place in the First Congregational Church at Hamilton. Several children received a fright, but little damage was done.

Men who took part in the recent labor riots were sentenced at Sydney. The ringleaders were given two years each, and about forty others were fined.

Mr. C. T. Connor will sue the Hamilton Hospital governors for the death of his daughter from scarlet fever, contracted, he says, while in the hospital.

Jos. Razanni, a young Italian, is dying in the Montreal General Hospital from bullet wounds, the result of an affray in an Italian lodging-house early yesterday.

ACTORS' BENEFIT FUND PERFORMANCE

New York, Feb. 23.—At a meeting of the finance committee of the actors' fund of America yesterday, Daniel Frohman, president of the fund, appointed A. L. Erlanger as national chairman of the actors' fund benefits, which are to be given in all large cities of the United States and Canada on a day selected by Mr. Erlanger during the week of April 25. Montreal and Toronto have been selected as places for the Canadian benefit performances.

GALT MAY HAVE CORK FACTORY

Galt, Feb. 23.—Application has been made by Frank White of Toronto for the establishment in Galt of a branch of the factory of Robinson Bros., Ltd., cork manufacturers, Halifax, Eng. The company will employ 20 hands and require from the town five acres. The building would cost $10,000. The town would be required to secure land and erect the buildings, the company to pay 10 per cent. on the investment, 5 1-2 per cent. to pay on the principal. In the opinion of the mayor, the proposition is worth considering.

That Galt manufacturers are anxiously awaiting the advent of Niagara power is evidenced in the application to council of MacGregor-Gourlay Co. and the Galt Brass Co. for quotations. The former firm would use 250 h.p. in summer and 150 h.p. in winter, the latter 30 h.p. the year round.

DIFFICULTY ABOUT COMPILING TREATIES

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—Senator Geo. W. Ross called the attention of the Senate yesterday to the difficulty in obtaining the full text of treaties made by the Government of the United Kingdom and foreign countries affecting the Dominion of Canada, and moved that steps be taken to compile such treaties, or such portions of them as affect Canada, into a volume for the use of members of Parliament, with a reasonable number for distribution among the public libraries of Canada, and in the same connection to compile the various constitutional acts passed by the Parliament of Great Britain since 1759, relating to any provinces now forming part of the Dominion of Canada. The resolution was adopted.

MAY MAKE PAPER FROM SUGAR BEET

Saginaw, Mich., Feb. 23.—Sugar beet pulp, which until a few years ago, when the question of obtaining returns from by-products was considered seriously, served as a burden to the manufacturers, who were unable to give it away, to take the place of wood pulp and provide the long-sought substitute that will yield an adequate supply of white paper.

This question is being looked into to-day by Michigan beet sugar men, who believe that a process may be found for converting the pulp into ordinary white print paper, and possibly into higher grades also.

Its lack of strong fibre presents the chief difficulty, but it is thought this may be ultimately overcome.

Blown to Bits.

New York, Feb. 23.—An oxygen tank exploded with terrific force in a garage on East 74th street yesterday.

Arthur Commier, a mechanic, was literally blown to pieces, and his brother, Henry, was so severely injured that he may die.

Carnegie Library Opened.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 23.—Prominent librarians of the province were present at the opening of the new library last night. The library cost $15,000 and was donated by Andrew Carnegie.

WOODSTOCK TO HAVE A FARM

Woodstock, Feb. 23.—The water commissioners of this city have concluded a deal by which they become possessors of the Thornton Farm, adjoining the property on which is the city's water supply. This is a most important purchase as it not only insures the preservation of 6 or 7 acres of large timber, which acts as a shade for the present supply, but it also adds four valuable springs, with which it augments the water supply whenever needed. The farm contains 136 acres and the purchase price was $8,200.

Donation of $10.00

Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, has made a donation of ten dollars to the Children's Aid Society, not five dollars, as stated in the Review yesterday.

ARRESTED ON AN OLD WARRANT

Toronto, Feb. 23.—When in the full light of the crystal front of a moving picture show over $1,000 worth of valuable furs were carried out of the premises of Abe Lavine at 141 Yonge street at 9.30 o'clock of the evening of Oct. 5, 1908, the police got busy and one Heinhorn was quickly arrested and the furs recovered in a resort on Terauley street. Heinhorn served six months and was sent to Boston, where he also served a term for a like offence.

There was another man with him in the job, but no arrest was made until yesterday, when Detectives Wallace and Armstrong gathered Samuel Helpert, 290 West Adelaide street, a teamster, upon an ancient warrant, and he was held to face the charge.

FRENCH DIGNITARIES WILL FIGHT DUEL

Paris, Feb. 23.—Senator Eugene Lintilihac, secretary of the secret relief commission, yesterday challenged Senator Raphael M. Lacroix, president of the commission, to a duel, and the challenge was accepted.

Lintilihac, at a meeting of the commission yesterday, accused Lacroix of trying to bully the members of the commission.

CROWDED CAFE WAS HELD UP

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 23.—Early yesterday morning two men entered a cafe where several theatre parties were still seated. Firing several shots to intimidate those in the place, they forced the cashier to hand them the contents of the cash drawer, amounting to $300. During an incipient panic the men escaped.

Point-a-Pitre, Gaudaloupe, Feb. 23.—Following the strike of 20,000 sugar cane cutters, several grinding plants have ceased operation.

Attempts to continue the gathering of the crops are opposed by the strikers, who have started fires in several fields.

THE TARIFF AND PRICES

The agreement made between Canada and Germany regarding trade between the two countries, by which Canada removes the surtax on imports from Germany and goods from this country will be admitted to Germany upon paying the conventional instead of the maximum tariff rate, has some unsatisfactory features. All classes of Germany goods receive the benefit of the new arrangement, but all kinds of Canadian goods do not, and some articles of agricultural produce are excluded from the agreement and will still have the higher rates applied to them. The origin of this tariff war was the preference which Canada gave to British goods, and if Germany admits, as is claimed that it does, that it was wrong in contending that such a preference was a discrimination against German products that should be met with retaliation, the conventional tariff should be made to apply to all classes of articles from Canada and not to a limited list. The arrangement, also, is a temporary one, made with the view that subsequent negotiations will take place to provide a permanent settlement of the matter, so that the dispute is not disposed of and it is an armistice that we have rather than an end to the war.

In connection with this matter the Globe makes an admission that seems strange coming from that source. It says;

"The removal of the surtax on German goods will not reduce the price of such goods to the extent of the lessened duty. A number of things enter into the cost of an article, such as insurance, freight, profit, commission, packages, etc. which remain virtually the same after the reduction of the duty. Consumers of German goods therefore, need not expect a revolution in prices."

If the insurance, freight, etc., remain virtually the same, it is not easy to see how they in any way interfere with any benefit that should be derived from the lower rates of customs duties. If the Dominion treasury receives less taxes than it did, and all other expenses remain virtually the same, who receives the difference if the price is not reduced by the amount of the reduction in the tariff? It is not the carriers, nor the commission men, nor the insurance companies and the difference does not go to the importers for freight, insurance and profits remain virtually the same," but the difference must go to someone, and that someone must be the German manufacturer.

HE TALKS OF TRIFLES

Liberal members of Parliament and some of the Liberal newspapers are complaining that Mr. Crockett, one of the Conservative members of Parliament, from New Brunswick, is a small-minded man, because he frequently takes up the time of the House with what they call "trifling" matters. Among the "trifles" that Mr. Crockett has brought to the attention of the House is Hon. Mr. Pugsley's payment of five thousand dollars of the people's money for a useless, sawdust wharf, to a political friend, who bought it a short time before for seven hundred dollars. Another "trifle" is the fact that Mr. Pugsley used the people's money to build an extension to a private wharf belonging to a political favorite. When the question came up in the House Mr. Pugsley declared positively that Mr. Crockett's statement was incorrect. When Mr. Crockett pushed the matter and proved that such an extension had been built, Mr. Pugsley explained that it was not an extension of the private wharf, but a new government wharf, built at the end of the private wharf. No one who has any understanding of the meaning of words will deny that Mr. Crockett was right in calling it an "extension" of a private wharf. But the name does not matter very much. It is the thing itself that is objectionable. The government, to all intents and purposes, takes money out of the public treasury and uses it to enable a political friend to extend his wharf into deeper water, at no cost to himself. The government owns the extension, it is true, but it was clearly built to benefit the owner of the private wharf, who has full use of it.

Liberal members of Parliament get very tired when Mr. Crockett talks to the House of such little things. They become so accustomed to spending the people's money on a big scale that nothing less than a million dollars interests them. But when almost every department of the government wastes the people's money on little things it soon counts into millions.

However, Mr. Crockett could find plenty of big things to talk about. For instance, there is the Quebec bridge, which has cost the country seven million dollars with nothing to show for it but a mass of twisted steel and which is to cost eleven millions more, according to the estimate of the Minister of Railways and Canals.

FACTS ON MAD DOGS

A correspondent of the Toronto Star, under the pen name of K. Nine, gives some most pertinent facts regarding rabies and the scare that usually follows. The letter in full is as follows:—

"If you will kindly print these few notes as to the scare of dogs now prevalent it may tend to quiet the nerves of a few who do not know the actual state of affairs in connection with this "something" commonly called rabies." This disease (if such exist) must be the only one which medical science can cope with successfully. We hear of a vast number going all the way to New York to take the treatment, when, as a matter of fact, they are cured before going. The cauterizing of a bite, or any other means that will stop blood poisoning will, in nine cases out of ten, be all that is necessary. I think no more of a dog bite than I do of an ordinary cut, as in both cases, if you properly cleanse the wounds, nature will do the rest.

I have been bitten several times by hysterical dogs, with no ill-effects, and know of dozens of kennel men who have been bitten several times with no bad effects. When one stops to think that medical science has no known specific for any disease that will act in each case precisely the same and effect a cure in almost every case, and then read of the vast number of cases being treated by the Pasteur treatment with such few deaths, we begin to think the disease is not so dangerous after all.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address;

Burglars in Port Hope

The home of Mr. J. C. Clark, King street, was burglarized last evening while Mr. and Mrs. Clark were at church. The intruders gained an entrance by forcing open the rear door, and they made a careful survey of the residence. A quantity of jewellery was not disturbed, and it was quite evident that the thieves wanted nothing but money. They got away with $15 cash.

Chief Bond is satisfied that it is the work of some local men, and every effort will be used to locate them.—Port Hope Guide.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 23.—There was laid on the table of the local Legislature of the second annual report of the Manitoba Government telephones.

It showed that there was the large surplus of $372,000 in operating. The total expenditure was $782,000, and total receipts were $754,000. However, $907,347 was spent on capital account.

There are 7,000 farmers with rural 'phones, and 5,000 subscribers were added this year, an approximate total of 11,000 in two years.

Manitoba's Right to Legislate.

Winnipeg, Feb. 23.—T. C. Norris, leader of the Opposition in the Legislature, yesterday moved that "it is the undoubted right of this Legislature exclusively to make laws for all new territory added to Manitoba, to the full extent of constitutional powers of the province."

Hon. Robert Rogers, in accepting the terms of the resolution, repudiated the reasoning of Norris (who claimed separate schools were a stumbling block), and the motion carried.

Will Reopen Cheese Factory.

"How silly I am!" she said half-aloud in her abstraction.

She turned her gaze away from the blinking light in the hills, a queer, guilty smile on her lips.

Across the garden from where she was flaying herself bitterly Lady Deppingham's husband was saying in low, agitated tones to Bobby Browne's wife:

"Now, see here, Drusilla, I'm not saying that our—that is, Lady Deppingham and Bobby—are accountable for what has happened, but that doesn't make it any more pleasant. It's of little consequence who is trying to poison us, don't you know, and all that. They wouldn't do it, I'm sure, but somebody is! That's what I mean, d'ye see? Lady Dep"—

"I know my husband wouldn't—couldn't do such a thing, Lord Deppingham," came from Drusilla's stiff lips almost as a moan. She was very miserable.

"Of course not, my dear Drusilla," he protested nervously. Then suddenly, as his eye caught what he considered a suspicious movement of Bobby's hand as he placed a card close to Lady Deppingham's fingers: "Demme, I—I'd rather he wouldn't! But I beg your pardon, Drusilla! It's all perfectly innocent."

"Of course it's innocent!" whispered Drusilla fiercely.

"It's utter nonsense for us to suspect them of— Pray don't be so upset, Drusilla. It's all right."

"If you think I am worrying over your wife's harmless affair with my husband you are very much mistaken."

Deppingham was silent for a long time.

"I don't sleep at all these nights," he said at last miserably. She could not feel sorry for him. She could only feel for herself and her sleepless nights. "Drusilla, do—do you think they want to get rid of us? We're the obstacles, you know. We can't help it, but we are. Somebody put that pill in my tea today. It must have been a servant. It couldn't have been—er"—

"My husband, sir?"

"No; my wife. You know, Drusilla, she's not that sort. She has a horror of death and"— He stopped and wiped his brow pathetically.

"If the servants are trying to poison any of us, Lord Deppingham, it is reasonable to suspect that your wife and my husband are the ones they want to dispose of, not you and me. I don't believe it was poison you found in your tea, but if it was it was intended for one of the heirs."

"Well, there's some consolation in that," said Deppy, smiling for the first time.

The sharp rattle of firearms in the distance brought a sudden stop to his lugubrious reflections. Five, a dozen, a score of shots were heard. The blood turned cold in the veins of every one in the garden; faces blanched suddenly, and all voices were hushed. A form of paralysis seized and held them for a full minute.

Then the voice of Britt below broke harshly upon the tense, still air: "Good God! Look! It is the bungalow!"

A bright glow lighted the dark mountain side; a vivid red painted the trees; the smell of burning wood came down with the breezes. Two or three sporadic shots were borne to the ears of those who looked toward the blazing bungalow.

"They've killed Chase!" burst from the stiff lips of Bobby Browne.

CHAPTER XVII.

CHASE COMES FROM THE CLOUDS.

FOR many minutes the watchers in the chateau stared at the burning bungalow, fascinated, petrified. Through the mind of each man ran the sudden, sharp dread that Chase had met death at the hands of his enemies.

Genevra felt her heart turn cold. Then something seemed to clutch her by the throat and choke the breath out of her body. Through her brain went whirling the recollection of his last words to her that afternoon, "They'll find me ready if they come for trouble." She wondered if he had been ready for them or if they had surprised him! She had heard the shots. Chase could not have fired them all. Was he now lying dead in that blazing— She screamed aloud with the thought of it!

"Can't something be done?" she cried again and again, without taking her gaze from the doomed bungalow. She turned fiercely upon Bobby Browne, his countryman. Afterward she recalled that he stood staring as she had stared. Lady Deppingham clasping his arm with both of her hands. The glance also took in the face of Deppingham. He was looking at his wife, and his eyes were wide and glassy, but not with terror. "It may not be too late!" again cried the princess. "There are enough of us here to make an effort, no matter how futile. He may be alive and trapped up"—

"You're right!" shouted Browne. "He's not the kind to go down with the first rush. We must go to him. We can get there in ten minutes. Britt! Where are the guns? Are you with us, Deppingham?"

He did not wait for an answer, but dashed out of the garden and down the steps, calling to his wife to follow.

"Stop!" shouted Deppingham. "We dare not leave this place! If they have turned against Chase, they are also ready for us. I'm not a coward, Browne. We're needed here, that's all. It's too late to help Chase. They've got him, poor devil! Everybody inside! Get to the guns if possible and cut off the servants' quarters. We must not let them surprise us. Follow me!"

There was wisdom in what he said, and Browne was not slow to see it clearly. With a single penetrating glance at Genevra's despairing face, he shook his head gloomily and turned to follow Deppingham, who was hurrying off through the corridor with her ladyship.

"Come," he called, and the princess, feeling Drusilla's hand grasping her arm, gave one helpless look at the fire and hastened to obey.

In the grand hallway they came upon Britt and Saunders, white faced and excited. The white servants were clattering down the stairways, filled with alarm, but there was not one of the native attendants in sight. This was ominous enough in itself. The sound of a violent struggle in the lower corridor came to their ears. Loud voices, blows, a single shot, the rushing of feet, the panting of men in fierce combat—and then, even as the whites turned to retreat up the stairway, a crowd of men surged up the stairs from below, headed by Baillo, the major domo.

"Stop, excellencies!" he shouted again and again. Bobby Browne and Deppingham were covering the retreat, prepared to fight to the end for their women, although unarmed. It was the American who first realized that Baillo was not heading an attack upon them. Baillo and a score of his men had refused to join the stablemen and gardeners in the plot to assassinate the white people. As a last resort the conspirators contrived to steal into the chateau, hoping to fall upon their victims before Baillo could interpose. The major domo, however, with the wily sagacity of his race, anticipated the move. The two forces met in the south hall after the plotters had effected an entrance from the garden. The struggle was brief, for the conspirators were outnumbered and surprised. They were even now lying below, bound and helpless, awaiting the disposition of their intended victims.

"It is not because we love you, excellencies," explained Baillo, with a sudden fierce look in his eyes, "but because Allah has willed that we should serve you faithfully. We are your dogs. Therefore we fight for you. It is a vile dog which bites its master."

Browne, with the readiness of the average American, again assumed command of the situation. He gave instructions that the prisoners, seven in number, be confined in the dungeon, temporarily at least.

"There will be no other attack on us tonight," said Browne, rejoining the women after his interview with Baillo. "It has missed fire for the present, but they will try to get at us sooner or later from the outside. Britt, will you and Mr. Saunders put those prisoners through the sweat box? You may be able to bluff something out of them if you threaten them with death. They"—

"It won't do, Browne," said Deppingham, shaking his head. "They are fatalists; they are stoics. I know the breed better than you. Question if you like, but threats will be of no avail. Keep 'em locked up; that's all."

Firearms and ammunition were taken from the gunroom to the quarters occupied by the white people. Every preparation was made for a defense in the event of an attack from the outside or inside. The white servants were moved into rooms adjoining their employers. Britt and Saunders transferred their belongings to certain gorgeous apartments. Miss Pelham went into a Marie Antoinette suit close by that of the princess. The native servants retained their customary quarters below stairs.

Far in the night Genevra, sleepless and depressed, stole into the hanging garden. Her mind was full of the horrid thing that had happened to Hollingsworth Chase. He had been nothing to her. He could not have been anything to her had he escaped the guns of the assassins. And yet her heart was stunned by the stroke that it had sustained. Wide eyed and sick, she made her way to the railing and, clinging to the vines, stared for she knew not how long at the dull red glow on the mountain.

The night was still and ominously dark. She had never known a night since she came to Japat when the birds and insects were so mute. A somber, supernatural calm hung over the island like a pall. The smell of smoke hung about her. She could not help wondering if his fine, strong body was lying up there burned to a crisp. It was far past midnight. She was alone in the garden. Sixty feet below her was the ground; above, the black dome of heaven.

She was not to know till long afterward that one of her faithful Thorberg men stood guard in the passage leading up from the garden, armed and willing to die. One or the other slept in front of her door through all those nights on the island.

Something hot trickled down her cheeks from the wide, pitying eyes that stared so hard. She was wondering now if he had a mother, sisters. How their hearts would be wrenched by this! She was thinking of him with pity and horror in her heart, not love.

SHETLAND FESTIVAL

Preparing for "Uphelly" in Lerwick—Quaint Norse Custom

(From the Special Correspondent of the London Daily Chronicle.)

Only fifty miles of sea between, and what a difference to a bird of passage like myself! It would seem that Orkney and Shetland have only one thing in common, namely, that they will join in ten days' time to return Mr John Wason, the staunchest of Liberals, to Parliament as surely as the Shetland sun rises after breakfast and sets before tea. It is not only a question of geography, of broader vales and narrow streets and wilder seas and deeper snows. The very people are almost of a different race.

While Orkney, with its daily ferry across the Pentland Firth, keeps still hand and glove with Scotland, one will hardly see a highland face or hear a Highland word in a day's march through Lerwick ways and byways. Shetland is pure Norse. It lives to itself. Just now, too, it has to do so more than ever, for what are considered hardships in Orkney are things to be taken for granted here.

What with the cold and the still falling snow, the very seagulls are crowding into the town, sitting in rows upon the alley walls, chattering crumbs at the kitchen step as domestically as any barn-door fowl. Sledges are everywhere. It would be as hopeless to try to drive a machine, as a pony and trap or anything on wheels is called in the isles, along some of these snowbound roads as to try to roll a golf-ball across a bunker. Even the shopping is being done on sledges duly piled with vegetables and grocery.

I have not seen a perambulator in Lerwick. The "little mother" of the Shetland household drags the baby boy huddled in woollen shawls upon an extremely ingenious combination of cradle and sledge. When she gets outside the little town she may be tempted to toboggan with her chubby charge down the hill to the loch and to watch the curling match there in which many Shetland worthies are taking part.

MODERN "FIRE WORSHIPPERS."

As for the election, Lerwick is allowing itself a little breathing space before the polling, though it is by no means unconcerned, and can boast, among other things, of a fully fledged Socialistic party with no fewer than seventy registered members and claiming three seats on the town council. Needless to say, the Lerwick Socialists will throw in their lot with the Liberals, and Mr. Wason may be assured of their vote.

But just for the next two or three days the election has a formidable rival in the great annual Shetland festival of "Uphelly a," this to happen on Tuesday, and in Lerwick, "all thoughts, all passions, all delights" are being subordinated to the needful preparations. In itself this shows curiously how Shetland has kept up its Norse traditions, for the "Uhelly a" is nothing more nor less than a continuance of the old pagan rite with which the Vikings used to celebrate the Yule festival. Even the present participants allude to themselves jocularly as "fire worshippers."

The great event of the day, or rather the night, of the festival, is the burning of a huge model of an ancient Viking galley after it has been marched in torchlight procession round the town. The model is now practically ready, painted in blue and red, and I have been graciously permitted a glimpse of it. It is a really large and well appointed wooden boat, at least twenty feet by five, and of the regular old Viking pattern, with a fearsome dragon head rising high at the prow and the body swelling outward at the water line, with just that graceful curve that the prints of relics suggest. The old builder, himself of Norse blood, who is yearly entrusted with this sacred duty, has taken immense pains to reconstruct a genuine Viking galley this time. She is to be actually clinker built, to give her a more graceful form. The square sail will be as the stage managers say, 'practicable,' and will be fitted with the "truckle," a mysterious equipment which the vessels, both of the ancient Viking and of the modern Shetlander, have in common, while each side of the ship will have its row of oars and shields.

BURNING OF THE GALLEY.

For the procession round the town the galley will, as usual, be filled with 'guisers,' or masqueraders, in costume as armed with Vikings, the 'chief guiser' standing in his winged helmet, like old Sweyn, at the prow, with Thor's raven flag flying at the masthead. This year, too, for the first time on record, the model of a modern ironclad—the new St. Vincent, to be exact—will be carried also through the streets and burnt in company with the Viking ship.

In the procession will be between two and three hundred 'guisers,' all in specially-made fancy dress, the designs for which are kept a secret until the night, and all of them carrying flaming torches, which will ultimately be thrown into the burning ships.

The importance of the pageant to a quiet little town like Lerwick in the winter may be imagined. Even the jaded sightseer might well take a journey to revive the thought of those brave days when the fierce old Shetland jarls sought their burial much after the same fashion, lying in state upon their lighted ships as upon a funeral pyre and with set sail drifting out alone and aflame to the eternal home.

However that may be, no English town with its solitary pageant could be more eager over the display than the Shetlanders are over this yearly tribute to their pageant forbears. Practically everybody in the town is taking some part or other in the business. From every village and island far miles and miles round, if only the snow makes it in any degree possible, throngs of country folk will be trooping thither to see the ceremony, and to join in the subsequent festivities, for after the burning of the ship the 'guisers' separate into little bands and perform national Shetland dances at all the chief houses.

The whole place in short gives itself up to dances, to delight, to tune of flute and fiddle. Yet with it all there has never been a case of drunkenness, and there is no thought of vulgarity or horseplay. On the windy side of the Fair Isle romance is not dead yet.

LITTLE BOY ATE TOPS OF MATCHES

Hamilton, Feb. 21.—John McFryfield McIntyre, the infant son of J. E. and Mrs. McIntyre, of Winnipeg died here yesterday morning under most distressing circumstances. The child's father is a traveller for the National Cash Register Company, of Dayton, Ohio, and while he was away from home the mother, accompanied by the little fellow, came to visit her uncle and aunt, Robert J. and Mrs. Smith, 62 Napier street. On Thursday afternoon last the child was put to bed for his afternoon nap. He slept for a short time and then got out of the bed and got from a dresser in the room about two dozen matches from which he sucked the tops. Later in the afternoon the little fellow became very ill and not knowing what had happened the mother and her aunt administered some remedies to stop the vomiting, which by this time had begun. He became worse, and about 8 o'clock in the evening it was discovered that he had been sucking the matches, and medical aid was at once summoned and everything possible was done to relieve him, but without avail.

COASTERS HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Small Boy Steered His Sleigh off the Sidewalk and Prevented a Bad Accident

Two young children, a boy and a girl, coasting on Benson avenue, and a G.T.R. freight train were the principals in a nerve-testing situation, last evening about 5.30. The train was fast approaching the Smith street crossing, as the coasters came swiftly down the hill. On reaching the bottom the boy noticing the train steered off the sidewalk and by the sleigh colliding with a post, the girl was badly shaken up, and slightly injured about the head. Had the sleigh continued on its course it looked like one chance in a hundred for it to make the crossing before the train.

THEATRICAL

The Gay Musician

Remembered for its big success made here the early part of this season, John P. Solcum's comic opera company, in Julian Edwards' best musical composition, "The Gay Musician" has been secured for a return engagement here and will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House next Monday, Feb. 28th.

No musical production ever seen here left a more pleasing impression than did Manager Slocum's singers in "The Gay Musician," and their return will be welcomed by the many admirers they have in this city. A few changes have been made in the cast since "The Gay Musician" was last seen here. The prima donnas of the company are Miss Texas Guinan, niece of United States Senator Joe Bailey, of Texas, and former prima donna with Elsie Janis in "The Hoyden" at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York, and an old favorite, Miss Lottie Kendall a very charming actress with a host of admirers in this city. In addition to the cast of prominent singers "The Gay Musician" boasts of two dozen fascinating show girls, a very diminutive pony ballet, and "the best singing chorus in America."

The company is now making a transcontinental tour that will embrace every large city from coast to coast, and after this short Canadian tour will go direct to the Garrick Theatre, Chicago for a summer run. Judging from the large number of inquiries as to when the tickets would go on sale next Monday will witness the banner house of the season. An augmented orchestra will be used under the direction of Herr Max Winne, of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York.

CITY OF PETERBORO' BILL AT TORONTO

Purity Ware By-law Confirmed—Fixed Exemption for Wm. Hamilton Co. Must be Voted On—Only Two Amendments Were Made by Committee.

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—The city of Peterborough bill received handsome treatment from the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature this morning. There were only two amendments made. In the case of the application for fixed exemption for the Wm. Hamilton Company, Hon. J. B. Lajoie, the chairman, declared that as this was in reality a bonus, it must be voted on by the ratepayers. This course the committee afterwards followed in other municipal bills to-day.

The only opposition to the ratification of $50,000 bonus to Purity Ware, Limited, came from James Kendrey, who opposed it on the ground that there was an air of mystery, and the people could not tell who was behind it. It was a promoter's scheme, engineered by Robert Grout, of Toronto. G. A. Gilespie, president of the Board of Trade, satisfied the committee of the genuine nature of the company, and the by-law was validated.

The city's application to appoint a commissioner of industries was granted, but condition was made that his salary must be paid by subscription, Board of Trade or other bodies, and not by the City Council.

Authority was given to establish a public library, and for a tie at an election to be decided in favor of the candidate with the highest assessment, instead of by the city clerk. All other applications were also granted.

Mayor Morrow, City Solicitor Hall and T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., gave able assistance.

A deputation from the Collegiate Institute Board asked Hon. Dr. Pyne to allow them to use the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium instead of building another. The Minister will consider the proposal.

NEW TYPE OF BALLOT BOX INVENTED BY LOCAL MAN

An Ashburnham resident, who wishes his name withheld for the present, has invented a new type of ballot box and is sending a model to Ottawa to-night, with a view of securing a patent. An outline and some particulars of the invention were sent sent recently and a very favorable reply received in return. The inventor was one of the many who found it difficult to cast his vote on January 3rd. of last month, and also who waited long and patiently for the returns to be given out, and this state of affairs led him to begin work on a machine which would to his mind give much better satisfaction, than the present system of voting.

The new ballot box is simple to manipulate and can be manufactured at a low cost. One would be necessary for each candidate. The voter would go into the room, mark his ballot and place it in the slot on the top of a small box. By then pulling a small lever on the side of the box the ballot would drop into another receptacle below, marked, and the vote registered on a contrivance which works with every operation of the lever. In the case of one vote being cast, the register would show the figure 1 and in the case of one thousand, the figures 1000. By this means, on the last vote being cast, the official in charge could at once sent out the number of votes for each candidate.

POLAR EXPLORER GETS LOCATION

How the Arctic Traveller Finds Out Where He is at

Last night in the hall at the Collegiate Institute quite a large number of people gathered to hear a very able address by Prof. L. B. Stewart, of S. P. S., Toronto University, who took for his subject, "How Polar Explorers Determine Their Whereabouts." Prof. Stewart, may be claimed to be of Peterborough, as he is a son of Mr. Geo. Stewart, C.E., long a resident of the city, and also a cousin of Mr. T. A. S. Hay, C.E., City Engineer. Prof. Stewart arrived by the Toronto evening train, which was a little late and it was well on to nine o'clock before he began his address.

Dr. Marsh was chairman in the absence of the president, Mr. W. H. Collyer. The formal business of the meeting of the Society (the Peterborough Branch of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada) was transacted, and to fill in the interval Dr. Marsh gave a talk on Halley's comet, and told of its approach, its position in the heavens and how to locate it.

Prof Stewart, having been supplied with a blackboard on which to make diagrams, took up his subject. In an explanation, free from technicalities, he defined the matters of latitude and longitude. He exhibited the instruments such as the sextant and quadrant and defined their uses, and how observations were taken and verified. The lecture was full of interest, bearing in mind the recent return of the Arctic explorers, Peary and Cook, and the controversy to establish the claims that each had reached the Pole.

At the conclusion of the address a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. T. A. S. Hay and seconded by Mr. W. H. Meldrum and tendered to Professor Stewart.

PETERBOROUGH KILTIES' BAND

Suggested as a Valuable Side Line for the New Industrial Commissioner

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—Now that our City Fathers and the Board of Trade are awakening to the advantages to be gained by advertising the resources of our city, it has just occurred to me that in the event of the crack band of the 57th Regiment being forced to sever its connection with the regiment in view, of recent occurrences, would it not be a capital idea for the city to equip them as the Kilties' Band. Bands in connection with Highland regiments, and even as separate units have proved immense money makers in Toronto, Hamilton, Galt and Belleville. The 57th is the equal if not the superior of many of these organizations and is equipped with a fine an outfit of instruments as money can buy, to say nothing of having the best bandmaster in the business in Canada. All that would be necessary would be for the men to stig into their kilts and—accept engagements. Talk about an ad.—why, the "Peterborough Kilties" would be the stellar attraction at one-half of the fairs in the province. Think it over!

Yours truly,
SAUNDIE MacPHERSON.

REPORTS FROM FISHERY OVERSEERS FOR THE PETERBOROUGH DISTRICT

The annual report of the Game and Fisheries Department for 1909 contains the following interesting reports from the overseers in the Peterborough district;

Overseer William Clarkson, of Lakehurst, reports that the bass and maskinonge have been very plentiful, anglers having no difficulty in securing the limit allowed. The fishermen report the catch of salmon trout up to the average. Ducks are as plentiful as usual; also partridge are getting very numerous. The tourist trade has increased fully 30 per cent. The fishery regulations and close season were well observed. No abuses exist in this district. The mill owners observe the law well.

Overseer A. J. Kent, of Bewdley, reports that, as his appointment took place last April, he can only give a report of the past six months, or a little better; however, he is pleased to state that the close season for fish was very well observed in his division; in fact, it was considered very risky to attempt killing any fish as the territory was pretty well worked. The fishing was not very good this past season. They had considerable high winds which was partly the reason, and it is his opinion that maskinonge and bass are getting scarce in Rice Lake. The fish in the Otonabee River should have better protection. Muskrats were very plentiful last spring at that end of the lake, and he would suggest that trappers pay two dollars. There are a number of trappers in and around Bewdley, also a few who carry traps in their canoes for an excuse, but he is of the opinion that they are not set very often, and if a license were put on, it would do away with those make-believe trappers, and make it easier for the overseer.

Duck shooting has been very good this season, better than it has been for some time.

Black squirrels are plentiful, but partridge are scarce. There is only one saw-mill in his division; no mill refuse has been dumped into the water.

In conclusion he adds that Mr. John McAllister, overseer at Gore's Landing, and himself worked together harmoniously, each going no the other's territory, and they will be pleased to do othe very same next season.

Overseer J. R. Botte of Fowler's Corners, reports that there has been no violation of the game laws that he has heard of.

Ducks have been very plentiful this season.

Bass and maskinonge were plentiful in July and August and part of September.

Muskrat and mink—these fur-bearing animals have been very scarce, owing to high waters in the spring.

Hunting on Sunday is entirely stopped there now. The law has been very well observed in his district.

Overseer Wellington Lean, of Apsley, reports that he has visited lakes and portions of country where game may be found in his district at different times during the year, and found no illegal fishing or hunting. Fishing was not as good in his district as in former years. Bass were very scarce, especially at Loon Lake. He would like to again call attention to the stocking of Crab and Wolfe Lakes with bass and trout. These lakes would make admirable summer resorts, and thus open up new fields for tourists and sportsmen.

Partridge are very plentiful this fall, and very few are being killed, so in a short time they will be as numerous as in former years. Deer are getting very scarce here. He has been through the woods a number of times this summer and has seen only a few tracks or other signs of them being around.

Beaver are getting quite numerous around some of the lakes. He found two traps which he thought were set for beaver; these he took and reported to the department, and he has the traps yet.

Overseer J. R. McAllister, of Gore's Landing, reports that the fishing has been very poor for some reason; in fact, there were not not half the number of maskinonge taken this year that was taken last year, and none of the old fishermen can account for it, as the fish are quite plentiful.

The law has been well observed in Rice Lake, but he understands that there has been some bad poachers at work up the Otonabee River, and the harm is done mostly by people from Peterborough with gill nets. He got one gill net in Otonabee River, but he did not know who set it.

Ducks are quite plentiful and he has not seen or heard of any person killing any game or fur-bearing animals out of season. But he is sorry to say that those who call themselves duck hunters and sports, are building blinds and shooting over decoys out of same, not on his division, but on the north side of Rice Lake east of Hiawatha, in all the rice beds. He was down the lake yesterday and he destroyed two blinds, one was half a mile, and the other a quarter of a mile from the shore. None of the overseers there try to stop this, so he is told, and those who keep within the law come to him and want him to go on this other overseer's division and try and have some of the offenders fined; it makes it very disagreeable for him. He wishes that catching frogs in the rice beds by those large lamps was stopped. He saw two of these going up and down the rice beds on Monday night the 1st of November, and they are every night at this time of the year. It drives the ducks all away, so that they cannot feed at night in the rice beds, where they always want to feed at night.

Overseer A. W. McIntyre, of Keene, reports that there was a good catch of fish this season in his division, but he can give no account of what was caught as the fishing was done by local men chiefly. He thinks there was an increase over last year. They were nearly all consumed in the neighborhood. He had no infractions of the law to report. There are no dams in his district, with fishways in and he thinks there is no need for them, as there are as many fish above as below the dams in the Indian river. There is no mill refuse dumped in the water in his division.

Overseer Enoch Merriam, of Harwood, reports that the fishing was not as good in Rice Lake this past summer as it was other years. The water was about twenty inches higher than he ever knew it to be, and many of the old weed beds that served as a guide to fish along never came to the top of the water, and he is of the opinion that the fish were more scattered than when the water was much lower in the lake. The weather was very rough and a good many days the fishermen had to stop on shore, and as Rice Lake is very shallow, only about 12 feet on an average, and of mud bottom, it becomes so muddy after a storm that it takes some time to settle down again so that the fish can see a bait. The minnows were very plentiful out everywhere on the deepest water, and he thinks this supply of food for the large fish helps to spoil the sport of anglers. The water was of a good height last spring, so that there was no spawn wasted and the fish were as plentiful in the marshes as ever they were. The muskrats were very thick and are becoming more plentiful every year. Partridge are very scarce around there, owing to the fact that there is not much wood for them to hatch in. Ducks were in great quantity last spring and stopped with them till the middle of May, but there is not as many fall ducks in yet as last year; it is a little early for them at this present date, October 30th. The shooting is not good, as you cannot get at them, since you cannot shoot from the rice beds over decoys. He has not seen any traps set for the muskrat and they are putting up their camps for the winter. The close seasons have been well observed, with the exception of one Indian. He was caught trolling; he had no fish. He took his line and bait and got out a summons for him to appear in court, but instead he left and went to some part unknown to him as yet.

Overseer F. J. Moore, of Lakefield, reports that as regards the fisheries, the law has been well observed in his district this season. He had a few cases in the spring with the settlers, but let them off with a warning, which had a good effect. He had one party fined for killing maskinonge in the spring.

Tourists have had fairly good luck with rod and spoon this year, particularly bass fishing; maskinonge has not been so plentiful. He would again strongly recommend that Stony Lake be restocked with parent bass, if they could be got, as it is of great importance that the fish supply be kept up. Stony Lake is becoming a great summer resort for tourists who come from all parts of the United States to spend their holidays. He does not think they would mind paying more for their permits if the fishing was good.

He has issued over two hundred fishing permits this year, and there are also a number of Americans come here who get their permits on the way over, so that these people, with the people of our own province, use quite a supply of fish. He thinks it would be a good idea, if possible, to have arrangements made with the Dominion Government, in regard to the rising and falling of the water in Stony Lake, in the spring, as a great part of the spawn is lost through the water falling. He has issued about 34 guides' licenses and thinks this is a great protection to the fish. He has also issued two minnow licenses. He would recommend that the close season for bass and maskinonge be from the 1st of April instead of the 15th of April, as these fish run immediately after the ice disappears.

The law in regard to deer hunting this season has been well observed. Hunters and trappers have had a fairly good year. Ducks are not very plentiful in his district. Partridge are more plentiful since the shooting and sale of these birds has been prohibited. Trappers seem to have had good luck this year catching muskrats. Mink is becoming very scarce in this locality and if they are not protected in some way, before long they will be a thing of the past. He would suggest that a close season be put on them as their fur is very favuable, and also when trappers are traping mink they are apt to kill rats before the season opens for these animals.

WINNIPEG TEAM WAS TOO SPEEDY FOR LOCALS AND WON FAST GAME BY 11-4

Score at Half Time Was 3-1 for the Visitors, Who Played an Effective Individual Game—An Exhibition of — Clever-Stick-handling and Shooting.

In the smoothest game of hockey seen around these parts since the days of the old guard, the Northern Bank hockey team, of Winnipeg, walloped Peterborough's choicest at Brock street rink last night, by a 11—4score, after leading at half time, by 3—1. The game was replete with great individual work and shooting by the visitors, and combination and back checking by the locals. The class of hockey dished up by the Winnipeg team was something in the line of a change for the faithful four hundred, and while the honors went against the Petes, all appeared to be thoroughly pleased with the exhibition. In the first half, the play was even enough, but as the second period advanced the improved shooting of the western septette was too big a proposition for the local youngsters, and they went down for the count. On the showing made last night, almost every man of the visitors' line-up is a star. The team plays a strictly individual game. Each player is a fast skater and handles himself well, when checked. Their shooting of the western septette was off, but at that it was the kind that with accuracy results in scores. In the second half, and as the team became better accustomed to the rink, Derocher had a busy session, at his position between the nets, and he was called on to block them from centre ice and close in. Clever stick handling and speed enabled the players on the forward line to get well in on the Peterborough defence, but whenever they felt like it, but a sufficient number of times to win an ordinary game. On the line Gardiner and Borland were always conspicuous, the former by his all round work and the latter by his dazzling rushing. Barclay, at centre, pulled off the stunt of the night, when he scored from centre ice after the opening of the second half. He with Gardiner are deadly shots, and his performances were great to witness. Watson, who while in this city, played with the Bankers in the City League, did a lot of work, but he was not as effective as the rest of his team mates. He fell down and missed many nice openings for counters. He handled his stick well and was generally prominent. In White and Fowler, on the defence, the visitors showed considerable strength, and each performed steadily and played consistent hockey throughout. Both contributed end to end rushes, the latter taking the last tally for his team. Clarke, in goal, had a rather easy night of it, but he handled himself in a manner that would lead one to believe he could dish up the goods if called upon to do so.

On the Peterborough line-up every man tried hard to land the game, and never let up until the last sound of the gong. Effective individual work, coupled with persistent shooting is a big contract to handle, but against the style of play, the city leaguers made a very creditable showing. They were coming too fast for Derocher, but while he was beaten for eleven, he blocked as many if not more, than that number. Heffernan and McDougall were kept working overtime all through the game, but both found time to take a lonely rush or take a hand in a combination play occasionally. The forward line worked well together, and many times their combined play won the approval of the fans. Ray was there, fast, and always pressing, and his end to end rush, which resulted in a score in the second half, was a clever piece of hockey. Ken Crane checked hard, and at times showed his heels to his opponents, in his usual manner. He worked like a trojan, but was not up to the mark with his shooting. McMillan and Weatherston played their never-let-up game, the former giving Gardiner a hard tussle for the honors.

Bill Rose and Claude Robinson handled the game in a capable manner, and to the satisfaction of both team, the line-up of each team being as follows:—

WINNIPEG.

Clarke, Fowler, White, (Capt.) Borland, Watson, Barclay, Gardner. McMillan, Crane, Weatherston. Ray (Capt.) McDougall, Heffernan, Derocher.

PETERBOROUGH.

The scoring—

FIRST HALF.

The visitors took the north goal, drew the face-off and opened up with a burst of speed that made the locals blink, some. Derocher stopped two shots dead on his nets, but there were numerous others which went high and on either side of him. Heffernan drew a penalty for slashing, and as his time expired Weatherston filled the vacancy for tripping. Peterborough could do very little in the line of checking, and after five minutes of fast play, Borland came into the limelight with a rink end rush and beat Derocher.

For the next few minutes after the face off the locals showed improvement in checking and also got away with some nice combination work, which, however, went to the bad with the play right in around the nets. What looked like two scores did not materialize, and in six minutes Gardiner took another for his team.

It fell to the lot of McMillan to draw the first tally for the locals, he scoring on a wide shot after McDougall had worked the puck up the ice. Time, 2 minutes.

The light haired youth almost repeated the trick a minute after the face-off, his shot missing the nets by a close margin. Fowler went off for an infraction. In six minutes Barclay made it 3—1. No more scores came in this half, and it ended with the puck in play near the Peterborough goal.

SECOND HALF.

It just took five seconds for Barclay to put his team further in the lead. Securing the puck from the face-off, he shot a hard and speedy one straight at Derocher, and the umpire's mit went up. In ten seconds Crane found the nets for Peterborough's second goal. McMillan broke a skate and in company with Barclay went off for repairs. McDougall shot high on a nice chance, and on the return of McMillan and Barclay, the latter took a centre ice shot, but Derocher saw it coming. White pulled off a clone rush and shot wide. In four minutes Borland took his second goal on a long shot.

Crane missed a good opening after Heffernan rushed, but redeemed himself by beating Clarke on a pass from Weatherston. In thirty seconds Gardiner beat the locals' defence for a score, and a minute later Ray rushed and dodged through White and Fowler and made the figures stand, Winnipeg 6, Peterborough 3.

The next goal was disputed, but went to Gardner, who shot from the side and put the rubber through the netting. Derocher blocked two shots from Borland after that individual had rushed twice, but Gardiner came along with another in 4 1-2 minutes. The next went to Watson in 5 1-2 minutes from a scrimmage in front of Derocher. Borland was penalized and Gardiner made it 10—4 in three minues. The last score of the game went to Fowler in two minutes before time was called, after a rink end jaunt. With a minute to play Weatherston drew a second penalty.

Scoring summary:—

FIRST HALF.

1 Winnipeg, Borland—5.00.
2 Winnipeg, Gardiner—6.00.

The members of the visiting Winnipeg hockey team were given a drive yesterday afternoon by the Peterborough Hockey Club, and the principal points of interest around the city, including the lift lock, were visited. After the game the winners were the guests of the local club at the Dominion Cafe, and in the course of an appetizing repast, Mr. Watson, on behalf of his team, thanked the local club for the pleasant time provided. Mr. W. O'Brien replied. The Agony Chorus of the Pill Pounders, led by Trainer Brady, almost caused a small riot, but outside of that it was fair.

COLLINGWOOD WON ROUND BY THREE

Cobourg, Feb. 22.—Before the largest crowd of the season, the speedy Cobourg locals surprised the fast Collingwood seven by defeating them by the score of 11 to 8. The game from the start was very fast, and there was some very clever stick handling shown by the players on both teams. The local team a very well balanced one, and all the boys learned the game in this town. The visiting team are all good stick handlers and very speedy skaters, and should certainly land the championship. Referee Hancock of Toronto handled the bell to perfection.

NELSON LOST TITLE TO AD. WOLGAST IN 40 ROUNDS

Richmond Arena, Cal., Feb. 22.—His face pulped to pulp, his eyes closed with blood, and staggering helplessly around the ring, Battling Nelson was saved from a knockout in the 40th round of his fight with Ad Wolgast to-day, when Referee Mr. Eddie Smith humanely stopped an unequal contest.

Nelson, game to the last, stood in the centre of the ring, and though he could not raise his hands, begged to be allowed to continue. He was led to his corner heart-broken.

In the opposite corner of the ring, the new lightweight champion of the world, Ad Wolgast, of Cadillac, Mich., was lifted to the shoulders of his trainers, while the big crowd cheered. Only once did Nelson have a chance, in the 22nd round. With a swinging right cross to jaw, he staggered Wolgast and before the round closed he dropped Wolgast in the middle of the ring with a similar blow. Three seconds were tolled before Ad Wolgast regained his feet. The crowd prepared to leave the arena with the idea that Wolgast was another fallen victim to the Dane, but in the next round Wolgast recuperated and from there on slowly but surely wore Nelson down. For twelve rounds before the finish Nelson seemed bewildered, and his blows were delivered as though his arms were stiff. The 30th round Nelson could hardly see or hear. The left side of his head had lost all semblance of its former contour. He staggered and hung on. In the 37th round he was all but out.

In the 38th round John Robinson, Nelson's manager, wanted to throw the sponge into the ring, but Abdul, the Turk, and another second, tore it from his hand and threw it into the bucket. Robinson protested in the verge of tears that his man was beaten.

When the 40th round came Referee Smith asked Nelson if he wanted to quit. Nelson, unable to talk, merely shook his head. After 30 seconds of the 40th round had gone Referee Smith raised Wolgast's glove and the new lightweight champion was made.

Weather conditions at the ring side could scarcely have been worse. A heavy drizzle was falling and a cold, biting wind blew direct in the faces of the spectators.

Wolgast outgeneralled and outboxed Nelson. After the fight he scampered out of the ring like a schoolboy and galloped through the mud to his training room. Nelson was taken out on the arms of his seconds. As he was carried through the crowd he was cheered for the grit and gameness he had displayed.

Referee Smith said: "Wolgast fought Nelson at his own game and beat him fairly and squarely. Nelson complained at times of Wolgast's butting, but I paid little heed, as it was simply the case of one battler getting the worst of a game where both were equally guilty.

"Both men fought the same, but one had youth, the power to come back, vigor, life and all that goes with it, while thirteen years of fighting, through which Nelson had gone, had sapped his strength and left him without the old snap, dash and stamina."

Wolgast said: "My fight to-day was like a training bout. Only once did he bother me, and that was in the 22nd round. Nelson hurt me more by butting me than anything else, and I felt funny for just a few seconds. I cannot say anything as to my future plans, but I am ready to give deserving lightweights a chance."

When Nelson was asked to talk he said: "I am sorry they called the fight off when they did. I think I could have stayed the 45 rounds, but have no complaint to make."

JEFF WILL BE 2 TO 1 SHOT

Is the General Feeling—Frazer is Very Confident

New York, Feb. 22.—The betting on the Jeffries-Johnson fight holds strong at 10 to 7 on the big boilermaker, and with but little Johnson money in sight, according to "Bob" Murphy, of the Albany, and other proprietors of resorts where the sports gather.

There is a feeling here that Jeff will be a 1 to 2 favorite before the men enter the ring, and this feeling was added to when H. H. Frazee, of Chicago, who recently cleaned up $100,000 exploiting Jeffries on the stage, blew into town.

Frazee declares there is not the shadow of a doubt that Jeff will win and to show his faith he showed a signed contract with the big white man for a world's tour; to start the day after the fight.

"My combination for the trip around the world," said Frazee today, "will include Jeffries, Jim Corbett, Frank Gotch, Sam Berger, Stanley Ketchel, and either Battling Nelson or some one just as good. We will take the first sixty days visiting the big cities of the U. S.; go over into Canada, and then come back to New York, sailing from here on Oct. 15 for London. We will visit England, Scotland and Ireland, the continent, then to India and Australia. We will go from there to the Philippines, then to China and Japan, and back home by way of the Golden Gate.

"This talk about Jeffries not being able to come back makes me sick! He has been under my personal observation for many weeks, and to-day he is in good shape. He expects Johnson to give him a hard battle, but he will be ready for it, and when you consider that there is little difference in the ages of the men, it is silly to think that the negro has the advantage in youth. There will be no fake about this battle, no stalling, and the big white man will be too much for the big negro."

CHRONIC ULCERS

Mrs. Jas. Elsworth, 902 Selkirk Ave., Winnipeg, says:—"Four years ago ulcers broke out on my left ankle and spread until from the top of my foot to my knee was one extended sore. One ulcer would be almost healed when a second would appear in a new place and in a remarkably short time a deep hole would be eaten into the flesh. The flesh on my leg turned blue and looked shocking indeed. I started using ointment after ointment, but received little or no benefit. The ulcers would heal for a time and then break out afresh. I was laid up in bed for a long time, absolutely unable to walk. My limb was so painful that I had no rest night after night.

"I consulted five different doctors! Some advised my going into hospital; others said there was no cure for me. After using their ointments and preparations until I was positive they could not cure, I almost gave up in despair.

"It was then Zam-Buk was tried and how I bless the hour I got it! Within a day it had given me some ease, and from that time I went on improving! The sores were so bad that it took some time to heal them, but Zam-Buk healed them all. The last was healed over a year ago and I have never had a moment's trouble since, from any form of ulceration."

Zam-Buk is just as good for eczema, piles, festering sores, scalp sores, children's rashes, cuts, burns, scalds, and all skin injuries and diseases. Druggists and stores everywhere 50c box, or post free, Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

REMARKABLE INCIDENTS

In Life of Dr. B. C. Hyde Charged With Poisoning Wife's Uncle

Long before suspicion pointed to Dr. Bennett Clark Hyde, charged at Kansas City with the murder of Col. Thos. Swope, the millionaire, Hyde's friends having in mind the Stevenson story of dual personality, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," were wont to jest him on the vice versa coincidence of his name.

Hyde was the incarnation of evil in the Stevenson story, while Jekyll was the generous and noble doctor. "Dr. Hyde" therefore suggested by antipodes "Mr. Jekyll" for the Kansas City Hyde was a doctor, and he was often jokingly asked as to his other self, "Mr. Jekyll." He always laughingly entered into the spirit of what was long a mere quip, but which in recent years has been an interestingly sinister coincidence, culminating in the direct charges which involve a duality of personality.

It was 15 years ago that Bennett Clark Hyde, then hardly more than a stripling, was appointed police surgeon by Mayor Webster Davis. Dr. Hyde entered upon his new duties modestly and no fault was found with the manner in which he performed them for six months. Then Mrs. A. E. Otterson brought charges of malpractice against him. Her husband had fallen from a house and had broken his arm. Otterson was taken to the Emergency hospital, where he was treated by Dr. Hyde. Whether the arm was improperly set or not, the fact is that it had to be amputated a few days afterwards, and Otterson died. Charges were filed by the widow but expert testimony by fellow practitioners of Dr. Hyde exonerated him.

A few months afterwards occurred an accident which was wholly discreditable to Dr. Hyde. A young negress named Annie Clements made several successive attempts to commit suicide, and was treated by Dr. Hyde after each attempt. Becoming exasperated at the frequency of these demands upon his services, though he was paid to perform just such services, Dr. Hyde injected oil of mustard, and the woman fled screaming through the streets. Dr. Hyde looked upon the matter as a huge joke, but so inhuman was the treatment to which the woman was subjected that the police commissioners ordered Dr. Hyde's removal.

In October, 1908, there occurred some unusually bold grave robberies, and Dr. Hyde's name was connected with them though no formal charges were ever made against him, and he was innocent of them so far as any records go. However, the police searched his room for a stolen body.

An interval of several years elapsed after the grave robbery cases before the news of Dr. Hyde's engagement to Miss Frances Swope of Independence, niece of the late millionaire, Col. Thos. H. Swope, was quickly followed by the filing of a breach of promise suit for $10,000 against him by Mrs. Sarah Frank, who also demanded the return of $2,200 which she alleged she had loaned him on condition that he would marry her. The money was the proceeds of her late husband's life insurance policy. A settlement out of court was made, Dr. Hyde repaying a portion of the money he had "borrowed."

On the heels of this case, however, came another, the plaintiff in this action being Mrs. Mike Heim, who had recently been divorced from a young Kansas City brewer, son of the late Ferd Heim. Mrs. Heim claimed that Dr. Hyde had promised to marry her. Again the case was settled out of court, Dr. Hyde paying Mrs. Heim $2,100.

GOOD ROADS CONVENTION

Programme Will be of an Instructive and Practical Character on March 2, 3 and 4

March 2nd, 3rd and 4th is the date of the annual convention of the Ontario Good Roads Association. Special efforts are this year being made to provide a programme of a thoroughly instructive and practical character. Counties which have been carrying on a system of county roads will be represented by men who have had close association with the work, and will be able to describe the methods whereby the best results have been reached. Township work will also form an important section.

The convention is one which not only councillors should attend, and councils send delegates, but the public generally should be represented. Better country roads is a matter in which all are interested, directly or indirectly. Councils proceed, as a rule, only so far as public opinion will follow them. This is not seriously objectionable so long as councillors themselves are alive to the real wishes and requirements of those they represent, and are ready to lead—do not wait to be carried along. It is necessary that the public be informed and it is desirable therefore that as many as possible make it a point to attend the convention. Councillors will show their desire to efficiently perform their duties to the public by making use of all such means to put the best information into their work.

The Province of Ontario has for some years maintained the Highways Branch of the Department of Public Works, from which amount a large amount of literature respecting road-making is annually distributed. A careful study of all phases of road and street improvement has been maintained and the best information has by this means been made available for municipalities of the Province. Experience and experiment in other countries has been watched and drawn upon and adapted to conditions in Ontario.

It has been the work of this office to correspond with municipal councillors and others with respect to details of roadmaking; to consult with municipal councils where changed systems are proposed, to address public meetings at the request of councils; in general to aid the improvement of road methods as far as practicable, and without expense to to the municipalities. With this Department since its inception has been associated Mr. W. A. McLean, Provincial Engineer of Highways. Municipal councils desiring suggestions and information with regard to all highway improvement matters may obtain these as heretofore through the engineer of highways, whose office is in the Parliament Buildings, Toronto. But while this regular source may be drawn upon, the coming convention given an opportunity for securing information which cannot be slighted. In addition to Canadian speakers, there will be present F. N. Godfrey, Master of the New York State Grange, and Hon. Harold Parker, Massachusetts Highway Commissioner, both of whom are known throughout the United States as authorities in regard to road improvement.

Fifteen-year-old Jessie Cole was run down by a train at Hagersville and killed.

WHEEZER OR SNEEZER

Have You Heard of Hyomei For Catarrh Asthma and Hay Fever

If you wheeze or sneeze, hawk or spit, snuffle or blow, something is the matter with the membrane of your respiratory tract, and you need Hyomei.

And you need Hyomei because it will cure you of any catarrhal or inflammatory condition that exists.

It isn't a stomach medicine, or spray, or douche, but a very pleasant, healing, antiseptic balsam, from the eucalyptus forests of Australia. You breathe this balsamic air through a small, hard rubber inhaler, and it reaches every nook, corner and crevice of the membrane, and promptly kills the catarrh germs.

Wm. Medill will sell you a complete Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) outfit for $1.00, on the moneyback plan.

"I have been a victim of catarrh for many months, the glands around my eyes and nose being sore and swollen. My head felt dull and stuffy. Pains in the front and back of my head, also across my eyes were frequent and I had trouble in breathing, especially at night when trying to rest. I had doctored but got no relief until after using Hyomei. This relieved me on the first twenty-four hours and in less than two weeks I was practically cured. I cannot give too much praise to Hyomei." Mrs. Mary Philips, 153 McNab St., Hamilton, Ont.

SHOT BY ROBBERS BECAUSE HE HAD ONLY TEN CENTS

"Remittance Man" Killed in Raid on Waverly House in Bowery —Slayers Made Escape

New York, Feb. 19.—Frederick Devlin, twenty-five years old, a remittance man from Oakland, Cal., was shot at 3 o'clock this morning in the office of the Waverly Lodging House, No. 9 Bowery, by one of two robbers, who then held up the night clerk, Joseph Desmond, at the point of a pistol, lifted the cash drawer of $9.35, joined three women who waited them at the door downstairs and disappeared into Doyers street.

Devlin died in Gouverneur Hospital at 8.15 o'clock this morning. He became conscious a short time before he expired and was asked by a detective at his bedside who shot him. He shook his head, refusing to answer, and all efforts to get him to make a statement failed.

The lodging house is on the second floor of the building. The first floor is occupied by a saloon famous in the Bowery—"Peggy's Place"—where many picturesque characters congregate.

Devlin went to the lodging house this morning and after chatting a few minutes with Night Clerk Desmond went to the dormitory. He removed his shoes and some of his clothing, when two men stamped upstairs into the office and one asked where Devlin was. Devil, who had heard them, came into the office.

SHOT BY VISITOR.

"Say, how about a bottle of booze?" the man asked Devlin.

"Here's a dime; go get some," replied Devlin.

"Is that all we're going to get?" snarled the man.

"It's all I've got," replied Devlin.

The man without another word pulled a pistol from his coat pocket, placed it against Devlin's stomach and fired. Devlin sank to the floor. "Shoot the first man that bobs up his head," the man who had shot Devlin said to his companion, who was guarding the door. Then, turning to Desmond, he said: "You throw up your hands!"

The report of the pistol had not aroused the sleepers on the other side of the partition. The robber, with pistol pointed in Desmond's direction, backed into the cage where the clerks stays, opened the cash drawer and raked out all the money in sight, $9.35.

JOINED WOMEN AND FLED.

Both men hurried down the steps and joining three women at the foot, vanished in Doyers street.

Desmond notified Policeman Sullivan of the Eldridge street station. Three policemen had been been within fifty feet of the stairs when the shooting took place.

Dr. Childs was called from Gouverneur Hospital and took Devlin there.

Any Muzzio of No. 5 Baxter street told the police that a "lobbygow," whose name he did not know, told him that Devlin had been shot by "Jack" Murphy.

The police say Desmond at first declared he did not know the man who shot Devlin, but admitted later that it was a character well known in Chinatown as Murphy.

STEAK IN THROAT, MAN STARTS PANIC

His Sufferings Intense Until Policeman Puts Finger Down Throat

New York, Feb. 21.—With a piece of beefsteak lodged in his throat, George Hodson, fifty-two years old, dashed out of a popular price restaurant at No. 393 West street at noon to-day and rushed into the crowded dining hall of the Transatlantic Hotel at West and Tenth streets, precipitating a panic among the diners, many of whom were women.

After a morning of heavy work, Hodson had a keenly whetted appetite when the whistles blew at noon. He sat down in the West street eating house and ordered:

"Give me a big, fat, juicy beefsteak, dry and well done."

He got it. Presently he began to wish he had ordered gravy, for a large piece of meat stopped in the middle of the passage of his throat. Hodson coughed, drank water, then coughed and drank more water.

"Get an ambulance, quick," he mumbled.

Before the head waiter picked up the telephone transmitter Hodson darted out the front door. According to a by-stander he "rabbitted" it up West street, coughing, but unable to make any noise, and performing all sorts of wild manoeuvres with his arms and hands. When he got to the Transatlantic Hotel he leaped through the doorway, knocked down a couple of bellboys, and shot into the dining hall.

Men and women thought a wild man had suddenly burst in upon them. By the time Hodson got to the far end of the hall the panic of eaters had spread so that several score had rushed out of the hotel. By this time Hodson was exhausted. He fell to the floor, surrounded by a coterie of waiters, helpless to aid him.

Policeman Whitney of the Charles street station, who arrived soon, after seeing the crowds rush out of the hotel in a panic, judged that the man was choking. He poked his finger down Hodson's throat and pushed the piece of beefsteak down. However, a blood vessel having been ruptured, Dr. Walters of St. Vincent's Hospital was summoned. The physician invited Hodson to spend a short time in the hospital.

"Not for me," said Hodson, with a shake of the head. "I'm all right now, but the next time I eat meat I'll take a little gravy along with it."

GAVE A PAPER ON LIFE INSURANCE

Social Committee of Y. M. C. A. Entertained a Large Number of Members and Their Friends

Last evening a large number of the members and their friends turned out to enjoy the programme provided by Social Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association in the parlors. Mr. V. Eastwood acted as chairman in his usual pleasing and able manner.

The feature of the evening was a paper on "Life Insurance," by Mr. D. H. Moore. In the paper Mr. Moore dealt in his usual interesting and effective manner with the history, principles and benefits of life insurance. His paper was followed by a practical discussion of the subject, in which several took part.

The musical part of the programme was contributed to by Mr. Duding singing "The Monarch of the Wood," Mr. Coleman in humorous songs, Mr. R. F. Downey in "The Veteran Song," Mr. Frank Clark in selections on the banjo with Mr. C. Aekerman as accompanist.

Mr. P. A. Kerr, chairman of the Social Committee, explained that the desire of the committee was to provide such social gatherings as last evening's, in order to promote sociability among the members, and emphasized the necessity of each member realizing his personal responsibility in this respect, if the association is to maintain a pleasing social atmosphere.

Refreshments were furnished by Coleman Bros., and were served by the committee.

WIRE TAPPERS WERE BURIED

And Pilipounders Were the Undertakers—Two Foreigners on Medicine Men's Line-up

The Pill Pounders walloped the C. P. R. at Brock street rink last night 7—1. The score at the resting period was 4—0, with the lightning jerkers holding the cipher. The salaries in this league now rival the Renfrew millionaires, and different managers are signing up all first-class men for the balance of the season. Two more young amateurs took the jump last night with the poison mixers. "Lesueur" Richardson, "Smaille" Beale and "Dormdo" Brady made a stonewall defence for the winners, while "Wee" MacGregor brought the spectators to their feet time and again by his spectacular goal tending. "Buckeye" Turnbull performed brilliantly at point, his end to end rushes being one of the features of the evening.

Melville Jamieson was on the ice during the game, and it was learned after the contest was over that he was supposed to be playing for the O. P. R.

"Rusty" Morphet gave a nice exhibition with the bell, but had a tendency to loaf.

On account of Lesueur and Smaille being signed after 5 p.m. last night both the bats were declared off.

The teams lined up as follows:

C. P. R.—"Wee" MacGregor, goal; Turnbull, point; Fitzgerald, cover; "Punk" Neal, rover; Jamieson, centre; Howard, right; Carey, left.

Referee—V. Morphet.

Timekeeper—H. A. Staunton.

PINE HILL LODGE HAD SOCIAL TIME

Several special features marked the meeting of Pine Hill Lodge, Independent Order of Foresters, last night, in their hall, fourth line of South. It was largely attended, and among those present from Peterborough were Mr. H. Fowler and Dr. Marshall. After routine business had been disposed of, an oyster supper was served, and it was much enjoyed. Speeches were made by Messrs. E. Mahood, F. Stinson, H. Fowler and Dr. Marshall.

Afterwards a good programme was given, among those contributing being Messrs. Jackson, Mabee and Fowler. Mr. Fowler's comic songs made a big hit. The gathering broke up about midnight.

Recitation—Mr. A. Donaldson.
Male Quartette—Messrs. Thompson, Donaldson, Dickson and Allan.
Solo—Miss Jean Robson.

The Rev. Mr. Keith spoke to the gathering in his usual pleasant and humorous manner.

Rev. Mr. Tanner extended a warm welcome to the Young People's Guild. He hoped this visit would make for closer union and be the means of the work of the church extending.

Mr. J. H. Patten, the president, replied on behalf of the Guild, and thanked the Lakefield Young People for the kind way in which they were received.

Refreshments of the best were served and an enjoyable evening closed.

Next Monday, Feb. 28th, is devotional evening, when Mr. W. Lorimer is in charge.

GOD SAVE THE KING

CONDEMNED NAVY IDEA

The Montreal Witness says:—Standing in the open air, chilled by the cold breeze from the St. Lawrence, between two and three thousand people listened yesterday to the addresses of speakers who attended the meeting called by Mr. T. Marcil yesterday at Longueuil to discuss the Government's Naval Defence policy. The original Naval Defence had been to hold the meeting in the town hall, but the crowd was so large, that it was impossible to accommodate them inside, so it was decided to hold an open air meeting. Despite the wintry chills, the crowd stood for two hours listening to the various speakers, and applauded every attack made on the Naval Defence scheme.

The speakers were Mr. T. Ancrede Marcil, defeated National candidate in Chambly; Mr. Joseph Rainville, Mr. P. Cousineau, Mr. Jules Fournier, and Mr. Jos. Lamarre.

The big contingent of Laval students was in evidence, and they enlivened the meeting with their enthusiastic couplets in praise of Mr. Bourassa, while they also sang a satiric parody of old 'Malbrouck' ballad, running—

'Laurier s'en va-t-en guerre,
Mais il n'en reviendra pas.'

The opposition to the measure said Mr. Marcil, was not a political move at all. He was fighting for a principle, which was one of strong traditions of the Liberal party, and which had been supported by such statesmen as Mackenzie, Sir John Macdonald, Blake and Tupper, who had all expressed their absolute opposition to the introduction of militarism into Canada. (Applause.) He declared that the ministry was imperilling Canada's constitutional liberties, and that instead of spending money on war material for the service of Britain, the resources of the country should be spent on its own development. In any event, he declared, nothing should be done until the will of the people had been taken by a vote as proposed by Mr. Monk.

Mr. Joseph Rainville declared that it would be absurd of Sir Wilfrid to talk of a 'National' navy, since as soon as the ships would be used in war, they would be turned over to Great Britain.

Mr. Cousineau said that the opposition to the naval scheme did not mean opposition to Great Britain, but merely that the people wanted time to think the matter over.

In a moving picture show at Brockville 20 feet of plaster fell on the crowd.

ROBERT FAIR & COMPANY, LIMITED

The Surtax Abolished

THE FRENCH TREATY ADVANTAGE TO CANADIANS

GOOD NEWS FOR THE CUSTOMERS OF ROBT. FAIR & COMPANY

THE ANNOUNCEMENT of the ABOLITION OF THE GERMAN SURTAX will be hailed with satisfaction by shoppers at the "Golden Lion." Being large importers of European goods, including German novelties of high class manufacture, the surtax duty on which has always been felt to be in the nature of a reprisal against Canadian buyers. This surtax on goods of German production has had the effect of increasing the cost of goods one-third additional on the regular import duty. Germany having now abandoned this undue discrimination against Canadian exports, it will be good news to many of the shoppers at the "Golden Lion," who will in future receive the full benefit of the reduction in the cost of these goods on account of the Canadian surtax being taken off.

THE FRENCH TREATY OF 1907

The amended tariff on goods of French origin will permit Canadian buyers to participate in the lower rate of duty it prescribes.

ALL OUR SPRING IMPORTATIONS will therefore benefit by the removal of the surtax and the lower rate on French goods.

A broken flange on one of the wheels of the car ditched two cars on train No. 52, as she was drawing into the yards here yesterday at 12 o'clock. As she turned into the siding at the west end the accident occurred, throwing the two cars over on their side. It took some time to clear the trucks which had broken away from the cars off the main line, thus delaying the east-bound passenger train about five minutes. The cars thrown off the track were heavily laden with export beef, which had to be transhipped to other cars, which was a very difficult job, as the derailed cars were laying on their side. Great precaution was taken in the transhipping of the meat, every quarter of beef being carefully carried by men clothed in white suits and white gloves.

The address was read by Master Fred Brooks, and the presentation made by Miss Helen Hettenhausen, both of whom are pupils of Miss Foy. Miss Foy made graceful acknowledgement. A pleasant social hour was spent after the presentation.

Lakefield, Feb. 21.—A very successful Valentine Social was held on Feb 11th, at the home of Mrs. W. J. Baptie, under the auspices of the Home Mission Band. The usual valentine games were indulged in and refreshments served by the ladies. The members of the Mission Band are greatly pleased with the success of the social and grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Baptie for the use of their home.

Repairs to the electric light plant were not completed until Saturday afternoon, hence the village was without lights for the whole week. Lanterns were used at the rink and the usual large crowd turned out on Friday evening, although the band was conspicuous by its absence.

An exciting game of hockey was played at the rink on Monday evening, Feb. 21st, between the All Stars and the Farmers. The score was 3—2 in favor of the All Stars. In the early part of the game the farmers seemed to have much the better of it, the score at half-time being 2—0, but in the last half the All Stars succeeded in pushing in three goals in succession, giving them a lead of one goal. The splendid rushes of H. Kidd and A. Miller for The Farmers and J. Quinlan for the All Stars, were the spectacular features of the game. Bench in goal did some phenomenal work for the Farmers, stopping several clever shots.

This is the last of a series of games for an oyster supper. Following was the line-up:

PETERBORO' LABOR REPORT

The Labor Gazette for February contains the following report from its Peterborough correspondent, Mr. J. A. Sharp:—

GENERAL CONDITION OF THE LABOUR MARKET

The general condition of the labour market in January was very satisfactory. While the building trades were a little quiet, it was owing to the weather, as there will be plenty of work as soon as the weather will permit. The factories are all working full time and some of them are working overtime. The Canadian General Electric Company is working a day and night shift in some of the departments and is very busy in all departments. The Peterborough Lock Company has decided to double its capacity and the present buildings are being enlarged; $30,000 worth of new machinery will be installed.

The Quaker Oats Company is making preparations to erect a warehouse to cost $80,000. The Central Smith creamery has made a record sale of butter; beginning Nov. 1st., last, up to the middle of this month the output for ten weeks was eight tons, all of which was consumed in the city and sold at good prices. The wholesale and retail houses report business good for this time of the year, a by-law to provide $19,000 to build an Isolation Hospital was defeated, and one to give a thirty year franchise with use of streets for poles and wires to the Peterborough Light and Power Company was carried.

CONDITION OF LOCAL INDUSTRIES

Agriculture.—Farmers are getting good prices for all their products.

Lumbering.—Conditions are good for lumbermen, and the cut will be much larger than last year.

Manufacturing.—All lines are exceptionally busy, the plants in some cases working overtime.

Railroad construction is being rapidly pushed on the Canadian Northern Railway between Cobourg and Grafton, several gangs of men being at work.

CONDITIONS OF PARTICULAR TRADES.

The building trades, as is usual at this time of the year, were quiet, though considerable indoor work was going on.

Iron moulders were well employed. Machinists and electric workers were very busy. Metal polishers, buffers, platers and brass workers had all they could do. Blacksmiths also had a good month and tool makers were very busy.

Woodworkers and upholsterers were rather quiet, but pattern makers were busy.

Printers, bookbinders and pressmen were less active than last month.

Tailors garment-makers, boot and shoe workers had a quiet month.

Bakers, confectioners, butchers and meat cutters were well employed.

Cigar makers reported business dull.

Leather workers and saddlers were busy.

Railway and street railway employes were well employed; also expressmen and teamsters.

Unskilled labour was rather dull.

H. Dempsey, of Ameliasburgh, is president of Prince Edward County Conservatives.

Pe-ru-na Promptly Relieves Severe Cold and La Grippe.

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:

"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time and at little expense. Every time I take a cold, I take some Peruna, which makes me well again.

"I also induced a young lady, who was all rundown and confined to the house, to take Peruna, and after taking Peruna for three months she is able to follow her trade of tailoring.

"I can recommend Peruna for all such who are ill and require a tonic."

MR. T. BARNECOTT.

EVERY year, during the inclement weather of winter, there is an epidemic of la grippe. The disease is really catarrhal in nature, but from the form it assumes, has been commonly termed the "grip."

Splendid Remedy for La Grippe.

Mr. Frank H. Fielder, 213 Pleasant Ave., Montgomery, Ala., formerly principal of Haynesville High School, writes:

"I can truthfully say that Peruna is a splendid remedy for la grippe and a good tonic for building up the system."

La grippe is very tenacious when it once gets a firm hold upon the system, and in addition to a thorough, systemic catarrh remedy, a great deal of patience and persistence in the treatment are required to eradicate the disease.

Peruna, an internal catarrh remedy, is one of the best medicines ever devised to meet the exigencies of these cases. The large number of commendatory letters received by Dr. Hartman, the inventor of Peruna, in behalf of his remedy is proof sufficient of its value as a reliable medicine for the "grip."

Prompt Relief.

Mr. Frank Bauer, Minneiska, Minn., writes: "I suffered with la grippe. My lungs felt as if knives were sticking in them. I took Peruna and in four days I was able to go out."

CHARTERS' PHONE BILL MEETS WITH GENERAL APPROVAL

It is the Only Practical Way of Handling the Situation Declares Hon. I. B. Lucas—Hon. A. G. MacKay Says Bill is Along the Right Lines.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—"This bill is not for the purpose of knocking anybody, but it is intended to break the monopoly," said Sam Charters, member for Peel in moving the second reading of his telephone bill in the Legislature yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Charters was greeted with considerable applause from both sides of the House. He reviewed the situation in the last few years. The action of the Bell Telephone Co. in refusing to supply the needs of the rural districts had created a new condition, which had resulted in the establishment of over 400 independent companies. Oxford County headed the list with eight companies. Of the 400, 57 had been established in the last four years. There were six municipal lines under the recently conferred authority. The independent lines represented a capital of upwards of $1,000,000, the capitalization ranging from $300 to $50,000. They were furnishing a fairly satisfactory service to between 30,000 and 40,000 people.

The Counties of Middlesex and Elgin had up to the present time more rural telephones than had the whole province of Alberta when they bought out the Bell Telephone Co.

The formation of these independent companies had had the effect of increasing the Bell monopoly. The reason for this statement was found in the fact that the rural companies quarrelled among themselves. Then they entered into long distance arrangements with the Bell. In all of the contracts the latter company insisted on the insertion of a clause prohibiting the local company from having any dealings with any other independent company. Thus the monopoly was solidified.

Ontario, said Mr. Charters, should have such a system in the next few years that no farmer would have to pay more than $12 a year for his 'phone, and he should have long distance privileges at half the present rates. By placing the companies under the jurisdiction of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, co-operation would be assured, while combination would be guarded against.

D. Reed (South Wentworth) agreed with Mr. Charters. The business of the doctors especially was suffering by the conditions which prevailed. In his own district there were three companies in the space of one mile, which the Bell Company had tied up so that there was no intercommunication. There is one company within a mile of our village," he said, "and it can't come in."

Hon. I. B. Lucas declared that the divided jurisdiction made the whole subject a difficult one to deal with. The Bell Telephone Co. was under the control of the Dominion Government, through the Dominion Railway Board. The independent companies were under Ontario jurisdiction.

"The long distance service is by its nature a monopoly," declared Mr. Lucas. "The ideal, of course, would be that every man with a telephone should be able to reach every other man with a telephone." The Dominion Government, however, had declined for the present to take up the question of public ownership of trunk lines.

"The first step," Mr. Lucas continued, "must come from the Ottawa Government. They must say what they refused to say to Manitoba: 'We will give you the power to deal with the company'."

"This bill of my honorable friend is a practical bill. The Dominion Railway Board controls the Bell Telephone Co. The missing link is that no one has power to control the Ontario companies. With this power, and the Dominion Board exercising their power, we could weld the whole telephone system of the province into one system."

T. W. McGarry (South Renfrew) wished to know whether the local companies, by entering into contracts with the Bell, which had a Dominion charter, might not ipso facto carry themselves out of the provincial jurisdiction.

Mr. Lucas was clear that such would not be the case.

In answer to a question of J. McEwing (West Wellington) he stated that no breach of existing contracts between the local companies and the Bell was contemplated by the proposed legislation. These only ran for terms varying from two to five years. When they terminated no such contracts would be allowed to be renewed. Moreover, these agreements had to be ratified by the Dominion Railway Board, and he thought none of them had so far been ratified. "And I think," he added, "that when their attention is drawn to the matter, they will not ratify them."

The question, he said in conclusion, was a great one. The Minister of Agriculture had been able to do a lot for the farmers in a material way, but this question touched the social side of farm life in Ontario, which was quite as important.

Hon. A. G. MacKay thought the bill was along right lines. The Dominion Railway Board controlled the rates, agreements and acts of the Bell Company. The Ontario Board acting would control the rates, agreements and acts of the local companies. This ought to have the effect of giving the maximum of control without a single dollar invested. "It will be our own fault," he added, "if we do not get an efficient service."

Three Killed In Strike Battle.

Point-a-Pitre, Gaudaloupe, Feb. 24—During a clash between the sugar cane cutters, who are on strike, and the soldiers, three strikers were killed and several wounded. Two gendarme received wounds. The sugar fields are burning, having been fired by the strikers.

PHILADELPHIA POLICE ARE UNABLE TO HANDLE STRIKE

Mobs Continue Disorders and the Car Company is Only Running its Cars Under Difficulties—Policemen Use Revolvers.

Philadelphia, Feb. 24.—The police officials of this city yesterday virtually acknowledged their inability to cope with the present strike situation when a request was made of John C. Groome, superintendent of the state police, that the 200 members of his command be brought to this city for police duty.

This request was made, notwithstanding that serious rioting was less frequent yesterday than on any day since the strike of the street car men went into effect on last Saturday.

The state police are expected to reach here to-day, and will doubtless be sent into the Kensington district, where the state fencibles had unpleasant experiences Tuesday. The state police will not bear trifling with.

The efforts of the police to-day, as they were yesterday, will be concentrated in clearing the Kensington district of the mobs which have infested it since the opening of the strike.

For the first time during the present struggle, the Rapid Transit Co. succeeded in running its cars until 6 o'clock on the Frankfort line, which penetrates this unruly territory. At that hour cars on all lines were returned to the respective barns.

Four policemen guarded each car on this line, and the pick of the city's detective force patrolled the route all day in automobiles. These men succeeded in restoring a semblance of order when the fencibles had failed on the day before. Whenever a group of men formed anywhere on the street, the detectives rushed them and followed the ringleaders even into houses until they captured them.

In spite of the vigilance of the police, many car windows were broken by missiles thrown from windows and the company was finally obliged to send its cars along the route with sheet iron windows in place of the usual glass panes.

Baldwin's locomotive works was the scene of a curious disturbance during the lunch hour of the hundreds of employes. One employe was shot in the foot and about 50 shots were fired at laborers who sought refuge on the upper floors of the buildings and hurled bolts and nuts at the policemen who were guarding cars in this district.

Every time a head appeared at a window it was the target for a bullet from a policeman's revolver. The one o'clock whistle brought hostilities to a close.

Fifteen policemen quartered in the barn of the Philadelphia Transit at Ridge avenue and York street, narrowly escaped death Tuesday night when the entire northwest corner of the building was blown away with dynamite. When the dynamite was placed in the car barn is a mystery.

A move is on foot to have sympathizers of the striking street railway employes parade peacefully to the city hall, 100,000 strong, and thereby show the mayor and other officials the gigantic proportions of the threatened uprising, should it later be decided to call out these men.

That the attacks on trolley cars in the northeastern section were in a number of cases planned by a gang of boys is shown by the ante-mortem statement made Tuesday night by one of the youths shot in Tuesday's rioting. In this statement he said that he was employed at a factory. On Monday, he stated, three of the boys of the factory formed themselves into a committee, went around among the other employes and got boys to the number of 150 to agree to meet and make a combined attack on trolley cars and on the men who were running them.

HON. MR. FOSTER ON THE STAND

The Plaintiff in Libel Suit is Cross-Examined.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—The examination of Hon. George E. Foster by opposing counsel, E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., was the feature of yesterday's proceedings in the Foster-Macdonald libel suit before Mr. Justice Magee. Mr. Foster was in the witness box all day. From 10 a.m. till 3.30 p.m., he was engaged in the refutation of his side of the story, and during the last two and a half hours of the day was under cross-examination. The cross-examination was not concluded when court rose at 6 o'clock, and is being resumed to-day.

The court room was jammed to the door, it having been generally anticipated that a trial of wits between the renowned political orator and one of the leading lights of bar would provide some fireworks. Mr. Foster, however, did not appear to be in a scrappy mood, but contented himself with speaking guardedly and giving answers which were often considered by counsel to be evasive. By dint of much questioning and cornering, Mr. Johnston pinned the plaintiff down to an admission that the syndicate of which he was a member did in reality carry on private speculations with trust funds of the I.O.F.

In consequence of the death of Boutros Pacha Ghali, the Premier, a new Cabinet has been formed, of which Mohammed Said Bey is Premier, President of the Council, and Minister of the Interior.

HAS EVERYTHING IT OWN WAY REGARDING THE INQUIRY

The Conseruatives Made Their Point in the Committee Investigating the Lumsden Charges, But the Government Majority in House Wins.

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—A victory of a kind was won by the Conservative minority of the Lumsden enquiry committee yesterday. The majority climbed down and agreed to the appointment of a counsel to act in the interests of the public.

But when the question was referred to the House yesterday, the Government majority insisted upon appointing this counsel. Thus both legal representatives will be appointed by the Government, and instead of the public being represented, the Transcontinental Railway Commission and the Government will really be strengthened.

Victor Geoffrion, the chairman, moved that the report of the committee that counsel should be employed to represent the committee during the investigation be adopted.

Houghton Lennox moved, in amendment, that "the members of the Opposition upon the said committee shall have the right to select the counsel so to be appointed, and that such counsel shall be instructed to protect the interests of the people of Canada in the said investigation."

Mr. Lennox pointed out that the commissioners had appointed R. C. Smith, K.C., to represent them, and through them the Government. The commissioners were responsible for the engineers, and therefore Mr. Smith was representing one side, and one side only.

The committee had come to the conclusion to have counsel to represent the public and the public alone. What the Opposition wanted to know was whether this was a bona fide movement on behalf of the people, or whether it was simply a colorable arrangement to have additional counsel appointed on behalf of the Government. He considered it only another gold brick. He desired that the Conservative members of the committee should have the selection of the counsel.

A. H. Clarke (South Essex) said he was very much surprised at the amendment. It was a reflection upon the committee, that they were not competent to appoint a counsel. The majority should rule.

Samuel Barker (East Hamilton) said they wanted this thing probed. They had experience on previous occasions of the stifling of enquiries. Mr. Smith had stated that he represented the people, but this was ridiculous. Nobody doubted the intention of the majority of the committee.

On a vote being taken the result was as follows: Government 100, Opposition 67; Government majority 33.

When the Parliamentary committee enquiring into the charges met, T. W. Crothers resumed the opposition of the Conservative members to proceeding without representation by counsel. He pointed out that R. C. Smith, K.C., of Montreal, was actually counsel for the defence, inasmuch as the commissioners were responsible for the appointment of the accused engineers, and declared that Smith's business as counsel for the commission would be to suppress evidence.

This the Montreal lawyer vigorously denied, but E. M. MacDonald, M.P. for Pictou, seeing no other way, produced a motion throwing the responsibility in the matter of appointing prosecuting counsel upon the House.

In the meantime summonses are being sent out for the accused engineers, and the enquiry is already promising serious results. The proceedings are being watched by S. N. Parent and the other commissioners, Parent sitting close to R. C. Smith. Gordon Grant, Lumsden's successor as engineer, is also there. Every member of the committee is a lawyer, the legal pick of the House, and the battle so far has been one for position, the with the result so far a Conservative victory.

On being asked by the chairman for a list of the engineers in whom he had lost confidence, Mr. Lumsden gave these names: E. Bourgeois, J. B. Phillips, A. P. Miller, W. W. Bell, John J. McKeough, George Shearn.

These were district or resident engineers along various mileage sections D and F. This was but a partial list, however.

Dr. Edwards of Frontenac resumed the naval debate yesterday with a fierce onslaught upon the leading French-Canadian politicians for preaching sedition and treason.

He accused Sir Wilfrid Laurier of plotting for the disintregation of the British Empire. Never in the history of the Empire had a single statesman occupied such a position, he said. He described the Premier as "the champion lightning change political artist of the continent of North America." In Quebec, he said: "Not a ship, not a gun." In Toronto his statement was: "We might help if England was menaced."

He had been somewhat amused at the efforts of Ralph Smith to reconcile the positive and negative statements of his leaders. Such efforts would give a snake lumbago. The Premier at the present time was like Mohamet's spirit, hanging between heaven and hell, and fit for neither place.

Dr. Edwards proceeded to discuss the attitude of several of the French-Canadian and some English political leaders towards the Empire. Time and again, he said, it had been impressed upon them that there was an anti-imperial sentiment in Quebec which had to be overcome when any national question was raised. Manitoba had been told that she must remain the postage stamp province of Canada until she was willing to bow the knee to Quebec.

The people of Quebec must remember that this country possessed people of English, Scottish, Irish and Welsh origin. The uppermost thought in the minds of the Government always was, "What will Quebec say?" Other provinces could be looked as usual.

The Verville eight-hour-day bill was before the special committee yesterday, when Hon. Mackenzie King pointed out that a reduction in hours from 10 to 8, if accompanied by a reduction in wages, might result in strikes.

Victor Dubreuil, one of the Labor Department fair wage officers, thought that the bill would improve conditions, especially for cement workers, who labor 12 to 15 hours a day. He believed that organized labor would approve the shorter day, even if accompanied by a reduction in wages, but the "uneducated, unorganized work people might not favor it."

McNevin, also of the Department, said the eight-hour day had worked well in British Columbia, where in the smelters, the reduction from 12 to eight hours did not affect the wages.

ANTI-NAVAL MEETING HELD AT MONTREAL

Montreal, Feb. 24.—The first contradictory demonstration to take place in this province on the naval bill is down for Saturday afternoon at Rigaud, in the County of Vaudreuil, where the Nationalists have called a meeting and have invited the Federal member for the county, Gustave Boyer, to attend. The chief opposition speaker will be Armand Lavergne, M.P.P. for Montmagny, and several of the young men who organized the Longueil meeting on Sunday last, while the Government side will be championed by G. Boyer and Mr Beauparlant, M.P.'s for Vaudreuil and St. Hyacinthe respectively.

While Mr. Bourassa appears to be encouraging the young men of his party, the Nationalist leader has so far made no sign since his Monument Nationale meeting, and the reason, so people say, is that he is reserving himself for the members of the Government. If Sir Wilfrid or Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux should decide to speak in the province during the session, it is said that Bourassa will ask for a joint discussion.

The announcement is made that 325 Laval students have signed a petition to Mr. Monk, asking him to persist in the course he has taken.

TRYING HARD TO STAMP OUT "BLIND PIGS"

Toronto, Feb. 24.—A strenuous battle between the law and the dispensers of booze is being raged, according to reports received by the provincial police yesterday.

Angus Taylor of Blind River became seized with the idea that the presence of the thirty "restaurants" in a town of 2,000 inhabitants portended something more than a desire to cater to the legitimate needs of the hungry Blind Rivermen. Consequently he sent a wire to Inspector James Grigg of Bruce Mines, and on Tuesday morning the two paid an unceremonious visit to fourteen of them. Their apparent neglect of the others is accounted for by an innate modesty of the proprietors, who found the climate elsewhere more suited to their constitution and shut up shop.

The officers seized beer enough to float a Dreadnought, ten bottles of port wine and a carload of hard cider. Eight barrels of beer were taken from one place.

CHINESE TROOPS ENTER LHASSA

Calcutta, British India, Feb 24.—Chinese troops yesterday entered Lhassa, the capital of Tibet and the residence of Dalai Lama the supreme head of the Lamaist Hierarchy, who upon the approach of the soldiers fled with several of his Ministers into India.

Serious trouble as been anticipated owing to the action of the small Chinese army which, marching from Sze-Chuen, China, subdued Eastern Tibet, levying contributions on the Lama's people, and showing no respect for the monasteries.

The Tibetans resenting the desecration of their holy places petitioned the Chinese Foreign Board praying that the Emperor of China interfere in the interests of the Buddhists. The petition was disregarded as the Chinese propose to make the administration of the country purely Chinese.

Dalai Lama appealed to Lord Minto, the Viceroy of India, but the latter refused to intervene.

When the Chinese troops were reported as moving from the Province of Khan ostensibly to strengthen the garrison at Lhassa, the Lama hastily quitted the capital and proceeded toward Darjiling.

SAYS CANADA IS PREJUDICED

London, Eng., Feb. 24.—The Berlin National Zeitung says that Canada is prejudiced against Germany by English Imperialists and protectionists.

It asserts that Canadian newspapers obtain their news about Germany through London, and that "this news is frequently mendacious." It suggests that the attention, from competent quarters in Berlin, might be directed towards organizing a scheme whereby Canada may receive German news direct from Germany, and concludes by denouncing the Conservative newspapers of London as being hostile to an incredible degree.

The Zeitung, with several other papers, are beginning to fear that a satisfactory commercial treaty with Canada may even now not be secured.

THE TAX RATE

It is an unpleasant duty for a Council to be compelled to increase the rate of taxation, and such an uncongenial task has fallen to the lot of the City Council this year. It was recognized last year that the appropriation for the work on streets and bridges was pared down to a very low point, and it was not expected that it could be held there. A large deficit had been brought forward from 1908 and an effort was made to pay off a portion of it. That was done, and in the appropriations for this year, as explained by the chairman of the Finance Committee in the Council, provision is made for wiping out the balance of that deficit. Unless something unexpected arises to make a large draft on the finances, and if the committees keep within the appropriations, the year will end with a clear financial sheet. This will be some consolation for the higher rate. During a number of years past the city has been constructing permanent sidewalks at a rapid rate, because the old wooden walks were fast becoming worn out and dangerous, and also providing sewers, while at the same time the demands for increased school accommodation caused the erection of new buildings and the enlargement of existing ones. These works have added to the interest and sinking fund charges and these charges must be met out of the rates. Several new items appear in the estimates. There are small appropriations for the public library and for an isolation hospital, and the amounts are so small that the Council cannot anticipate having these institutions ready much before the end of the year. Another new item is the appropriation to pay half of the expenses of a department to be established by the Board of Trade to take up the work of securing new industries, the other half of the expenses to be made up by the Board. Other cities are making special efforts in this direction, and if Peterborough is to maintain its position as a growing manufacturing centre it must not neglect any opportunity to advance its interests. A commissioner of industries with the right qualifications should do effective work in placing the advantages of the city in a convincing way before the promoters of new industries, and in this whoever is entrusted with the work should be backed up heartily by every citizen, who can give any assistance. If new industries are secured, which will cause more vacant land in the city to be utilized for building purposes and especially if the land thus used is already supplied with new ers, sidewalks, light and fire protection, the increase in the assessment that would follow should enable the Council to reduce the tax rate from the figure they felt compelled to place it at for this year.

SHORTAGE OF TEACHERS

The Opposition leader in the Legislature is particularly unfortunate in his attacks on the Administration. He seems imbued with a determination to go against the very strongest positions occupied by the Government forces. Mr. MacKay is a very Buller for frontal attacks. He now criticizes the Education Department for abolishing the Model schools, and for making "unwarranted" changes in the regulations. He charges that, as a result, "about ten per cent. of the public schools are without qualified teachers."

The simple fact is that the Model schools have been abolished only after due notice to all concerned. More than this, they have been done away with upon the advice of Inspector Tilley, the appointee of the former Liberal Government, who for a quarter of a century supervised all the Model schools in the Province, and should be familiar with the extent of their usefulness. Those who established these institutions in the first place intended them merely as a temporary resource, to be replaced as soon as possible by something better. It was only through inertia that they were allowed to continue as long as they did.

The Model schools were proved unsatisfactory long ago, and in substituting Normal schools the Department seeks to provide the province with more efficiently trained teachers, and thus to lift the whole system of elementary education to a higher plane. The effects of the reform are only beginning to be felt. The new Normal schools have yielded only one year's output of teachers. Mr. MacKay has not allowed the new policy time to demonstrate its possibilities.

Moreover, the shortage of teachers is largely due to the continued demand from the west and the higher wages which the new provinces offer for their services. Many teachers are also drawn away by the more generous rewards offered in commercial pursuits under the industrial conditions recently developed throughout the country. Notwithstanding these counter attractions, the prospect is that in the near future there will be a full supply of well-qualified teachers. The Normal schools are full to overflowing with men and women undergoing training. It is particularly satisfactory that male candidates for certificates are coming forward in increased numbers, and that thus a serious want in the provincial teaching force will be made good in part at least.

This movement has been stimulated by the courteous action of the Government in forcing up school teachers' salaries all over Ontario, and in even advancing a portion of the increases out of the provincial treasury. The provincial grant is paid to the local school boards on a basis which ensures that a certain proportion of it goes to the teachers. The prospect that the pension scheme will be revived further tends to render the teaching profession more attractive. The hope is that more and more capable men and women may be led to take it up as a life work instead of as a mere stepping-stone to other callings. —Toronto News.

EDITORIAL NOTES

That a substantial increase in the cost of the navy is required for the naval defence of the Empire is one of the announcements made in the King's speech in opening Parliament. Canada will receive benefit from that increased expenditure, but our Government does not believe in doing anything effective in sharing in the work of naval defence.

A news despatch says that the expression "in the opinion of my advisers" in the King's speech is neglected as having been inserted for the purpose of dissociating the King from the views expressed. But the whole speech is an expression of the views of His Majesty's advisers, and not of the personal opinions of the King, and is so understood. The speech is not listened to or read to know what the King intends to do, but to ascertain what his advisers propose.

Very little light is thrown on the situation in the British Parliament by the King's speech. It is announced that proposals will be made to define the relations between the House of Lords and Commons and that the financial situation created by the rejection of the budget by the Lords must be dealt with at the earliest possible moment. This does not show which of the matters will be dealt with first, and that is what the Nationalists and Laborites wanted to know.

The Eucharistic Congress the French journals say, will be the most splendid spectacle ever held in Canada. No expense whatever is being spared to make this testimony of Catholic devotion and numbers impressive. A whole fleet will pass before the Papal Legate upon the river while the worship of the Holy Eucharist will be conducted from an altar in the public streets costing over fifty thousand dollars. All men will be drawn into this centre of devotion and splendour in a way that is intended to make a deep and lasting impression upon Canadian life and to assist in the great forward movement of the Roman Catholic Church.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 23.—(Special.)—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market offerings were 400 cattle, 60 sheep and lambs, 650 hogs and 400 calves. There was no important change in the condition of the market for steer cattle, with prices firmly maintained, but choice cows and bulls show an advance of 14c to 14½c per lb. Supply was very limited of all grades of stock.

A few choice steers sold at 6¼c; good at 5¾c to 6c; fair at 5½c to 5¾c; medium at 4¾c to 5c; common at 4½c to 4¾c; choice cows at 4½c to 5c; lower grades at 3½c to 4¼c, while bulls brought from 3½c to 5c per lb.

There were about 100 milch cows, with sales made at from $30 to $65 each, as to quality.

The undertone to the market for hogs continues strong, and prices to-day scored a further advance of 10c, with sales of selected lots at $9.25 to $9.35 per cwt., weighed off cars.

In sheep and lambs, feeling was also strong, but values are no higher. Demand was good, and sales of yearling lambs were made at 6½c to 7c, and sheep at 4½c to 5c per lb. A few spring lambs offered, which sold at $6 to $8 each. The market for calves was strong on account of increased demand, and, considering quality, prices realized were high, sales being at from $5 to $12 each.

At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, offerings were 600 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 500 hogs and 225 calves. Live hogs show a further advance of 10c, and sales of selected lots were made at $9.25 to $9.40.

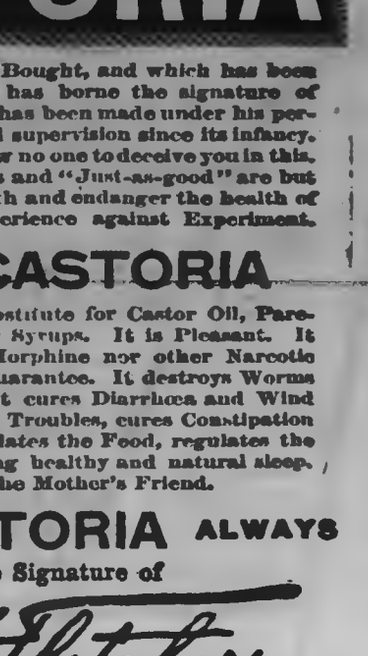
The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON



Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

A question was beginning to form itself vaguely in her troubled mind. Were all of them to die as Chase had died?

Suddenly there came to her ears the sound of something swishing through the air. An instant later a solid object fell almost at her feet. She started back with a cry of alarm. A broad shaft of light crossed the garden, thrown by the lamps in the upper hall of the chateau. Her eyes fell upon a wriggling, snakelike thing that lay in this path of light.

Fascinated, almost paralyzed, she watched it for a full minute before realizing that it was the end of a thick rope which lost itself in the heavy shadows at the cliff end of the garden. She was standing directly in the shaft of light. To her surprise, the wriggling ceased. The next moment a faint, subdued shout was borne to her ears. Her flight was checked by that shout, for her startled, bewildered ears caught the sound of her own name.

At last, far above, she saw the glimmer of a light. It was too large to be a star, and it moved back and forth.

Sharply it dawned upon her that it was at the top of the cliff which overhung the garden and stretched away to the sea. Some one was up there waving a lantern. She was thinking hard and fast, a light breaking in upon her understanding. Something like joy shot into her being. Who else could it be if not Chase? He alone would call out her name. He was alive!

She called out his name shrilly, her face raised eagerly to the bobbing light. Not until hours afterward was Genevra to resent the use of her Christian name by the man in the clouds.

Rushing over, she grasped the knotted end of the rope. A glance and a single tug were sufficient to convince her that the other end was attached to a support at the top of the cliff. It hung limp and heavy, lifeless. A sharp tug from above caused it to tremble violently in her hands. She dropped it as if it were a serpent. Again she heard the shout, and this time she called out a question.

"Yes," was the answer, far above. "Can you hear me?" Greatly excited, she called back that she could hear and understand. "I'm coming down the rope. Pray for us—but don't worry! Please go inside until we land in the garden. It's a long drop, you know."

"Are you quite sure—is it safe?" she called, shuddering at the thought of the perilous descent of nearly 300 feet sheer through the darkness.

"It's safer than stopping here. Please go inside."

She dully comprehended his meaning. He wanted to save her from seeing his fall in the event that the worst should come to pass. Scarcely knowing what she did, she moved over into the shadow near the walls and waited breathlessly, all the time wondering why some one did not come from the chateau to lend assistance.

At last that portion of the rope which lay in the garden began to jerk and writhe vigorously. She knew then that he was coming down hand over hand through that long, dangerous stretch of darkness. The cliff reared itself sheer to the height of 330 feet directly behind the chateau. At the summit of this great wall a shelving ledge projected over the hanging garden. A rope dangling from this ledge would fall into the garden not far from the edge nearest the cliff. The summit of the cliff could be gained only by traversing the mountain slope from the other side. It was impossible to scale it from the floor of the valley which it bounded.

The rope was undoubtedly attached to the trunk of a sturdy tree at the brow of the cliff.

She could look no longer. It seemed hours since he started from the top. Every heart beat brought him nearer to safety, but would he hold out? Any instant might bring him crashing to her feet—dead, after all that he may have lived through during that awful night.

At last she heard his heavy panting—groaning almost—the creaking and straining of the rope, the scraping of his hands and body. She opened her eyes and saw the bulky, swaying shadow not twenty feet above the garden. Slowly it drew nearer the grass covered floor, foot by foot, straining, struggling, gasping in the final supreme effort, and then with a sudden rush the black mass collapsed, the taut rope sprung loose, the end switching and leaping violently.

Genevra rushed frantically across the garden, half fearful, half joyous. As she came up the mass seemed to divide itself into two parts. One sank limply to the ground, the other stood erect for a second and then dropped beside the prostrate, gasping figure.

Chase had come down the rope with another human being clinging to his body!

Genevra fell to her knees beside the men who had accomplished this miracle. She grasped his hands, warm and sticky with blood. She tried to lift his head from the ground, moaning with pity all the time, uttering words of encouragement in his ear.

Many minutes passed. At last Chase gave over gasping and began to breathe regularly, but heavily. The strain had been tremendous. Only superhuman strength and will had carried him through the ordeal. He groaned with pain as the two beside him lifted him to a sitting posture.

"Tell Selim to come ahead!" he gasped, his bloody hand at his throat. "We're all right!"

Then, for the first time, Genevra peered in the darkness at the figure beside her—a slight, graceful woman in oriental garb. The woman turned and lifted her face to the heights from which she had descended. In a shrill, eager voice she called out something in a language strange to the princess. A faint shout came from on high, and once more the rope began to writhe.

The princess passed her hand over her eyes, bewildered. The face of the woman in the light, half shaded, half illumined, was gloriously beautiful—young, dark, brilliant!

"Oh!" she exclaimed, starting to her feet, a look of understanding coming into her eyes. This was one of the Persians! He had saved her! A feeling of revulsion swept over her, combating the first natural, womanly pride in the deed of a brave man.

Chase struggled weakly to his feet. He saw the tense, strained figure before him and, putting out his hand, said:

"She is Selim's wife. I am stronger than he, so I brought her down." Then, looking upward anxiously, he shouted: "Be careful, Selim! It's easy if you take your time to it."

CHAPTER XVIII.

NEENAH.

"SELIM'S wife, Neenah, saved my life." It was the next morning, and Chase was relating his experiences to an eager, marveling company in the breakfast room. "She has a sister whose husband was one of the leaders in the attack. Neenah told Selim, and Selim told me. That's all. Days ago Selim and I cached the rope at the top of the cliff, anticipating just such an emergency as this and intending to use it if we could reach the chateau in no other way. I figured that they would cut off all other means of getting into your grounds.

"Neenah came up from the village ahead of the attacking party, out of breath and terribly frightened. We didn't waste a second, let me tell you. Grabbing up our guns, we got out through the rear and made a dash across the stable yard. It was near midnight. The servants, all of whom were up and ready to join in the fight, attempted to head us off. We had a merry little touch of real warfare just back of the stables. It was as dark as pitch, and I don't believe we hit anybody. But it was lively scrambling for a minute or two, let me tell you."

Deppingham's big blue eyes were fairly snapping. His wife put her hand on his shoulder with an impulse strange to her, and Genevra saw a light blaze in her eyes. "I hope you potted a few of 'em. Serve 'em jolly well right if"—

"Selim says he stumbled over something that groaned as we were racing for the back road. I was looking out for Neenah." He glanced involuntarily from Lady Agnes to the princess, a touch of confusion suddenly assailing him. "Selim covered the retreat," he added hastily. "Instead of keeping the road we turned up the embankment and struck into the forest. Dropping down behind the bushes, we watched those devils from the town race pell-mell, bowling and shooting, down the chateau road. There must have been a hundred of 'em. Five minutes later the bungalow was afire. It was as bright as day, and I had no trouble in recognizing Rasula in the crowd. Selim led the way, and I followed with Neenah. Hang it all, Browne, I didn't have time to save that case of cigarettes. I'm out nearly a hundred boxes."

"You might have saved the cigarettes if you hadn't been so occupied in saving the fair Neenah," said her ladyship, with a provoking smile.

"Alas, I thought of that also, but too late! Still, virtue was its own reward. Imagine my delight when we stopped to rest to have Neenah divide her own little store of Turkish cigarettes with me. We had a bully smoke up there in the wood."

"Selim, too?" asked Browne casually.

"Oh, no! Selim was exploring," said Chase easily.

"Neenah is very beautiful," ventured Lady Agnes.

"She is exquisite," replied Chase, with the utmost sang froid. "Selim bought her last winter for a red carat ruby and a pint of sapphires."

OTTAWA'S ABSURD FISHING RULES

Ontario's Superintendent Protests Against Dominion Regulations

The Toronto News says:—What he calls the "absurd and unwise regulations" of the Dominion Government applying to portions of Lake Erie, are the subject of a protest by the Superintendent of the Game and Fisheries Department, Mr. Edwin Tinsley, in his annual report that has just been issued.

By these, he says, fishermen in these favored localities are still allowed "to violate the laws of nature and common sense with impunity."

Those responsible for these unjust and destructive regulations may have their own reasons," says Mr. Tinsley, "but a discerning public will have no difficulty in concluding that these reasons are not in the interest of the general public. I fail to realize how any matter of expediency of whatever magnitude would justify the issuing of regulations to fishermen allowing them to take white fish from the spawning grounds during the entire close season. These absurd and unjust regulations make it impossible for this Department to enforce the laws in other localities where close seasons are supposed to be observed. No matter where white fish are procured during the close season, dealers and others affirm they come from the exempted district. The other fishermen operating in Lake Erie waters adjoining the extended waters, and who pay the same fees, complain, and not without ample cause, at being compelled to stop fishing during the month of November, while their favored neighbors are allowed to continue fishing and reap a veritable and sinful harvest."

POLLUTING PUBLIC WATERS.

Another important subject of Mr. Tinsley's report is the pollution of public waters.

The reeve of a village on the banks of the Grand River wrote him that he had been compelled to have buried tons of putrid fish that had been killed by deleterious matter from a near-by factory.

"The prevention of the pollution of lakes, rivers and streams in the Province is most urgent," writes Mr. Tinsley. He declares that the municipal authorities should take steps in future to see that such destruction ceases. They should look carefully after manufacturing sewage, where treatment has not been developed so much as that of domestic sewage.

PARTRIDGE MAY BE KILLED

The scarcity of partridge is not so serious now as a result of two close seasons. Mr. Tinsley recommends that in future the close season be reduced to one month, from November 1 to November 30. He is not very sanguine as to the future of quail, as food and shelter are becoming more scarce every year.

The new pond at Brantford raised 25,000 bass fingerlings that were deposited in various waters of the Province. There will be at least 100,000 raised this year. Mr. Tinsley recommends the establishment of a series of such ponds for re-stocking inland lakes and other fished-out waters.

The addition of several boats to the patrol service made it infinitely better. Tourists were much more observant of the laws, and the work the Naiad did on Lake Simcoe alone in breaking up illegal net-fishing was worth the cost of her maintenance.

PREVENTING ILLEGAL EXPORTATION.

"Another year's experience of having special officers at important shipping points to inspect all shipments of fish, and to see that none were caught, has met with excellent results. I do not hesitate to say that this means has prevented, perhaps more than in any other manner, thousands of tons of fish which otherwise would be illegally caught, and will undoubtedly be observed in the course of the next year."

The chief inspector, W. W. Holden, recommends the addition of several gasoline launches to the fleet.

"There is a widespread opinion among the hunters," says Mr. Holden, "that the open season for deer is too early, and if we are going to have as late seasons as this one was, no doubt it is the case. I am told that a large number of deer were left in the woods, the hunters not being able to get them out before they were spoiled, and it appears to be the opinion of all the experts that I have met, that if the open season was from the 15th to the 30th of November, it would be an improvement.

DEER KILLED BY WOLVES.

"Many reports have reached me of the great destruction of deer by the wolves in the northern part of the province. Just what is the best remedy for this is hard to determine, our present bounty does not seem to meet the case. There is a great difference of opinion as to whether an increased bounty would be of benefit or not.

"The prohibition of partridge-shooting for the past two seasons has resulted in a large increase in the number of these birds in nearly all sections of the province, and I have no doubt that it will be possible to allow the usual open season next year."

Parisian Sage, the Hair Grower, is Now Sold in Canada on Money Back Plan

It's a mighty good thing for the women of Canada that Parisian Sage can now be obtained in every town of consequence.

No preparation for the hair has done so much to stop falling hair and eradicate dandruff and make women's hair beautiful as Parisian Sage.

Parisian Sage is the only certain destroyer of the dandruff microbe which is the cause of 97 per cent. of hair troubles.

These pernicious, persistent and destructive little devils thrive on the ordinary hair tonics.

Parisian Sage is such an extraordinary and quick acting rejuvenator that Wm. Madill, who is the agent in Peterborough, guarantees it to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

It is a magnificent dressing for women who desire luxuriant, lustrous hair that compels admiration.

And a large bottle of Parisian Sage costs only 50 cents at Wm. Madill's and all over Canada.

When seen by the Review to-day, Mr. F. D. "KATHARINE KALE" TO GIVE ADDRESS

Will Speak on "Canadian Literature" at the Normal School

To-morrow evening, at eight o'clock, Miss A. B. Warnock ("Katharine Hale," of the Mail and Empire) will deliver a lecture in the Assembly Hall of the Normal School on "Canadian Literature."

Of this lecture most favorable comments have been made by different magazines and newspapers some of which are as follows:—

"The Globe" says: "Miss Warnock works for the upbuilding of National Art in the future of our growing nationhood, and shows an intimate first-hand knowledge of her subject. In the interests of Canadian literature and art it is hoped that she will be given many opportunities of appearing before Canadian audiences."

"The Lyceum," of London, Eng., says:—

"Then followed a wonderful picture of early Quebec, with its striking contrasts; the little huddled houses, within which might be heard the click of high French heels, while without lay the forests, the glow of the camp fires, the ambuscade of Red Indians, with their poisoned arrows. The speaker went on to trace the history of Canadian literature, which took birth amid such inspiring elements, and concluded with an effective recital of Robert Service and the Cremation of Sam McGee."

Miss Jean Graham in the Home Journal, says: "Miss Warnock, known to Mail and Empire readers as 'Katharine Hale,' gave a most interesting recital some time ago on 'Canadian Literature,' in which she dealt in a masterly way with its history, progress and present situation. How proud we were to be Canadians, when in this glorious company of men and women of noble mind!"

To this lecture the public is invited and there is no doubt a treat in store for those who attend.

Be sure and hear Jessie Alexander to-night, Charlotte St Sunday School. Admission 25c.

REQUEST OF THE BOARD GRANTED

The following (members of the Board of Education) Messrs. R. Fair, W. H. Hall, D. W. Dumble, W. J. Miller, T. H. Adams and Dr. Morrison were a deputation to Toronto yesterday to wait on Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, with a view of getting his approval of the arrangement made by which the pupils of the Collegiate will have use of the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium instead of the Board having a new one constructed for the present. The Minister thought the request quite reasonable in view of the heavy recent expenditures in connection with the Collegiate. He acquiesced, however, on the understanding that the eventual construction of a gymnasium for the Collegiate would be kept in view by the Board of Education.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

Use paraffin paper which lines biscuit boxes to polish flatirons. It is also a good lining for the cake tins.

Clean copper by rubbing it with lemon dipped in salt. Rinse in clear hot water and polish with a soft cloth.

Banging the oven door is responsible for half the heavy break and cake. The door should be closed very gently.

Shredded chocolate cocoanut, which is bought already prepared, makes a tasty addition to different kinds of salad.

Combs will soon warp and break if washed with water. They should be cleaned with a good, stiff, dry toothbrush or nailbrush.

For spring suppers sliced oranges and shredded cocoanut, put into a dish in alternate layers, is very appetizing.

A delicious jelly is made of gelatine, flavored with grape juice and served with blanched nuts and whipped cream.

A simple water icing for cakes is made by taking two cupfuls of confectioners' sugar and adding enough water to make a thick paste. Then sprinkle in a pinch of cream of tartar. Beat well, and if not stiff enough, add a little more sugar. Flavor with any extract.

Sometimes it is quite impossible to make old glassware bright and clear. If strong ammonia is poured over it and it is then scrubbed well with a brush and rinsed in warm water it will, when dried, look quite as bright as one could wish.

THE REVIEW WAS RIGHT

Had Correct Despatch Concerning the Purity Ware By-Law Much Discussion Last Evening

As a result of the contradictory reports in the two local evening papers last night concerning the Purity Ware by-law, there was a good deal of discussion among citizens on the matter. One paper had it that the by-law was thrown out by the Private Bills Committee; the other had the news of the confirmation of the by-law. It turns out that the Review had the correct information. Review readers are now more than ever convinced that the Review can always be relied upon to have all the news and have it right.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed byits correspondents

Peterborough, Feb. 24.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—I understand an industrial commissioner is going to be appointed for Peterborough. As there will be considerable expense in connection with the appointment I should like to know from an authentic source if the city would be thoroughly justified in the appointment.

It strikes me the first think a capitalist or director of a concern would ask the industrial commissioner would be what power can the city of Peterborough offer? What would the answer to this question be?

This is a question I have heard widely discussed in the city and I think a definite, satisfactory answer would be generally appreciated and would be in the interests of the ratepayers.

It is not in an antagonistic mood I write this letter, but it is simply an inquiry.

Yours very truly.

A WHOLE COMET IN PORTMANTEAU

Famous British Astronomer Says He Hopes We Get in Halley's Comet's Tail

London, Feb. 23.—The Times publishes the following letter:—"I have received multitudes of letters relating the comet and so many have expressed alarm as to the possibility of collision that I venture to send you a reply I have posted to-day to one anxious inquirer:

"My Dear Sir,—A rhinoceros in full charge would not fear collision with a cobweb, and the earth need not fear a collision with a comet. In 1861 we passed through the tail of a comet. No one knew anything about it at the time. For a hundred million years life has been continuous on this earth, though we have been visited by at least five comets every year. If comets could have ever done the earth any harm they would have done it long ago, and you and I would not be discussing comets or anything else. As far as I can learn, we may be in the tail of the Halley comet about May 12. I sincerely hope we shall, and I think Sir John Herschel says somewhere that a whole comet could be squeezed into a portmanteau.

SON OF ANNA GOULD HEIR TO DUKEDOM

Prince Helie de Sagan Succeeds Father as Duke de Talleyrand-Perigord

Paris, Feb. 23.—The Duke of Talleyrand-Perigord and of Sagan, father-in-law of Anna Gould, formerly the Countess of Castellane, is dead.

By the death of his father Prince Helie de Sagan, husband of Anna Gould, becomes head of the great house of Talleyrand-Perigord. He will be known henceforth as Marie Pierre Camille Louis Helie de Talleyrand-Perigord, fifth Duc de Talleyrand, fourth Herzog zu Sagan, Serene Highness.

The son of Prince Helie and Anna Gould will succeed to the titles of his father. He is Charles Maurice Pierre Jason Howard, Prince of Sagan, born July 16 last.

THE FAMILY HISTORY.

The later Talleyrand-Perigords have manifested a peculiar leaning toward American women. Miss Helen Morton, daughter of Levi P. Morton, former Minister to France, Governor of New York, and Vice-President of the United States, married Count Boson, of Talleyrand-Perigord, who calls himself Duke of Valencay. She divorced him. His brother Helee and he are at daggers points.

Marquis de Talleyrand-Perigord, Duc de Dino, enjoys the unique distinction of having been divorced by two American women in succession, the first of his wives having been Miss Elizabeth Curtis, of New York, and the second Miss Adele Sampson, also of New York. To marry him the latter lady had to secure a dissolution of her marriage to an infinitely superior American husband, Frederick William Livingstone, of New York.

SPORTING NEWS

WEST ENDS ENTERTAINED THEIR RIVALS IN SPORT

Last night the players and officers of the Strathcona Hockey Club were the guests at an enjoyable affair at the rooms of the West End Athletic Club, and the occasion was one that will long be remembered by the large number present. The rooms were attractively decorated with bunting, and flags, and conspicuous amongst these were the colors of the visiting club. A progressive euchre contest was run off during the early part of the evening and proved to be very interesting. Mr. Dougs. Robinson captured first prize, while Mr. Chas. Ray, on a close decision, won the booby. In each case the prize was a box of cigars. Refreshments were next served, and then followed speeches and music. Those taking part were Messrs. C. C. Graham, president of the City Hockey League; F. D. Craig, secretary of the league; Chas. Ray, Leo Derocher, Wm. O'Brien, H. Theobald and W. Milburn.

At the Brock street rink, between six and seven o'clock last evening, the Centrals defeated the South Centrals by a 2—1 score. The teams were tied at half time, the figures standing 1—1. Duke Pearson refereed and the teams were:—

CHURCH LEAGUE GAMES TO-NIGHT

A Win for St. Andrew's Over Geo. Street Will Give the Team a Second Championship

The last scheduled double-header of the Church Hockey League will be pulled off at the Auditorium rink, and the results will either give St. Andrew's the championship for another year or give George Street a fighting chance to make a tie. St. Andrew's and George St. meet in the first game and Alf Sweets and knox Church in the second. The ice is in splendid condition, and some good fast hockey should be dished up to-night.

SAN FRANCISCO DECIDED UPON

As the Battle Ground for the Johnson--Jeffries Fight

San Francisco, Feb. 23.—The Johnson-Jeffries fight will take place before the Broadway Athletic Club, of which Griffity is the manager. It was organized only a few weeks ago.

The fact that this club is to get a fight from the Board of Supervisors caused Rickard and Gleason to come to an understanding by which the contest between the heavyweights will be signed under the auspices of the club.

Herget, better known as "Young Mitchell," a former fighter, who is chairman of the Police Committee of the Board of Supervisors, participated in the conference. His presence is taken to mean that there will be no difficulty in obtaining a permit for 45 rounds.

Gleason did not attend the conference. No reason was assigned for his absence.

Government bones in Manitoba were operated at a profit of $374,000.

Kingston's municipal waterworks shows a surplus of $5,725 for last year.

PILL POUNDERS LOST ANOTHER

Were Defeated by Normal School Seven at Auditorium by 4 1

Despite the frenzied encouragement of several fair rooters, the Pill Pounders lost their thirteenth straight game to the Normal school septette, at the Auditorium rink last night. The score was 4—1, but according to Referee McMartin, the figures should have been around 23—0, as the "kill or cure" team was, to say the least, out of its class. A youth, named Brady, carried the sticks for the "tuff" lock aggregation. Only the Normal school line-up is given below at the request of the manager of the Claudiusites, and it is as follows:—Goal, Jorgan; point, —Lapp; cover, Montgomery; rover, Pengelley; centre, Sills; wings, Grenzabach and Leitch.

SPORTING NOTES

Last night Brantford beat Galt 4—3, and Berlin won from Waterloo by 6—4.

The George St. team for the game with St. Andrew's to-night will be picked from the following: Wilson, Shaw, Wade, Pratt, Weitlaufer, B. Parnell, Sanderson, F. Parnell, and Curtis.

George Street and St. Andrew's will play the first game to-night, from 8 to 9 o'clock.

The Ottawa Bank hockey team defeated the Toronto Bank burlesquers at the Brock street rink last night between seven and eight, in a game that while interesting for the spectators, was directly the opposite for the players. Bogue made a decided hit on one of his opponent's fingers and there were numerous other applause winning stunts. Referee Giroux gave out the score at the finish as 8—5, but outside of that he did very little.

NELSON MADE GAME STRUGGLE

San Francisco, Feb. 23.—The lightweight battle at Richmond yesterday was the chief topic of conversation to-day among sporting men. The same interest on the tongue of fight followers is, accordingly enough, not that of the new champion, Wolgast, but that of Nelson, whose game struggle against defeat was the feature of the contest.

The former champion and his manager had expected to leave this morning for Chicago, but their departure will be postponed until Nelson learns the status of his theatrical engagements. The attendance at the fight is estimated at between 13,000 and 15,000. The total receipts were $37,750, which leaves a good margin for the promoters, as it was estimated that the fight cost them $20,000. Nelson was guaranteed $12,000, win, lose or draw, with $1,000 for expenses. Wolgast received $3,750 for his end. The moving pictures will prove valuable. Nelson bought a 35 per cent. interest in them for $750.

Nelson gives his conqueror credit for his victory, but maintains that he himself trained too long and was down to weight too soon. It was the impression of many that Nelson did not show his usual speed and accuracy. The former champion would not criticise the action of Referee Smith in stopping the fight, but declared that he could have lasted until the end, and was not without hope that he might have landed a knockout punch.

Wolgast has not made any definite plans, but intimated that he would take a long rest before he re-enters the ring. He declared that he purposely played a waiting game, as he desired to beat Nelson by adopting his adversary's favorite plan of slowly battering down his opponent.

Nelson was as frisky as a boy to-day. When a report that his condition was serious was telephoned to him at the baths he said: "I'm the liveliest dead man you ever saw; feeling first rate."

"Zib" Won the Match

At Buffalo — Zybsco, the Polish champion wrestler was declared the winner of a finish match with John Lemm of Switzerland at the Broadway Arsenal last night. The referee's decision was not popular with the crowd, and for ten minutes several hundred men surged around the ring, yelling "Robber!" "Thief!" and demanding that the match be declared no contest. The men had wrestled an hour and forty-five minutes when Zybsco sent Lemm flying through the ropes. He fell five feet to the floor and apparently was badly injured. He was unable to go on, and the referee announced that Zybsco had been awarded the first fall. After ten minutes' delay Lemm attempted to resume, but he appeared to be suffering, and the police stopped the match.

SERIOUS KITCHEN ACCIDENT

What Zam-Buk Saved a Lady

Mrs. Fredk. Bryant, of 169 Railway Ave., Stratford, spent dollars trying to get well, but failed until she tried Zam-Buk. It was this way; "I was in my kitchen preparing supper," she says, "when I upset some boiling water. It fell upon my foot, scalding it badly. Next day the skin came off the foot, and it was so painful I could not walk. I treated it, but instead of getting better it got worse, and finally I had to take to my bed. I was laid up for nine weeks, and in that time I tried all manner of so-called remedies. I had embrocations, dozens of salves, I think, and lotions, but the scale developed into a running sore. I was about beaten by it, when a friend advised me to try Zam-Buk, and I did so. A few applications had the effect of soothing the pain and giving me what I had not had for weeks—a little ease. I persevered with Zam-Buk, and day by day the running sore seemed to get less inflamed and less painful, as the Zam-Buk drew away the poison and reduced the inflammation. In a very short time healing commenced, and rapidly continued until the sore was completely healed. I would hardly have believed that any preparation could have done for me what Zam-Buk did, and I shall never be without a supply in the house." When you have a scald, a burn, a skin sore, an ulcer, or any skin trouble or injury, try Zam-Buk. Made from the purest of herbal essences, it may be regarded as nature's own healer. Eczema, cold-sores, cracked and chapped hands, children's rashes, chilblains, all yield to its soothing, healing influence. It also eases the agony of piles. All druggists and stores, 50 cents box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

A Startling Greeting.

In Morocco foreigners are saluted by the Moors on horseback in a manner which may well startle those unaccustomed to it. The Moor rides full speed toward the stranger as if to run him down. He then suddenly stops and discharges his pistol over his head.

Porters of Smyrna.

The porters of Smyrna and Constantinople are very strong. They often carry weights of five to eight hundred pounds on their backs considerable distances. These men live almost entirely upon barley cakes, dried figs, peas and milk.

A Good Fertilizer.

The value of sulphate of ammonia as a fertilizer was demonstrated in some German tests where marsh lands were fertilized with nitrate of soda and sulphate of ammonia. With both oats and beets the plants receiving sulphate yielded much more than those receiving nitrate. These results indicate that on marsh lands a liberal supply of the sulphate of ammonia may be advantageously substituted for nitrate of soda and confirms the wisdom of the practice in Germany.

HOW TO BARREL APPLES.

Grower Gives Suggestions on Packing and Heading.

There's an art in knowing how to grade and pack a barrel of apples, and the heading of the barrel is not the least thing about the job. On this topic an experienced apple grower, S. B. Shaw of Randolph county, N. C., offers these valuable suggestions:

Before beginning to pack see that the barrel is resting on a solid base. If packing in the orchard provide planks or boards on which to place the barrels while being filled. This keeps the head of the barrel clean and enables the packer to "rack" it to better advantage. "Racking" is the shaking of the barrel from time to time during the packing in order to settle the apples, thus making them fit firmer and closer together. The head or end that is usually opened upon reaching market is placed at the bottom end in filling.

BARREL HEADER.

Before starting to pack put in a corrugated apple barrel cap or two or three layers of nicely folded white or plain brown paper. This not only keeps the fruit in better shape, but prevents it from bruising. When this is done the barrel is ready to be "faced." This consists of placing by hand from two to three rows of fruit, stem end down. After "facing" the apples are carefully poured in and the barrel frequently shaken until it is almost full. The last two or three rows may be placed by hand, stem end up, thus "facing" both ends of the package.

The last layer of fruit should extend about one inch above the chime of the barrel and be covered either with a corrugated apple barrel cushion cap or with two or three layers of neatly folded paper, as used in the other end.

The head is then put on and forced into place with an apple barrel press. There are several types of these presses, differing slightly from the one illustrated, but all answering the same purpose. After nailing the head in place and seeing that all hoops are securely fastened in their proper positions label the barrel, and it is ready for market.

In packing apples see that each package is well filled with the same grade throughout, including top, middle and bottom. Put up a strictly first class, honest pack or keep the fruit at home. "Honesty is the best policy" and the only one that pays in the fruit business.

LITTLE FACTS FOR FARMERS.

There are now sixty-five active beet sugar factories located in sixteen different states. Last year 365,000 acres were given over to beets, and the farmers delivered to the factories 3,470,000 tons.

Good, strong, well developed pigs from mature sires and dams will make better growth and more economical gains than the undersized runts that result from breeding immature sows to some six-months-old boar pig.

Somebody has estimated from statistics that fruit trees and bushes will bear for the following periods: Apple, 25 to 40 years; blackberry, 6 to 14 years; currant, 20 years; gooseberry, 8 to 12 years; pear, 50 to 75 years; plum, 20 to 25 years; raspberry, 6 to 14 years; strawberry, 1 to 3 years.

The largest grapevine in the world flourishes at San Gabriel, Cal. It was planted by the San Franciscan friars and is 120 years old. The stalk is one and one-half feet in diameter and eight feet high, and the branches and foliage cover 5,000 square feet. Last year it produced two and one-half tons of grapes.

Lean, lank hogs and poor fences will discourage almost any farmer who has such a combination. With animals that will multiply as rapidly as pigs it seems almost a shame to see a man breeding old scrub sows to some boar that has no pride of ancestry or hope of posterity. Yet this is exactly the course that about half of the farmers are following and wondering why feeding hogs is not paying substantial profits. Never get the idea in your heads that breeding from young and immature breeding stock encourages early maturity in the progeny.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 23.—There was laid on the table of the local Legislature of the second annual report of the Manitoba Government telephones.

It showed that there was the large surplus of $372,000 in operating. The total expenditure was $782,000, and total receipts were $754,000. However, $807,387 was spent on capital account.

The increase in the system during the two years of Government ownership has been enormous.

There are 5,180 miles of long distance lines. Two years ago there was 3,350 miles. The total number of subscribers is 25,300.

There are 7,000 farmers with rural 'phones, and 5,000 subscribers were added this year, an approximate total of 11,000 in two years.

The increase in revenue for the year is $140,444.

Insurance Companies Lose About $125,000.00 by the Wreck at Spanish River

Double Liability for About Twenty-five Persons

A loss of somewhere in the neighbourhood of $125,000 is what the Accident Insurance Companies estimate the wreck at Spanish River bridge means to them.

They figure that about 25 of those who met death carried Accident Insurance, and the average insurance, according to the tables, is $5,000. In case of death in a railway disaster there is a double liability, making the figure $6,000, or $5,000 to be more conservative.

Their loss may total more than that, for the commercial travellers, a number of whom were killed, usually carry very heavy insurance. In addition, some of the companies make the policies payable on the death of the wife while travelling, though the policy is taken out in the husband's name. In such cases they pay the husband the same amount as they would have paid the wife were the husband killed.

We issue the BEST Accident and Sickness policy offered to the public.

SYNOPSIS OF REPORT OF THE ONTARIO GOVT. MILK COMMISSION

Following is a synopsis of the report of the Ontario Government Milk Commission, which has just been issued:—

CHAPTER I.

This deals with the formation of the Commission and the nature of its work.

The Commission was appointed as a result of a motion submitted to the Legislature at its 1908 session by W. K. McNaught, M.P.P., and unanimously adopted.

According to latest figures there are 1,200,000 milch cows in the Province.

Altogether there is said to be about $50,000,000 invested in the dairy business in the Province and the annual return is estimated at $45,000,000.

During recent years there has been no more remarkable development in the scientific world than bacteriology, which means the study of germs which may be conveyed by milk, watr and other carriers.

Milk sometimes conveys the germs of tuberculosis, typhoid, diphtheria and scarlet fever, and that is a strong reason why all possible precautions be exercised.

The menace of milk is largely measured by the length of time which elapses between cow and consumer, as the germs increase very rapidly, especially in high temperature.

CHAPTER II.

This gives a synopsis of the laws at present on the statute books of the Province with reference to milk, and devotes a paragraph to outlining the by-laws of each city and a few of the larger towns.

The administration of laws governing milk for human consumption is delegated to municipalities by the Provincial Statutes, and the Dominion Department of Agriculture does not interfere in any way with this matter.

The laws in the Provincial Statutes are scattered through five or six different Acts, although the law governing milk for cheese factories, creameries, etc., is in one concise Act.

Cities, towns and villages are given power to inspect within their own limits, but they cannot make suggestions outside unless with the concurrence of the Health Officer of the outside municipality.

There is a standard in the Ontario Statutes defining butter fat quality of milk, the standard having been abbolished a couple of years ago.

Toronto draws its milk supply from approximately 900 farms within a radius of 40 miles.

Out of 2,541 samples tested in Toronto up to the end of October last, 1,014, or about 40 per cent were below 3 per cent. butter fat, and the conclusion is drawn that there is very widespread adulteration, as natural milk from the cow is very rarely below 3 per cent.

The facilities for chilling the milk brought to Toronto during the summer months is found to be very inadequate, as the temperature in many cases went about 70 degrees.

Up till last summer about one-half of Toronto's supply was subjected to continuous pasteurization, but since then two firms at least have adopted a holding device for pasteurization.

Certified milk is milk the purity of which is certified to by a Medical Milk Commission.

The first Medical Milk Commission was organized in New Jersey in 1892, and the Canadian Medical Milk Commission was organized at Ottawa in 1908. Local branches have now been organized in Toronto, Ottawa and Hamilton.

The Medical Milk Commission at Toronto contends that all milk which is not certified should be pasteurized by being held for thirty minutes at 145 degrees.

Ottawa, London and Woodstock have veterinarians which inspect the sources of supply to these cities, and Ottawa is credited with the best milk by-law of any Ontario city.

As to the Ontario Agricultural College, the Commission recommend that a new dairy barn is needed and also that the College might grant further assistance to farmers in combatting disease in the herds.

CHAPTER III.

This deals with the conditions found on dairy farms.

Dairying, with a few exceptions, is part of mixed farming in this Province and dairy stables therefore are part of the general barn.

Very few dairymen have yet adopted the small top pail which reduces contamination by 25 per cent.

Although it is carried out with varying degrees of efficiency, the wisdom of prompt chilling of the milk is generally recognized.

A great diversity was found as to cleanliness and sanitation, but there were many dairy barns in the Province that would compare favorably with any on this continent.

About 10 per cent of the places visited seemed to be totally unfit to be in the business of producing human food, but in the case of probably 60 per cent. an expenditure of $10 to $50 and a little extra work would effect an improvement of 50 per cent. to 75 per cent.

Many farms were dark and dirty, with very little ventilation.

The largest number of satisfactory premises were found in the vicinity of Ottawa, where considerable attention has been paid to the subject.

At one farm near London, milk from tuberculin tested cows kept in a good sanitary condition is sold at 8c. a quart.

CHAPTER IV.

This deals with the efforts of Rochester, Syracuse, New York, Detroit and Chicago to secure a satisfactory milk supply.

Rochester has a system by which all the farms supplying milk to the city are regularly inspected.

In dealing with tuberculosis, the health officer at Rochester inoculates guinea pigs with milk, and if they develop tuberculosis, he immediately goes to the place from which the milk was obtained, and insists on having all the cattle tuberculin tested or else the milk is shut out of the city.

Dr. Goler, health officer for Rochester, is strongly opposed to pasteurization as well also the health officer for Syracuse.

Syracuse has a system of education and co-operation by which they have very materially raised the standard of dairy barns.

In Syracuse, Rochester, New York, Chicago and many other American cities the score card system is used by which each dairy is rated according to all cleanliness and general condition.

Before milking at the Tully Farms the dust in the yard is completely settled with water, the horse is turned on the interior of the stable and the cows are washed three times.

In milking the men wear white, sterilized suits, clean each morning, they sit on sterilized metal stools, milk with manicured hands into sterilized small top pails.

New York consumes about two million quarts of milk a day, which comes from 35,000 farms scattered through six states, and extending as far away as 400 miles.

New York a few years ago inaugurated an elaborate system of inspection, extending from the cow to the consumer.

New York aims at cleanliness rather than pasteurization, but compels dealers to label milk to show whether it has been merely heated to 160 degrees for 40 seconds or perfectly pasteurized.

The Brookside Farm is even more perfect that the Tully Farms in as great care of the milk, and frequently produces milk with absolutely no bacteria, a very rare accomplishment.

At the Brookside Farm the cows are clipped every three weeks and are groomed, washed, rubbed and dried before milking, only one towel being used to each cow.

New York State pays compensation for animals destroyed as a result of the tuberculin test, but the test is voluntary.

On January 1, 1909, Chicago adopted an ordinance by which all milk not coming from tuberculin tested cows should be pasteurized.

In Chicago and Syracuse no milk may be sold in stores where general merchandise is handled unless it is sold in sealed bottles.

CHAPTER V.

This is a statement respecting the milk supply of Copenhagen, Denmark and London, England, contributed by Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, as a result of his visit during the past summer.

Denmark, with a population of about 800,000 less than Ontario, exports annually about 90 million dollars worth of butter, bacon and eggs, of which 80 million goes to Great Britain.

Copenhagen is credited with having the best general milk supply of any city in the world.

The supply is under strict sanitary regulations, a copy of which is included in the Report.

One of the features of the Copenhagen supply is the manner in which the differentiate between general milk and children's milk, the latter coming from tuberculin tested cows.

One of the Copenhagen dairies in producing children's milk milks into a pail in the bottom of which is a pear-shaped projecture filled with ice in order that the milk may be chilled as soon as drawn.

The Aylesbury Dairy Company, of London, England, spends £7,500 per annum in safeguards to protect the milk from contamination.

CHAPTER VI.

This deals with the laws of other provinces and states.

British Columbia appears to have the most up-to-date law of any province in the Dominion as all dairies are graded.

Louisiana adopted the compulsory tuberculin test, but after a brief experience revealed it as it was thought too expensive for the results achieved.

Inspection of the sources of supply and co-operation with the dairymen is the keynote of the legislation of many of the cities which have dealt with the subject.

CHAPTER VII.

This includes the views of experts in the subject to show that improvement in sanitary conditions and in the attention devoted to the subject will mean an increase in revenue to the dairymen.

An increase in the price of milk is declared to be not as important a factor as increased production per cow, thus decreasing the cost.

G. G. Publow, chief instructor for Eastern Ontario, says a million can be added to the revenue of the dairymen by a little more attention to sanitation and other points.

J. A. Ruddick, Dairy Commissioner, at Ottawa, submits the results of experiments to show that the common practice of aeration is all wrong and that milk makes much better cheese when exposed to the air to the minimum.

Prof. Dean of the Ontario Agricultural College makes suggestions which he declares mean more profits to those engaged in the dairy business.

Frank Herns, Chief Dairy Instructor for Western Ontario, urges clean, sanitary, businesslike methods as being conducive to greater profits.

S. S. Cheetham, an Eastern Ontario instructor, gives a concrete illustration where if the attention which was devoted by one patron had been adopted by the 42 factories in his district, the sum of $10,000 would have been added to their revenue.

CHAPTER VIII.

This gives the story of the organization of infants' milk depots and shows their influence in lessening infantile mortality.

As a fundamental it is said that infantile feeing and infantile mortality are subjects so closely allied as to be inseparable.

Many facts are submitted to show the necessity for a special supply for infants generally during the hot summer months.

Infants' milk depots were first started in Paris in 1893. They were introduced in New York by Mr. Nathan Straus in 1893 and adopted in England in 1899.

An infants' milk depot is a place which supplies milk which has been produced under especially cleanly and healthful conditions and handled in a especially sanitary way for the consumption of infants.

Most infants' milk depots are supported by philanthropy, but in a few cases, as in Rochester, they are supported by a municipal grant.

Since being introduced the idea has spread rapidly and is in some form or other adopted in almost every country in Europe, in England and in the United States.

It has been found that the value of the milk depot is not only in the supply of pure milk but also in the education that goes with it, as trained nurses are attached to the depots to give advice to mothers, and literature is distributed.

Infant mortality in England has decreased from 132 per 1,000 in the period from 1898 to 1902 to 118 per 1,000.

In London, England, the mortality has decreased from 148 in the period from 1897 to 1906 to 116 in 1907 and in other places there has been a similar increase.

The Rochester system is described and is shown to be a very simple one, yet it has resulted in reducing the infant mortality about one-half in the past ten years.

The Rochester system cost only $1,380 for the months of July and August.

Nathan Straus is the leading exponent on the continent of pasteurization and at a cost to himself of about $1,000,000 a year he supplies over four million bottles and a million and a half glasses of pasteurised milk to New York children.

In New York the infantile mortality has decreased remarkably with the development of the Straus and other depots for the supply of pure milk for infants.

In 1906 the first infants' milk depot was started in Toronto and the idea was adopted in Hamilton during the past year.

A pasteurization plant similar to that at the Straus Laboratories has been installed in the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

Figures are given for each Ontario city and show that Ottawa has the highest infantile mortality with 216 per cent., Toronto 155, and the average at 160.

The average for Ontario is 16 greater than in New York, four greater than in Chicago, 44 greater than in London, and almost twice Rochester.

There are more deaths in the first year of life than in the following forty.

Ontario cities are urged to take up the question of infantile mortality and provide for a special supply for infants during the summer months.

It is claimed that 25 per cent. of the total infantile deaths in the Province might be averted, meaning a saving of over 2,000 a year.

CHAPTER IX

This gives the conclusions and contains the recommendations of the Commission.

Present laws governing milk for human consumption are found to be cumbersome and ineffective and it is recommended that they should be consolidated and amplified into one plain, simple act, like the Act governing milk for manufacturing purposes.

Boards of Health it is urged, should be given power to inspect at the source of supply and keep milk out of their municipality if it is known to be contaminated.

A definition of adulteration should be adopted and a food value standard of 3 per cent butter fat and 12 per cent solids should be the minimum.

Municipalities should be urged to establish and maintain infants' milk supply depots.

Municipalities are urged to appoint veterinarians to make inspections at the source of supply.

As an initial step, along with an education campaign, it is urged that all cows suffering from tuberculosis of the udder or showing physical signs of the disease should be removed from dairy herds.

Pasteurization is not regarded as a Provincial ideal but may be used as a municipal expedient under proper scientific regulations.

In cities of over 50,000 milk should not be sold in shops except in bottles or other sealed packages.

Cans, bottles and other utensils used in handling milk should be used for no other purpose and should be promptly rinsed by the consumer on being emptied.

Every effort should be made along educational lines to inculcate the value of cleanliness and prompt chilling.

A minimum standard is regarded as essential to prevent wholesale adulteration in Toronto and other cities, as the milk passes through the hands of three or four people between cow and consumer.

The score card system is recommended for veterinarians to adopt in making inspections, the idea being to adopt in connection with all cities and the largest towns what has already been carried out by Ottawa and London.

Precedents are quoted from the Ontario Statutes as well as the Statutes of other places in support of the contention for inspection.

First prominence should be given to the importance of cleanliness and cold cans at every stage in handling milk.

It is estimated that probably 10 per cent of the milch cows of Ontario suffer more or less from tuberculosis, and a determined effort is urged to reduce this number.

Some experts have declared they have found that from 15 per cent to 20 per cent of the tuberculosis of infants is of bovine origin.

Care is also urged to prevent milk being contaminated with the germs of typhoid, scarlet fever or diphtheria, all of which may be milk borne.

A bacteria standard for the province is not regarded as practicable, as the bacteria standard of cities varies from 100,000 to one million, and it is very difficult to say how many really constitute a menace.

Pasteurization is so called because it was first introduced by Louis Pasteur, the French scientist. It means heating to a point below boiling, usually from 145 to 180 degrees, and then rapidly chilling to 45 degrees.

Ordinary continuous pasteurization has been in vogue because it kills the lactic acid germs and thereby prevents souring, which is very valuable to the city dairymen especially in the summer months.

Continuous pasteurization gives no particular guarantee of safety against disease and hence it is urged that pasteurization if done at all is done properly.

But after all is done, greater care of milk is needed on the part of the consumer.

The commission does not believe any of its recommendations will necessarily raise the price of milk, as the provisions have already been carried out in parts of the province where milk is no more expensive than in other parts where they have not been carried out.

The report is signed by Dr. A. R. Pyne, chairman; J. R. Dargavel, F. G. Macdiarmid and W. F. Nickle; W. Bert Roadhouse, secretary.

STATEMENT OF A TRAVELLER

Is Sure Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured His Diabetes

Geo. H. Watterworth, of Rodney Feels Like a Boy Again After Suffering From the Most Deadly of Kidney Diseases.

Rodney, Ont., Feb. 23.—(Special).—Mr. Geo. H. Watterworth, a well-known travelling salesman, whose home is in this place, makes an unqualified statement that he was cured of Diabetes by Dodd's Kidney Pills. "Yes," Mr. Watterworth said when asked regarding his cure, "Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me of Diabetes. I took thirty-seven boxes in all but to-day I am restored to good health.

"I was also troubled with Rheumatism and Headache, my sleep was broken and unrefreshing and I was always tired and nervous. But Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me and now I feel just like I did when I was a boy."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Diabetes because it is a Kidney disease and there is no form of Kidney disease Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure. Mr. Watterworth's other ailments were caused by diseased Kidneys failing to strain impurities out of the blood, and Dodd's Kidney Pills cured them by curing the sick Kidneys.

Eulogy for Grand Trunk

In the London "Times" of February 4th, an article appears from one of their travelling correspondents descriptive of a tour through America, in which the following appears:—

"By far the finest travelling I have done so far in America was over the Grand Trunk line from Montreal to Toronto. The Grand Trunk have admittedly a perfect roadbed. We ran at about fifty miles per hour on the International Limited, and none of the English railways could beat it for steadiness."

This eulogy from one who has world-wide traveler, is very gratifying to Canadian railways.

Joseph Bilyanni, a young Italian of Montreal, was shot five times by compatriots who entered his room.

DEPUTATION HIGHLY PLEASED WITH TREATMENT GIVEN THE CITY'S BILL

Only One Amendment of Importance Made—Fixed Assessment for Wm. Hamilton Co. Must be Voted On—Purity Ware By-law Confirmed—Other Legislation Granted.

The city of Peterborough bill passed the Private Bills Committee of the the Ontario Legislature yesterday after one rather important and several minor amendments had been made. The despatch from Toronto in the Review last evening was correct in the main. The only paragraph that was not just right was in connection with the appointment of an industrial commissioner. The despatch stated that this clause of the bill was amended, making it impossible for the salary of such an official to be paid by the City Council, although he could be paid by subscription. Board of Trade, or other body, except the Council. This was not correct. The committee made no amendment to this clause. It was confirmed by the committee just as it appeared in the bill, the wording being as follows:

"The Council of the city of Peterborough may appoint an officer to be called, "Commissioner of Industries" and may define his duties and authority and fix and pay his salary and the expenses and disbursements of and incidental to his office."

The clause in the bill asking for confirmation of "a by-law to aid Purity Ware, Limited," which was voted on several months ago, caused a lively discussion in the committee. Mr. Jas. Kendrey, of Peterborough, opposed the granting of the request on the ground that Purity Ware, Limited, was a promoters' scheme and that the ratepayers had not been given complete information about the concern. Mr. J. P. Downey, M.P.P., Mr R. R. Gamey, M.P.P., and Mr. Nickle, M.P. P., supported Mr. Kendry. Mr. Downey condemned the bonus system. It was especially bad when the requirements of the law were not met. Hon. I. B. Lucas, chairman of the committee, was in favor of confirming the by-law. In view of the fact that the ratepayers had given it such a large majority. Mayor Morrow and Ald. Gillespie explained the by-law and gave the committee information about the men behind the concern. Mayor Morrow said the Council was unanimously in favor of having the by-law confirmed.

"The Ironclad Company, Limited, of Brooklyn, N.Y., are behind it," said Ald. Gillespie. "And they want to change the Purity Ware name to the Ironclad Company of Canada. I can give the name of a Canadian and a Toronto man who is financing it here. Mr. R. Gregg, of Toronto, is furnishing the Canadian capital."

Mr. Downey moved that the question be referred back to the ratepayers and that the by-law have a majority of three-fifths of those voting on it.

The amendment was lost and the by-law was confirmed, after one or two minor changes had been made in the wording. One amendment was that "the mortgage shall be on the 'building and machinery,' instead of on the building and fixtures."

The by-law to give a fixed assessment of $10,000 to the Wilson Hamilton Company for ten years was not confirmed. It must be voted on by the ratepayers, and have a majority of three-fifths of those voting on it before becoming legal.

The by-law to amend the by-law to aid the Colonial Weaving Company by granting an extension of time in which to build and equip a new factory, was confirmed. Mr. Downey offered opposition to it.

The by-law to take over the assets and property of the Peterborough Mechanics' Institute and establish the library of the said institute as a public library under the provisions of the Public Libraries Act, was passed without opposition.

The clauses in the City of Peterborough Bill, regarding municipal elections, passed the committee after being explained by the city solicitor. In case of a tie vote, the election is to be declared in favor of the candidate with the highest assessment, instead of by the vote of the city clerk.

The Peterborough deputation consisted of Mayor Morrow, Aldermen Duffus, chairman of the Legislation Committee; Turner, Baker, Phelan and Duncan, City Solicitor Hall and City Clerk Armstrong. They returned home last evening highly pleased with the treatment given the city's bill by the Committee of the Legislature.

VULGAR SHOW OF MODERN WEALTH IS ALARMING

Montreal, Feb. 23.—"The church today is considered by many to be a great social club instead of a place of worship. Greetings, handshakings, seats, the pleasures of yesterday recounted, eliminate the word which has fallen from the lips of Christ's messenger. Before the seed can take hold in the hearts of the worshippers the birds of social gossip and frivolity have snatched it from the soil. The church is made entirely too much of a conventional place for conventional worship. When our fathers went home from church they departed quietly, conversing of the things of good and of the lessons they had derived. Today it is not good form to speak of the things of Christ; it is considered rather unconventional to speak of Christ at social gatherings."

The laxity of many Christians of the present day with the carelessness and thoughtlessness of people who were in the church, was thus spoken of by His Lordship, Bishop Farthing, in his sermon this morning before the Women's Auxiliary of Christ Church Cathedral.

"In the church persons are constantly met who enter into any movement with great enthusiasm, but who cannot endure self-denial, anything contrary to self-sense, who are not willing to suffer for their religion. Religion costs us something. It has to if it is anything. The light of Christ is just as much opposed to the world to-day as it was in other days. The laws of nature and of God are the same. It should be remembered that we are followers of a crucified, as well as an exalted God, and that we too must learn self-denial, discipline and sacrifice. There are times when duty means the giving up of pleasure. This pleasure may in itself be innocent enough, but when opposed to duty should be set aside. Often, when the two clash, pleasure gains the choice. If, however, we are to reach after Christ, it must be through self-denial.

"It is easy for people in affluent circumstances to know what the poor ought to do, and it is also very easy for the poor to know what the rich should do. Both have their troubles and temptations. A happy family, with the coming of hard times or sickness, finds the fight against poverty a hard one. The head of the home goes out, becomes despondent, loses his self-respect. He has not learned the absolute trust in God.

"Then there are the poor rich. Men and women think nothing of spending hundreds of dollars in personal extravagance. The display, and often the vulgar display, of modern wealth is alarming. The love of pleasure gets a grip over the people. We stand by and watch it and say how hard it is for them who have wealth to enter into the kingdom of God."

In concluding the sermon, His Lordship made a strong appeal for greater attention to the teachings of the Gospel, the good news of the church, and the display of reverence which should be in the church.

WILL COME BEFORE COUNTY MAGISTRATE TO-MORROW MORNING

Robert Henderson, who fatally assaulted Miss Margaret McPherson, will come up before County Police Magistrate Edmison to-morrow morning. As the inquest into the death of the old lady will not be resumed until Monday, it is likely that Henderson will be remanded pending the finding of the jury. From the circumstances in connection with the old lady's injury and her death, however, it seems probable that a charge of murder will be laid against the accused.

OPINIONS OF THE CANADIAN PRESS

REPRESENTS A WHOLE PILE.

Toronto Mail and Empire.

It has been estimated by a distinguished visitor that Torontonians spend $13.33 a year per head on liquor and collect only five cents per head in taxation. Evidently we are drinking too much, levying too little, or both.—Toronto Globe.

Perhaps the distinguished visitor did not consider that in that $13.33 a whole lot of taxation is represented.

TWO GOOD POINTS.

London Free Press.

The C. P. R. will spend $30,000,000 in the west this year. This is important news. It is even more important that the time has come when the west is known to justify such expenditures.

THE PEOPLE'S MOVEMENT.

Westminster Gazette.

The social movement, essentially healthy, has gained a new impetus since the introduction of the budget last year. The demand for a better and healthier existence and for a larger share of the good things of the world for the masses of the people will go forward whatever happens. It may be checked by the mistakes of its advocates or by the temporary reactions which all new movements bring in their train, but, with whatever checks or reactions, it will be the main fact in our domestic politics. The question for the landed and wealthy classes is whether they will make terms with it or be reduced to terms.

THERE ARE OTHERS.

Kingston Standard.

The Dominion Government should see to it that the shareholders and customers of the Canadian banks shall be protected by proper government inspection. It is stated that most of the general managers of Canadian chartered banks oppose inspection, but past experience should teach that to the protests of these gentlemen little attention should be paid. Each man may be certain of himself—but what of the other man?

CANAL MAY BE FUTURE ROUTE.

Toronto Globe.

The discussion of a bill to require wireless electric services on lake vessels has served further to emphasize the paramount importance of lake transportation in our western development. The lakes will always be the route to Europe, though auxiliary routes will be necessary. Port William and Port Arthur, Canada's twin cities, will be the gateway of the vast western wheat fields and cattle ranches. These cities, destined ultimately to unite, have all the elements of greatness and an assured mission in the future growth of the Dominion. The lake traffic that is building up such populous industrial centres must always be allowed to develop under free competition.

REAL ESTATE IN ENTWISTLE

Those who are thinking of investing in North-West property will do well to refer to the advertisement in another column with regard to Entwistle, Alberta. The opportunity is afforded to invest and to do so in moderate amounts. The claims made for the property are that Entwistle will be the point of debarkation for the Grande Prairie settlers; that the C.N.R. main line will pass through here; that Entwistle has one of the largest deposits of semi-bituminous coal in Alberta; that the sandstone is of excellent quality; that we have around seventy million feet of merchantable timber; that Entwistle has the material and best location for a pulp mill; that Entwistle has the best mixed farming country west of Edmonton.

A Brown & Co., the local real estate dealers, are handling the proposition here in connection with the owners of the lands.

THE WILD GOOSE

From the north away, from its ice and spray,
From the winter storm and snow,
At the dawn of day, in his garb of gray,
Comes a glimpse of a form I know.

With his wings outspread, and his wise old head,
And his wary and watchful eye,
He is leading along his V-shaped throng
To a home neath a southern sky.

And his shrill cries float from a height remote,
As swift through the air they glide,
And I saddle my drone when I hear him honk
And haste to the coulee's side.

And I stand at the edge, in the tall, green sedge,
And blink at the sun's red glow:
But there's many a slip 'ere the hammers trip
And the old grey goose lies low.

For he's taken affright in his strong, swift flight,
And he sounds a quick note of alarm
And his feet and his tail on his wings prevail
To turn them away from harm.

And the gun half-cock in my arm I lock,
For well in my heart I know,
When the goose honks high, like a speck in the sky,
All's well on the earth below.

British House Divides on the Fiscal Amendment — Irish Did Not Vote.

London, Feb. 25.—The first trial of strength in the new Parliament occurred last night at a crowded session of the House of Commons, when Austen Chamberlain's fiscal amendment was rejected by a vote of 285 to 254. Chamberlain's amendment was a plea for a fiscal system that should afford first a preference to home productions, so as to give employment to the people, and second, a preference to British productions over-seas to the end that the Empire might be more closely consolidated.

Speeches were made by Arthur J. Balfour, leader of the Opposition; Chancellor Lloyd-George, Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Education; A. Bonar Law and others, none of which, however, gave any new aspect to the fiscal controversy.

Although victorious only by the narrow majority of 31, the Government may regard the result as very satisfactory, inasmuch as there was no cross-voting and no evidence of any intention on the part of any of the groups in the coalition to overthrow the Ministry. All the Nationalists, the O'Brienites, as well as the Redmondites, abstained from voting. The Laborites voted with the Government, and three Liberals, Hillaire Belloc, Horatio W. Bottomley and J. C. Wedgwood abstained.

The Premier, having given notice that he would move on Monday that Government business would take precedence over all other business until March 24, the House adjourned.

HUSBAND MADE ATTACK ON LAWYER

Windsor, Feb. 25.—In an effort to prevent Mrs. Bessie Knott, his pretty young wife, from again going on the stand and testifying in behalf of Dr George A. Fritch, being tried for murder, Frank Knott, a slight young fellow of 24, sprang at Attorney F. T. Lodge and planted a blow on the lawyer's chest, just after the session in Judge Phelan's court opened yesterday.

The incident occurred in the corridor, just outside the court room. The young woman was talking to the attorney when her husband approached. Lodge pulled Mrs. Knott aside and made an attempt to talk to her.

"Now, let's not have a scene here," Lodge exclaimed.

"We'll have one pretty soon," Knott retorted, as he sprang at Lodge and struck him.

Detectives seized Knott and held him while Mrs. Knott was led into the court room by the defendant's counsel.

Mrs. Knott declares she was in the Fritch house during the afternoon the murder of Mabel Millman is alleged to have occurred, and swears she saw no signs of the tragedy. Her husband declares her testimony was "trained up."

WHEAT BEING KILLED BY ICE

Chatham, Feb. 25.—Reports from the surrounding country that have reached this city indicate that the most of the fall wheat in the county has been killed by ice.

In some localities there are some good fields of wheat, but in the majority of cases there will be no wheat crop this year.

The heavy snows, followed by rain, which has melted the snow, and then sudden spells of freezing weather, have caused ice to form in the fields, with the result that the wheat is smothered.

The snow does not harm the wheat, but rather helps it. The ice, however, is a different proposition.

The farmers report that owing to the extended winter and the immense amount of water which will come off the lands as soon as the spring season opens, there will be a heavy freshet this year. The farms along low-lying lands west of the city will undoubtedly all be flooded and the damage will be great unless the Government takes action in sending an icebreaker up the river as soon as the thaw comes.

SUED PRIEST FOR SLANDER

Sherbrooke, Que., Feb. 25.—In the Supreme Court, before Justice Hutchinson, Rev. Father Bernier of the parish of Emperton was sued by a parishioner, G. Rioux, for $5,000 damages for slander.

It was related that the plaintiff made application to have his child baptised on the day it was born, as is the custom among French-Canadians, but the parish priest refused to do so, stating that he could not perform the ceremony because Rioux had not paid his tithes. On the next Sunday the priest, from the pulpit, accused the plaintiff of circulating false stories around the parish; that he was damned and had the mark of a damned person on his forehead and that he would go to hell.

Justice Hutchinson advised a settlement and this was effected, the priest paying $75 damages and costs.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

SOME LOOSE WORK DONE IN NEW BRUNSWICK CONTRACTS

Andrew Loggie Spends Whole Day on Witness Stand in Public Accounts Committee, and Some Petty Grafting is Revealed.

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—All yesterday, Andrew Loggie, of A. & R. Loggie, a well-known New Brunswick firm, was on the witness stand in the public accounts committee. He proved an able witness. His was the firm which offered $5,500 to the Government for the sawdust wharf at Richibucto, which had been purchased from one Murray for $5,000, who had got it for $700.

In spite of the persistent efforts of Mr. Crocket, the witness did not allow himself to be cornered often. Only once did he commit himself seriously.

He described O'Leary's wharf as worth $8,000, in order to show that $5,500 was a fair price for the Sawdust wharf. However, a telegram his firm sent to Mr. Carvell was produced, which asked the member for Carleton to purchase, if possible, O'Leary's wharf for $2,000, but not to go beyond $2,500. This telegram, Loggie explained, was sent when he learned that Mr. O'Leary had valued his wharf to the public accounts committee at $2,500. However, he admitted to Mr. Crocket that he had purchased a lot with a waterfront of 41 feet, with a licensed hotel upon it, for $1,000. Another lot he had got for $200, thus showing the value of property in Richibucto.

Mr. Carvell presented a paper signed by thirty residents of Richibucto, declaring the value of property in the town. Mr. Crocket, however, pointed out that this was not sworn evidence, and the chairman disallowed it.

Some dredging work was revealed. It seems that Mr. Loggie started dredging at Bathurst, on Oct. 6 1908, though it was not until Oct. 14 that he received a telegram from Hon. Wm. Pugsley, telling him to begin the work.

Another case was at Loggieville, A. & R. Loggie sent an account to the Public Works Department for dredging there during May and June, 1909, but the firm received no authorization to do the work until June 22. There was no inspector and no check was kept. There was nothing to go upon but the declaration of the captain of the dredge.

The Loggie dredge, and then a Government dredge had dredged a strip in front of the Dalhousie Lumber Co.'s wharf.

When Mr. Crocket brought this out, Mr. Carvell remarked: "I know what your after. Your after the Minister of Public Works, because he's got a little money in that company."

Mr. Crocket: "We are not here to vote public money for the dredging of private property."

The Lumsden investigation committee met yesterday afternoon and agreed to make an effort to appoint an investigating counsel on behalf of the public who would be agreeable to both parties.

The discussion which led up to this amicable arrangement was bitter. However, the opposition gained another important victory in securing this concession.

It was finally agreed that Messrs. Macdonald and Barker should endeavor to agree upon a counsel and report to the committee on Tuesday, March 8.

C. N. R. IS CLOSE TO THE G.T.R. LINE

Montreal, Feb. 25.—Jack Stewart of the contracting firm of Foley, Larken and Stewart, left last night for the west, and although he would express no opinion, it is expected that this firm will get the contract for the gap extending from the top of the summit westward 400 miles, where the same firm's contract of 245 miles, running up from Prince Rupert, is met with.

To date 5,000 men are engaged on the section of 320 miles west of Edmonton, and on the 245 coming eastward from the Pacific, and a great many more will be put on during the coming summer.

The manager states that 1912 will see the road open for traffic through the mountains, and enough is now known as to the situation through the pass, a distance of 60 miles, to justify Mr. Stewart saying that there is room for 20 sets of rails.

The most surprising part of his statement is, however, to the effect that Mackenzie and Mann's survey and absolute location fairly hugs the Grand Trunk Pacific from Edmonton westward, a distance of 350 miles. The two lines will be practically in sight of each other for all the distance.

FRENCH SENATORS ENGAGE IN DUEL

Paris, Feb. 25.—Senators Millies-Lacroix and Lintilhac fought a duel with swords in the Parc des Princes yesterday morning. At the first encounter Millies-Lacroix neatly parried a lunge by Lintilhac and ran the latter through the forearm. Lintilhac wished to continue, but the seconds stopped the combat. The adversaries were reconciled before leaving the field.

The duel was the outgrowth of a dispute among the members of the Senate committee on the secrecy of the ballot. Both are about 60 years of age and heavily built.

NEGRO ENTERPRISE IN NORTH CAROLINA

Durham, N.C., Feb. 25.—Within the next few weeks a hosiery mill built by negro labor with negro capital, and which will be operated entirely by negro labor, will open for business here, with a capitalization of $50,000.

Most of the capital has been supplied by John Merrick, a negro, who began life as a barber, and R. B. Fitzgerald, reputed to be the richest negro in South Carolina. He began life making bricks.

The factory was designed by a negro architect, and all the work on it was done by negroes. The building is owned by a negro insurance company, and the operating company will be composed largely of the same men.

LIBERALS TO STAND BY HON. A. G. MACKAY

Toronto, Feb. 25.—There will be no provincial Liberal convention in June to formulate a policy; and,

There will be no change in the Liberal leadership in the Legislature—at least, not yet awhile.

The Toronto leaders of Liberalism had decided that both of these things would occur, but before pulling them off they arranged to have the men from the country districts brought to Toronto and regularly informed of the decision of the central committee.

Yesterday there came to town half a hundred Liberals from almost every district of the province.

The features of the gathering was the enthusiastic reception that was accorded Leader MacKay by the men from the back counties, indicating clearly that he has not lost his grip on his followers.

KING'S HORROR OF GAMBLING

London, Feb. 25.—Rev. Montague Fowler lecturing on the subject of "Racing and Gambling," quoted from a letter written by the King. "I have a horror," the letter ran, "of gambling, and shall always do my utmost to discourage others, who have an inclination for it, as the spirit of gambling is like intemperance—one of the greatest evils that can afflict a country."

Dragged by Her Hair.

Brockville, Feb. 25.—Hanging by her hair from the shaft of a cutter drawn by a runaway horse, was the thrilling experience yesterday of Miss Smith. The runaway collided with her on a crossing and the shaft hooking into her hair she was dragged a considerable distance before the driver succeeded in bringing the outfit to a standstill. She was not in the least injured.

SIR JAMES FROWNS ON LOWERING OF SCHOOL RATES

Time Has Come to Put a Stop to the Practice of Making Special Legislation for Municipalities Giving Bonuses Which Will Interfere With Educational Income.

Toronto, Feb. 25.—Features of yesterday's session of the Legislature were the introduction of a new bread bill by W. H. McNaught, father of the present legislation on the subject, and the ruthless slaughter of a number of bills on their second reading. In the latter connection Sir James Whitney deplored the tendency of members rushing in with remedies for individual cases, in which no doubt hardship existed, but the proposed remedies for which carried the possibility of consequences far-reaching beyond any power of prediction. That was the way to make trouble for the future.

All of the bills complained of were withdrawn. Some died without even a feeble kick of protest. The one which occasioned the most discussion was Mr. Bradburn's bill to amend the municipal act, which proposed to change the basis of calculation in the voting on municipal bonus bylaws from that of the total number of persons entitled to vote to the actual number voting on the same.

W. F. Nickle (Kingston) pointed out that a practice had grown up, owing to the difficulty of passing bonus bylaws under present conditions, of the municipalities seeking special legislation. The practice was growing in the private bills committee of enacting from time to time what, to quote the expression of the Premier, was practically "industrial checkerboard legislation." It was time to take a stand and make a protest.

"The child," he declared in regard to the application to fix the school assessment on new industries, "is not the asset of the municipality alone; it is the asset of the state. Steps should be taken to prevent in every case the granting of a fixed assessment for a term of years which will have the effect of lowering the school rates."

H. G. Ferguson (Grenville) said the time had come for something to be done to stop the unhealthy rivalry created by bonusing.

Hon. I. B. Lucas stated that the private bills committee would not allow, even with the unanimous vote of the people of a municipality, a fixed rate as far as school taxes were concerned.

Sir James Whitney observed that the municipalities which came with these requests invariably claimed special circumstances.

"In ninety-nine instances out of one hundred," he declared, "these are the very cases which should not be touched with a pair of tongs."

The optional vaccination bill of H. P. Innes (North Norfolk) was pronounced by Hon. I. B. Lucas to be a "backward step." It promptly took the hint, stepped backward, lay down and died gracefully.

Three bills amending the public and high school acts retired under the frown of Hon. Dr. Pyne.

Mr. Jessop's bill to regulate the purchase, sale and transfer of stocks of goods in bulk to allow the purchaser to demand a sworn declaration of the liabilities of the vendor. If this were not furnished, the sale was to be deemed fraudulent and void as against creditors. The purchaser was to be required to pay the purchase money over to a trust company or assignee.

Hon. I. B. Lucas said that the disturbance to business would be serious and would more than outweigh any advantage to be gained by the bill. It was withdrawn.

Herbert Lennox (North York) carried the second readings of his bills to amend the act for the improvement of public highways and to amend the municipal act. The latter gives power to the municipalities to borrow money to carry out improvements ordered by the Dominion Railway Board.

Messrs. Charters, Mayberry, Proudfoot, Brewster, Eilber, Ferguson (Grenville) and Hon. I. B. Lucas were appointed a special committee to consider Mr. Charters' telephone bill.

GRIEVING, HE SHOT HIMSELF

Galt, Feb. 25.—A tragedy was enacted at the Iroquois Hotel at six o'clock last night, when John Forrest, foreman at the Allan Hill Edge Tool Works, took his own life. He went to his room and, summoning the hotel porter, gave him a dollar to deliver two notes, one to the hotel proprietor, the other to his employer. A few minutes later he shot himself.

The notes were, in effect, that he grieved for his wife, who, it seems, a year ago suicided in the old land in a fit of temporary insanity. Forrest, who was 31 years old, had been here only two weeks. He was a sober, industrious and skilled mechanic.

TORONTO BRAKEMAN WAS BADLY INJURED

FIFTEEN INJURED IN INCENDIARY FIRE

New York, Feb. 25.—In a fire of incendiary origin in a Carick street tenement yesterday, 15 persons were burned or injured, two so seriously that they will probably die.

While Fireman James Donovan was carrying William Burns down a ladder, the ladder broke and both men fell to the ground and were seriously injured.

Mrs. Anna Quinn received probably fatal burns in trying to rescue Richard Tarbut, a boarder. She had escaped to the roof, but made her way back to the house.

NEW PLAY BY BERNARD SHAW

London, Eng., Feb. 25.—"Misalliance," a new play by Bernard Shaw, was produced Wednesday evening.

The Standard says: "It is quite the most incoherent and irrelevant thing Mr. Shaw has written. Had 'Misalliance' been written by any one else it is certain it would never have been placed on the stage."

Other press comment is in the same strain.

CARRIED HATRED TO THE GRAVE

New York, Feb. 25.—Clad in a light silk robe as near like her wedding dress as she could arrange for in the short hour before her death, with her waxy white hands folded and minus the wedding ring that through all her troubles she had stuck to, the body of Mrs. May Jenks, Brooklyn, lay amid a profusion of flowers waiting for the funeral.

"Dead of a broken heart," her daughter said Wednesday night, "and no notice that I sent to the papers said 'The unbeloved wife of Thomas Jenks,' at her own request."

The Jenks couple were married in England, the bride being then fifteen years of age. They have lived in America for twenty-nine years.

ELECTRICIANS' LAMP STARTED DISASTROUS FIRE

Montreal, Feb. 25.—A fire in the premises of the Montreal Cotton Waste Co. at noon yesterday did damage of $15,000.

An electrician was making some changes to the wiring of the building and a lamp exploded, causing the man considerable injury as well as setting fire to the place.

WILL BOYCOTT ORIENTAL LABOR

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 25.—The special despatches from San Francisco, mentioned as having been received in Tokio, are believed to have been inspired by a resolution adopted by the Labor Council advising all unions "not to unionize or permit their members to work in houses where oriental labor is employed."

The adoption of the resolution followed a discussion on a proposal to boycott saloons where Chinese and Japanese help is employed.

"BLACK HAND" THREATENS JUDGE

YOUNG WOMAN GOES TO JAIL

Violet Gordon Charlesworth and Mother Must Serve 5 Years

London, Feb. 25.—In the Derby Assize Court yesterday, Violent Gordon Charlesworth and her mother were each sentenced to five years penal servitude for obtaining money under false pretences and for fraudulently representing that the young woman was an heiress to a great estate.

The judge, in passing sentence, referred to Violet's remarkable ingenuity, which, he said, properly applied, might have won for her an honorable, if not distinguished career.

Both prisoners collapsed in the dock on hearing the sentence.

Violet Gordon Charlesworth disappeared last February after a meteoric career in high finance, in the course of which, on the strength of a mythical fortune of $2,500,000, she borrowed many thousands of dollars, one brokerage firm alone admitting that she owed it $50,000.

She was importuned by her creditors, and then the report was spread that she had been killed while automobiling in the neighborhood of Penmaen Mawr, Wales. Investigation proved this to be untrue, and ten days later she was arrested with her mother at Obaa, Scotland.

One of the most remarkable features of the girl's career is that she is the daughter of a mechanic, possesses only a limited education and had had absolutely no worldly experience prior to her excursions into high finance.

MON. MR. ROGERS MAKES DENIAL

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 25.—Hon. Robert Rogers gave emphatic denial in the Legislature yesterday on a question of privilege to the statement in a letter of Hon. Dr. Montague to the Union Trust Co., produced in the Foster libel case in Toronto, that he had received payment for a portion of Manitoba lands. He said:

"Several years ago Hon. Dr. Montague asked me to join a private land syndicate which he was organizing. I decline to do so, and I may say that I am declining similar invitations almost every day of my life."

He said that several years later the offer was repeated, and again refused.

"JOE" MARTIN IS A MUTINEER

London, Feb. 25.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Writing to The Times re Mr. Asquith's pledge in his Albert Hall speech as to compelling the Lords to give legislation, Joe Martin, M.P., expresses the opinion that Mr. Asquith and the Government have repudiated the pledge and every Liberal member who was elected is released from allegiance.

"Mr. Asquith has colleagues, and they should now act in a way to put the Liberal party right with their supporters in the country, and for this purpose it may seem to be necessary to repudiate our present party leaders," concludes Mr. Martin.

RULING UNDER DIFFICULTIES

There can be little, if any doubt, that the Lloyd-George budget will become law in Britain, yet of the members of the House of Commons elected a majority cannot be said to be in favor of it. The Unionists are of course opposed to it, but will present no factious opposition because the Liberals have a majority, though a very small one, over their members. The Nationalists are opposed to some of its prominent features, but are willing to let it be passed if the Government meets their views as to the House of Lords and Home Rule. The members of these two parties, both opposed to the budget, include a majority of the members so that the budget will become law because of the influence of other questions upon the situation and not because a majority was elected to put it through.

The Government is still in a position far from being secure. Home Rule will not be taken up at the present session and this announcement cannot have been pleasing to the Nationalists. The Laborites and the Nationalists are not alone in finding fault with the Government on account of the programme it has outlined for the session, for many of the Liberals are dissatisfied with its action or want of action in regard to its proposed measures respecting the House of Lords, and have voiced their satisfaction. If the Unionists wished to precipitate the down fall of the Government they might be able to do so, but Mr. Balfour's announcement that he would not lead an attack on the budget at this time clears the air in one direction, for whatever attitude the Nationalists may take up finally on that question there seems to be no chance of the Unionists and that party united to overthrow the Government on the financial measure. What action Mr. Redmond and his followers will take cannot be determined yet, but Mr. O'Brien's utterances are unmistakable and he and his dozen members will oppose the budget. His declaration that "Home Rule with the budget would be a curse," is emphatic in showing his strong opposition to the financial proposals as passed by the Commons at the last session. Government by groups is something new in Parliamentary life, and Mr. Asquith will have such difficulties in working out the experiment that if he succeeds he will show himself to be a master political tactician at least.

KEEP THE CARS MOVING

Because a commissioner of industries will be appointed before long, is no reason why in the meantime, no matter how brief that time may be, there should be any period of resting on the cars. It is continuous, persistent effort that counts in any business, and even a short period of somnolence in pushing Peterborough forward might result in the loss of opportunities. A few days ago our largest employer of labor—the Canadian General Electric Company—made suggestions looking to a considerable enlargement of their works here. The authorities may be dealing with that matter as rapidly as it can be dealt with. If they are, calling attention to it can do no harm, and if by any chance there is unnecessary delay, a word or two may result in good. That the company meant what they said, there can be no doubt. Through an interview published in the Review, Mr. Frederic Nichols stated the position of the matter clearly, and if any reasonable and fair effort on the part of the city can secure this large addition to the Electric Works and the employment in the city of several hundred more mechanics, it should be made promptly. It is exceedingly commendable to endeavour to secure new industries, and the enlargement of existing factories is as beneficial as the location of new ones.

FUR AS A NATIONAL ASSET

Every year the price of fur of almost every class is enormously increasing. Even the plebeian coon skin coat which could be bought a few years ago for $25 to $35, now brings $75 to $85, and the more expensive varieties of fur have attained such a price that only the wealthy can afford them. In the larger cities of the northern states the wearing of the fur of wild animals has almost ceased among people of moderate means, in favor of the so-called pony jackets. The secret of this is that the price of fur is becoming prohibitive.

There is no good reason why the fur trade in Canada should not be revived, and become immensely more productive than in former years. We have any amount of territory, especially in Ontario and Quebec, suitable for the breeding of fur-bearing animals, but through lack of protection they have been almost exterminated, and will be entirely so within the next ten years, unless definite action is taken. The result of the protection of beaver by the Ontario Government in Algonquin Park shows what can be done to revive the productiveness not only of these, but of all other fur-bearing animals. On the other hand, the great forest reserves in Northern Ontario are absolute solitudes. There is scarcely a fur-bearing animal to be found in the woods or in the lakes. If these immense tracts of forest were restocked and properly protected for a few years, they would become as replete with game and fur-bearing animals as Algonquin Park. In regard to the latter, it should not be supposed that, though the enforcement of the law is reasonably strict, there is no poaching within its limits. Trappers are constantly poaching, and within one year recently a single individual killed 85 deer before he was apprehended.

Mr Hoyle, M.L.A., has brought in an excellent bill providing that the close season for all fur-bearing animals be extended to December 1st, and that mink, which are almost exterminated, should be restored to the protected class. Also that certain closed areas should be established by order in council, where hunting and trapping will not be permitted. Such a law, backed up by proper enforcement, would have the effect, in the course of a few years, of restoring the productiveness of fur-bearing animals to such an extent that a good annual supply of fur would be ensured, without any danger of extinction. As in the case of the beavers in Algonquin Park, the government could conduct a fur trade, under proper supervision, that would result in considerable revenue to the province; or could arrange for a proper licensing system for trappers, at a fee sufficiently high to make it an object for these men to co-operate in the protection of game and the prevention of poaching.—Ottawa Citizen.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The purity of Toronto's water supply is threatened by a formation of a sandbar at the intake. Another bar to be abolished.

A British Government return shows that Canada takes second place among the leading countries of the world in its percentage of increase in trade during the last decade.

Liberal papers in Canada are ardent advocates of the reform of the House of Lords, but are silent as to our own Senate. Perhaps they are waiting for a British precedent, so as to save themselves and the Dominion Government the worry of thinking out a scheme for Senate reform.

Manitoba's provincial-owned telephone system is a financial success, last year's operations showing a surplus. The Dominion Government made considerable fuss and incurred not a little expense in enquiring into the telephone situation, and a telephone and telegraph system operated in connection with the Post Office Department was looked for. The only outcome, however, was some blue books.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 24.—The railways reported 110 carloads as the receipts of live stock at the City Market for Wednesday and Thursday, consisting of 1680 cattle, 1805 hogs, 375 sheep and lambs, 178 calves and 4 horses.

Exporters.

We did not hear of any cattle being bought for export, but there were some of export weights sold for butcher purposes at as high as $6.35 per cwt. Export bulls sold at $4.75 to $5.00, and one extra quality bull was sold by McDonald & Halligan at $5.00.

Butchers.

Geo. Rowntree bought 600 cattle for the Harris Abattoir Co.: Butchers steers and heifers at $5.10 to $5.75, and a few prime cattle, 1200 to 1400 lbs. each, at $5.75 to $6.25; cows, $3.50 to $4.85; bulls, $4.25 to $5.10 per cwt.

Stockers and Feeders.

Harry Murby reports very little doing in these classes. Mr. Murby bought about 30 cattle, mixed butchers and stockers, at prices ranging from $3.90 to $4.75 for cattle weighing 700 to 900 lbs. each.

Milkers and Springers.

Deliveries of milkers and springers were large, the demand good and prices firm, at $35 to $80, a few good cows sold for a little more, and two extra Holstein springers brought $90 each. See the many sales quoted below.

Veal Calves.

Upwards of 200 calves sold at $4 to $4.75 per cwt., with a very few choice quality new milk fed veals at $5 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

The demand for sheep and lambs is becoming more or less limited on account of the high prices, people refusing to buy. Good quality lambs sold from $7.25 to $8 per cwt., common lambs, at $6 to $7 per cwt. Sheep, ewes, sold at $4.75 to $5.50; rams and culls at $3.50 to $4.25 per cwt.

Hogs.

The feature of the live stock market is the continued upward tendency of prices for hogs. Since our last report of the hog prices, in Wednesday's issue, prices have again advanced another 15c per cwt. Selects fed and watered at the market sold readily at $6.90, and $6.65 f.o.b. cars at country points. Altho there were 1800 hogs reported there were not enough to supply the demand. It looks like $7 hogs next week if receipts do not increase.

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

"That explains her overwhelming love for Selim," said the princess quietly. Chase looked into her eyes for a moment and smiled inwardly.

"We finally got to the edge of the cliff and unearthed the rope, which we already had fastened to the trunk of a tree. I was obliged to carry Neenah for the last quarter of a mile, poor little girl. She was tied to my back, leaving my throat and chest free, and down we came. Simplest thing in the world. Presto! Here am I with my happy family at my beels."

"Well, we can't sit here and dawdle all day!" exclaimed Deppingham. "We must be moving about—arrange our batteries and all that, don't you know. We've got to stave these devils off for two or three weeks at least, and we'll have to look sharp. Browne, that's the third cup of coffee you've had. Come along! This isn't Boston."

As they left the breakfast room Chase stepped to Genevra's side and walked with her. At the foot of the stairs, where they were to part, she extended her hand, a bright smile in her eyes.

"You were and are very brave and good," she said. He withheld his hand, and she dropped hers, hurt and strangely vexed. "Don't you care for my approval, or do you"—

"You forget, princess, that my hands are still suffering from the bravery you would laud," he said, holding them resolutely behind his back.

"Oh, I remember!" she cried in quick comprehension. "They were cut and bruised by the rope. How thoughtless of me! What are you doing for them? Come, Mr. Chase, may I not dress them for you? I am capable—I am not afraid of wounds. We have had many of them in our family, and fatal ones too." She was eager now and earnest.

He shook his head with a smile on his lips. "I thank you. They are better, much better, and they have been quite properly bandaged already."

"Neenah?"

"Yes," he replied gently. She seemed to search his mind with a quick, intense look into his eyes. Then she smiled and said, "I'll promise not to bruise the wounds if you'll only be so good as to shake hands with me."

He took her slender hand in his broad, white swathed palm and pressed it fervently regardless of the pain which would have caused him to cringe if engaged in any other pursuit.

There was no longer any doubt as to the intentions of the disappointed islanders. Von Blitz and Rasula had convinced them that their cause was seriously jeopardized. They were made to see the necessity for permanently removing the white pretenders from their path.

Deppingham, on account of his one time position in the British army, was chosen chief officer of the beleaguered "citadel." A strict espionage was set upon the native servants despite Bailo's assurances of loyalty. Lookouts were posted in the towers, and a ceaseless watch was to be kept day and night. Chase on his first visit to the west tower discovered a long unused searchlight of powerful dimensions. Fortunately for the besieged, the electric light plant was located in the chateau grounds and could not be tampered with from the outside.

Britt was put in charge of the night patrol, Saunders the day. Selim under orders had severed the long rope with a single rifle shot. No one could hope to reach the chateau by way of the cliff.

Extra precautions were taken to guard the women from attacks from the inside. The window bars were locked securely, and heavy bolts were placed on the doors leading to the lower regions. It was now only too apparent that Skaggs and Wyckholme had wrought well in anticipation of a rebellion by the native shareholders. Each window had its adjustable grates; every outer door was protected by heavy iron gates.

By nightfall Deppingham's forces were in full possession of every advantage that their position afforded.

Chase came from his room, still stiff and sore, but with fresh, white bandages on his blistered hands. He asked and received permission to light a cigarette and then dropped wearily into a seat near the princess, who sat upon the stone railing. Her trim, graceful figure was outlined against the darkness. A delicate, sensuous fragrance exhaled from her person, filling him with an indescribable delight and languor; the spell of her beauty was upon him, and he felt the leap of his blood.

"If I were you," he said at last, reluctant to despoil the picture, "I wouldn't sit up there. It would be a very simple matter for one of our friends to pick you off with a shot from below. Please let me pull up a chair for you."

She smiled languidly, without a trace of uneasiness in her manner.

"Dear officer of the day, do you think they are so foolish as to pick us off in particles? Not at all. They will dispose of us wholesale, not by the piece. By the way, has Neenah been made quite comfortable?"

"I believe so. She and Selim have the room beyond mine, thanks to Lady Deppingham."

"Agnes tells me that she is very interesting—quite like a princess out of a fairy book. You recall the princesses who were always being captured by ogres and evil princes and afterward satisfactorily rescued by those dear knights admirable? Did Selim steal her in the beginning?"

"You forget the pot of sapphires and the big ruby."

"They say that princesses can be bought very cheaply."

"Depends entirely upon the quality of princess you desire. It's very much like buying rare gems or old paintings, I'd say. Speaking of princesses and ogres, has it occurred to you that you would bring a fortune in the market?"

"Mr. Chase!"

"You know, it's barely possible that you may be put in a matrimonial shop window if Von Blitz and his friends should capture you alive. Ever think of that?"

"Good heavens! You—why, what a horrible thing to say!"

"You won't bring as much in the south sea market as you would in Rapp-Thorberg or Paris, but I dare say you could be sold for"—

"Please, Mr. Chase, don't suggest anything so atrocious," she cried, something like terror in her voice.

"Neenah's father sold her for a handful of gems," said he, with distinct meaning in his voice. She was silent, and he went on after a moment. "Is there so much difference, after all, where one is sold, just so long as the price is satisfactory to all concerned?"

"You are very unkind, Mr. Chase," she said with quiet dignity. "I do not deserve your sarcasm."

"I humbly plead for forgiveness," he said, suddenly contrite. "It was beastly."

"American wit, I imagine you call it," she said scornfully. "I don't care to talk with you any longer."

"Won't you forgive me? I'm a poor brute—don't lash me. In two or three weeks I'll step down and out of your life; that will be penalty enough, don't you think?"

"For whom?" she asked in a voice so low that he could scarcely hear the words. Then she laughed ironically. "I do forgive. It is all that a prince or a princess is ever asked to do, I'm beginning to believe. I also forgive you for coming into my life."

"If I had been a trifle more intelligent I should not have come into it at all," he said. She turned upon him quickly, stung by the remark.

"Is that the way you feel about it?" she asked sharply.

"You don't understand. A man of intelligence would never have kicked Prince Karl. As a matter of fact, in trying to kick Prince Karl out of your life I kicked myself into it. A very simple process, and yet scarcely intellectual. A jackass could have done as much."

"A jackass may kick at a king," she paraphrased casually. "A cat may only look at him. But let us go back to realities. Do you mean to tell me that they—these wretches—would dare to sell me—us, I mean—into the kind of slavery you mention?"

"Why not?" he asked soberly, arising and coming quite close to her side. "You are beautiful. If they should take you alive it would be a very simple matter for any one of these men to purchase you from the others. You might easily be kept on this island for the rest of your days and the world would be none the wiser, or you could be sold into Persia or Arabia or Turkey. I am not surprised that you shudder. Von Blitz and Rasula mean to destroy all of us. We are to disappear from the face of the earth. When our friends come to look for us we will have died from the plague and our bodies will have been burned, as they always are in Japat. There will be no one left to deny the story. After tomorrow no ship is due to put in here for three weeks. They will see to it that none of us get out to that ship, nor will the ship's officers know of our peril. The word will go forth that the plague has come to the island. That is the first step, your highness. But there is one obstacle they have overlooked," he concluded. She looked up inquiringly.

"My warships," he said, the whimsical smile broadening.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE PLAGUE IS ANNOUNCED.

THE next morning a steamship flying the English flag came to anchor off Aratat, delivered and received mail bags and after an hour's stay steamed away in the drift of the southeast trade winds—Bombay to Cape Colony. The men at the chateau gazed longingly, helplessly through their glasses at this black hulled visitor from the world they loved. They watched it until nothing was left to be seen except the faint cloud of smoke that went to a pin point in the horizon. There had been absolutely no opportunity to communicate with the officers of the ship. They sailed away hurriedly, as if in alarm. Their haste was significant.

"Perhaps Bowles succeeded in getting a word with the officer who came ashore," said Browne hopefully. "He knows the danger we are in."

"My dear Browne, Bowles hadn't the ghost of a chance to communicate with the ship," said Chase. "He can't bully 'em any longer with his Tommy Atkins coat. They've outgrown it, just as he has. It was splendid while it lasted, but they're no more afraid of it now than they are of my warships. I wish there was some way to get him and his English assistants into the chateau. It's awful to think of what is coming to them sooner or later."

"Is there no way to help them?" groaned Deppingham.

"I'll never forget poor Bowles the first time I saw him in his dinky red jacket and that hooligan cap of his," reflected Chase, as if he had not heard Deppingham's remark. "He put them on and tried to overawe the crowd that night when I was threatened in the market place. He did his best, poor chap, and I"—

"Look!" exclaimed Britt suddenly, pointing toward one of the big gates in the upper end of the park. "I believe they're making an attack!"

"They will dispose of us wholesale, not by the piece."

THE MODERN FARM HOME.

How Work Can Be Lightened For Women in the Country.

It has been said that the home of the farmers would be made more attractive and the burden of the farmers' wives lightened if the farmers had more money. The complaint is made that the land yields him and his but a scanty living and that his labor is long and hard and his rewards are few. This is only partly true. Much of the drudgery on the farm, both for the farmer's wife and for himself, is due not so much to a lack of money as to a lack of thought.

Many of the conveniences of the city homes now regarded as necessities could be put into country houses at slight cost. Women of the farms have gone along for generations enduring hardships and bearing the real burdens of country life without complaint. They have done their part nobly. They have cooked and washed and ironed, have done their housework, borne their children and reared them in the fear of God; have made the clothes for the growing family and for themselves and attended to the thousand duties of the household, day after day and year after year, with little opportunity for relaxation or rest. And in all this they have been patient, bearing their hardships, putting up with inconveniences, because they love their homes and their families. The most divinely patient creature on earth is the farmer's wife.

For years improvement has been going on in machinery and appliances that have lessened the farmer's labor and increased his productive capacity. These things have been mostly for the fields. But of recent years inventors have turned their attention to the things for the homes, and with them the burdens of the farmer's wife are being lightened.

It is not becoming in the farmer to cut his grass with a mower instead of a scythe and let his wife pump water when a windmill or gasoline engine would do it for her. There is no reason why any farmer who can afford a manure spreader should not have running water, hot and cold, in his house. Acetylene gas or electricity would be cheaper in the long run than kerosene oil and do away with the trouble of lamps. A washing machine costs only as much as any ordinary spike tooth harrow, and so on along the line.

The rural free delivery of mail, the extending telephone lines and trolley lines that are spreading over the land are all doing their part for the improvement of the farm home and the bettering of the condition of the farmer's wife. And the time will soon be here when drudgery will be at a minimum in the country, and the home of the farmer will be as comfortable as any in the land.

The Shop on the Farm.

The farm workshop should be detached from other outhouses. It should contain a forge, a chimney, a stove and a solid workbench, with a good steel vise heavy enough to hold firmly a two inch shaft.

One of the most important tools is the vise. A good heavy steel vise costs from $5 to $8, and it is worth every cent of what it costs. If you get a good one you can never break it or wear it out, but if you get a cheap one it is an aggravation from the very first time you use it. The same may be said of other tools. Whatever you get, get good. If you can only afford a half dozen bits, get twist drills, because they will bore either wood or iron, and they are accurate as to size. Get other tools as you can, but get them good every time, then use them carefully.

Remember that a buzzsaw is not intended to cut iron. A good Jennings bit will bore a clean hole until you run it against a nail, but it will never bore decently afterward. If you must work old stuff with nails in it use twist drills.

A SUBSTANTIAL FARM WORKSHOP.

A shop should have a loft, not necessarily floored over, but there should be stringers across to support strips of wood, lengths of gas pipe, bars of iron, etc. It is handier not to have it floored, because these things can be reached by standing on a box. They are in plain open sight and not liable to be lost or covered up.

Have hooks and brackets on one side of the shop to hold whiffletrees, broken parts of machinery and anything else that you are liable to want to lay your hands on at short notice.

Weeds in Feeds.

In a recent bulletin of the Connecticut state experiment station is emphasized the danger of the introduction of weeds by the use of feeds made up in part or in whole of grain screenings and similar materials, which, as a rule, contain a great amount of weed seed. These screenings vary a good deal in quality. Thus an analysis recently made of wheat screenings showed about 30 per cent of flax and shrunken cereal, 15 per cent of fortafia, 8 per cent of bindweeds and pigweeds, 15 per cent of weed seeds of other species and 31 per cent of dust, broken seed and sand.

MAN KILLS RATS WITH HIS HANDS

A Greenwich, Conn., despatch says: As a destroyer of rats Arthur Crawford, foreman at Converse Manor, the estate of 1,500 acres of E. C. Converse, the steel magnate, has the Pied Piper of Hamelin beaten "seventeen up and one to play," as Converse himself, who is president of the Fairfield County Golf Club, would term it. Like Hamelin town itself, Converse Manner has been suffering from a plague of rats. Converse, who is admitted to be the most successful gentleman farmer east of the Mississippi, has been at his wits' end because of their depredations in his hennaries, which are about the finest in New England. Converse, like Hamelin's mayor, issued a call for some one to rid him of the pests. Up stepped Foreman Crawford, saying he could do the job. He began operand did pretty well, for he killed 216 rats in half an hour. His methods are not quite as picturesque as those of the Pied Piper, but they are pretty nearly as effective. He covered his hands with "bite proof" gloves, had the floor of the hanneries taken up, and calmly delved down into the rats' nests and pulled up the frightened rodents one at a time, breaking their necks and flinging them aside and then reaching down for more. These that escaped from the nests he killed with a club. He vows to exterminate every rat on the place in a week.

GIRL CAME FROM MANVERS

Lottie McCullough Who Attempted Murder at Souris, Formerly Resided at Manvers

Lottie McCullough, who attempted to murder Fred Carroll by shooting in Souris, Man., is a former resident of Lotus, Manvers township.

The girl declared in a letter which was found at the house where she had been staying that she intended to kill Carroll and then herself. She said he had seduced her under promise of marriage, and that she had been sent by him to a private hospital maintained by the Roman Catholic Church in Winnipeg, where her baby had been born, and that afterwards he had refused to marry her. The baby had died shortly after, and her love had turned to hatred, which increased with his decline to carry out his vows. Thereupon she decided to kill him.

The late Mrs. Maxwell was a Presbyterian in religion and a member of St. Andrew's church. She will be remembered as making the magnificent gift of $5,000 a short time ago, which enabled the Presbyterian church to erect a mission in Honan, China, to be known as "The Mary Maxwell Home."

The deceased had no children and her nearest relatives are her first cousins, Mr. W. J. Meharry, of Victoria avenue, and Misses Mary and Eliza Meharry, of Cavan.

The funeral will take place Monday afternoon at two o'clock from the late residence to the Little Lake cemetery. Rev. J. G. Potter, pastor of St. Andrew's, will be the officiating clergyman.

WILLIAM WALSH.

Word has been received in the city of the death in Douro of Mr. William Walsh, a well known resident of that township, and son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Walsh. His death was caused by diabetes.

The deceased was unmarried. His death is mourned by his father and mother and by five brothers, and four sisters. They are: Thomas and Richard in New Ontario, James, Michael and Fred in Douro; Mrs. Greer, of Toronto, Sister M. Beata, St. Paul, Minn.; Lena, of Toronto, and Lottie at home.

Laurence Irving and Mabel Hackney in "The Affinity"

Laurence Irving, son of the late Sir Henry Irving, and his wife, Mabel Hackney, in the French comedy, "The Affinity," come to the Grand theatre next Tuesday, March 1st, direct from the Comedy Theatre, New York. Mr. Irving and Miss Hackney will be supported by the same company which was seen in Manhattan. The tour is under the direction of Messrs. Shubert.

"The Affinity" is a story of Pierre, a professor of natural history, who lives with a little working girl named Charlotte. They have been together for five years, but the past two or three years of their communion have been spent in shockingly bad taste, for, if the truth be known, they no longer love one another. Pierre lacks the moral courage to get rid of the girl and so, day after day, they quarrel and make up, only to bicker again. The girl finally leaves, although 24 hours afterwards she is so distracted because of the fact that Pierre has not sent for her to return, that she throws herself into the river, arranging beforehand, however, that she shall be rescued. In the meantime Pierre has planned an outing in Brittany, intending to celebrate for the first time in five years a trip into the woods without Charlotte. She is brought to his apartment, very submissive and eager to make up, but Pierre remains calm, irresponsive, if not cold. The neighbors, however, finally prevail upon him to take the girl to his bosom, and he gives up his vacation money to the fisherman who has dragged her from the water. The comedy lacks any commonplace or tawdry suggestion or situations, and is free from lines which might give offense. If such a thing is possible, it might aptly be called a "preachment done in comedy."

TEA IS LIKELY TO ADVANCE IN PRICE

An increase of 5c. per lb. in the retail price of standard brands of teas in packets will soon be announced, it is stated. The cause is the increased wholesale price. At present the retail handlers are paying two to three cents per pound more for certain brands of teas selling at retail at from 30 to 60c. per lb. It is expected that a general increase in price to consumers of 5 cents will soon be made and the prices will be so changed on the packages. Tea market prices are now very high.

"There will be no increase in the price of bulk teas," said a local dealer to the Review in discussing the matter. "But the packet men can't sell so low as the bulk men. They were once able to sell for 25c. and get a margin, but it now costs about as much to put up a 25c. package as it does a 50c. package and the margin has been wiped out. Thus you will soon have to pay 30c. for a 25c. tea."

WILL OF PEOPLE IS FOUNDATION OF BRITISH LAW

Origin and Development of Legal System of England Outlined by Judge Huycke in Address Before Canadian Club—High Ideals That Should Find Place in Canada—Meeting Largely Attended.

His Honor Judge Huycke made a decidedly favorable impression in his address before the Peterborough Canadian Club last evening on "Some Ideas and Ideals in Our Jurisprudence." He took the place of Mr. George Tate Blackstock, K.C., of Toronto, who was unable to be present owing to the death of his mother, and although he had only two days in which to prepare his address it was a splendid effort and delighted the large number of the members who were present. The meeting was held at the Hotel National and about 80 were in attendance. The dinner was of the usual excellence and it was one of the most successful gatherings the club has yet had. Judge Huycke as a pleasing speaker, and in his address he showed an exhaustive knowledge of the origin, development, history and ideals of the British legal system. The address was so interesting that the speaker had the closest attention of his auditors throughout.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, president of the club, was chairman, and in opening the meeting referred to Mr. Blackstock's inability to be present and to the kindness of Judge Huycke in consenting to be the speaker of the evening on such short notice. In having a local gentleman for a speaker the club was breaking the letter, but not the spirit of the constitution. The executive were delighted with the large attendance.

After announcing his subject, Judge Huycke alluded to the clause in the constitution of the Canadian Club which states that the speakers shall be distinguished strangers. He could lay no claim to being distinguished, and did not wish to be considered a stranger in Peterborough any longer than was necessary. He was doing his best to get away from being a stranger and hoped to succeed before much time had passed. His Honor expressed sympathy for Mr. Blackstock in his bereavement. He complimented the secretary, Mr. Hughes Charles, on his efficiency.

In his preliminary remarks, Judge Huycke touched on the object of Canadian Clubs, which was to develop Canadian thought, Canadian sentiment, Canadian nationality. They made for a higher sense of patriotism. Too often we found the term patriotism connected with militarism in Canada. And perhaps this was not to be wondered at. The races from which we sprung had a glorious military history. The pages of their history were filled with the records of deeds of daring. Military life was a part of patriotism, but it was not the highest part. However, there were worse calamities could befall a nation than war. Loss of self respect, loss of national honor would work greater harm to a nation than being engaged in fighting. The speaker grew eloquent as he spoke of the splendid traditions of the races from which we had sprung. He referred to Canada's duty to the Motherland. Whatever the time, whatever the call, Canada should be ready to do her share for the defence of the Empire. Canadians should see that England remained the dominator and herald of peace in Europe and throughout the whole civilized world. She held this position at the present time, and she should continue to hold it. Not excepting the Church, England was doing more for the progress of the world than any other agency.

Militarism was not the greatest thing, Judge Huycke said. In this connection the speaker contrasted two of the great nations of the past, Greece and Sparta. Sparta paid attention to the things of war alone. The farewell words of the Spartan mother to her son going forth to war were, "Come back with your shield or on it." She wanted to see her son come back alive, but she would prefer seeing him brought back with his shield as a bier than to have had him throw it away to flee from the enemy. Sparta paid attention to the things of war alone, and to-day nothing was left of the nation but the memory. It had left no impress upon the history of the world. While Sparta was engaged in war alone, Greece, while having its military life, had not neglected art, literature, education. The result was that the world's greatest artists, poets, orators and historians were produced in that small country in a few hundred years, and their impress was fresh to-day upon the world's history. To be patriotic there must be a military life, but it was not the greatest thing. There were greater things than the making of soldiers. One of the patriotic utterances of Shakespeare was quoted by the speaker, who emphasized the importance of the Christian service and true chivalry.

In connection with the words, ideas and ideals which occurred in the subject of the address, Judge Huycke said they were much alike. There was a difference however. Idea meant conception, thought; the ideal was the putting of the idea into practice. Some of the great ideals of the British nation were: fair play to friend and foe, honor and honesty, justice, and liberty, the keynote of it all. These ideals were promoted, encouraged, nurtured by British law, thereby introducing the subject of the evening, "Some Ideas and Ideals in Our Jurisprudence." When Ontario and other provinces of Canada came under the British Crown they were given the laws that prevailed in England at that time. They were given the power to add to them and make such changes as were found expedient, but they had the British law of that time as the foundation upon which to build. Quebec province had been treated in a somewhat different manner. There the population was composed almost entirely of French, and the British Government in its wisdom allowed them to retain their own civil law, giving them the British criminal law. This had worked out very satisfactorily, and was an example of the wisdom of British statesmanship in dealing with a new colony.

Judge Huycke's story of the origin and development of British laws was exceedingly interesting. There was the English common law, or unwritten laws, and the statute or written law. The English unwritten law should not be confused with the unwritten law of the United States, of which a good deal had been heard. It was an entirely different matter. If that been said that the English constitution had never been written out and it was a good thing. Like English law it was flexible and could be adapted to suit varying conditions. In the early days of England there was no written, hard and fast laws; there were no courts as the word is now understood. There were certain customs of the people and these were followed in the settlement of the disputes that arose. The common or unwritten law grew out of these customs. As one writer had put it, the common law came from popular customs crystallized into judicial decisions. It would, therefore, be seen that the laws came from the will of the people—they were the expression of the will of the people and not the rules of some despot. King Alfred and Edward the Confessor had made wise laws that pleased the people. All could come to the king and demand justice. The people brought their grievances and disputes to the king to have them settled. The king sat on his bench in his courtyard and dispensed justice. From this practice we get the expressions, King's Bench and the King's Court. Later the Court of the Common Bench came into existence. Before it were heard the disputes that occurred between the common people. It was also called the Court of Common Pleas and we have the name to this day. Another court, the Court of the Exchequer, was forced to deal with questions referring to the money matters of the kingdom. Then the Keeper of the King's Conscience was appointed to deal with cases where the application of the common law would work an injustice. The Court of Chancellor resulted from the appointment of this official, and it remains to this day. As the years passed on legislation was passed relating to certain phases of the courts of the land. This legislation was written out and as a result we have the statute, or written law.

In the reign of King John the people became indignant at the way the king was conducting the courts. Trials were not granted when they were asked for and the revolt of the people led to the king being forced to sign the Magna Charta, which provided that any man could demand trial without delay by a jury of his peers. This was the inalienable right of every British subject. History had shown that the English common law was superior to the Roman civil law, which was in force in nearly all the countries of continental Europe. The speaker traced the growth of the jury system, which was of Saxon origin. The jury system had sometimes been condemned, but the best wisdom of our own land and the homeland had shown that it was an institution of much value.

The procedure of the courts of Ontario was referred to by Judge Huycke and its numerous merits pointed out. Everything was done in the open. The oral argument before the court, the oral examination of witnesses, the right of a person to conduct his own case, the open verdict of the court delivered in open court before all parties, were some of the good points touched upon. Everyone had a fair show, and it was to the credit of the Canadian and British judiciary that there had never been a suspicion of influences having been brought to bear on the judges to affect their verdicts.

From tracing the development of British law it would be seen that it came from the will of the people, and it was characterized by the high ideals that were a part of the national life. Honor and honesty, justice between man and man, true chivalry, the rigid protection of property, and the last and greatest, the liberty of the subject, were outstanding features that we in Canada should see that we possess and uphold. The liberty of the subject was the object of all British jurisprudence. We should seek to develop in Canada the ideal of honor and honesty to inculcate a spirit of forbearance and tolerance, that all might live together in peace. On account of the protection of property given by British laws England had become the treasure-house of the world because property was safe there when it was not in other countries.

In closing Judge Huycke spoke of the great future of Canada and of our great heritage. Canada had room for a hundred million people. We should be loyal to the Motherland. For many and many a day the speaker hoped the maple leaf and beaver would be blazoned on the flag of St George, St. Andrew and St. Patrick. We should have high ideals. The idealists were worth more to the nation than those great in commerce. They were needed in the building of the nation.

Judge Huycke closed with an eloquent peroration that brought out enthusiastic applause.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speaker, moved by Dr. Cameron, vice-president of the club, and seconded by Mr. D. Walker, principal of the Normal School. His Honor made a graceful reply, and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

GEORGE ST. MADE STRONG FINISH AND WON OUT BY 6-5

Church League Champions Met Their First Defeat of the Season, After Leading in Second Half by 5-3.

The George Street seven made a great finish in their game with St. Andrew's last night, and won out with two minutes to play by a 6—5 score. And should the Methodists win out again in the next game, both teams will be tied for the championship of the Church Hockey League. There was a large number of rooters for each team present, and it was easily the most interesting and exciting contest of the league schedule. George Street took the first score on a nice long shot by Wettlaufer, two minutes after the start, but in another two minutes the Presbyterians put themselves on even terms by beating Wilson, and also took the next three. Four minutes before time was called Parnell placed one behind Patterson, and the half ended with the champions ahead by 4—2. Three minutes after play being resumed George Street made the figures stand 4—3, and their opponents poked in another in five minutes. George Street took the next, and again, after Shaw had shot, stood on the nets the puck was batted in before Patterson had time to clear. Both teams were playing six men, Wettlaufer and Rae having retired on account of an injury to the former. With the score a tie, the excitement was high, and chances to tally were missed by the players of both sevens. Finally, with two minutes to play, Parnell shook the back of the nets on a rebound from off Patterson, and the Methodists succeeded in holding the lead for the remainder of the game. For the winners, Pratt, Wettlaufer and Shaw played sharp games in the line. Parnell had a hard man to handle in Sills, but he gave a good account of himself, and contributed two of the six goals.

For the losers Patterson in goal stopped numerous shot once labelled counters. Staunton played an effective game at point, and every man on the forward line was conspicuous. The combination work of the team was much superior to that of their opponents in the first half, but the Methodists improved in this department after the breathing spell. George Street suffered considerably from penalties, but the play was not rough.

The teams were—

George St.		St. Andrew's
	Goal
Wilson		Patterson
	Point
Curtis		Staunton
	Cover
Wade		Clarke
	Rover
Wettlaufer		Currie
	Centre
Pratt		Rae
	Right wing
Shaw		Sills
	Left wing
Parnell		Leitch

In the second game between Knox and All Saints' the latter won by 4—0. The losers had only three of their regular players and had to call upon "Toe hold" Hurtubise and a number of his rink rats and while the win went to the Anglicans, the team had satisfaction in the fact that young Hurtubise made good and promises to make a name for himself in the future. His spectacular rushes were always in the limelight and the only reason of his not scoring was because the nets did not extend the width of the rink and he was also handicapped by the smallness of the puck.

In the first game Referee Quigley had a hard job, but handled the players and the games with good satisfaction.

MILLBROOK WON FROM P.A.C. SEVEN

Only One Counter Was Secured, the Visitors Finding the P.A.C. Nets in the First Half

A team from Millbrook handed out a 1—0 defeat to the Park Street Athletic Club seven last night at Brock street rink, the visitors scoring in the first half. The game was clean and was well contested throughout. Loomis, for the losers, was the prominent man on the ice. E. Hillier handled the bell and the teams were:—

Millbrook.		P. A. C.
Mitchell	Goal	Killenbeck
Holliday	Point	Barrie
Handly	Cover	Williams
Burnham	Rover	Loomis

LINDSAY WON BACK THE CUP

Finished 34 Up, in Games Last Night with Peterboro Curlers

The Lindsay-Peterborough cup goes back to Lindsay this year as a result of the games in that place last night, between Peterborough and Lindsay. Four rinks of local curlers went up yesterday with five shots of a lead secured in the games played here, but Lindsay finished 34 up, winning the cup by 29. The winners played a great game, and defeated each of the visiting rinks.

CURLING

THE FINAL GAME.

The final game in the primary of the local bonspiel is being played this afternoon between Skips Morrow and Fitzgerald.

Curling

Our curlers are nothing if not courageous. In spite of a shome rink for practice they enjoy a contest with the neighboring towns. On Monday three rinks went to Peterborough and, of course, were beaten, but nevertheless, they had a good game, and as always were used white by the hospitable curlers there.—Millbrook Reporter.

Port Hope Guide.—There is no truth in the report that the Port Hope rinks which played in Cobourg last night, will be sent to Peterborough to take part in the bonspiel.

Two rinks of curlers went to Cobourg last evening and two Cobourg rinks played here. The Cobourgites made the locals look like second raters. The two rinks which went to Cobourg managed to squeeze out four points while Cobourg notched up 50. At home the locals won out by 13 points. The scores were:—Skip E. E. Snider, 25 down; skip J. F. Johnstone, 21 down; skip H. B. Rosevear, 2 down; skip J. H. Peacock, 15 up. Cobourg won the round by 23 points. There should be a law for this.

HOW BROWNE GOT HIS START

Mordecai Brown, the premier pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, recently visited Rosedale, Ind., the little town where he used to dig coal.

"I got my start as a baseball pitcher here in Rosedale," remarked the great twirler, while talking to some old baseball friends. "I was playing with the Coxville team, the best aggregation of amateur ball players ever got together. We came down here to play Brasil, which was a salaried team and some ball players, too.

"It was our hardest game and the boys of home sent all the money they could get together to back the team. Our lads were all coal miners, and didn't have much coin of the realm, but they cheerfully placed it all on us.

"Well, just before the game, Clayton, our pitcher, became intoxicated. He was the only twirler we had. I was playing third base and had never pitched a game in my life. John Buckley, manager of our team, said to me, 'Brownie, we are up against it; you'll have to pitch the game.' I told him I couldn't, but he said I had the best arm and would have to do it. Well, I went in and beat Brasil's salaried team, 9 to 3.

"I'll never forget that game as long as I live. From that time on I was a pitcher.

DISTEMPER NOT RABIES

Is What is Affecting the Dogs Say Experts

Special to the Review.

Toronto, Feb. 25.—According to Dr. W. Morphym of the Toronto Dog and other gentlemen of this city, who may be said to have made a life study of dogs and their diseases, the trouble at present affecting dogs in this province is not rabies, but a distemper, resembling grip in humans. In which it is no danger whatever for persons bitten by the supposedly mad canine. Dr. Morphy says pathological examinations made of the brains of dogs chloroformed at his institution suffering from this distemper showed no trace whatever of rabies.

HAVE EVERY THIRD SUNDAY

When Mayor Morrow examined the schedule at the fire hall a short time ago, he remarked that the men didn't have enough freedom on Sundays in order that they might attend church. The chief explained that with the limited number of men on duty it was impossible to have conditions other than they were and the matter of getting additional men was taken up and granted at a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Two more men have been added as a result of the committee's decision, and now every member of the brigade is able to have every third Sunday off besides the Sunday that happens to be their regular day of leave.

A SUPERIOR PROGRAMME

Miss Jessie Alexander and Gifted Assisting Artistes

The concert under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Mission Circle of Charlotte street Methodist church in the Sunday school room last night was a most gratifying success from the standpoint of a large attendance and a most artistic programme. Every number was heartily received, with the result that the programme was practically doubled in response to the applause.

Miss Jessie Alexander, the popular elocutionist, is ever a favorite with Peterborough audiences, and her numbers last night were received with every mark of approval.

Miss Kathleen Wallis was heard to great advantage in her violin solos, while the vocal numbers of Miss Pringle and Mr. Lee were delightful additions to the programme which was opened by a skilful duet by Misses Clarry and Campbell.

The Young ladies of the Mission Circle are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts.

The complete programme was as follows:

GRASS LAND "MINING."

Hay Farming Gradually Extracts Fertility From the Soil.

Hay farming is sometimes called mining the land because it is supposed to gradually remove and exhaust the fertility of the farm in the same way that mining removes the ore supplies. Yet production of hay for market purposes seems to be more and more popular of late years, owing partly to the high prices of hay and to the better understanding of the use of agricultural chemicals for hay production. Hay farming with chemicals as commonly practiced no doubt removes more fertility than it restores, but the process is very slow and no doubt highly profitable under right conditions.

The owner of fertile, moist grass land might well say with the mine owner that he cannot afford to leave too much ore in the ground or too much fertility in the soil, but prefers to sell it and have the value at interest. Fertile, moist land will often continue producing good, profitable crops of market hay for an ordinary working lifetime. In England, where the climate is very favorable to grass, a sod is often kept fifty years without breaking. Not much land in this country will stand cropping so long to one specialty, but natural grass land will stand the process a very long time.

To exhaust the land as little as possible it is necessary not to scrimp in top dressing, but to put back the greater part of the fertility that is taken out by the crop, returning it in the form of manure or chemicals, or both combined. If the land is top dressed enough to keep the crop large, but not extra large, say about two tons per acre the first cutting, while the second cutting is not mowed nor fed off, but allowed to stay and decay on the land, a good deal of fertility and vegetable matter will be returned to the soil, and this course may be kept up a long time, especially on soil which is deep and fertile—as for instance, a piece of swale which has been drained three and one-half to four feet below the surface. Such soil is often almost perfect for grass—a genuine hay mine, so to speak—and with right treatment will continue to return a big income for twenty years or more.

The plan of hay farming with chemicals has its attractions, especially for the oldish man who desires to get rid of the care of live stock and to cut down his labor outgo to the lowest possible amount. With good grass land it is considered that the plan of moderate top dressing with chemicals brings a larger income for the labor employed than any other system of management. Frequent plowing will give a larger average crop with an equal amount of fertilizer, but it costs more to produce and is more work to harvest.

Origin of Flower Names.

It is interesting to know how certain flowers got their names. Many were named after individuals. For instance, fuchsias were so called because they were discovered by Leonard Fuchs. Dahlias were named for Andre Dahl, who brought them from Peru. The camellia was so called for a missionary named Kamel, who brought some magnificent specimens of the flower to France from Japan. He called it the Rose of Japan, but his friends changed it to camellia. Magnolias were named in honor of Professor Magnol de Montpelier, who first brought the beautiful tree to France from America and Asia. Because they trembled with the wind is the meaning of anemones. The Latin word to wash is lavare, and lavender received its name because the Romans put the flowers into the water when they washed to perfume their hands.

A Palace of Pumpkins.

The illustration shows an exhibit of pumpkins as it was seen at an Ohio agricultural fair last fall in Hillsboro. The "palace" was so large that refreshments were served inside of it. The pumpkins were arranged in colors and shapes so as to make a very attractive display. At Independence, Mo., a similar "palace" was erected, and on the last day a band of famous colored cooks took possession and turned pumpkins into pies, thousands of which were given away. Doubtless these cooks impressed the value of the pumpkin crop upon the people deeper than any scientific agriculturist could have done.

THE HOUSE OF PUMPKINS.

Make Home Happy.

Make the home life as happy as you can for the children. Many a boy goes astray not through lack of care and training, but because home life is not made as happy as it might be. Children, while they are young and impressionable, should be surrounded with happiness. It is as essential to their well being as sunshine is to flowers. If, as they grow up, they find that happiness is not to be had at home they soon learn to look for it elsewhere.

Klaw & Erlanger attractions will be given in the renovated Winning theatre.

Peculiar Accident

Lakefield, Feb. 24.—On Sunday afternoon last Mrs. Wm. Finlay, mother of Mrs. A. Northey, met with a very severe accident. Mrs. Finlay, who resides with her daughter, was sitting on a chair and suddenly felt a sensation of dizziness coming on. She arose and attempted to walk to a sofa to lie down, when she fell to the floor unconscious. Medical aid was summoned and on examination it was found that she was paralyzed on the left side of the body and right side of the face, and her left arm was broken at the wrist. Mrs. Finlay regained complete control of her faculties a few hours after, and it is to be hoped that she will regain her usual state of health in a few weeks.

Praises French Mothers.

The Duchess de Chaulnes, who is visiting in this country with her mother, says that one thing she has learned during her residence in France is that young society women in that country take better care of the children than American mothers do. She says that when the child is as young as three years old it is allowed to sit at the luncheon table with its mother and members of the family and there learns table manners and the art of table talk in such a way that it is never awkward or at a loss in after years. She intends, she says, to bring up her boy in that way and scores those mothers who go out with their pug dogs while time serving persons are taking care of their children.

Insurance Companies Lose About $125,000.00 by the Wreck at Spanish River

Double Liability for About Twenty-five Persons

A loss of somewhere in the neighbourhood of $125,000 is what the Accident Insurance Companies estimate the wreck at Spanish River bridge means to them.

They figure that about 25 of those who met death carried Accident Insurance, and the average insurance, according to the tables, is $5,000. In case of death in a railway disaster there is a double liability, making the figure $6,000, or $5,000 to be more conservative.

Their loss may total more than that, for the commercial travellers, a number of whom were killed, usually carry very heavy insurance. In addition, some of the companies make the policies payable on the death of the wife while travelling, though the policy is taken out in the husband's name. In such cases they pay the husband the same amount as they would have paid the wife were the husband killed.

We issue the BEST Accident and Sickness policy offered to the public.

KISSES AS BRIBES TO CAPTURE VOTES, SUFFRAGETTE IDEA

Mrs. Powell Thinks Osculatory Suasion Better Than Militant Methods—Needs Pretty Girls

(New York, Feb. 23.—"A kiss for a convert!" will be the next woman suffrage slogan if Mrs. Alma Webster Powell has her way. With arguments and logic and even sticks and stones, she says, women are unable to break down the doors of the Capitol, whereas the gentle suasion of a few tender caresses would cause those doors to open. Osculatory operations would far surpass militant methods in the war of the women, she maintains.

"There isn't a man in America whose vote cannot be bought for a kiss!" she cried at a Brooklyn Club meeting the other day. Last night at the suffrage ball she went further. "If the suffrage party would only delegate some pretty girl to attempt the personal conversion of each Senator and Assemblyman at Albany,' she said, "the women of New York would get the ballot without another effort.

"I don't mean anything awful," she continued; "at the worst, merely a slight sacrifice of personal dignity. A kiss isn't a crime—merely a blunder now and then. If there were girls in the suffrage party brave enough to do it they could twist those old legislators round their little fingers. I tell you, there isn't one in the bunch that wouldn't vote for votes for women if a pretty little suffragist put up her lips and said 'please!'

"When the question came to the people the same scheme could be tried. The most attractive members of the suffrage party could be stationed at the various polling booths and—er—influence the doubtful voters. It wouldn't be illegal. Kisses aren't cash, and neither giver nor receiver could be brought into court on the charge of bribery. It would just come under the head of campaign arguments—the sort that men would best understand, for men are a great deal more emotional than women.

"Even if the suffragists didn't feel like starting a general campaign of kissing, if every wife and sweetheart in the movement would say to her particular man: 'I won't kiss you till you get me the vote, and then I will kiss you very much,' she'd receive it before she could turn around. Men are really the softest things on earth."

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Peterboro People to Neglect

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which have cured people right here in Peterborough.

Mrs. M. J. Cook, of 494 Aylmer St., Peterborough, Ont., says:—"I always find quick relief in Doan's Kidney Pills. They strengthen and relieve my back of a dull heavy pain that settles in the small of it and extends into my shoulders. For years I had suffered with these symptoms of kidney trouble and could find no relief. I had frequent spells of dizziness and headaches. I was restless and weak and would often awake more tired than on going to bed. I never found relief for these painful and weakening symptoms of kidney trouble until I used Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally and they keep me in the best of health." Sold by dealers. Price 50 cents. Eulogy for Grand Trunk

In the London "Times" of February 8th, an article appears from one of their travelling correspondents descriptive of a tour through America, in which the following appears:—

"By far the finest travelling I have done so far in America was over the Grand Trunk line from Montreal to Toronto. The Grand Trunk have admittedly a perfect roadbed. We ran at about fifty miles per hour on the International Limited, and none of the English railways could beat it for steadiness."

This eulogy from one who is world-wide traveler, is very gratifying to Canadian railways.

Joseph RGyanni, a young Italian of Montreal, was shot five times by compatriots who entered his room.

THREW WATER ON DUCKS' BACKS

Metaphorically Speaking, as a Start in Show Business—Has Secret of Youth

"Yours merrily," John R. Rogers, the forerunner of Eddie Foy, at three score and ten is as spry as a juvenile and could easily pass for forty, as he trips along the main parade with the hat his dear old father wore and jauntily swings a sawed off walking stick. He attributes his splendid physical condition to the fact that he never drinks water or eats white bread.

It is more or less an accident about Rogers being in the show business. When he was a small boy in Cincinnati, the old John Robinson circus started out. Young Rogers, a mere ad, applied for a job. He got one. It was to carry water to the elephants for which he was to receive an admission to the show. By the time the elephants had enough water the show was over. But Rogers stuck, and made the entire season with the circus, riding in the street parade and grand entry, later selling tickets.

FROM SCHOOL TO STAGE.

Then he started in at school. It was a commercial school, and they had mock trials. Rogers was one night defending a victim, when a friend who heard his plea to the mock jury detected dramatic ability. Rogers was easily persuaded to give up the chance for a legal career, and next day was introduced to Barney Macauley, who ran a stock theater in Porkopolis.

At that time there was a famous comedian named Rogers and Macauley thought Rogers was that comedian. The first thing he did was to offer him $10 a week. Rogers gasped an acceptance. The first star was John E. Owens and the play was "Solon Shingle." Rogers was cast for the part of a lawyer, and he made good from the first moment.

But his success was short lived. Next week John S. Clarke came with "Dr. Pangloss." Rogers was cast for a character part, and he knew nothing of make-up and he was a frost. Macauley told him that he was a rotten actor, but had demonstrated his business ability by putting one over on him, and Rogers was transferred to the box office as assistant treasurer.

VOLUNTEERS TO SAVE PLAY.

In a few weeks John Allen came with "Undine." The leading comedian was drunk when it came time to open the show and the house was packed. Macauley was heart-broken about turning all the money away, and Rogers came to the front again. He asked to be permitted to play the part, and with trepidation it was entrusted to him.

The comedian's clothes were many sizes too large for him, and reefs were taken in them with pins. Rogers made his first appearance through a trap door. In coming up his clothes were caught and they hung on him like the clothing of a scarecrow. His was, "the waters fast are rising," and a voice from the gallery yelled, "jump into the water and shrink those clothes." Cat calls and yells filled the theatre. Macauley called Rogers off, he stuck. The stage manager got a long pole with an iron hook in it and yanked him off the stage and the curtain was rung down. Rogers says this is the origin of the term "get the hook."

But he was not daunted. To dismiss the audience meant losing all the money it represented.

BECOMES BUSINESS MANAGER.

Rogers went before the curtain and told the audience the facts about the comedian, and said it would be refunded, but if they would bear with him he would attempt to play the part. He was applauded and not a person left the theatre.

Macauley went to Rogers after the show and told him that he still thought he was a rotten actor, but as a business man he was a howling success. He was appointed business manager on the spot.

Rogers' first act was to appoint John H. Havlin as treasurer, and to give John H. Russell, of Russell's Comedians fame, the place as assistant.

Later Rogers managed many famous stars, accumulating seven fortunes and losing as many.

In five years he took J. K. Emmett all over the known world. Haller & Warren was another of his famous attractions. It was under Rogers' management that Mary Anderson—"Our Mary"—reached the pinnacle of her fame. Minnie Palmer was his star for ten years. Wilson Barrett was under his management until the day of his death. Sandow, the strong man, was another Rogers product. And it was Rogers who managed McIntyre & Heath's "Ham Tree" attraction successfully.

UNSIGHTLY FACE SORES

Are Removed by Zam-Buk

No matter how obstinate sores, ulcers or abscesses may be, they cannot for long resist the powerful healing essences contained in Zam-Buk. Mr. Hugh R. Crysler, contractor, of 65 Henry St., St. Catharines, says:

"Months ago my face broke out in running sores. Try as I would, I could not get anything to remove them. I thought my blood was out of order, and took all sorts of medicines internally. Still, the sores got worse.

"In the end I got so bad that I could not get any barber to shave me. As my state was terrible, and as I was getting no better, I went to see a friend, who is a druggist. He strongly advised me to try Zam-Buk, and leave off everything else. This I did, and almost immediately there was an improvement. The sores became angry and painful, and the discharge was less. A few boxes of Zam-Buk had the desired effect, and, to my delight, I found my face free from all sores and blemishes."

Just as good for eczema, abscess, scalp sores, piles, ulcers, etc. All druggists and stores, 50 cents box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

Secret of Good Pies

PIE CRUST, more than any other delicacy of the oven, ought to be tempting and appealing to the taste.

You do not eat pie as a nerve tonic or to strengthen your appetite. You eat it for pleasure mostly.

You want it, of course, to taste good. At the same time you want the crust to be light, flaky, wholesome. Above all things you don't want it tough, indigestible and not safe to eat.

Now, pie crust properly made from OGILVIE'S ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR is always good food, the absolute uniformity of this best of all flours eliminates failure entirely. You get the same delightful results every time—more healthful, digestible and nourishing than if made from ordinary flour.

And the reason is that ROYAL HOUSEHOLD having a larger percentage of high quality gluten, assimilates more readily and is more satisfying than ordinary flour, and comes out of the oven flakier, more tender and more digestible.

Ogilvie's Royal Household Flour

Pies made from "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" taste better and are better than pies made from other flour—much more delicious, better in every way.

Be sure to try "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" when next you make pies. It is the finest flour in the world not only for pastry but for bread and all family baking.

"OGILVIES BOOK FOR A COOK" containing 125 pages of tried and tested recipes will be sent free to any user of Royal Household Flour who asks for it.

GIRLS ENGAGE IN A DUEL

Over Medical Student in Germany—One Shot in the Shoulder

Berlin, Feb. 23.—A duel between two girl students took place recently at Presterlitz, a small village close to the Australian frontier.

The combatants, who were studying medicine at Crawcow, had fallen in love with a young medical student named Breitner, who made love to both of them in turn and avoided becoming engaged to either. The rivalry for his affections led to a quarrel and the exchange of blows.

The two girls considered themselves bound by the rules of chivalry that held good among their male companions.

Consequently Ilonca Ilnetzky, who received the first blow, challenged Olga Metzeroff, who struck her, by sending two other girl students as her seconds. Olga Metzeroff obtained two more girl students as her seconds, and the four seconds arranged that the duel should take place in German territory to evade the Austrian authorities.

The conditions arranged were pistol shots, at fifteen paces, to be exchanged until one of the two combatants became disabled.

The duelling party crossed the frontier at sunrise and proceeded to a secluded spot in the forest. The two combatants exchanged four shots before either was hit. At the fifth shot Olga Metzeroff was wounded in the left shoulder, and fell in the snow, fainting and bleeding profusely.

Two girl medical students had come to render first aid in case of necessity, and after the bandaging the wounded girl was conveyed back to Austria and taken to her home.

THIS MAN WAS A NASAL THIEF

Stole Radium With the Assistance of His Nose

London, Feb. 23.—A man named Maurice Benedict was under treatment at St. Louis Hospital. He was suffering from a disease of the nose, and to cure it the doctors had recourse to a composition containing radium.

They did not tell him he carried on his nose about $120 worth of radium, but he found it out for himself and came to the conclusion that so valuable an ingredient was wasted on his nose. Accordingly one day the doctors discovered that the bit of radium had vanished.

They questioned the patient, but he at first feigned stupidity, then indignation that they should suspect him of the theft. The treatment was begun over again with fresh radium and before long he was pronounced cured and left the hospital. The police kept an eye on him and when he tried to sell the stolen treasure he was arrested, and the radium which was carefully removed from the lining of his coat was sent back to the hospital.

Pumping by Wind Power.

The speed of a windmill depends on the angle the wheels are placed at with reference to the wind. If a slow steady motion is desired the sails must be set at a steep incline. Such sails must be long and narrow and set closer together.

In pumping from a deep well the angle of the sails of the windmill is such that the wheel will revolve the same number of revolutions a minute that it is desired to operate the pump. This makes it possible to connect the mill directly to the pump without the gearing necessary where a high speed is employed in operation of the pump. While the low speed means less water pumped, it greatly lengthens the life of the mill.

In the illustration the windmill, tower and tank are combined in a rather ornamental structure. When the well is located on high ground as compared with the grounds where the water is to be distributed the tank may rest upon the surface, as shown, and the windmill frame be constructed overhead. When the mill is to be located on lower ground the water tank may be placed midway on the windmill frame or on top, with the windmill just above the tank.

A tank placed thirty feet from the ground will give a pressure of fifteen pounds when the tank is full. This would lift water to the second story of a house standing on the same level. A garden hose nozzle connected with this tank would force a stream nearly as high as the bottom of the tank, or twenty-five to thirty feet horizontally. Twenty barrels of water would supply a garden hose nozzle for a little over an hour. These small tanks are commonly used in connection with an eight to ten foot windmill. The same sized mill, however, may be used with a larger tank when the water is to be used for household purposes, bathroom, lawn and fire protection. A sixty-five barrel tank will supply a garden hose nozzle for about four hours.

Land is so scarce in Japan and the people are so numerous that a farm rarely consists of more than an acre or two. These little farms are divided up into tiny fields.

LAUGHTER WAS HIS UNDOING

Smuggler Caused a Vibration Which Set Avalanche Moving

Rome, Feb. 23.—A joyful shout thoughtlessly given by an Italian smuggler on having eluded the customs guards on the Swiss frontier, was the cause of his six companions being overwhelmed and killed by an avalanche.

The party, coming from the Grisons, had with a thousand precautions successfully negotiated the Forcola pass on the Swiss-Italian border. Five of the men were loaded with valuable contraband goods and two acted as the guides and scouts. When they were all safely on Italian soil one of the guides named Marcioli, gave vent to a joyful vodel.

In the still air the least sound causes a vibration which may set enormous masses of snow moving. This is what occurred here. A quarter of a million tons of snow detached itself from the mountainside and came thundering down upon the party, who were swept in an instant into an abyss. Marcioli alone was able to extricate himself.

PETERBOROUGH GIRL IS NOW ONE OF ENGLAND'S FOREMOST VOCALISTS

A number of Peterborough ladies and gentlemen had the privilege yesterday afternoon of hearing one of England's foremost singers, Miss Palgrave Turner, who, with her mother, is the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Morgan, at the home of Miss Strickland, Charles street, Ashburnham. Miss Turner has been on a concert tour of Canada and the United States with Madame Liza Lehmann, and her singing has evoked much enthusiasm wherever she has appeared, especially at Massey Hall, where she sang a short time ago. She possesses a beautiful contralto voice and has studied under the best teachers in the Old Land. Some time ago she was signally honored by being invited to sing before the Royal Family of England.

Miss Turner was the guest of honor at an afternoon tea at the home of Miss Strickland, and afterwards she gave a short recital that was greatly enjoyed. Those who heard her pronounce Miss Turner one of the best artists that have ever visited Peterborough. She is a native of this city, but went to England when a little girl, and has lived there ever since. Mrs. Turner has been in Peterborough for the past four weeks, but Miss Turner has only been here since Tuesday evening. Accompanied by her mother she leaves to-morrow for New York, and from there will sail for England.

Miss Turner will gain visit Canada on a concert tour in October, and will likely sing in public in Peterborough on that occasion.

WEDDING BELLS

ROPINSON—WILSON

Monday, Feb. 25.—At two o'clock Wednesday afternoon Cambridge St. Methodist church was the scene of a pretty wedding, when Miss Mary Evelyn Wilson, daughter of Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., the esteemed pastor of the church, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. J. G. Robinson, of Toronto, son of the late J. G. Robinson.

The nuptial event was attended by about one hundred and fifty guests, including the officials of the church, while the gallery of the church was crowded with ladies.

The wedding ceremony was performed in front of a beautiful bank of floral bloom of various kinds, the choir loft, pulpit and altar being decorated with ferns, palms, daffodils, white lilies and other blooms. White ribbons ran down the aisles of the church and the effect was exceedingly pretty. The church decorations were the work of the Official Board. The floral decorations were secured from Mr. E. Maxsom, florist.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mr. C. C. Forsythe, organist of the church, the bridal party entered the sacred edifice, the young bride being led to the altar by her father. She was handsomely gowned in cream liberty satin, with point of rose point lace, wearing the conventional veil, and orange blossoms, and carrying a magnificent shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and white bridal roses. Miss Janet Wilson, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and was attired in an exquisite gown of pale yellow silk crepe de chene, trimmed with Irish lace with beautiful hat to match, and carrying a pretty bouquet of daffodils. Mr. R. E. Stone, of Sault Ste. Marie, cousin of the groom, officiated as groomsman. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. W. D. P. Wilson, LL.D., of Belleville, uncle of the bride, assisted by her father, Rev. J. P. Wilson.

Miss Edith Flavelle, who was gowned in pale blue satin with silver trimmings, and a pale blue picture hat to match, rendered in exquisite voice that beautiful number, "Oh, Lord Divine."

The ushers for the occasion were Dr. Malcolm Wilson, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Walter E. Reesor, of Lindsay.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the happy couple passed down the aisle to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, and with the guests, returned to the parsonage, where a reception was held in the drawing room. The house was beautifully decorated with yellow daffodils. The bridal couple were the recipients of the heartiest congratulations, after which the guests were served a dainty wedding repast.

At the conclusion of the luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson left on the C.P.R. train for an extended trip of four or five weeks in New York and Florida, after which they will take up residence at 60 Wilton avenue, Parkdale. Mrs. Robinson travelled in a suit of dark green broadcloth with hat to match, and also a beautiful set of mink furs, the gift of the bride's father.

A beautiful array of costly presents arranged on two long tables attested the high esteem in which the bride and groom were held by their friends. The groom's gift to the bride was an exquisite pearl necklace, to the bridesmaid a beautiful amethyst ring; to Miss Edith Flavelle a pretty gold hat pin, set with a single amethyst. The groomsman was the recipient from the groom of a set of gold studs set with pearls, and the ushers, gold tie pins set with pearls.

The guests present from Peterborough were:—Dr. and Mrs. McClelland, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Ackerman, Miss Edna Ackerman and Mrs. Gobeen.

CIVIL SABBATH AND LORD'S DAY LEGISLATION

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—The "Canadian Publishing Association" has issued the first number of "The Dominion Sentinel," while it announces that "it is not published in the interest of any class whatsoever," yet every signed article is the product of a Seventh Day Adventist preacher or leader, and all its 48 pages are devoted to earnest explanations and exposition of the views of that body concerning Lord's Day legislation. Many times have we obtained the publications of Seventh Day Adventists, and whether books, pamphlets, periodicals, or leaflets, they were without exception declared to be published by some association, the name of which would never suggest the society in whose interest the publication was issued. Very clearly this journal is issued in the interest of the people who are opposed to all legislation in regard to the Lord's Day.

Again and again in its 48 pages the writers declare that Lord's Day legislation in general, and the Lord's Day Act of Canada, in particular, is religious legislation. It is said to be an effort to "enforce the ten commandments by law," "a purpose to bring about a strict (religious) observance of the Lord's Day by-law," a law "enacted under the plea to benefit man, often used to oppress him," &c., &c. Yet in the whole 48 pages there is not named one section, sub-section, or clause of the Lord's Day Act that proves the charge that it is religious, or that in any way substitutes the specious charges of these Seventh Day Adventist writers.

The fact is that the Lord's Day Act nowhere seeks to enforce religion. Its single purpose is to preserve the civil right of citizens throughout the Dominion to that day as their weekly day of rest. When the Act was before the Canadian Parliament in 1905, for enactment, an effort was made by Seventh Day Adventists, and other Saturday Sabbath keepers, to secure an amendment which was of a purely religious character. In fact the only effort to secure religious legislation in connection with the Lord's Day Act was promulgated by the Saturday Sabbath Keepers.

Much emphasis is given in this "Sentinel" to the right of liberty of conscience, and to worship as each person chooses. On the front page and in several other places Queen Victoria's well known words are quoted, and enforced: "Firmly relying on the truth of Christianity, we declare it to be our royal will and pleasure, that none be in any wise favored, none molested, or disquieted by reason of their religious faith or observance." This right and liberty to worship in peace is guaranteed throughout the empire by Act of Parliament. In the Dominion, R.S.C., 1906, Chap. 146, 198 to 201, safeguard the civil right of every citizen to the practice in quietness and without interference of any religious use or ceremony, according to the conscience of that citizen. This legislation, dealing directly with religion and religious worship, is accepted, acted upon, and by implication, condemned in every article in this paper."

The writer, however, most frequently insists that the Sabbath is only, always, and singly a religious institution; and that at no time, nor under any circumstances is the Sabbath civil in its character. Yet the Sabbath has always been civil as well as religious. The same command which says, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy;" also commands that the day shall be a day of rest, when neither thou, nor thy wife, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gate," shall do any work. It is truly civil as well as religious. A Sabbath law is a six-day law, kindred to an eight-hour law, the first protecting the weekly rest after six days of labor, and the other protecting the daily rest for each, demands the law of rest for all."

The civil character of Sunday laws is well stated by the Supreme Court of New York, in a recent case.

"As a civil institution it (the Sabbath) is older than the government. The farmers of the first constitution found it in existence, they recognized it in their acts. The stability of government, the welfare of the subject, and the interests of society have made it necessary that the day of rest observed by the people of a nation be uniform, and that its observance should be to some extent compulsory not by way of enforcing the conscience of those upon whom the law operates, but by way of protecting those who desire and are entitled to the day.

"The Christian Sabbath as one of the institutions of religion, may be protected from desecration by such laws as the Legislature, in their wisdom, may deem necessary to secure to the community the privilege of undisturbed worship, and to the day itself that outward respect and observance which may be deemed essential to the peace and good order of the society, and to preserve religion and its ordinances from open reviling and contempt, and this not as a duty to God, but as a duty to society and the state."

It is necessary that the purpose of the Lord's Day Act and the aim of the Lord's Day Alliance be clearly understood by the people. Hence the statements of the "Sentinel" should be corrected, and the object of its publication distinctly made known.

INFANT MORTALITY IS LOW IN CITY OF PETERBOROUGH

In connection with the report of the Milk Commission appointed to inquire into the production, care and distribution of the milk, the following figures on infant mortality in Canadian cities are given. Peterborough's percentage will be found to be low in comparison with that of the majority of other cities of the province. It is contended by the Commission that the purity of the milk supplied has an incalculable effect on the health of infants and infant mortality.

The table given in the Commission's report is as follows:—

BEEF TRUST IS INDICTED CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

Six Great Packing Companies and Twenty-One Packers Must Face Trial at New Jersey—Three Swifts and Two Armours Among the Accused.

New York, Feb. 26.—The beef trust of the United States, involving six great packing companies and twenty-one packers, several of them multi-millionaires, socially and industrially prominent, were indicted yesterday by a grand jury in Hudson County, N.J., charged with conspiracy in limiting the supply of meat and poultry.

The indictment is drawn under the laws of New Jersey, which provide, upon conviction, a maximum penalty of three years in the penitentiary, or a $1,000 fine, or both.

The offence is extraditable, which means that practically all the meat barons of the country must either successfully resist extradition or come to Jersey City for trial.

Pierre Garven, the public prosecutor of Hudson County, announced that he would notify the defendants of their indictments and was ready to force extradition in each and every case where the individual concerned is not willing to face trial voluntarily. None, he says, will be spared.

The defendants as named are: Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Nelson, Morris & Co., Hammond Packing Co., G. H. Hammond & Co.

Individuals—J. Ogden Armour, A. Watson Armour, Louis F Swift, Edward F. Swift, Charles H. Swift, Edward Morris, Ira N. Morris, Arthur Meeker, Edward Tilden, L. A. Carton, Thomas E. Wilson, Thomas J. Conners, F. A. Fowler, L. H. Heyman, Jas. E. Bathgate, jr., Geo. J. Edwards, Fred. B. Cooper, D. E. Hartwell, Henry B. Harlington, A A. Fuller, Lemuel C. Patterson.

The indictment, which bristles in its arraignment of the men named, also refers to "diverse others" as being responsible, but they are not specified.

The foregoing list of names represents the very backbone of the great packing industry in the United States, containing as it does, two Armours, three Swifts and two Morrises, all for the most part, residents of Chicago.

The indictment brings to a climax the first concerted efforts which have been made in the east to fix responsibility for abnormally high price of commodities now prevalent.

According to the indictment, an illegal agreement to thus control prices was entered into by the defendants as far back as March 1, 1908, when, it is charged, a meeting was held in Jersey City, at which it is further charged, the defendants "wilfully, unlawfully, fraudulently and extortionately" bound themselves to "maintain and exercise control over a monopoly of meat and poultry supply, and not to sell to the public meats and poultry, except at exorbitant prices agreed upon."

The indictment recites that mere driblets of the supply were put on the market at stated intervals, small quantities agreed upon by the defendants, thus to curtail and restrict the supply," for the purpose of falsely arbitrarily and unlawfully increasing prices to public." Warehouses are held specifically to blame.

Interesting and significant relations between Armour, Swift and Morris interests through the medium of the National Packing Co., are set for in the document. In order to carry out the conspiracy, it is charged, certain adjustments in the directorate of the National Packing Co. were necessary.

Capiases for the arrest of all the defendants will be issued immediately, and the grand jury will resume its investigations next Wednesday.

NORTH BAY HERO GETS THE DECORATION FOR BRAVERY

Earl Crewe Sends Notification to Ottawa That King Has Conferred the Albert Medal on C.P.R. Conductor Who Saved so Many Lives at Spanish River.

"London, Feb. 25.

"His Majesty has been pleased to confer the Albert Medal of the first class on Thomas Reynolds.

(Signed) "Crewe."

This is in accordance with the recommendation forwarded His Majesty last week by the Secretary of State, asking that the heroism of Conductor Reynolds in rescuing the passengers in the Spanish River railway wreck be recognized by the granting of His Majesty's medal for heroic service in saving life.

The Albert medal dates from 1866, with extensions in 1867 and 1877, and is a recognition of acts of gallantry. Its recipients are ranged in two divisions, the one receiving a badge inscribed "for gallantry in saving life at sea," the other with the closing words varied to "on land." Each division has now two classes, the badge of the one having a golden centre with [illegible] and the cipher V.A., to which, in the sea division, an anchor is added. The suspending ribbon in this division is dark blue, with four white stripes in the first class and two in the second; in the land division it is crimson with similar white stripes.

North Bay Celebrates.

North Bay, Feb. 26.—North Bay was en fete last night and united in doing honor to the hero of the Spanish River wreck, Thos. Reynolds, who yesterday received word that His Majesty the King had been pleased to confer the Albert medal upon him. Reynolds is the first Canadian to receive the Albert medal.

The demonstration began with a torchlight procession, headed by a band, Reynolds sitting in a cutter drawn by a number of citizens. At the opera house, which was speedily filled to the doors wit ha cheering throng, Mayor Rankin took the chair and the following telegrams were read:

From Major Lanesborough, governor-general's secretary: "Have much pleasure in informing you that the governor-general has received cable from the Secretary of State for Colonies, informing his excellency that His Majesty the King has been pleased to confer the Albert medal of the first class upon you in recognition of your heroic action at Spanish River."

From Hon. Charles Murphy, Secretary of State: "Received to-day this statement from Lord Strathcona: 'Greatly pleased to advise you that King has awarded Albert medal of first class to Thomas Reynolds. When received it will be transmitted immediately. Accept my hearty congratulations.—Strathcona."

Telegram of congratulation was also read from Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the C. P. R.

Speeches were made by Bishop Scollard, Mayor Rankin, John Ferguson, president of the Board of Trade; J. H. Black, superintendent T. & N. O. Railway; D. Purvis, D. J. McKeown, Revs. Johnston, Addison and Bishop Wm. McKenzie, Magistrate Weegar, D. H. Williams. Mr. Reynolds replied modestly, contenting himself with a few words of thanks for the ovation.

LIBERAL COALITION CANNOT DECIDE ON VETO QUESTION

Long Meetings of Cabinet Show How Serious Are the Problems Confronting Government, But Premier Asquith is Reticent.

London, Feb. 26.—Mr. Asquith's predisposition to extreme reticence makes a judgment of the political situation a matter of difficulty. While it is easy to see by the numerous prolonged Cabinet meetings that the Government is facing grave problems, it is not easy to forecast the issue. Several conferences of the Cabinet have already been held, and another Cabinet Council has been summoned for to-day. But for the fact that no party or group in the House of Commons wants another general election the Ministry's term of office would not be worth many weeks' purchase. The Liberals, Radicals and Nationalists, in addition to the difficulty arising out of depleted party funds, fear that a general election now would bring a Unionist triumph.

Premier Asquith's statement that he had not sought guarantees from the King is interpreted on all sides as a confession that the result of the elections was too inconclusive to justify his asking for such guarantees and the essence of the difficulties facing him lies in the impossibility of reconciling the divergent views of his supporters on the manner of dealing with the House of Lords.

Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary; Chancellor Lloyd-George, and Winston Spencer Churchill are said to favor reforming the second chamber on the elective principle. The Radicals, led by Sir Charles Wentworth Dilke, demand the abolition of all veto power in the Upper House. The Nationalists also want the veto power abolished, while the Laborites make a still more extreme demand—the abolition of the House of Lords altogether. A large section of the moderate Liberals probably would be satisfied if the Lords were debarred from interference in the matter of finance.

The address in reply to the King's speech passed without division yesterday.

CALLS LUCAS AN AUTOCRAT

Mr. Lennox Tries to Upset Old Custom in Private Bills Committee.

Toronto, Feb. 26.—A "scrap" ensued in the private bills committee yesterday morning, that at first promised big things.

It was precipitated by T. H. Lennox of North York, when Hon. J. B. Lucas announced that he would allow a question respecting the proposed partial exemption of school taxes in favor of a big Barrie industry, to stand until he had consulted the Cabinet.

Mr. Lennox was on his feet in an instant. "I don't think the chairman of this committee has any right to take that stand—or the chairman of any committee for that matter."

"You're not familiar with the procedure then," Mr. Lucas flung back at him.

"I'll never be familiar with that kind of practice," replied the North York member.

The chairman, he submitted, must go by the wishes of a majority of the committee in every case.

Mr. Lucas could not see it that way, and so the war went merrily on.

Mr. Lucas—"The chairman has a right to withhold the report of any committee until the Government has heard all about it. We have laid a rule already in which this principle is involved."

No later than yesterday three bills were sent back to the Government, and this was pointed out by the private bills chairman.

Mr. Fripp (East Ottawa) thought that if the majority of the committee wanted to vote on the question, the chairman could not prevent it.

"It is the duty of the chairman to submit the question to the committee and ask them to vote either against or for it. I have kept out of this discussion because I belong to one of the families interested, but I want to see fair play," said Mr. Lennox.

Mr. Lucas—"I don't propose to report this bill until I have seen the Government, and any member who thinks he can force a vote is quite away from the ordinary practice of this committee.

"If I cannot control this committee and deal with a bill, and refer it to the Government if necessary, then I will retire from the chairmanship, and bow to the wishes of Mr. Lennox and Mr. Fripp," Mr. Lucas announced.

He pointed out that often he was constrained to have matters stand when there was not a representative attendance of the sixty members of the committee, and in such a case the chairman should have the say.

"Mr. Lennox and Mr. Fripp were the first to challenge my position," he began.

"No," said Lennox.

"No," said Fripp.

"Yes," said Lucas.

"And I intend to refer this matter of school tax exemption to the Government whether it is forced or not."

And so the matter stands.

The whole trouble was that the town of Barrie, a truly peace-loving community, desired the committee to ratify its agreement with the Weber Gas Engine & Produce Co., to give complete exemption of taxation for ordinary purposes, and to fix the school taxes at $20,000.

TOWN PILLAGE BY STRIKERS

Point-a-Pitre, Guadeloupe, Feb. 26.—Forces of police have gone to St. Francois to protect the natives there, several of whom have been killed during the disturbances arising from the strike of sugar cane cutters. The strikers have gathered in considerable numbers about St. Francois, and are pillaging the surrounding country. They are killing domestic animals for food.

The foreign consulates are guarded by the police. Several sugar grinding factories have been burned.

Governor Gautret yesterday announced the arrival of reinforcements of troops from Martinique, and that the French armored cruiser Victor Hugo was on the way here to aid in preserving order.

USED TAXICAB TO HUNT VICTIM

Now York, Feb. 26.—Detective yesterday scoured the city in a search for the five men who rode all over the west side in a taxicab on Thursday to find Jacob Greenthal, and when they found him attacked him murderously, stabbing him eight times and slashing his tongue.

Greenthal hovered between life and death yesterday, and refused even to try to talk when pressed in his conscious moments for the names of his assailants. The fact that the man's tongue was nearly cut out leads the police to believe that he had been talking too much to suit his enemies. Other circumstances are held to indicate that the crime was a political one, and the hunt for the criminals is proceeding on this theory.

Greenthal formerly took an active interest in political matters, and got into trouble at a west side polling place last election day. That the motive for attack was not robbery is shown by the fact that $852 the man had in possession was not disturbed. When the taxicab hunters found Greenthal in a cafe and had dragged him out on the sidewalk, stabbed him and left him for dead, they jumped into the automobile and escaped.

STATE CONSTABULARY AT THE SCENE OF CAR STRIKE

Special to Review

South Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 26.—Called from Philadelphia half a troop of the state constabulary arrived here quietly this morning to suppress rioting among the 10,000 men of the Bethlehem Steel Company. The closing of the plant by Charles M. Schwab after the strikers had attacked the men remaining has increased the seriousness of the situation. The police early today frustrated an attempt to dynamite a train on which it was reported that the constabulary were to arrive. South Bethlehem this morning resembled an armed campaign.

ORDER RESTORED BY THE HUSSARS

Philadelphia, Feb. 26.—The state police, 204 seasoned fighters, under Capt. Groome, secured in a few hours yesterday when the police of the city, 3,400 men, were not able to bring about in five days, reasonable order. The troopers reached the city over the Reading and Pennsylvania railroads, between 1 o'clock and half-past seven yesterday morning.

At 11 o'clock the four troops massed at Broad street and Lehigh avenue, having gone to the different stables for their horses directly after eating breakfast. Each troop had a following crowd as the horsemen slowly rode to the meeting point. From each saddle dangled a pair of steel handcuffs, which clanked threateningly against the handles of the hickory riot sticks. Some of the sergeants had chains, with gangs of handcuffs upon them.

Headed by Deputy Superintendent Lumb, the constabulary marched south on Broad street in a column of twos, the troops in alphabetical order. The line stretched out for two blocks, and attracted considerable attention as it trooped into Dauphin street, and thence to the offices of the Transit Company.

GRAND TRUNK LOSES APPEAL

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—The appeal in the Grand Trunk Railway Co. vs. the Canadian Northern Railway Co. was dismissed by the Supreme Court yesterday.

The appeal was as to the jurisdiction of the Board of Railway Commissioners to make an order, granted by them on Jan. 10, 1910, authorizing the C. N. R. to construct aidings from the G. T. R. main line to their right-of-way near the proposed crossing of the railway, in the Township of Scarboro, east of Toronto.

The G. T. R. contended that the board could not make the order, as it involves the construction of a new station and works at a point where there is now no station or junction, and where interchange of traffic is not necessary.

BAD STORM IN THE ROCKIES

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 26.—A snowstorm which started Tuesday is still raging in the Cascade Mountains, and the transcontinental railroads are experiencing the utmost difficulty in keeping their lines open. On the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound road near Keechelus a work crew of 150 men with a big rotary was marooned Thursday in a big drift and without provisions. Provisions were sent out yesterday on handsleds to the marooned men. Drifts fifteen feet deep are reported in the mountains.

DALAI LAMA IS DISPOSED

Pekin, Feb. 26.—The Chinese Government has deposed the Dalai Lama as head of the Thibetan Government and in an official statement issued yesterday explains its action on the ground that the nominal ruler has deserted the capital during an attempt by him to organize a general revolt. The official statement follows:

"The Dalai Lama upon his arrival at Lhasa from Pekin, circulated with the object of organizing a general revolt, these rumors: First, that China intended to exterminate Lamaism, and second, that British trade in effect was injuring Thibet. The Dalai Lama then took measures to thwart this trade, whereupon China became alarmed and ordered 2,000 troops to go to Lhasa with the object of preserving the peace and affording protection.

"When the Dalai Lama learned of the above, the Pekin Government ordered the Chinese Resident to reason with the Dalai Lama, who refused to listen, and on the twelfth secretly left Lhasa with his followers. The Resident searched ineffectually, whereupon China deposed the Dalai Lama, ordered the Thibetans to elect his successor and issued a decree ordering the protection of Lamaism and the strict observance of the existing treaties with foreign powers concerning Thibet, with the purpose of preserving the status quo.

EXPEDITION TO FIND CALDWELL

Ottawa, Feb. 26. Capt. Sam Bartlett, an uncle of the commander of R. E. Peary's ship, the Roosevelt will be sent next summer by the Dominion Government to search for Geo. Caldwell, who went into the north in the fall of 1907 to investigate reports of mineral deposits in the Copper River country. The only news received of him since he left Chesterfield Inlet with two natives came to Hudson Bay traders through Indians, who said Caldwell and his two native companions had been seen repairing their boat at Baker Lake.

Mr. Caldwell was supplied with a number of tubes, which he designed to leave behind in conspicuous places to mark his course.

Tariff Negotiations.

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—In the Commons, shortly before the House adjourned at 12.30 this morning, J. D. Taylor (New Westminster), asked the Finance Minister whether the Government had any communication to make regarding the United States tariff. Press despatches from Washington indicated that there had been negotiations in progress with Ottawa.

Mr. Fielding said: "The matter is not in a condition which would permit me to make any communication at present to the House."

LAWYERS BATTLE

Counsel in Foster-Macdonald Case Present Their Arguments

Toronto, Feb. 26.—Friday was summing up day in the Foster-Macdonald libel suit, and it was a battle between counsel by eloquent passages on both sides. E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., addressed the jury from 10 a.m. till 1 o'clock, and Mr Hellmuth, K.C., for the plaintiff, took up the cudgels when court reopened at 2.15 and concluded at 4.20. His lordship will sum up this morning, and the case will then go to the jury.

It was noticeable that Mr. Johnston was careful in his address, as he had been throughout his conduct of the case, not to impute dishonesty to Mr. Foster, or to attack him in his private character. There was no tinge of bitterness in his words. The review was characterized by a marshalling of points in the evidence and by a spirit of fairness in presenting them to the attention of the jury.

He opened with a series of eloquent passages in condemnation of looseness in the morals of public men as shown by their guarding of public and private trusts and pointed out the need of electing men to public office whose public and private acts were above reproach. In forceful language he defended the right of the press to discuss and criticize the acts of men in high places. His voice, rising and falling to climaxes, he pictures the heinousness of juggling with the money of widows and orphans. The address was an admirable piece of forensic oratory constituting an arraignment of moral turpitude and rapacity which characterized gambling with trust funds, rather than a broadside against Mr. Foster personally.

Mr. Hellmuth, K.C., counsel for Mr. Foster, was on the other hand not so careful to avoid cutting personal references to the principal in the other side of the case. He went after the defendant, Mr. Macdonald, hammer and tongs, insinuating that he was the "mad dog" of the press; the vulture that was out to kill by fair means or foul, the assassin whose quarrel arose from malice and hatred. Mr. Hellmuth ably defended the deals of the Foster syndicate as being perfectly legal and proper, and vigorously repudiated the inference advanced by the other side that Mr. Foster had subverted the hitherto blameless machinery of the I. O. F. for his personal gain, regardless of consequence to the institution or its rightful beneficiaries. He also accused opposing counsel of trying to inflame the minds of the jury by an appeal to their political prejudices and ties. He ended his address at 4.25 with an appeal for substantial damages for his client. A large crowd heard the addresses of both counsel.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

A party of 200 Salvation Army emigrants, an advance party of the 10,000 who are coming this season, sailed yesterday from London.

Sir W. H. White, chief engineer and secretary in the works department to the Government of Bombay, has been appointed a director of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada.

The statement was made in financial circles yesterday that the Grand Trunk Railway officials are considering the possibility of extending their system to Boston, as well as to Providence.

Cardinal Ludovig Lucon, Archbishop of Rheims, was condemned yesterday by the civil tribunal to pay $1,000 damages to the public teacher for signing the episcopal letter forbidding the use of certain text books in the public school.

The official reports of the flood damage in France in 13 out of 36 departments show a monetary loss of $14,600,000. This includes the $10,000,000 damage done in Paris, but there, as elsewhere, no account is made of the indirect losses, which are incalculable.

BORROWED MONEY TO SMUGGLE

Windsor, Feb. 26. The smuggling of Chinamen from Canada to the United States, which for some time past has been known to United States immigration officials as being a profitable business for certain young men in Windsor, came to light in such a manner yesterday, in a judgment summons court case, as to implicate a number of merchants in the city.

Information as to how the Chinese smuggling game is conducted was given by George Letour, testifying under oath, and in his own behalf in a judgment brought against him by D. D. Brouillard, a Windsor butcher. Letour was sued by Brouillard for recovery of a $20 loan. Letour declared he borrowed the money from Drouillard, giving the latter to understand that he wanted it to help pay the expenses of smuggling a load of Chinamen in the States. Letour said that if the "load" went through, as planned, Drouillard was to receive $40 for the $20 advanced.

Letour says he ought not to pay back the loan, as the vigilance of U. S. officials spoiled his plan.

Letour also said that this plan had been worked by him with the help of other merchants. In case of failure he got nothing from his charges, and those advanced money lost out in investment as a result. Drouillard denies all knowledge of the scheme.

THIS DEFAULTER WORE A SMILE

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 26.—With a smile on his face, and apparently without a care or worry, George W. Coleman, the alleged defaulting employe of the wrecked National City Bank of Cambridge, was brought to police headquarters here yesterday by U. S. Deputy Marshal Charles A. Bancroft, Police Inspector Michael Kneeland and John J. Croning, Coleman's counsel. Coleman arrived at the Back Bay station, in Boston, on the Twentieth Limited Chicago train at 9.11 a.m., and surrendered to the officers who were waiting for him. Capt. Burley stated that Coleman since leaving Cambridge has been in Kansas City, Chicago, Philadelphia and New York.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE D. R. A.

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—At the annual meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association held in the railway committee rooms of the Commons yesterday, Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., was again elected president.

There were but few changes in the list of other officers and of the council. Lieut.-Col. Davidson of Prince Edward Island, Col. Cruickshanks of Alberta, and Col. G. W. Wynn of Saskatchewan, were elected vice-presidents for their respective provinces. Capt. Birdwhistle of Ottawa was again elected secretary, and Major E. D. Sutherland treasurer.

As a compliment to the Bisley team in 1909, Col. Bertram, the commandant, of Dundas, Ont., and Major M. S. Mercer, the adjutant, Toronto, were made life members of the association.

Earl Grey, in acknowledging a vote of thanks, said: "We are all compatriots, and united in loyalty to an Empire of which Canada is destined to become so great a part. My heart is thoroughly Canadian, and I have not had a single unhappy day since I came to Canada."

TORONTO MAN FOR KINGSTON Y.M.C.A.

Kingston, Feb. 26.—E. F. Trimble, Toronto, has accepted the secretaryship of the Y. M. C. A. He commences his duties on Monday.

The Golden Lion Block, one of the largest properties in the city, has been purchased by Philip Haffner, hotelkeeper, from the McRae estate, for $20,000.

Ada Bridgewater and Nettie Johnston, domestics at Gananoque, quarrelled, and in a fight the Bridgewater girl threw the contents of a stew pan of hot vinegar and cayenne pepper on the Johnston girl. She was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

A RAILWAY POLICY NEEDED

There can be no question that the great factor in trade is transportation, and the centre that has the best means for the transport of produce and merchandise possesses a great advantage. Some of our friends in the northern part of the country have lately called attention to the entire absence of railway facilities north of Lakefield, and that their interests and Peterborough's are identical in this matter has been shown with clearness and force by our correspondent "Peterborough." We are well served with railways to the east, west and south, and will be in a better position when the Canadian Pacific grain route is completed, but while we recognise this and endeavor to gain every advantage from it, we should not shut our eyes to the fact that to the north there is a large extent of territory that so far as trade is concerned should be tributary to Peterborough, but part of which is cut off from us by railways from other towns and more of which may be lost. Any attempt to secure a railway from Peterborough through this territory can only be successful if it is taken up seriously and pushed not with vigor but with a steadfastness that will not be discouraged. The Haliburton district has one railway outlet by way of Kinmount and Lindsay, and to the east the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa railway almost forms a junction with the Central Ontario, and the filling in of this short gap will give that section another outlet to Trenton and Belleville. This section is directly north of Peterborough; the people would prefer coming here to secure the advantage of the larger place of trade and commerce, but they have not been provided with the necessary means of travel. The Canadian Pacific has gone into Bobcaygeon from the south and we still have no railway connection with that neighborhood and the territory adjoining it which, too, is in this county. The Canadian Northern Railway's projected line is surveyed south of Rice Lake. The lake towns still believe it will pass through them, but it may not, and if it runs north of them and south of Rice Lake it will not add to the trade of this city. The Canadian Northern will of course, take the course that its owners believe will best serve their purpose. It cannot be forced to run further north and touch Peterborough, although it would be of great advantage to us if it did. The company might, however, be convinced of the wisdom of building the railway through Peterborough, or might be induced to take that course.

Whatever the Canadian Northern may do, the question of a railway to the north is more our own matter. That trade should come here; this is its natural outlet. The country has forest and mineral wealth that will aid in enriching some centre. The minerals will not always be allowed to lie in the ground, and when they are mined they will not be manufactured into marketable articles at the mines. The factories will be located at some point where mechanics can be secured, and with a railway outlet in that direction at Peterborough is where they will be established. We have the power, and railways branching out in the required directions to reach all the markets of the Dominion or of the continent. With the completion of the Trent waterway our position in this respect will be improved, and this city will be the best shipping point that any manufacturer will be able to find. So that is we have a railway to the north, penetrating this rich mineral district, here is where the manufacturing will be done. And it is not only the minerals that will lead to the establishment of factories here, for the timber, as our correspondent has pointed out, will be used by the manufacturers of furniture, paper and other lines.

The question that faces Peterborough is, will we continue to allow trade that should come here to be carried in other directions, and will we remain idle and permit other places to reap further and larger benefits of trade and manufacture that should be ours and can be had if the matter is dealt with in the right way?

Peterborough needs a railway policy. There is a wide scope for the City Council and Board of Trade to exercise their energies to good purpose in this important matter. A policy can only be developed and carried out by our men of business capacity and sticking to it until something tangible and lasting is accomplished. It will pay to do so, and the opportunity may pass away at any time by others taking advantage of it while we are dreaming over it. Energy directed in one channel only may bring good results in advancing the city's interests, but it is folly to look in only one direction for advancement while others are within our reach. Let us make the best use of what we have, by all means, but at the same time this matter of a railway to the north is one that should be promptly taken up and handled with vigor.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A publicity policy, a power policy and a railway policy—these combined would make a good assurance policy for the future of Peterborough.

The Toronto Globe continues to argue in favor of free trade, and to support a Government that does not act on that principle.

Coal to supply the requirements of the people of Peterborough next winter will soon be coming, and they will have to pay the same old high price for it because the Trent waterway is not completed.

The Montreal Gazette does not favor the Trent Valley Canal. It should inform itself better on the subject, and would then change its opinion. The Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce, of Montreal, have resolutions on record supporting the work, and the business men of that city know that it will benefit the country as a whole, and its chief port especially.

In the Municipal Committee of the Legislature a proposal to allow county and township councillors to fix their remuneration at $5 a day was approved. But aldermen will still have the privilege of serving the community without pay.

Joseph Martin, M.P., who is now a Liberal member of the British Parliament, writes that Mr. Asquith has repudiated a pledge made in a pre-election speech, and that every Liberal member is released from alliance to him. With very little urging he would no doubt point out a member with experience in several Parliaments who would be quite ready to take Mr. Asquith's place.

The South African heros seem all to have a liking for Canada. Lord Roberts paid the Dominion a short visit; Sir John French, the dashing cavalry leader, is expected in June, and Sir R. Baden-Powell, it is said, will come here in the interest of the Boy Scout movement. Lord Dundonald, who gallantly rode to the rescue of the besieged in Ladysmith, was in Canada for a time, but his treatment by our Government was not such as to make him feel pleasantly towards the Dominion.

REDUCED RAILWAY RATES.

Arrangements have been made with all the railways for reduced railway rates to this convention. Fare and one-third will be given if over 100 delegates are present, and if the number exceeds 300 there will be single fare. It is important, therefore, in order that the number registered be as large as possible, that every one purchase a single fare ticket and secure a certificate from the station agent on leaving, and hand this to the secretary of the convention to be countersigned. It is expected that fully 300 will be present, and that a single fare rate will, therefore, be obtained.

TAKE OFF THE FAT WHERE IT SHOWS

Most women suffer much humiliation because of great quantities of fat, so located that, no matter how they dress, everybody sees that they are abnormal. This is the day of the slender figure, and fat women are simply not tolerated either in business or social affairs. Women may not know it, but men, when they see a fat woman pass them on the street, make all manner of sympathetic remarks about her. They do not mean to be unkind or to seem unmanly, but it is natural for a man to dislike fat on a woman. Where fat shows the most there is where it must be removed, and as quickly as possible. The hot weather dresses seem to be made for the fat woman's misery and the slender women's delight. They expose all the charms of woman and her ugliness as well. Exercise and diet will not remove fat. This has been proved. The famous Marmola prescription which has met with such phenomenal success and has so many of our society women as its sponsors, is now being sold in tablet form to meet the demand of the public for this style of treatment. These little tablets go into your system just like food. They stop the stomach and digestive apparatus from producing fat and reduce the fat upon the body at the rate of from 12 to 16 ounces a day. They are harmless and can be carried in your purse and taken even after you have indulged in a hearty meal away from home. They are sold at all drug stores at 75 cents a case, or if you prefer you may write the Marmola Company, 1193 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Michigan.

5000 Facts About Canada

The public will warmly welcome the new 1910 edition of that indispensable booklet, "5000 Facts About Canada," compiled by Frank Yeigh, whose writings and lectures on Canada are widely known. The popularity of the publication is shown by its sale of nearly 50,000 copies, not only in Canada, but through the Empire, and indeed the world. The 1910 edition contains a large percentage of new matter, under such heads as—agriculture, mining, banking, trade, railways, wheat growing, education, religions, etc., while a new feature is a budget of Empire facts. The book is a revelation of the riches and resources of the Dominion. It is published at 25 cents a copy by The Canadian Facts Publishing Co., 667 Spadina avenue, Toronto, Canada, or may be had from newsdealers.

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

The next instant the men in the balcony were leaving it pellmell, picking up the ever ready rifles as they dashed off through the halls and out into the park. They kept themselves as well covered as possible by the boxed trees, although up to this time there had been no shooting.

Chase, in advance, suddenly gave vent to a loud cry and boldly dashed out into the open, disregarding all shelter. Two of the native park patrol were hastening toward the gate from another direction. Outside the huge, barred gate a throng of men and women were congregated. Some of the men were vigorously slashing away at the bars with sledges and crowbars; others were crouching with rifles leveled—in the other direction!

"It's Bowles!" shouted Chase eagerly.

The situation at once became clear to those inside the walls. Bowles and his friends, a score all told, had managed to reach the upper gate and were now clamoring for admission, beset on all sides by the enemy's pickets.

"For God's sake, be quick!" shouted Bowles. "There's a thousand of them coming up the mines road!"

The gates were unlocked by the patrol, and the panic stricken throng tumbled through them and scattered like sheep behind the high, sheltering walls. Once more the massive gates were closed and the bolts thrown down just in time to avoid a fusillade of bullets from the outside.

Once inside the chateau the fugitives, shivering with terror, fairly collapsed. There were three Englishmen in the party besides Bowles, and Chase recognized the Persian wives of Jacob von Blitz among the women who had been obliged to cast their lot with the refugees from Aratat. The sister of Neenah and five or six other women who had been sold into the island made up the remainder of the little group of trembling females.

The remainder of the men in the party, fourteen or fifteen in all, were of many castes and nationalities and of various ages. There were brown skinned fellows from Calcutta, a couple of sturdy Greeks, an Egyptian and a Persian, three or four Assyrians and as many Maoris. As to their walks in life, among them were clerks and guards from the bank, members of the native constabulary, Indian fakers and showmen and venders of foreign gewgaws.

Bowles, his thin legs still shaking perceptibly, although he strove mightily to hold them at strict "attention," was the spokesman. A valiant heart thumped once more against the seams of the little red jacket. If his hand trembled and his voice shook it was because of the unwonted exertion to which both had been put in that stirring fight at dawn.

"For some time we have been preparing for the outbreak," he said, fingering the glass of brandy that Batti had poured for him. "Ever since Chase began to go in so noticeably for the ladies—ahem!"

Chase glared at him. The others tittered.

"I don't mean the old story, sir, of the Persians, and I'm saying, sir, what's more, there wasn't a word of truth in it—I mean the ladies of the chateau, begging pardon too. Von Blitz came to me often with complaints that you were being made a fool of by a pretty face or two and that you were going over to the enemy body and soul. When I heard that they tried to kill you the night before last I made up my mind that no white man was to be left to tell the tale. Last night we locked all the company's books in the vaults, got together all the bank notes and gold we had on hand and made preparations to go on board the steamer when she called this morning. My plan was to tell them of the trouble here and try to save you. We were all expected to die of the plague—that's what we were—and I realized that Tommy Atkins was off the toards forever.

"We hadn't any more than got the cash and valuables ready to smuggle aboard when down came Rasula upon us—10 o'clock last night, your lordship. He had a dozen men with him, and he told every mother's son of us that our presence in the town was not desired until after the ship had sailed away. We were taken up into the hills by a squad of men. There wasn't a man among us that didn't know that we were to be killed as soon as the ship had gone. With our own eyes we saw the mail bags rifled and nearly all of the mail destroyed. The pouches from the chateau were burned. Rasula politely informed us that the plague had broken out among the chateau servants and that no mail could be sent out from that place. He said he intended to warn the ship's officer of the danger in landing, and—well, that explains the short stay of the ship and the absence of nearly all mail from the island. There won't be another boat for three weeks, and they won't land because of the plague. They will get word, however, that every one in the chateau has died of the disease and that scores of natives are dying every day.

"Well, we decided to break away from the guard and try to get to the chateau. It was their intention to take some of us back to the bank this morning to open the vault and the safes. That was to be our last act, I fancy. About 4 this morning a dozen of the women came up to where we were being held. They were flying from the town and ran into the arms of our guard before they knew of their presence. It seems that those devils down their had set out to kill their women because it was known that one of them had warned Mr. Chase of his danger. During the excitement brought about by their arrival in our camp we made a sudden attack upon our guards. They were not expecting it, and we had seized their rifles before they could recover from their surprise. I regret to say that we were obliged to kill a few of them in the row that followed. You let us in just in time. My word, it was a close shave."

"It's an ill wind that blows all evil," said Depplingham. "Mr. Bowles, you are welcome. We are a bit short of able bodied soldiers May we count on you and the men who came with you?"

"To the end, my lord," said Bowles, almost bursting his jacket by inflation. The others slapped their legs stanchly.

The arrival of the refugees from Aratat gave the chateau a stanch little garrison of sixty men.

"For the time being we are as snug as bugs in a rug," said Depplingham when all was over. "Shall we rejoin the ladies, gentlemen?" He was as calm as a May morning.

The three leaders found the ladies in the shaded balcony, lounging lazily, as if no such thing as danger existed Below them in the grassy courtyard a dozen indolent Persians were congregated, lying about in the shade with all the abandon of absolute security. The three women in the balcony had been watching them for an hour, commenting freely upon these creatures from another world. Neenah, the youngest and prettiest of them all, had wafted kisses to the proud dames above. She had danced for their amusement.

SIR WILFRID'S NAVAL BILL

The Review has been requested to publish the following verses written by a Peterborough man:—

Sir Wilfrid's naval bill is not so bad,
But it might be better.
Its time the Colonies began to help
Britain on the water.
Why should some talk about autonomy,
In the great Naval bill,
Our Empire's ships have been at our command.
And we must have them still.

Why should these Tews talk of independence,
What better could they be,
Our Empire's ships have been at our command.
We've freedom on the sea.
And for this freedom, let us do our part,
And do it with good will,
Great Britain's ships have been at our command.
And we must have them still.

Its time that Canada began to help
Great Britain on the wee,
Her commercial interests are very great,
And greater they will be.
Canada and her commerce is growing,
Her needs are hard to fill,
Great Britain's ships have been at our command,
And we must have them still.

Uncle Sam has his navy on the sea,
At enormous expense
And compare it with our Empire's Navy,
Its only a pretence,
British and Colonies ships must be one,
What else could fill the bill.
Great Britain's ships have been at our command.
And we must have them still.

What if Uncle Sam should give his navy
To England on the sea,
It seems to me it would be his best card,
His trade would be free.
His commercial freedom would be better,
And bring great to his mill.
Great Britain's ships have been at our command.
And we must have them still.

Such a mighty fleet would be hard to beat,
Under England's command,
While aiming for peace, and good-will to man,
This surely would be grand.
United to fight for justice and right,
With no intent of ill,
Great Britain's ships have been at our command.
And we must have them still.

If Canada wants to remain at peace,
She'll find it the best plan,
To give our Empire some high type dreadnought,
The best that's made by man,
And man them with brave Canadian men
All trained in British drill.
Great Britain's ships have been at our command,
And we must have them still.

This Naval Bill aims for separation,
To cut Canada's throat,
In few years Canada would be extinct,
Her ships would cease to float
The United States would gobble her up,
Canada would be nil.
Great Britain's ships have been at our command.
And we must have them still.

No doubt Britain holds the best Government
That man has made on earth,
And kind Providence has made her prosper,
Since early, early birth.
If we are brave, He's willing to save,
And keep us from all peril,
Great Britain's ships have been at our command.
And we must have them still.

THE WEATHER FOR MARCH

Month Will be Stormy According to Prof. Iri Hicks

A regular storm period is central on the 1st, beginning in February and ending March 3rd. This period is at the centre of the Venus period, with the forces of earth and Mars becoming greatly intensified. Equatorial storms of great energy, especially to the south, should surprise no reader of these forecasts, on and about the second and third. At the close of this and other March periods, look for blizzardous changes to high northerly gales, with cold waves sweeping from the northwest far into the south and east.

A reactionary storm period falls on the 5th, 7th and 8th, with indications that unsettled, if not stormy weather may fill much of the time between the first and third storm periods of the month. The Venus disturbance, combined with earth and Mars, are sufficient to cause heavy and prolonged disturbances at any time throughout the month. Watch especially at each and all of the storm periods.

A regular storm period extends from the 10th to the 15th. On the central day of this period, the 13th, the moon is on the celestial equator and in perigee. It is in conjunction with earth and sun on the 11th, the exact centre of the greatest magnetic and electric perturbation of the whole year. The barometer and every other reliable indicator of approaching storms should be carefully heeded throughout this period. West Indian storms are entirely probable in central to southern parts, causing vicious thunderstorms and tornadoes. Watch the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th! A blizzard out of the north west will be natural on the western flank of these storms. The 10th to the 15th is also a very decided seismic-period. Watch for earthquake and volcanic reports.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 17th, 18th and 19th, with moon at extreme north declination. The storm chart also shows that the period is also near the centre of both the earth and Mars equinoxes. It is a coincidence not seen in ages that they should fall exactly together on March 21st. Violent storms may or may not occur at this time, but on and touching the 17th, 18th and 19th is another time to exercise calm and prudent watchfulness and care. Change to high barometer and much colder will come out of the northwest behind these storms.

A regular storm period, as full of storm possibilities as any in the month is central on the 24th, extending from 22nd to 27th. The mercury equinox also adds to its strength at this period, on the 25th. Tropical storms, of the nature of hurricanes will be natural southward, with a boreal counterpart of blizzards of sleet and snow to the northward. The crisis of this period will strike progressively from west to east from the 24th to the 27th. Watch and see. Within three days of noon on the 25th is another marked seismic period. Earthquakes in various sections of the globe, both at this period and from March 9th to 15th, will most likely be attended by volcanic disturbances in volcanic regions, also by abnormal magnetic and electric currents and maximum flashes of auroral lights in the northern regions. A general and severe cold wave for March will most likely come out of the northwest and sweep far into the southeastern part of the country in the rear of advancing storm areas. It will touch most parts of the country between the 25th and 29th. Be on guard against such phenomena.

A reactionary storm period centres on the 30th and 31st. This is at the crisis of the Mercury disturbance, and so near the centre of the Mars and earth periods on the 21st that prolonged storms of rain, sleet and snow should not be surprising during the last week of March.

SIR HENRY IRVING'S SON HERE NEXT TUESDAY MARCH 1

Being Starred With His Wife Mabel Hackney in "The Affinity"

Laurence Irving and his talented wife, Mabel Hackney, come to the Grand theatre next Tuesday, March 1st, under the direction of the Shuberts, which will mark the first appearance in this city of the late Sir Henry Irving's son as a star. Both Mr. Irving and Miss Hackney were associated with Sir Henry and toured America on several occasions with him. For their forthcoming engagement, Mr. Irving and Miss Hackney will be seen in the principal roles of Eugene Brieux's comedy of errors, "The Affinity," which was originally produced in France under the title of "Les Hannetons." Few plays have created such a discussion as did "The Affinity" when produced in New York at the Comedy Theatre. Much of this was due to the fact that the play deals rather broadly with illicit relations, and the additional fact that, while classified as a comedy, the author himself, calls it one of the saddest plays he ever wrote. Its aim, however is laughter, although sober reflection is sure to follow in the wake of this amusing little play. The seat sale opened this morning.

SPARKLES WITH MUSICAL GEMS

The first real big musical attraction of the season to play a return engagement at the Grand, will be John P. Slocum's stupendous production of Julian Edwards charming comic opera success "The Gay Musician," which will be seen here for the second time next Monday evening, Feb. 28th.

The success achieved by "The Gay Musician" throughout Canada will long be remembered and it was generally conceded that no other attraction had met with so much favor in many years as did this big production.

Manager Slocum has spared no expense in gathering the artists that he desired for this season and he has engaged a remarkable company. The cast of principals is an all-star one in its ensemble. The most fascinating show girls of New York, the most skilful dancers for the ballet, and "the best singing chorus in America," have been secured. An entirely new scenic production as well as the most costly of imported French gowns help to make "The Gay Musician the best comic opera seen in years.

The music of "The Gay Musician" is written in the style of the well-known composer, Julian Edwards, and of his thirty musical comedies and comic operas the composer thinks he has accomplished his best work in "The Gay Musician." The score sparkles with musical gems, ranging from dreamy love-waltzes to concerted numbers and stirring marches.

In keeping with the plane of the music of the opera, are the book and lyrics by Siedle and Campbell. The writers have evolved a clean and legitimate up-to-date story and never descend to buffoonery, horse-play or vulgarity to secure laughter.

With music, lyrics and book of the standard set by Edwards, Siedle and Campbell, Manager Slocum has spent his best efforts in securing a company of the highest excellence to interpret the composition. The comic opera was one of the few real successes of last season and is this season proving its worth by playing to capacity audiences wherever it has been presented. During the long run of the opera at Wallack's Theatre in New York, last year it played to capacity houses nightly and was followed by a tour of the large cities of the east, and is now making a transcontinental tour that will embrace every large city from coast to coast. Judging from the large demand for seats the engagement here will be a big success in every way.

LITTLE CHANGE IN MARKET PRICES

Very little change was noted in the market prices this morning. The offering in butter, eggs and other lines up in the market hall were not in excess of the demand and those who arrived late had very little to choose from. Turkeys sold at from $1.50 to $2.75 per pair, chickens 80c. to $1.50 per pair, butter and eggs from 26c. to 2bc. As high as 30 cents was asked for some butter and some eggs.

On the market square the usual prices prevailed.

LIBERALS HOLD A PUBLIC MEETING

Naval Question Was Discussed—Mr. Stratton Announces His Stand on the Issue

A meeting was held in the Grand Opera House last evening, under the auspices of the Liberal Association of West Peterborough, and there was a fair attendance. The speakers were Mr. J. H. Stratton, M.P.; Dr. Beland, M.P. for Beauce County, Que.; Mr. E. M. Macdonald, M.P., for Pictou, Nova Scotia, and Mr. D. O'Connell.

The chair was occupied by Mr. J. J. Hartley, president of the Liberal Association, and Mr. F. D. Kerr was also on the platform.

The naval question was the principal theme of discussion, and the trend of the addresses was to show that the French Canadians were loyal to Britain, and had no desire to break away from the Empire.

A large number of ladies were in the audience. The Grand Opera House orchestra was in attendance, and played bars of "O, Canada," "Rule Britannia," and other patriotic airs at different points in the speeches.

Mr. Stratton referred to the rapid industrial development of Canada and bespoke a great future for the Dominion. Speaking on the naval question, Mr. Stratton declared himself as follows: "If we are going to have a navy we shall have that navy built upon our own shores. We have all the raw material to build a navy, and we will see grow up a large shipbuilding yard in the east, and another one in the west."

Mr. Stratton opposed a money contribution to aid in the naval defence of the Empire. Great Britain, he said, did not require a present of twenty or twenty-five millions from Canada. There was plenty of money in England, as evidenced by the large amount of British capital invested in Canada each year. By building a Canadian navy Canadians would help themselves by starting a shipbuilding industry, protect our own trade routes, and be able to help Britain when help was required.

Mr. Stratton said he did not worry much about the German war scare. Germany did an immense business with England and, being a business nation, would not imperil that commerce by going to war with England.

Speaking of the object of the meeting, Mr. Stratton said he believed the people's representatives in Parliament should discuss the questions of the day with their constituents as frequently as possible.

Dr. Beland, who is considerable of an orator, spoke in defence of the Laurier naval policy, and affirmed that the French-Canadians were loyal to the British flag. The Liberal members from Quebec were unanimous in supporting the Laurier naval policy, whereas the French Conservative members from that province were accusing Sir Wilfrid of handing Quebec "bound hand and foot" over to England.

"Since the treaty of Paris was signed in 1763, the French of Canada have remained true to the British King," said Dr. Beland. "They assisted England in 1812, and remained loyal when the thirteen United States fought for their independence in 1776."

Dr. Beland opposed a money contribution to Britain, and condemned the proposition to have a plebiscite on the question. It was not practicable and would tend to stir up religious and racial prejudices.

Dr. Beland spoke in French for a few minutes.

Mr. Macdonald dwelt on the rapid development of Canada and the splendid future she was going to have. The Canadian navy was the natural evolution of the progress of the country.

Mr. D. O'Connell was the last speaker. He contended that the French-Canadians were loyal, and made a plea for peace and harmony among all classes composing the nation.

The meeting closed with the usual cheers.

The Canadian Order of Foresters Annual Banquet will be held in Simcoe Street Hall on Monday, Feb. 28th. Tickets 50c. 1d

ANOTHER DOG TO BE DISPATCHED

This morning Magistrate Dumble ordered that a vicious dog, which bit several people in Ashburnham, be shot.

A resident of that place complained that the animal had used his teeth on him, and there was evidence to show that he had attacked others. The defendant in the case denied ownership and stated that the dog had been in the habit of making its home about his place.

THE MAN IN A RUT

The man in a rut is there because he would not take a chance. He did not dare to go on. He waited for someone to come and present to him an offer of better things on a silver platter. This man in the rut waited and the world went on and left him behind.

He forgot that time was bumping along; that the world was full of men and women who would not wait for someone to come along with an invitation for them to step up to a higher seat; to the post of greater advantage. He forgot that there was a bold audacious, daring crowd of people with a cold glitter in their eyes waiting for the door of opportunity to open just enough for them to stick one toe into the crack. They asked for nothing more. They had waited long, and any prudish notions which they had ever had about modesty had fallen away long, long ago. They were hungry for better things, hungry for the strife, and willing to fight in rough and tumble fashion for a chance at something better. While the man in the rut was waiting for formal notification of something better some of this crowd thrust their fingers into the first aperture that appeared and tore open the door of their opportunity with the same absence of ceremony with which a husky fireman, axe in hand, goes smashing into the rooms in a hotel when orders have been given to clear out the house.

The waiting crowd never thought that they were going to be invited higher, but they felt that a higher place was their own, and they had no compunction about claiming that which belonged to them — claiming their own in a way to inspire respect.

When the man in a rut saw opportunities to do something better he looked a little while at the optimistic side but a longer time at the darker side. He believed in the latter, and of course the neglect prevailed. It is always the thing that we believe in that triumphs. The man in a rut did not profoundly believe in such opportunities as came his way.

He saw possibilities but not probabilities. He believed in nothing better than that which he had, and of course he got nothing better. Things sometimes do fall from the heavens but friction with the air cushion burns them up before they reach us.

Down and out made himself a spectator instead of a participant in the fight for success, and consequently he was without the circle when the rewards were passed.

A TERRIBLE SUFFERER FOR THREE YEARS

But Health Was Completely Restored by Dr. Williams Pink Pills

Extreme anguish; pains in the joints that all but drive one crazy—thus may inflammatory rheumatism be described. The victims are to be pitied—to them life is one long torture; they suffer by day, and cannot sleep by night. Such was the condition of Miss Alida Mercier, of Ottawa, Ont. For three years she was a victim of this trouble, and found no relief till she began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:—"For three years I was a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism. During that time I consulted and was treated by some of the best doctors in our city, but I found no relief in their treatment. I began to despair of ever being well again, when one day a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I procured three boxes, and by the time these were used there was enough improvement in my condition to encourage me to continue their use. Three more boxes completely cured me, and to-day I am as well as ever I was. I always keep a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house and would recommend all who suffer as I did to give them a trial."

It was the new blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually made that restored Miss Mercier to health and strength. There is no medicine to equal them in making new blood and in this way they cure anaemia, rheumatism, heart palpitation, indigestion, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance and many other troubles. LIMELIGHT VIEWS ON ROAD MAKING N.Y. State Highway Commission Will Lend Lantern Slides for Good Roads Convention.

A novel feature will be introduced this year at the convention of the Good Roads Association of the province which will be held in Toronto on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, March 2nd, 3rd and 4th.

In connection with the address of Mr. F. N. Godfrey, Master of the New York State Grange, limelight views of roads under construction in this State will be given, showing the gradual transformation, as well as the machinery and methods used in this expert roadmaking. These views are the property of the State Highway Commission.

Among those who have accepted the invitation to be present and address the convention is Hon. Harold Parker, governor member of the Massachusetts Highway Commission. Mr. Parker will be present on Thursday, March 3rd, afterwards going to Ottawa to speak to the Canadian Club on March 5th, and to be the guest of the Governor-General until the following morning.

Among the subjects that will be treated at the convention by Ontario road engineers, will be "Improvement of Old Gravel Roads," "Roadmaking Machinery," "Raising Funds for Road Construction," "Cost Data of Road Building," "Relation of Cities to Good Roads," "Township Road Systems," and many others.

Reduced fares have been secured for the convention.

PROPOSED RAILWAY WOULD OPEN UP AN EXTENSIVE AREA NORTH OF THIS CITY

Line Running North From Peterborough Would Bring a Large Amount of Trade and to a Great Deal Towards Development of Country That is Now With Railway Accommodation --- Review Correspondent Goes into the Question.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I have read with much interest correspondence in the Review regarding the necessity for a railway from Peterborough to the northern townships. I have also in mind several attempts to organize a company to carry out this important project. Indeed, one provisional company was formed about twenty-five years ago, and obtained a charter which lapsed for want of local support.

The chief cause of failure hitherto has been apathy of the business men of Peterborough, together with opposition of some of the advocates of the Trent Canal, foolishly imagining that the construction of such a railway would jeopardize the chances for completion of the canal. Experience of other countries has been the reverse. In England there are and have been for a hundred and fifty years, and up to the present, canals built wherever possible and required, and during the last seventy years, the age of railways, almost every canal is paralleled by railways, both enjoying a fair share of business.

Now this proposed railway would cross the canal nearly at right angles and open up a country that cannot be reached by canal. It is a new railway territory, as any one can see by looking at the map, possessing immense quantities of produce, cedar poles for electric lines, cedar, hemlock and tamarac railway ties, tanbark, hard, soft and mixed cordwood, basswood and cedar for canoe builders, birch, elm and ash for woodenwares and furniture manufacturers, pulpwood for paper makers, white oak and rock elm for carriage builders, and all kinds of timber for contractors and builders; minerals, the best grade of iron ore in great abundance stone of various kinds for builders and lime makers, marl and rock for cement; water powers at present running to waste; large areas of good land for settlers; sheep, horse and cattle ranches, good hunting and fishing, beautiful summer resorts, and an excellent market for Peterborough merchants, wholesale and retail, manufacturers, banks, hotels and general business. The I.B. & O. Railway extending easterly from a point on Haliburton branch of the G.T.R. a short distance north of Kinmount, through the north end of this county (about to be absorbed by the Canadian Northern system), although it serves several villages, cuts off communication with Peterborough and takes the trade of our northern townships to Lindsay, while the Central Ontario Railway on the east draws that portion of trade to Trenton and Belleville.

At Peterborough all traffic can be distributed east, west and south, and in the near future a line will be built to connect with the Canadian Northern now building their trunk line north of the G.T.R. main line.

A line from Peterborough north via Burleigh and Apsley, forming a junction with the I.B. & O. Railway, at Wilberforce; with the Canadian Atlantic at Whitney; with the C.P.R. at Mattawa, and thence by a short extension connecting with the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario by which connection will be made with the Grand Trunk Pacific.

So far as reaching the north end of our own county, there are no serious construction difficulties to be encountered; for further extension I feel confident the demand will find ways and means.

This scheme as a whole may appear too ambitious, but I have endeavored to show what chances exist for a trunk line running through an entirely new country, and in order to finance a railway or other project, sufficient evidence must be adduced to ensure its future success.

I would therefore suggest that the City Council and Board of Trade take up this matter seriously, get a provisional company organized, apply for a charter have a preliminary survey made, and lose no time about it.

It will be remembered that this policy was adopted by Toronto at the beginning of her industrial career. After the main lines of the G.T.R. and G.W.R. systems were established Toronto pushed out the Northern Railway to Collingwood and subsequently to North Bay, the Toronto, Gray and Bruce, the Toronto and Nipissing, and the Credit Valley Railways, afterwards absorbed by the G.T.R. and C.P.R. since when the Canadian Pacific, Grand Trunk and Canadian Northern have concentrated all their central divisions in that city.

A somewhat similar policy adopted by Peterborough would work wonders. We have never had a "Railway Policy," and the time is approaching when negotiations should be opened with our "Third Great Railway System of Canada," the Canadian Northern. The C.P.R. grain route is already under construction at its northern terminus, and there will be others.

Yours,

PETERBOROUGH.

RELATIONS OF THE CHURCH AND THE THEATRE

If Bad Plays Should be Condemned Good Ones Should be Patronized by Christians

Winnipeg, Feb. 24.—At a meeting of the Ministerial Association to-day Rev. Dr. Bland spoke on "The Relation of the Church to the Theatre." He assumed that all held the Christian view that God made man and that every natural power of man was good and right, and evil was disproportion, unbalanced relation. No element of human nature was to be suppressed. The dramatic was an element of human nature. It had been an element in all civilization, except, possibly, the lowest. The drama developed as civilization developed. Being then an element of human nature the drama must have its place, its function. It was a mistake to suppose it ought to be suppressed. The speaker's conclusion was that the theatre had to be redeemed. But the question was, how? It was a difficult business. The theatre in its present form was a menace, an injury, and weakening to the church. An increasing number of church members were going to the theatre. "Better not," had broken down as a policy. He approved of civic control of bill-boards, also of police censorship; but the church was not exercising its full power in merely denouncing bad plays, so long as she stayed away from good ones. The assumption of the right to criticise involved the obligation to reward play writers, managers and theatrical companies who produced noble, instructive and edifying plays.

That the theatre might be redeemed by Christian people led by the ministers, discrimination must be exercised. Encourage with patronage, with appreciation of anything good; then the bulk of Christian people would go with discrimination. The press would give correct guidance as to what was good and what was not good, and people would follow the discrimination. Managers would concern themselves with the best views of the community. Encourage the writing and presentation of good plays by rewarding those who put on good plays.

NOT PERSONALLY FAMILIAR WITH IT.

Dr. Bland did not profess to have much personal knowledge of the theatre. He had only been to three plays in his life; but he had conversed with those who had gone; and he looked over the dramatic columns of the newspapers; and he had come to the conclusion that there were many plays that were unobjectionable. While some were frivolous, and some gave little more amusement, yet people needed a little fun. He named various plays that he considered wholesome and good. There were useful plays that dealt with social conditions, serious plays, plays with a purpose, plays dealing with problems of the day. If a novel had a purpose, why not a play which has a more powerful influence. It was a noble purpose which led to the expenditure of $3,000,000 to provide a place for the presentation of the best. He asked: "Is the church helping actors and actresses? Don't we give them a bad name?

THE DISCUSSION.

Dr. DuVal led in a discussion of the subject. He considered Dr. Bland's address eminently sane, and he favored making it a place for education, and for ennobling mind and moral.

Rev. Mr. Hoffman, Baptist German minister, asked three questions: "Would any minister encourage his son or daughter to go on the stage? Do we hear of any actors or actresses who become converted, going on with the business? When an actor on the stage offers prayer, is it not hypocrisy? Should Christians go on the stage with others not Christians?

Dr. DuVal in answering, commended the example of Edwin Booth who spent his fortune trying to elevate the character of the theatre.

Rev. J. Olander said that since he became a Christian he had had no desire for the theatre. He considered the theatre as an institution thoroughly bad. He thought that if the theatre was reformed and elevated it would have to be supported, like the churches, by voluntary offerings.

Dr. Bland, in answer to Mr. Hoffman, expressed his belief that there were actors and actresses who were earnest Christians. He admitted that personally he would be very sorry to see a dear friend go on the stage, as it is at present. As to actors leaving the profession when they were converted, he had known lawyers and business men, who, when they were converted, gave up their occupations and became ministers. There was a time when church members had little to do with sports, but now the churches had taken hold of sport, removed what was objectionable and elevated it; so he thought good people should make the theatre wholesome and clean.

A CLASS OF COLLEGE GIRLS TAKING A FENCING LESSON OUT DOORS

"SALUTE, young ladies!" And at the sound of the fencing master's voice a score of girls swing into position, bodies that were inert quiver with excitement of a coming bout with foils, eyes sparkle with excitement, and there follows a ring of steel against steel, telling that the fencing lesson has begun.

"It is marvellous what I have been able to accomplish with my class," confided the enthusiastic master during a rest in the daily practice. "When I took them six months ago they were awkward and ungainly, hardly a single movement had grace and attractiveness. Now look at them. Are they not quick, sinuous, alert and well developed young ladies? Where could you find a more graceful carriage, a greater amount of suppleness and lightness? Ah, believe me, there is nothing in all the list of exercises so beneficial to the feminine figure as fencing, and no girl should neglect taking lessons with the foils for at least one year if she looks forward to a successful social career, where grace counts for almost as much as beauty.

"Fencing lessons will do more for the improvement of the feminine outline than any other exercise. A girl who is too stout cannot fence well, so if she practises regularly the surplus fat disappears as if by magic. And the girl that is too thin for the present beauty standard fills out wonderfully after she has had a few months' hard work with the foils. Fencing seems to smooth out all the imperfections of contour. And that is not its greatest advantage. The quick movements required in practice will quicken the sluggish temperament. Fencing improves the vision, because a fencer must learn to see quickly and the body learns to move in the most graceful attitudes: Fencing means grace. One cannot become expert with the foils without acquiring sinuous and attractive poses, and the movements learned in this sport are used unconsciously in every other. A good fencer will develop into a good dancer. To be able to dance, however, does not mean that one can fence right off, but the various positions will come more readily to the beginner who understands the art of dancing than to the novice."

GIRLS' schools invariably include fencing among their list of exercises, and the classes are always popular. In the expensive schools high priced fencing masters are employed and the girls are taught to handle the foils with such skill that they can parry and thrust with their brothers. In the city there are a few excellent clubs for the purpose of promoting interest in this noble art. Tournaments are frequently held, and exhibitions which are a credit to the teachers and pupils are given during the fencing season.

For a girl who has grown a bit rusty on fencing and needs only a few pointers the following will be found useful, and even the amateur who wants to learn the art of fencing will find them of great value:—First of all the fencer should learn how to grasp the foil. This should be held firmly so that a quick strain from the adversary's thrust will not loosen the hold, yet it should not be gripped or the hilt clutched in the hand. Too firm a hold will strain the wrist and forearm. Let the hand lie flat on the convex part of the hilt, forefinger extended along the foil and the other fingers curled about the hilt and resting flat against the left side, touching each other lightly.

There is a great deal of science in the grasp of the foil, for through her blade the fencer understands her opponent's play and her sword must be free to ward it off with lightning quickness.

THE first attitude assumed by the fencer as she steps forward or to the centre of the field before placing herself on guard is as follows:—Stand with the body erect, heels just touching and toes pointed out, the right toe in a straight line with that of the opponent and the left foot at a sharp angle to the right. While the body is held erect it is swung slightly to the right, thus presenting a three-quarter view to the adversary. The sword hand is held on a line with the head. The left arm is allowed to swing at the side, not close to the body, however, and with the palm of the hand turned outward.

The salute is a picturesque posture and is a preliminary to the battle. While in the position just described the fencers stand at the correct distance from each other, this being determined by the length of arms and foils, and the arms of both fencers fall gracefully at their sides, the buttons on the foils just touching the floor. They should strike it a little toward the left of the right foot. At a signal both fencers step forward, raising the right arm until it is on a level with the top of the head, blades extended. The hands then drop to a line with the chin, almost touching it and the blades continuing upright. With a quick movement they sweep downward and to the right, this being one of the most attractive and graceful of the fencing movements.

With another quick movement the blade is brought forward and the tip of the foil grasped in the left hand, both arms raised over the head, and after a second or two the left hand falls to the side slowly and half bent, elbow down and the hand on a line with the ear. It is held some distance from the head, fingers pointing upward, while the right hand falls into position for "on guard" and the signal for the struggle to begin is given.

THE position of "on guard," the second in the series, is equally interesting. Lower the right hand from first position, turning the knuckles downward and move the blade so that the left hand grasps it lightly. Then raise both hands slowly and gracefully above the head, allow the left hand to loosen its grasp and fall into position at the back of the head, keeping the arms bent and half outstretched so that the open palm is on a level with the head. Then move the right hand to the front, just a trifle below the breast and to the right, with the elbow coming close to the body. Hold the foil in a horizontal position so that its tip is on a line with the eyes. Now advance the right foot about eighteen inches, being careful to keep the right heel on a line with the left, and allow the weight of the body [illegible] on both feet, so that one leg feels no more strain than the other. In this position the body is well balanced, yet poised so that the quickest possible movement can be made without any difficulty.

The lunge or extension now follows, and this is one of the hardest to manage. Stretch the right arm from its former position close to the body until it moves straight out at the same height as the shoulders. The body should never be the least bit rigid in this position, in fact pliability is one of the greatest qualities of the skilful fencer. Neither should the [illegible] be bent in this movement. Advance the right foot a stride, keeping the knee directly in line with the instep. Do not lean forward or backward, except when advancing or retreating, and be sure that the body is upright. One of the easiest errors to fall into is bending as the body retreats or advances. When there is no one at hand to call attention to such errors the fencer is apt to acquire bad habits, and for this reason class work is excellent practice.

IN moving forward or backward the start is always made with the right foot and followed by the left. One of the first rules given by the instructor is to take small steps, never long strides. The position can be changed or shifted by ending the right knee forward or straightening it. This will move the body forward or backward, the distance of the movement depending upon the degree of the bend. When retreating or stepping backward always start with the reverse foot, that is, with the left and follow with the right.

FENCING terms are unintelligible to the novice. "Tierce" means when the fencers have their foils crossed with points upward and blades to the right of each other. When in the same position with the sword points to the left of each other the fencers are engaged in "quarte." A lunge in "tierce" is thrusting to the right and high, in "quarte" the same movement is made with the sword [illegible] left.

The regulation fencing costume is one of the most picturesque of athletic attire. Short skirts are essential and sometimes they are accordion pleated. The plain gored skirt is as practicable as any. School girls often wear their gymnasium suits, and when they practice in the open air they don sweaters. The athletic field or the lawn outside the gymnasium is an excellent practice ground for the fencing classes and instructors have found that girls like the open air work far more than they do full practice indoors.

A College Girl's Touring Equipment.

IN anticipation of a trip of several weeks' duration through a region where first class hostleries are conspicuously absent, a college girl of practical mind has provided herself with a number of small and easily packed conveniences.

Into a flat dressing case of pigskin lined with morocco and fitted with tooth and soap boxes she has found space for a manicure set, a sanitary closed case containing a hair brush having a celluloid plate under the bristles to insure easy cleansing, a package of non-scented dry shampoo powder for freeing the hair of oil and dust, a metal box holding a tiny powder puff, a securely fastened wooden case for quarter ounce screw top bottles of ammonia, peroxide and witch hazel and a silk lined morocco heart-shaped affair holding four sterling silver ribbon runners and thread reels. A bevelled mirror set into the back of a four by eight inch black seal envelope purse which holds stationery, a fountain pen and its filler is protected by a feather weight rubberized silk raincoat and hat and a dark hooded kimono which can be folded into an infinitesimal amount of space.

In addition to the toilet conveniences the travelling case accommodates a pint coffee pot of dull copper with a removable inside percolator, a nickel teapot, which may be tilted to regulate the beverage to the desired strength, a poacher which cooks six eggs and a non-explosive alcohol chafing dish lamp which generates its own gas.

Birthday Dolls.

THE girl who wishes to remember the birthday anniversary of some small feminine relative or friend will find a visit to the doll emporiums entertaining and instructive. Instead of the conventional baby features and garb, dolls now have faces of varying ages and are dressed accordingly.

There are replicas of the "summer girl," golfing, tennis, yachting and motoring enthusiast, bride, widow, French maid, waitress and cook—all suitably garbed. Japanese tea room attendants, Dutch, Eskimo and Indian children, with different types of faces and in native costume, and infant dolls, have countenances modelled from life by expert artists.

Everything that an American doll wears is now to be purchased ready made. There are fashionable frocks, gowns, bath robes, wraps, rubberized rain coats, Leghorn, straw, chiffon and lace hats and every imaginable accessory.

SOME SMART HATS EASILY TRIMMED

IT is somewhat a pity that the lingerie hats are no longer worn—they were so universally becoming, so attractive to make one's self and withal so singularly appropriate with the style of simple morning dress for which they were designed. However, no fashion can remain forever in favor, and the straw hats with large Alsatian bows of lace bordered lawn that are now so smart are certainly extremely effective.

It is rather a fad among young girls this year to be decidedly "sporty" in appearance on the tennis court or golf links, and, in fact, for whatever form of outdoor fun or exercise they may pursue, the costumes contrasting sharply with the charmingly pretty and girlish frocks and hats which are donned in the afternoon. Soft brimmed, comfortable Panama straws are worn again for riding, tennis and all forms of more or less strenuous exercise, but, unfortunately, only a girl with curly hair can look attractive in a Panama, for this hat requires to be worn far down on the head in a way which hopelessly flattens straight hair.

With the hair worn low on the neck or in a braid down the back a wide brimmed sailor is almost invariably becoming, and this year both white and black sailors are in vogue, the later being, perhaps, the more fashionable. Mushroom sailors are still in evidence, but flat sailors are more in demand than was the case last year.

White duck and pique hats, severely plain, with only a linen scarf and bowknot or large rosette as ornamentation, are delightfully cool and light. There is no hat, in fact, which so well takes the place of an embroidered linen or batiste morning hat.

With simple gowns of linen or gingham altogether the prettiest hats this year are those either of natural colored linen ornamented with an enormous bowknot of plain or bright colored ribbon or the wide brimmed chip straws trimmed with large double bowknots of finest lace or mull bordered with Valenciennes or baby Irish edging.

These new hats are, fortunately, no more difficult for a girl to make and trim herself than were the lingerie hats of a few summers back. First a good straw shape must be found, which, if too mushroom in effect, can be raised up on the head by means of a flat bandeau or velvet "halo." It is almost always possible at this time of the year to find a good untrimmed sailor shape in white, yellow, black or any colored straw desired.

The large bowknot is then made of finest French mousseline or perhaps a sheer embroidered batiste, the lace edge gathered in slightly to give a softer look. Any girl can surely make a pretty double loop or Alsatian bowknot, this being placed just in the centre of the hat, with one end of the knot left sufficiently long to encircle the crown.

This model can be carried out in any color or combination of colors that may be desired, and it is not a bad plan to have for one hat several different bowknots of various shades to change according to the gown with which the hat is worn.

Linen and pique wide brimmed flat hats are not so very difficult to do and are certainly worth attempting, so smart are they this season.

First a good wire shape must be procured, and this has only to be covered with a piece of linen of the desired shade. The best and safest way of covering a flat wire shape is by cutting first a good pattern in paper or cambric, this being done by placing a piece of the material over the top of the hat, cutting a slit in the centre so that it can slip down over the crown, and then, when the material fits flat on the brim, cutting it even around the edge of the brim.

The lining for the under side of the brim is made in the same way, the only difficult part being the neat joining of this facing. The top of the crown, of course, must be perfectly smooth and flat, but the sides of the crown can be hidden by the material or ribbon of which the bow is formed.

There are any number of variations possible in this style of hat—shirring about the crown and brim, cording, rows of tucks, all add to the charm of the model, but for a beginner the simple design is unquestionably the best.

A hat is undoubtedly the most important part of a costume, but an expensive hat is not necessary, at any rate in the summer, when a girl has plenty of time to turn out any number of fascinating hats. Even if she has not sufficient talent to make for herself a large, dainty Alsatian bow, she can then find a becoming straw shape in white or yellow and have made and wired a number of different colored ribbon bowknots, which she can change each time a different colored frock is donned.

FASHIONS FOR HOME MADE LINGERIE

DIMITY instead of plain nainsook or fine linen is just now extremely popular for all kinds of underwear, and for the girl who makes all or a great part of her own lingerie this is a fad well worth knowing of, for dimity, having a pattern of its own, calls for far less trimming than a plainer fabric. Dimity of a pretty check or stripe design requires little more adornment than a single edging of lace and perhaps some little tucking, whereas all batiste undergarments are profusely trimmed with hand embroidery and countless insertions of lace.

Both night dresses and chemises are ridiculously simple to make, and if a girl will only keep herself supplied in these two departments of her lingerie she will have sufficient saved to buy what else she may desire. The prettiest pattern for a summer nightgown is square cut, low neck, with short kimono or cap sleeves, the only trimming being a flat band of beading sufficiently wide for a one-inch ribbon about the neck and the same at the end of the sleeves. An edging of lace an inch or less in width and perhaps a few rows of tucks run below the beading will make as attractive a nightdress as could be desired. This gown slips on over the head, the ribbons being tied in front at each corner, so that there are no troublesome buttonholes and button slips to make.

It is an excellent plan to buy one night dress of an especially pretty design and good fit as a sample from which to cut the others. If, however, a girl does not feel that she can expend so much as a really pretty gown costs she can buy a paper pattern which will answer all requirements and is, in fact, easier to cut from.

For chemise and corset cover as well as night dress a square neck is now preferred to a round or V shape. Not only is the square more becoming, but over this shape the waist will be found to fit better and also give a wider shoulder line.

If a chemise is worn instead of a corset cover it must not be longer than a few inches below the waist, else it will cause the skirt of the dress to fit badly. A girl cannot commence too young to see to it that her underskirts and corset cover fit smoothly in order that her outer dress will look trim and neat and all unnecessary fulness and wrinkles be avoided. For this reason a fitted corset waist is preferable to a chemise, which, unless it is fitted in at the waist with the lower part or skirt added separately below a band of beading, is sure to interfere with the fit of the shirt waist and skirt worn over it.

Cheap lace is of all things to be avoided on underwear, and if a girl cannot afford a really good Valenciennes she should content herself with fine embroidery. For a young girl the most attractive undergarments are of a sheer quality of linen, trimmed only with hand scalloping and perhaps some simple design of hand embroidery. The open English embroidery is now preferred to the French and Swiss work, and this is of course the most effective. Also Irish lace, or rather baby Irish edging and insertion, have taken the place for the moment of the finer Valenciennes, which, exquisitely pretty as it is when first put on, never looks well after the first washing. Irish, on the other hand, is, if anything, improved by soap, water and ironing.

When she is making her own lingerie a girl should always turn out her undergarments in complete sets and not wear a lace trimmed chemise with an embroidered corset waist or a petticoat trimmed with one kind of lace and a waist of another design.

Naturally, too, of course, all garments must be trimmed with the one shade of ribbon. This summer white ribbon is preferred for the under waist and petticoat when a gown of sheer texture is worn, and satin is now in vogue rather than the wash ribbon formerly so fashionable. The satin, however, must be double faced.

It is as important to-day for a petticoat to have its band of inch wide beading with ribbon run through as for the corset waist itself to be thus adorned. Beading can always be added to a skirt above the flounce, and if the skirt itself is of sufficiently good quality and trimming it is well worth while to add this little finish should the skirt have been bought without it.

Silk shirts are decidedly costly, but to make are comparatively inexpensive, and for warm weather are both hygienic and comfortable. Cut from any silk or paper pattern. The underskirt can easily be finished at the neck with a narrow beading and an edging of lace. With a little ingenuity a tiny wreath or small floral spray can be drawn on the skirt and easily embroidered, thus making this garment the equal of the most expensive article of its kind to be found in the shops.

Attention Sick Women

If you had positive proof that a certain remedy for female ills had made many remarkable cures, would you not feel like trying it?

If during the last thirty years we have not succeeded in convincing every fair-minded woman that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured thousands and thousands of women of the ills peculiar to their sex, then we long for an opportunity to do so by direct correspondence. Meanwhile read the following letters which we guarantee to be genuine and truthful.

Lindsay, Ont.—"I think it is no more than right for me to thank Mrs. Pinkham for what her kind advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. When I wrote to her some time ago I was a very sick woman, suffering from female troubles. I had inflammation of the female organs, and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed, and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now after using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman. I most heartily recommend this medicine to all women who suffer with female troubles. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and think they are fine."—Mrs. Frank Emsley, Lindsay, Ontario.

Melbourne, Ia.—"I am thankful for the great good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I suffered many years from chronic inflammation and bearing down pains. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to health."—Mrs. Clara Watermann, R. D. No. 1, Melbourne, Iowa.

There is absolutely no doubt about the ability of this grand old remedy, made from the roots and herbs of our fields, to cure female diseases.

For 20 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

FINE TOILET TIPS.

Creams and Lotions That May Be Made at Home.

Any girl can have the very best toilet articles if she will make them herself, and many of them offered for sale at the stores will often do a permanent injury to a delicate skin. Should a lotion be needed for perspiration stir one ounce of hydrate of chloral in one pint of soft boiled water and keep in a bottle. Apply with soft old linen and allow the lotion to dry on the skin. To keep the hands in good condition have a preparation of vinegar and cornmeal ready for use, and after washing clothes or doing any work that soils the hands wash them in warm suds, rub the hands well with the cornmeal mixture, then dry and rub a few drops of honey and water well into the skin. An excellent and safe face powder is made by sifting half a pound of pure rice powder eight or ten times and then adding a few drops of oil of rose and a little carmine if you want the powder tinted. One of the best cucumber creams is made by cutting up two large cucumbers into half a cupful of water and allowing them to simmer for half an hour; then strain, add a cupful of boiling water, ten grains of powdered borax and enough tincture of benzoin to make the water look milky and bottle when cool. The skin may be kept in fine condition by using a little borax in the water every time the face and hands are washed and then rubbing this lotion well into the skin. An excellent fluid for keeping the scalp clean and free from dandruff is made with half a teaspoonful of the borax powder, a small piece of gum camphor and half a pint of soft water, and one of the best and safest washes for the mouth and teeth is made by adding one ounce of the powder to one pint of boiling water and then before it is cold adding half a teaspoonful of spirits of camphor. The hair tonic should be rubbed well into the scalp once a week. About two teaspoonfuls of the mouth wash in half a glass of water is the proper proportion, and the fluid whitens the teeth and keeps the gums in a healthy condition.

Done in white crape paper is this Jack Horner pie in the form of a shoe. It is designed for a bridal luncheon, as the orange blossom decoration shows. The gifts are attached to the ribbons and may be as costly as the bride can afford. Clever bride and groom place cards are seen down by the heel.

Klaw & Erlanger attractions will be given in the renovated Winning theatre.

LABOR LIFTS.

Small cold cream jars and the like, if scalded, make excellent containers for jelly which at some time or other you will desire to place in a lunch basket.

If you are beginning to have trouble with your feet, bathe them often, powder them freely, rub alcohol on them occasionally. Give them careful attention until you discover the sort of treatment they respond to.

Never remove a child from its bed at night and carry it about the room because it cries, for, besides being a bad habit, this is likely to give the child a cold, and if a child once knows it will be allowed to get up if it cries peace will be banished from the bedroom.

The purple stains caused by handling a typewriter ribbon may be removed from the hands with a cloth wet with pure alcohol. This treatment saves the necessity of a prolonged scrubbing and is far less injurious to delicate fingers. What a comfort this knowledge will be to the stenographer whose ribbon must always be changed just about the end of the day!

You do not have to rip the garment to be dyed, except in the case of lined coats. Place the clothes in cold water, bring to a boil, change the water several times as the old color comes out, then, having previously brought the dye to a boil in the wash boiler, as directed on the package, wring out and immerse the garments and boil for from fifteen to thirty minutes. Where your cloth is silk and cotton mixed, use first the dye for cotton, then that for silk. Rinse in cold water, wring gently by hand and iron before quite dry. Needless to say, have your clothes line in the shade.

If overalls become very much soiled with paint, place a pound of salsoda in a bucket partly filled with hot water and place the garment in and fill up with water. Allow this to remain so for, say, two days, when the overalls may be examined and scraped at the part most soiled, and if it's soft to the cloth remove to clear water and rinse out, after which place on a board and lay the legs flat. Then with clear water and brown soap and a scrub brush scrub until all the paint is removed, though a stain may remain. By this method the dirtiest overalls, some that will stand alone, may be made very white, and the cloth will not rot at all. The process may be repeated many times.

The regular monthly prayer meeting will be held at the Y.W.C.A. on Monday afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

On Tuesday evening, March 8th an illustrated lecture will be given on Florence, Venice, Milan and Rome.

Duffy, Brakeman

"Just a Big, Stupid Lad That's Faithful Entirely."

By FRANK H. SWEET.

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

Duffy, brakeman on No. 3, sat in the roundhouse with his head in his hands.

Katie had been accepting McArdle's attentions with ostentatious favor of late, and the evening before starting out, in his presence, she had turned to McArdle and spoken of the delights of trolley riding. It had resulted in a prompt invitation, while he stood stupidly by and listened.

So when the warning toot of the engine recalled the men from their lunch Duffy rose with all the indecision gone from his gray eyes and square chin.

An increasing rumble was vibrating the rails to the west. Another few minutes and the express would sweep in, making its three minutes' stop and then tear off into the east. As its rear car passed the rails of the siding the switch tender would connect the rails and allow the freight to roll out. Duffy climbed to the top of the last box car and grasped the brake wheel, then turned toward the engine and waited for the signal. His face was white, but inflexible, his gaze steady. The vibration became a roar, and the express rounded the curve and rushed down upon them, past the siding. Then came the signal, the brakes were loosed and the long freight straightened out upon the main track like a huge snake slipping from its lair.

It had been snowing for an hour, soft and sticky and clinging to whatever it touched. Presently the snow became rain, and a little later the weather dropped 20 degrees and the cozy mass froze into a smooth, solid coating over the tops of the cars.

Old brakemen know what that means—the worst peril in the lives of men who walk freights. Usually there is snow in the ice or the ice is frozen with enough roughness to allow foothold. But when it is perfectly smooth and so hard that a heavy boot can make no indentation then the brakeman knows that with all precautions he is very, very near to death. With the cars motionless it is a feat to walk the narrow planks of their tops; with them jerking and bumping and swaying on side grades and around curves it is a feat that well nigh becomes a miracle.

Duffy was naturally slow and methodical and, though daring all, careful to a degree. Fortunately there were few stops or grades that called for extra braking, and for the most part he was able to stay at the rear car brake and even occasionally during long runs to slip down into the caboose.

But as the afternoon grayed into evening and the evening blacked into night his face grew more troubled and anxious. Beyond Elton was a wild country, with sharp up and down grades where brakes would have to be frequently changed. On that part of the road in the darkness a careful man on top of the freight would be in such danger as the soldier facing batteries.

Duffy had been thinking of the hills and of the almost certain fate of reckless, inexperienced McArdle on the night trip through them. His square chin and white face meant the extending of the right hand of friendship to his successful rival and the giving up of any personal matter or advantage that would tend to the rival's help, for that would be the best way to help Katie. There was a scarcity of brakemen in the passenger service, and before long one of them would be sure of promotion. His name would come before McArdle's on the freight promotion. Now he must find some way to lower his record so that McArdle's name should rank first. The passenger service meant comparative safety and better remuneration.

But those hills! He had been thinking of them since the melted snow became rigid, glassy ice, and now the words of the experienced brakeman confirmed his worst fears. If McArdle took the hill trip there would be no use planning help for Katie through him. As for planning help without, if such thoughts occurred to Duffy they were spurned unceremoniously aside. Katie loved McArdle. But what could he do?

Nothing presented itself until they reached Marshall Junction, where the conductor found a telegram stating that No. 7, down freight, was an hour behind and that instead of waiting for her there they would hurry on and wait at Norwood, ten miles beyond Elton. This would bring them to Elton twelve minutes in advance of schedule and instead of remaining the usual twenty minutes they would only stop four or five, just long enough to change men. Usually the new shift were lounging about the station, smoking and exchanging experiences, but Duffy remembered that McArdle, with his customary recklessness, was in the habit of hurrying across the station at the last moment and swinging himself upon the train after it had started. With the remembrance came a sudden desperate plan.

Almost before the train stopped he was upon the platform, as were the conductor and other brakemen.

"Rush the new men out here, quick!" the conductor shouted. "We must make Norwood on time, and the icy rails will make it stiff work. Oh, here you are"—as the new shift hurried forward—"all but McArdle! Duffy, do you know where McArdle boards? We can't spare many minutes here."

"Yes, sir; he has a room just across the street. He's likely ready, but doesn't know we're here ahead of time."

"Well, let him know quicker than lightning. The rest of you swing up to your places."

Duffy ran across the station, through the opposite door, then circled round to the rear of the train, coming up on the far side. In two minutes he was standing on top of a car, with his hat tilted rakishly to one side in the manner that McArdle wore his. The conductor, hurrying back from the telegraph window where he had gone to see if there were later orders, saw the figure with its face turned away.

"Oh, there you are, McArdle!" he called. "All right." Then he shouted, "All aboard!" and his hand made a quick half circle in the air, and the engineer, looking back, saw and opened his throttle.

It was a night that Duffy and all others who walked freight trains on that road never forgot. An hour out, and the wind became a hurricane, sharp as needles and bitter as death. No brakeman thought of such a thing as attempting to walk upright on his cars. When it was necessary to cross from one brake to another they went in the only way possible, upon hands and knees, even crawling with fingers gripping the edges of the plank to keep from being swept away by the wind.

Duffy was vigilant and careful that night as he had never been before. Every movement of a foot, every grip of his fingers, was made with the thought that it might be the one which was to hold him back from death. But all his care, his vigilance, his tense muscles, were without avail. There was a sharp grade where the car wheels slipped on the icy rails and where the help of every brake became necessary. Duffy had set his and was edging across a car to assist a chilled neighbor when his foot slipped the fraction an inch. But it was enough for the wind and a sudden lurch to wrench him loose and send him slipping and rolling off the car top into the darkness.

When they picked him up and brought him back the trainmen said he was the luckiest man who had ever fallen from a car top under full speed, for he had struck upon a steep embankment and slid a hundred yards down the snow with only a broken leg and some bruises to show for the fall. As he had no people to notify, they took him straight to the Elton hospital, where he would be cared for by the railroad, though Duffy insisted that he should pay his own expenses. There was an odd look of content on his face as the surgeon made the examination. It was a small price to pay for McArdle's life and Katie's happiness.

He was not much surprised the next day to see Katie herself coming down between the cots, her face pale and her eyes full of tears, or to have her sink on her knees beside him and press her face down close to his. Katie was loving and impulsive, and of course she was grateful for what he had done. But there was a warm glow in his heart, nevertheless, even for this remembrance.

"Duffy, me own sweetheart," she whispered tenderly, "is it that you are not much hurt? Tell me for true, darlin'. They said it was just a broken leg an' some bruises, but maybe they was tryin' to make it aisy for me. Tell me true, an' how was it that ye was on McArdle's run? The men say the conductor told ye to tell him, an' McArdle says ye never come for him at all, at all."

Duffy had raised himself to an elbow. Now he sank back. Katie was excited, and she was loving and impulsive, and they had always been good friends.

"There wa'n't much time," he answered evasively. "The conductor said only a few minutes an' it was a bad night entirely, an' they would be needin' some one, so I wint."

Katie's tear dimmed eyes were studying him suspiciously.

"Was it for McArdle ye wint," she demanded suddenly, "him that is no friend to ye? It was a bad night entirely, as many a brakeman could tell if he was here, an' everybody knows that McArdle wid his foolish ways would have been one o' thim had he gone. Was it for him, Duffy?"

"No, it wasn't for him," he answered almost savagely. "It was for you, Katie, dart"—

His lips closed upon the word sharply, so sharply that the teeth met them, and a dark red line oozed along the grimly shut mouth. Then the mouth quivered, relaxed, and the gray eyes flung wide their lids with amazed inquiry. Two arms were around his neck, a fair, sweet face was pressed penitently against his, and tears, not from his own eyes, were wetting his cheeks.

"'Tis a bad crathure I am, acushla!" the girl sobbed. "But we've been sweethearts' ever since we were childer in school, Duffy, an' ye ought to have known. Only ye was so—so slow that I got tired wid the waitin', an' whin McArdle come along I thought I could make ye a bit jealous so maybe ye'd spake. An'—an' ye wint off to kill yoursilf for a light head that isn't worth your little finger. 'Tis a hero ye are, Duffy, an' I'm proud of ye, but I couldn't love ye a bit more. I—I"—The sobbing grew loud, and the face was raised so that sudden reproach flashed upon him through misty eyes. "'Tis shame for a girl whin a man is that slow an' stupid she has to do both the spakin' an' the spakin'," she said with pitying scorn. "I take back the words I just spoke. 'Tis no hero ye are, Duffy, but a big, stupid lad that's faithful entirely."

A WELL KNOWN MAGISTRATE SAVED AS BY A MIRACLE

REDUCED TO A SKELETON AND Doctors Pronounced Case Incurable

SAYS HE OWES HIS LIFE TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Magistrate Speers' signed statement illustrates the unfailing curative and tonic properties of "Fruit-a-tives"—the marvellous fruit medicine that has brought health and strength to thousands in every part of the Dominion.

HENRY SPEERS, Esq., J.P.

MOOREFIELD, ONT., March 25th, 1909.

"I feel that my complete recovery from what seemed inevitable death, is practically a miracle. I suffered from severe indigestion for nearly two years, and became almost a skeleton. I could not work—could not even walk. Two experienced doctors pronounced my case incurable. They could do nothing for me as they said my heart was affected. I looked forward to death in a short time. I not only had the doctors but tried many remedies and treatments, but got no better.

"My son asked me to try "Fruit-a-tives", and from the outset of taking these wonderful tablets, I was better and gradually this medicine completely cured me, and I have gained over thirty pounds in weight. I am well, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives". I am so well that I have sold my farm and bought 200 acres more land. I make this statement voluntarily for the sake of humanity, as I believe my recovery is a miracle, and I am convinced that "Fruit-a-tives" is a wonderful cure for Stomach Trouble".

HENRY SPEERS, J.P.

"Fruit-a-tives" cured Mr. Speers because "Fruit-a-tives" is the most wonderful stomach, heart and nerve tonic in the world. "Fruit-a-tives" acts directly on the stomach, insures sound digestion, regulates bowels and kidneys, purifies the blood, and relieves the distressing irritation of the heart.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world that is made of fruit juices. By the marvellous discovery of a well known physician, fruit juices are combined with heart and nerve tonics in such a way that a new compound is formed. It is this new compound—one of the greatest discoveries of the age—that has saved thousands of lives. It is why "Fruit-a-tives" cures when all else fails—why "Fruit-a-tives" gives instant relief when even the doctors cannot relieve the trouble. We state it, without hesitation, that "Fruit-a-tives" will positively cure every case of Indigestion and Dyspepsia, if properly used.

Remember, there is nothing else "just as good" or "just the same" as "Fruit-a-tives". Insist on having "Fruit-a-tives" and see that you get the genuine. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent post paid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

HOMES FOR POULTRY.

The Open Front Type That Gives Ventilation Now Popular.

A few years ago the open front poultry house was practically unknown. The tendency at that time was to construct houses that were very tight and ventilated by the opening of windows and in many instances by means of flues and cupolas. This type of house, as a rule, was more or less damp, and it did not take many years for progressive men to realize that damp houses meant cold houses and an abundance of disease. The result has been a gradual increase of the amount of fresh air in the house and less attention given to warmth until today we have what is known as the open or cloth front house. One can still find, however, many types of poultry houses, but the open front house is fast becoming the standard for every climate.

The beneficial effects of a dry house, with an abundance of fresh air, has been very forcibly demonstrated by several experiment stations. Professor

OPEN FRONT POULTRY HOUSE.

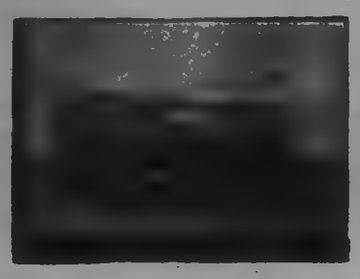
Graham of the Kansas Agricultural college states that after careful tests made with warmed buildings, with double wall houses having curtains before the perches and six feet away next to the wire netting, he has found that the one ply board houses with netted fronts have given better results both as to the number of eggs produced in winter and the fertility and vigor of germs.

The open front house can be modified to meet a wide range of climate. In the northern states the house is generally equipped with a curtain front and hooded roost. These curtains are dropped at night to insure a warmer house while the fowls are inactive.

The open front shed roof house shown in the cut is a type of the continuous house. It is 100 feet long, 20 feet wide, 9 feet high in front and 6 feet in the rear. It is divided into five pens 20 by 20 feet, with solid board partitions between each pen. One bird is allowed to every four square feet of space.

The roost is provided with a cloth curtain, which is dropped on very cold nights. Two small holes with sliding doors are used to ventilate the roost when the curtain is down. The floor consists of a layer of sheathing, then a layer of building paper and flooring. The outside of the studs on the ends and back is first covered with a layer of sheathing, then a layer of building paper and novelty siding. The inside of the studs, with the exception of the hooded roost, is entirely open. The nests are placed on the end walls and partitions. The entire building rests on brick piers about two feet from the ground, and each pen is equipped with a trapdoor, which allows the hen to go down and wallow in the dirt under the house.

On many farms where poultry is carried on as an adjunct to the other farm crops is found a variety of small stationary houses. There are several advantages in favor of the small stationary house. Where land is restricted it is possible to provide a system of cultivation where the houses are small and set far enough apart to permit of double yards. These yards can be cropped alternately and thus do away with the danger of tainted soil.



A STATIONARY SCRATCHING SHED HOUSE.

In many instances very hilly land that will not permit the construction of long houses can be utilized to good advantage with the small stationary house such as is shown in the cut under the caption, "A Stationary Scratching Shed House."

Usefulness of the Hen.

The period of a hen's usefulness depends altogether on the hen. While the first year is usually the best for egg production, it is not always the case, some hens laying better the second year. But, as a rule, one will get the greatest number of eggs from a given number of fowls by having the pullets hatched early.

The meat of yarded poultry is always more tender than that of fowls having free range, due to the extreme muscular development of the latter.

It is said that there are more than 2,000,000 goats in this country, and all are practically free from tuberculosis. Thousands of them are milk goats and are used regularly for this purpose.

ONE OF VARDON'S JOKES.

The Genial Doctor Puts Up a Job on His Fellow Townsman.

Dr. T. W. Vardon, M.P.P., of Galt, found himself one day lunching at the Walker House in Toronto. He had just taken his seat at the table and given his order when in walked a Galt man whom he knew very well, and took a seat at a table a few yards in front of where he sat. Presently a waitress walked over to the newcomer to take his order. The doctor caught her eye and beckoning her to his side told her that this man was a patient of his whom he was taking to the asylum, that he was perfectly harmless, but that he must not be given too much to eat.

"One of the symptoms of his insanity," said the doctor in a low tone, "is his belief that he must eat a little of everything on the bill of fare. Now, I do not want him to have very much to eat to-day. You ask him for his complete order at once, then bring him simply a few slices of bread and a bowl of water. He won't know the difference. He'll think you fetched him his order and he'll be just as well satisfied as if you brought him a full-course dinner."

"All right," answered the waitress. "I'll do as you say."

Sure enough, the man ordered everything from soup to nuts, then poured out a glass of water, drank it, and awaited his repast with evident relish. Presently it was brought in—a plate of bread and a bowl of water. His embarrassment can be more easily understood than described when the young lady, with tender sympathy in her every movement, deposited in front of him the simple elements of a frugal meal. He flushed crimson, stared in profound amazement at the waitress, who in turn looked appealingly over at the doctor, by this time sitting convulsed, with his napkin in his mouth, and thus directed the attention of her guest to him.

Explanations followed, a tip made it all right, and the two afterwards took their meal at the same table in felicitous comradeship.

He has sent many a man on a fruitless errand, and has "loaded up" more newspaper reporters than any other man in the town, yet throughout it all maintained his dignity and commanded respect as few other men could have done.

The Grand Old Man of Canada.

Quite apart from his amazing financial achievements, Lord Strathcona, the Grand Old Man of Canada, is a man whose vigor and vitality astonish the world. He is now in his ninetieth year, and is as alert intellectually and as strong physically as the majority of men at fifty. He sticks to his desk all day, still leads a Spartan life—in the matter of eating he is a firm believer in the merits of the two-meals-a-day regime—and says there is no reason why he should not live to be a hundred. There is one little characteristic concerning Lord Strathcona which is apt to make the visitor smile. When he is indoors his lordship wears a little silk-knitted cap over his bald spot. When he shakes his head in conversation, or gives a quick nod, the little cap usually slips off. Lord Strathcona stops gravely replaces the cap, and then goes on with his sentence.

CURE WAS QUICK AND COMPLETE

Dame Parent's Heart Disease Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills

She Suffered for Two Years But Now Advises All Troubled as She Was to Give Dodd's Kidney Pills a Trial

St. Robert, Richelieu Co., Quebec, February 25—Special.—"I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to all my friends." These are the words of Dame Joseph Parent, of this place. And the good dame gives excellent reasons why she does so. "For two years," she says, "I suffered from Heart Disease, Headache, Backache, and a dragging sensation across the loins. Seven boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me. I hope all who are troubled as I was will give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial."

Some people may ask how Dodd's Kidney Pills, which are purely a Kidney remedy, can cure Heart Disease. And the answer is simple. Diseased Kidneys fail to drain the impurities out of the blood. If these impurities are left in the blood they not only increase the work of the heart in propelling the blood through the body, but set on the valves causing disease. Pure blood removes the cause of the disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills make pure blood by putting the Kidneys in condition to strain all the impurities out of it.

GOWNS AT THE OPERA

Mrs. Clarence Mackay's Gorgeous Italian Costume.

VOGUE OF THINGS RUSSIAN.

The Song of a Hat Sung to an Old Maid by Her Too, Too Honest Milliner—The Very Best of New Year Resolutions.

Dear Elsa—Dick gave me for one of my Christmas presents a season ticket for matinee performances at the Metropolitan Opera House. Clever of him, wasn't it? You know, he is bored to death at anything heavier than the airiest kind of filmy musical shows, and I—well, I simply can't get through the year without my grand opera dissipation. So we split the difference—he goes to one of his pet shows or plays golf on these Saturday afternoons, and I "invite my soul" to musical numbers of a higher order. Last Saturday was a field afternoon, and society turned out in its best frocks to hear Geraldine Farrar in "Tosca."

A SMART RUSSIAN BLOUSE SUIT.

All the leading Metropolitan sopranos are fighting for a chance to sing the title role, but the plum went to Geraldine this time. I won't bore you about the music. You know the score much better than I do, and really I must "'fess up" and say that the gowns interested me as much as the opera. Mrs. Clarence Mackay's Italian costume was a stunner. The overdress was of copper beech satin bordered with copper embroidery powdered with jewels. The underdress was made of bloom of apricot satin, and over all was a heavy stolelike effect of dull copper embroidery fringed with small balls of bronze. Her big picture hat was of copper velvet with bronze plumes.

These picturesque daytime frocks are charming, and another gown that was much remarked on the same occasion, worn by a debutante, was made of satin the color of ripe corn, with a tunic of an opalescent greenish shade of iced absinth. The front consisted of a panel of embroidery in which gold, silver colored beads and pearls were worked into fanlike designs, these in turn being embroidered with dainty roses in white silk floss. Even the ancient tabard, which dates back to Chaucer's day, is being made to serve as a model. The tabard originally was a loose, short sleeved garment worn by knights over their armor, and the fact that it was usually emblazoned with the coat of arms of the wearer brings it right up to date in the present demand for embroideries.

As my seat is away out of the box holders' class, I had arrayed myself on this afternoon in my best new street frock, the good looking Russian costume I've sketched for you. Everything in the dress line is of the Cossack variety this year—that is, everything that isn't middle ages or Louis something or other. My coat is a Russian affair of dull mauve velvet bordered with skunk and so fashioned that considerable width is given to the shoulders, while my waist appears especially small. The dress is of mauve cloth exactly matching the velvet coat, and my hat is a beauty, a marked down French model, one of Georgette's creations, the smart Paris milliner of the Rue Scribe. My dear, I got that dear thing for $20, and its price at the beginning of the season was $50. Every year about this time M. & X sell off their model hats, and I captured a prize this year, a smart little turban of mauve velvet bordered, like the coat, with skunk and at the side a natty cockade of dull gold. What I really wanted was a love of a hat of black pressed beaver, a slashing big affair, but madame simply put her foot down [illegible] fashion that it was for young looking.

The Honest Milliner.

Fortunate indeed is the woman whose milliner is brave enough to be frank with her. If you have such a genius, dear, in your town don't become angry with her for telling you the truth about what you should and should not wear. She will be disagreeable at times, her honesty may not tickle your ear, but it is more than likely that it will have a salutary effect upon your appearance.

These brutally frank people aren't great discoveries as friends, but you have a wonderful asset when you find one for a milliner.

Marjorie X. tells a funny story about herself and a milliner of the honest type. You know that Marjorie, although past her first youth, is not yet dependent upon spectacles and a shoulder shawl.

It seems that she burst in one day upon her milliner and informed her that she had a fine idea.

"I'm going to have a hat to wear in the evenings," she said, "for times when I'm just wearing my suit and not really dressed up—a hat that will give an air to a plain blue broadcloth suit and sort of top it off with a bit of dash.

"It's to be of white beaver," she announced, "big, round, and it's going to have on it something very simple—a hat of a single idea, you know. Let me see—a great big bow of black velvet!"

"Fine!" said the milliner.

Thereupon the milliner looked her square in the eyes and said, "Anything but light blue on an old maid."

And the milliner was just right, wasn't she? I don't know why it is but the average old maid turns as naturally to the wearing of light blue as a flower does to the sun. Perhaps she hopes to catch some of the reflected loveliness. But the fact is that light blue is a color to be avoided by the woman whose cheeks have lost their curves.

I am getting awfully critical, a defect in my character which I resolved the new year shall completely uproot, so I'm not going to take any chances right now of breaking my promise to myself. Write and tell me about your good resolves, which in every case seem only to be made to break. Devotedly yours, MABEL

Eulogy for Grand Trunk

In the London "Times" of February 4th, an article appears from one of their traveling correspondents descriptive of a tour through America, in which the following appears:—

"By far the finest travelling I have done so far in America was over the Grand Trunk line from Montreal to Toronto. The Grand Trunk have admittedly a perfect roadbed. We ran at about fifty miles per hour on the International Limited, and none of the English railways could beat it for steadiness."

This eulogy from one who is a world-wide traveler, is very gratifying to Canadian railways.

IN NICK OF TIME

Young Man Was Being Dragged Under Cutter—Horse Stopped by Passerby.

Timely intervention on the part of Rev. W. C. Riddiford, who happened to be passing by at the time, prevented what undoubtedly would have been an accident attended with very serious consequences. On Charlotte street, in front of Grady's meat market, a horse driver, by Miss Babcock, the local leader of the Free Methodist body, became frightened at a street car, and started to run away. The animal plunged over a young man by the name of Jarvis, who resides on Bethune street, and who was walking over the crossing to the G.T.R. station at the time. He stooped down to avoid the horse, but was caught underneath the cutter and dragged some yards on the road. His face was scraped and bruised, and he complained of an injury to his back. Mr. Riddiford caught the animal, which was going west before it reached the G. T. R. tracks.

SIDEWALKS AND SEWERS WERE DEALT WITH AT THE BOARD OF WORKS MEETING

An important busy session of the Board of Works was held last night, the main business of the meeting being the consideration of the sidewalks and sewers to be built. Those present were Ald. Hicks, chairman; Mayor Morrow, Aldermen Duffus, Metheral, Phelan and Duncan. City Engineer Hay and Street Commissioner Evans were also in attendance.

A petition was read for a sewer on Sophia street, from Burnham street to the main sewer. The petition was laid over for later consideration.

It was moved by Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Duffus, and carried, that the chairman of the Board, the city engineer and the street commissioner be a committee to attend the annual meeting of the Good Roads Association at Toronto, and that all their expenses be paid. On motion of Ald. Duffus and Metheral, it was decided to pay a cheque for $30.02 on land owned by Miss McGregor, and used by the city. It was moved by Ald. Phelan and seconded by Ald. Duncan, that the sidewalk authorized for the north side of Lansdowne street be built from Lock to Haggart.

Mr. William Maxwell was heard in regard to his application that he be appointed foreman of sewer work.

The chairman explained that the matter of the appointment would be taken up at a later meeting.

On motion of Ald. Duffus and Ald. Phelan it was decided to advertise the sidewalks recommended by the city engineer, also on the west side of Aylmer street, from Smith to Aberdeen, the number of assessments to be twenty.

The question of building a walk across Central Park was considered and City Engineer Hay explained that on account of the raising of the ground for the Collegiate that the present path was simply a drain for the water in springtime, and during rain and thaws. Owing to this, pedestrians cut across the park at any favorable place and did much damage to the grass. He also recommended that a catch basin be built in the park to connect with the sewer. A motion by Ald. Duncan and Ald. Metheral that the walk be built was carried. It will not be granolithic, however, but will be durable and elevated to the height of the other ground.

It was moved and seconded by Ald. Duffus and Ald. Phelan, that the list of sidewalks before the Board be constructed. This was carried. On motion of Ald. Duffus and Ald. Duncan, that the recommendation of the Board of Health to construct sewers on Dongal from Brock to the creek, and on Benson street, from Benson avenue to the end of the street.

A report was read from the city engineer regarding the cement account, showing that 1123-4 barrels were left over from last year. In regard to the purchase of cement for this year the matter of inquiring into the prices was left in the hands of the chairman.

LOCAL HOCKEY CLUB TO PROSECUTE IN THEFT CASE

An epidemic of thefts has broken out at the Brock street rink and as a result a number of well known youths are liable to find themselves in an embarrassing, not to say serious, position. The dressing room of the Peterborough Hockey Club in the rink has been broken into frequently lately and a large quantity of sticks, sweaters and other property has disappeared, the result being a loss to the club of anywhere from $25 to $50. In order to secure these articles the thieves have forced the doors of the lockers.

Naturally the officers of the club are indignant over the affair and at a meeting last night decided to prosecute the guilty parties if the stolen property is not returned either to the officers of the club or to the rink. Information has been received implicating a number of young players, not members of the Peterborough club, and it was decided to act upon this information and secure legal redress in the matter. It is probable that the parties who are guilty of the stealing regard the matter more in the nature of a smart trick than anything else, but the authorities may perhaps refuse to take such a lenient view of the affair. In any event police court cases are likely to follow, and the guilty people may learn that it is cheaper to buy hockey outfits than to steal them.

PETERBOROUGH GETS NEXT ANNUAL MEETING OF DISTRICT INSTITUTE

The Ontario Libraries Board, acting under the inspiration of the Department of Education, called a meeting of the Midland Counties Public Library Boards in Lindsay, yesterday, for the formation of the Lindsay District Libraries Institute, with a view to the better mutual exchange of ideas, and with a view also to finding out how the Department could better help and improve the smaller libraries. Addresses were delivered by Mr. Geo. Locke, the chief librarian of the city of Toronto, by Library Inspector Nursey, of Toronto, and by Mr. J. H. Burnham, of Peterborough. The delegate from the local Board was Mr. James English, the veteran of many years of unremitting toil in the cause of the spread of knowledge, Mr. Burnham having been asked to attend by the Ontario Library Association. The Nominating Committee, consisting of Mr. Jacobs, of Oshawa; Mr. Conynge, of Oakwood, and Mr. Burnham, (chairman) of Peterborough, considered the next place of meeting. Peterborough was chosen. Dr. Vrooman, the very efficient president of the Lindsay Board, was made first president, and Dr. Burnham, of the Peterborough Board, vice-president, and Mrs. Jacobi, of Oshawa, secretary. Mr. James English was appointed to represent Peterborough on the Executive Committee. There are 411 public libraries in Ontario, and 40 in what the Department has named the Lindsay district.

The day was a busy and profitable one, the subjects being practically dealt with and followed by general discussion. The small village libraries are doing great work.

The meeting next February in Peterborough's new library will attract probably 75 delegates from this district. It is proposed to have a public meeting in the evening, at which addresses will be delivered bearing on a subject that is capable of much improvement. Free public libraries have been well described as the poor man's university. To neglect them or to suffer them to go astray is an injury to the great mass of the people that cannot otherwise be repaired.

TO-MORROW IS THE TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE BATTLE OF PAARDEBERG

To-morrow is the tenth anniversary of the surrender of General Cronje at Paardeberg in the South African war. This event is well remembered by Canadians, as it was at Paardeberg that the troops from the Dominion did such gallant fighting and won the admiration of the world. Several of the boys from Canada laid down their lives for the empire before the crafty Boer general hauled down his flag.

The Review of Feb. 27, 1900, contained the following despatch from London:—

"The War Office has received the following despatch from Lord Roberts:—Paardeberg, Feb. 27., 7.45 a.m. —General Cronje with all his forces capitulated unconditionally at daylight and is now a prisoner in my camp. The strength of his force will be communicated later. I hope that Her Majesty's government will consider this event satisfactory occurring as it does on the anniversary of Majuba."

CONGRATULATIONS FOR CANADIANS.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—Lord Minto to-day received the following cable from Sir Alfred Milner:—Cape Town, Feb. 27.—Cronje surrendered at daylight. Congratulate you on noble share taken by troops from your colony. Signed, MILNER.

A despatch from London on Feb. 28 said: "The afternoon papers continue to comment on the hero of Kandahar's great achievements, putting special stress on the gallantry of the Canadians, who, according to a Paardeberg special, were actually fighting hand to hand in the Boer trenches when General Cronje surrendered."

IMPORTANT MEETING OF THE FAIR DIRECTORS

The principal business at the meeting of the fair directors in the City Council chamber yesterday afternoon was the decision to hold a spring stallion and bull show at the agricultural grounds in the early part of May. Good cash prizes will be given and all the prominent owners of the district will no doubt take advantage of the opportunity to take part in the competition. President R. H. Leary and Directors Garbutt, Storey, King, Baptie, Cruickshanks and Elliott were appointed a committee to arrange the details of the show.

The following standing committees for the year were chosen:—

GREAT GAME AT KEENE WITH STRATHCONAS AHEAD

Visiting Seven Led at Half Time 5-1, and Won Out by 10-3—Winners Had the Better of the Play and They Were Always Leading.

A second addition of the Strathconas journeyed down to Keene last night, and surprised the City League team and a record crowd of the hockey fans of that village by finishing a well played and hotly contested game on the long end of a 10—3 score. The half time figures were 5—1 for the visitors, who had it on their opponents for the greater part of the contest. The combination work of the winners was always in evidence, and their checking could not have been improved. Considering that the team was one gathered together at the last moment, and that the players had the small ice to contend with, the decisive manner in which they won is very creditable. Every man played a great game, and the defence was particularly effective. McDougall, McIntyre and Weir were the prominent performers on the Keene team. The teams lined up as follows:—

Strathconas.	Goal	Keene.
Derocher		Dr. McWilliams
	Point
Heffernan		McIntyre
	Cover
Denison		McDougall
	Rover
Cantabell		Weir
	Centre.
Burritt		Edwards
	Right
Mahaney		Dickson
	Left
Curtis		Wedlock

Jack McIntyre handled the bell to the satisfaction of both teams.

At the conclusion of the game the players of both teams and Keene's fairest took part in a skating party. A liberal quantity of music was supplied by the Alderville band during the evening. After making good on a splendid meal the visitors left for home, each one in every way satisfied with the trip.

PRIMARY GOES TO SKIP W.G. MORROW

Defeated J. E. A. Fitzgerald in Final Game 16-13—An Exciting Contest

The first honors in the primary competition of the local bonspiel go to Skip W. G. Morrow and his rink. He defeated J. E. A. Fitzgerald's rink yesterday afternoon 16—13 in the final game. It was a hard fight all the way. At the end of the eighth end the mayor had a lead of eight, but Fitzgerald counted four, three and one on the next three ends, making the board read 13—13 at the end of the eleventh. Excitement was high during the last end, in which Morrow counted three, giving him the game 16—13. A large number of curlers watched the contest to decide the chief honors of the spiel. MUCH EXPECTED OF MEADOWS

Opinions Expressed That He Will do More Phenomenal Running Than Ever

The Star says:—Whether Fred. Meadows could have beaten Alf. Shrubb when the little Briton was at his best some five or six years ago, is of course, a question that no amount of arguing will ever settle, but it is a favorite topic for discussion whenever athletes and athletic bugs gather these days. Most of them concede that at ten miles Meadows in his present form, could hardly have coped with the Englishman, but there are any number of people who believe the Guelph runner could have made it mighty interesting for Shrubb in a fifteen-miler, a distance at which Shrubb, for all his greatness was not invincible.

Meadows' best record for fifteen miles,—1.21.15—made at Toronto recently was not as good as Shrubb's time when the latter ran third to Appleby to Appleby's 1.20.3-4 race back in 1902, but undoubtedly Meadows will better his record before he quits the game. Had he been pushed Tuesday night the Guelphman, most experts agree, could have done 1.21 on neither of the two most recent races has Meadows been anything like all in at the finish. Just how much reserve power he has of course, unknown, but there was enough there to have carried him several seconds faster in both races if it had been necessary for him to get to the whip.

Ernie Hertberg, Gustav Ljungstrom's manager is dead anxious to have the Swede hook up again with Meadows. He figures that in a match race the Swede would run better than in any open event, in which he would have to reckon on four or five other men in addition to Meadows. Hergbert would give something to entice Meadows into a twenty-mile hike, but the Canadian makes no pretence to being anything more than a fifteen miler, and can't see the longer route for a minute.
